LOCAL NOTES AND TOBACCO JOTTINGS.

BY O. L. JOYNER.

The crisp weather of the past few days has caused breaks to be somewhat lighter.

We never saw prices better at this season of the year on all colery tobaccos, except wrappers. They will now soon be in demand.

During the month of September the Greenville tobacco market sold one million and ninety six thousand pounds. These figures will be sworn to by the weighers. Wonder how much some of the other eastern markets will report.

We were asked by a gentleman yesterday why it was that the reports gave Wilson and Rocky Mount the credit for selling so much tobacco and Greenville only about three-fourths of what these markets are selling, when in truth upon every visit he made the eastern markets he found Greenville selling more tobacco than either of the other two.

Judge Simonton, of the United States District Court has decided the suit of the American Tobacco Co., and the Bonsack Machine Co., against W. F. Smith & Sons. and others against the American Tobacco Co. and the Bonsack Machine Co., says a Winston dispatch to the Raleigh News and Observer. In the decision filed Judge Simonton dismissed the case and attached the cost of the suit against the American Tobacco Co. and the Bonsack Machine Co.

T. J. Gentry, who returned Wednesday from Roxboro on a visit to his parents and ———, says the frost up there has seriously damaged a good many farmers. He says about one-fourth of the tobacco crop is still on the hill and a great many farmers have not cut over half, while on the whole about three fourths of the crop has been saved. In Western North Carolina and Virginia the damage done tobacco crops is reported heavy, while in east Tennessee and in Kentucky the standing crop is ruined. In Pennsylvania and the other tobacco producing States of the north where tobacco was standing on the hill it is ruined. The extent of the damage cannot be learned, but everywhere it is reported heavy.

MISSED! YESTERDAY night from his home, where he has not been for twenty years, a small white boy, about the age of Chang the Chinaman giant, and as great a mystery as the comet. His name is Willie Green. He was hungry looking, knock-kneed, and straight as a bow; he was barefooted with his old man's arctics on; had on no clothing except an empty shaving mug, which he carried across his broken back; it contained two railroad tunnels and twenty bungholes. He had a low cut ulster shaved up the back; was cross eyed at the edge of his neck. His ears were chopped off even with his age. His chin was glued on to the hip pocket of his vest. He was a Republican in politics, but always voted the Democratic ticket. When last seen he was on his way here from Parmele shoving the clouds over the city to keep off the wet, with the intention of raising enough money to buy one of those lovely SUIT of CLOTHES and a PAIR of FINE SHOES at

DANGER AHEAD.

Beware of the One Crop Idea.

While everybody rejoices that the price of cotton has advanced so rapidly, there may after all be some danger about it. It may turn many of the farmers' heads and cause them to rush recklessly into planting a largely increased acreage next year. We have already heard one large farmer reported as saying that if cotton goes to 10 cents this season he will not plant a stalk of tobacco next year, but would go in for cotton on a large scale. Nothing would be more suicidal to the farmers than for a general idea of this kind to prevail among them. In the opinion of the REFLECTOR, it a tremendous crop of cotton should be raised next year you would see the price drop right back to where it was last season. The farmers should be loth to desire to pass again through the bitter experiences of the last few years, and such would be the outcome of dropping back into the one crop idea. The only way a high price for cotton can be maintained is to keep the supply below the demand. The first idea of the farmer should be to raise his home supplies, and then diversify his remaining acres among the money crops, not putting his entire dependance upon cotton, tobacco or any other one crop.

THE WHY OF IT.

The laws of God are inexorable. For the physical world, as for man, he has established certain great principles which are immutable. When man violates them he invariably pays the penalty, reaping what he has sown. Nature's processes are sometimes slow but the ultimate result is inevitably wrought out. This, however, is not intended for a religious editorial but relates to the weather. Thus: Nobody can remember a hot September as this has been. It set in just where August left off and has even improved upon August's lick. Coming to look back, the heat of the month through extraordinary should not be surprising. Why? Because the country has been behind on heat. Some weeks ago the Weather Bureau gave out that there was a deficiency in heat up to that date of a great many degrees. This deficiency had to be made up during the year. If the summer did not even it up the fall must. And this is the explanation of a phenomenally hot September. It is with the heat as with the rain fall: We are due so much each year and if it does not come at one time it must at another. Those, therefore, who have been sweltering during September in a heat for which July nor August gave an equal, can comfort themselves with the reflection that after all they have gotten only what belonged to them.—Statesville Landmark

A Vienna professor believes in tobacco smoking as a protection against diphtheria and other throat diseases. Smokers, he says, are less affected by these diseases than non smokers, in the proportion of 1 to 28. We have heard a diphtheria taster of considerable experience say that he never knew a tobacco chewer to have the diphtheria.—Wilmington Star.

Ledrosy in New York.

The report that there are 500 cases of leprosy in the city of New York is a matter calculated to cause no little alarm among the citizens of the metropolis, and it is but natural that the health authorities should be pined with inquiries from anxious persons. Up to this time the belief has obtained that it was an easy matter to spread the dreaded disease, but the secretary of the New York Health Board says not. This official makes the statement that in our climate there is no real necessity for the isolation of even the most virulent case of leprosy, and of course, if this be so the danger of the disease spreading in New York need create no alarm. There is, however, some difference of opinion on the question, and it is for that reason that the people of New York do not feel secure so long as the disease has a lodgement in their city.—Norfolk Virginian.

China Again in Peril.

The London Standard says: The position of the Chinese Government is extremely perilous. It has enough on its hands, without a quarrel with England. It is too soon to say that the fall of the Manchu dynasty is imminent, but the news of the spread of the Mahometan insurrection is alarming. The British demands must be supported by the presence of our fleet in the Yang tse-Kiang, if not by the occupation of Nankin. We doubt if the Manchu dynasty could survive such a shock. If the Mahometans of the West find a leader, and if, at the same time, the Imperial Government is rash enough to defy the Western Powers, a revolution is inevitable."

"Mr Speaker," exclaimed a member of the New South Wales Parliament, "my colleague taunts me with a desire for fame. I scorn the imputation, sir! Fame, sir. What is fame? It is a shaved pig with a greased tail, which slips through the hands of thousands and then is accidentally caught by some lucky fellow who happens to hold on to it. I let the greasy tailed quadruped go by me without an effort to clutch it, sir!"

Weather Bulletin.

Friday generally fair, cooler in eastern portion Friday morning.

The cooler weather is bringing a corresponding briskness in the prices of tobacco. It is a rare thing that any complaint is heard of prices on the Greenville market.

Even prophet Hicks, of St. Louis, has failed to hit this weather right. He predicted a regular storm centre for October, 3rd but the center and circumference both came up missing.

ONE AT A TIME

The Months Pass, But People in Larger Numbers

S. C. Hamilton went to Norfolk today.

Col. E. A. Keith, of Ayden, spent today here.

W. J. Cowell returned home Wednesday evening.

J. D. Swindell, of Pantego, is in town. He once lived here.

Solicitor C. M. Bernard returned from Henderson Wednesday evening.

T. J. Gentry returned Wednesday evening from a visit to Roxboro.

L. A. Cobb and wife, of Grifton, came up this morning to spend the day.

W. K. Jacobson, editor of the Washington Progress came up to the races today.

C. B. Speight and wife, of Jacksonville, were on the train this morning going to Parmele to visit relatives.

We learn that Mr. A. F. Kinsaul, a former citizen of this town and a son of Mr. Cornelius Kinsaul, died at Ayden Wednesday evening.

Col. Tom Washington one of the proprietors of the Brick Warehouse, at Wilson, and James E. Woodard, were here today to attend the sales and the races. Mr. Washington was never in Greenville before, but the visit convinced him that we have a town and a tobacco market here that will do to talk about.

An Old Company.

The REFLECTOR has received a very handsome souvenir pamphlet giving a brief and concise history of the Second Company Governors' Foot Guard, of New Haven, Conn. This Company was organized by Benedict Arnold in 1775, and while not the oldest military company in the United States it is the only one having a continuous record, holding its meetings and electing its officers annually for 120 years. The Company will leave New Haven on October 19th for Atlanta, to act as guard and escort for Governor Coffin of that State.

Asking for a Newspaper.

It is not uncommon for persons to call at a newspaper office and ask for a paper of a certain date and turn to walk out without paying for it. It is also about as often publishers are called upon to make public announcements that are strictly of an advertising character. Direct impositions are thus practiced upon newspapers whose business is just as legitimate as any other.

There is no more reason in making such a request than to go to a grocery store and ask for a pound of meat, or a dry goods house and ask for a yard of cloth.—Salisbury Herald.

OCTOBER OCCURRENCES.

Matters of Local Interest Happening Since the New Month Came in.

The crowd was here today. The wind today made the dust fearful.

When did you notice the fact before that September passed without any equinoctial storm?

A full line of Boys Clothing at Lang's.

It so dusty when the train comes in that you can hardly see the coaches, much less the people who get off.

For a good smoke try "Southern Leader" at D. S. Smith's.

More than 5,000 Smiths from Pennsylvania alone fought in the union armies. John was in the crowd several times.

Oh! those Capes at Lang's. They are from 18 to 40 inches long—and 100 to 135 inches sweep.

Nearly every visitor here has something good to say about Greenville. We have got such a town here that they can't help talking about it.

"Southern Leader," best cigar in town, at D. S. Smith's.

Some of our printers wanting to go to the races this afternoon we do not hold space open to give an account of them in this issue, but defer it until to-morrow.
