THE ESSENCE OF PUERILITY.

Early last week the following appeared in the personal column of the REFLECTOR.

C. A. Carter, a tobacco buyer, left for Kinston Monday evening. The boys say he found this market too high for him.

The Kinston Free Press construes this item to be "attack" upon the Kinston tobacco market and takes occasion to throw off a lot of bile that seems to have lain heavily on its liver. After raving a bit about Greenville "sharps" and "sharks" cheating the farmers, and how much correspondence detrimental to the Greenville market it has suppressed the Free Press closes with:

"We have acted courteously towards other markets and we are disposed to continue doing so, but if other markets want a fight they have only to attack the Kinston market. The first stone was thrown by Greenville."

It was a display of more puerility than we thought the Free Press could be guilty of. Bless your soul, in printing that item, which was purely a personal note in the personal column of the REFLECTOR, the idea never once occurred to us that Kinston even had a tobacco market. We were at the train hunting for personal items, as is our daily custom, saw Mr Carter leaving and upon asking where he was going were told Kinston, and noticing some of the tobacco boys around the depot having a bit of fun and chiding him because, as they had put it, tobacco was too high for him here, carrying out their spirit of merriment the item was printed accordingly, without knowing or caring what the party was going to Kinston for, or whether he had ever been there before.

However, this ebullition on the part of the Free Press goes to show that as Greenville has the best tobacco market in Eastern Carolina it is envied by the smaller markets and they seem to delight in an opportunity to show their spleen. But Greenville has built up its business strictly on merit and without "throwing stones" at other markets and will

MISSED! YESTERDAY night from his home, where he has not been for twenty years, a small white boy, about the age of Chang the Chinaman giant, and as great a mystery as the comet. His name is Willie Green. He was hungry looking, knock-kneed, and straight as a bow; he was barefooted with his old man's arctics on; had on no clothing except an empty shaving mug, which he carried across his broken back; it contained two railroad tunnels and twenty bungholes. He had a low cut ulster shaved up the back; was cross-eyed at the edge of his neck. His ears were chopped off even with his age. His chin was glued on to the hip pocket of his yest. He was a Republican in politics, but always voted the Democratic ticket. When last seen he was on his way here from Parmele shoving the clouds over the city to keep off the wet, with the intention of raising enough money to buy one of those lovely SUIT of CLOTHES and a PAIR of FINE SHOES at continue to pursue the even tenor of its way. Four good warehouses, high prices, plenty of money and reliable business men are our drawing cards.

STATE NEWS.

Mr. Enoch Williams, of this county, has raised this year two crops of corn on the same land. One crop was planted in March and was gathered in July, and the second crop was then planted and has just been gathered.—Chatham Record.

Reports from tobacco planters in this section is to the effect that the frost the first of the week played havoc with the tobacco in the fields, and unfortunately there was a good deal in the fields. Alexander county reports a loss of from 50 to 100 barns.—Statesville Landmark.

Caldwell county has a mighty hunter in the person of Geo. W. Taylor, now 70 years old. This is a list of the things, as furnished by the Lenoir Topic: 40 deer, 100 wild turkeys, 12 ground hogs, 15,000 squirrels, 1,000 rabbits, 500 possums, 50 coons, 500 crows, 400 hawks, 50 owls, 6 minks, 100 muskrats and 40 pheasants.

DID YOU BUY YOUR HUSBAND

His last Suit of Clothes? Most ladies do buy their husband's Clothes. Its right that they should. A man don't know what looks well on him and besides he don't know a good piece of goods from a common piece. His wife does and its to his interest to let her buy his Clothes. He saves money by it and is more becomingly dressed. Speaking of Clothes I have a very nice line for Men I bought at a bankrupt sale which I will sell at a very low price—about one-half its real value. I have Suits from $2 up. Don't fail to see me before buying. I have also a nice line of Dress Goods and Notians that I am selling cheaper than any man in town When in need of SHOES remember my stock is complete and will sell them cheap.

Senator Pritchard and company decided in Raleigh Wednesday night that they would have fusion again all the way down beginning with Presidential electors. They will have electors pledged to vote for no man who is not in favor of the free coinage of silver. In consequence the National Republicans need not count on North Carolina. This crowd says to the National Republican Committee, hands off, we will run North Carolina.

Three section men at Lamont Ill, setting on a powder box, eating dinner, began smoking afterwards. One lighted a match and stuck it in a crack, exploding sixty pounds of powder. The three men were blown twenty feet. One whose back was in a sheet of flames plunged into water. When drawn out the flesh from his back remained in the water. The ribs of another were bared. None can recover.—Durham Sun.

In their report for the past week of the condition of the cotton crop, Hubbard Bros. & Co., of New York, say:

The trade expects that the report of the Department of Agriculture, which will be published on the 10th of October, will show a sharp decrease in the condition of the crop during the month of September and many are estimating that the report will show a reduction of ten points as compared with the report of September the 10th. This idea is based upon the universally poor accounts received from the cotton belt, through private sources, and they furnish the basis for the active speculation which has advanced prices to the highest quotations recorded for the present crop. It is believed that Mr. Henry Neill will continue to reduce his crop estimate to agree with private advices, and it is already intimated that his next estimate will point towards 6,750,000 bales as the probable yield of this seasons plant.

LEAD ME ALONG THE HEAVENLY WAY.

BY MRS M. A. KIDDER.

If I should leave the fold—
If I should go astray—
Oh! gentle Shepherd, lead me back
Along the heavenly way.

Earth's beauty is so fair,
Earth's music is so sweet.
In many wild forbidden paths,
They tempt my restless feet.

I step aside to pluck
The gaudy way-side flowers,
And so forget the blossoms bright
That grow in Eden's bowers.

I bend my ear to hear
The songs of earthly love,
And so forget the golden harps
And choristers above.

Oh! gentle, loving Friend,
Oh! Shepherd, kind and true,
I know thy care will never cease,
My long, long journey through.

Thou art so tender, Lord,
To all thy wandering flock,
Oh, guide Thou me, the least, and place
My feet upon the Rock!

Spare the Young Trees.

There has been, it is said, a decided improvement lately in the methods of getting out timber in the forest regions of the White mountains of New Hampshire. The lumbermen there are beginning to realize that it is very unwise to cut off the young trees along with those of mature growth, and that great care should be taken in felling, so that when a tree falls it will do as little damage as possible to the young growth.

It would be well for those in other States engaged in cutting timber to study the methods of the New Hampshire lumbermen. For the most part, lumbering in this country has become a process of absolute denudation of the forest lands. Neither the axemen nor the owners of the forests take thought of the morrow. The woodman spares no tree that there is any lumber in, no matter how small the amount. No account seems to be taken of the fact that the destruction of the young growth is the destruction of the seed-corn of the forest, and that if this growth were permitted to stand a few years, and reach maturity, its lumber-producing value would enhance many fold.—Richmond Dispatch.

The Journal says Blade's saw mill, at Newbern, was damaged by fire to the extent of $10,000 Friday. No insurance.

Answered.

A funny man who asked the question, "Where is the State of Matrimony?" received the following answer: "It is one of the United States; it is bound on one side by hugging and kissing, and cradles and babies on the other; its chief products are pop- ulation, broom sticks and staying out late at night; it was dis- covered by Adam and Eve while trying to find a passing out of the Garden of Eden; the climate is rather warm until you pass the topics of housekeeping, when squalling weather sets in with sufficient power to keep all hands as cool as cucumbers. For the principal road to that state con- sult the first pair of feminine blue eyes."— Wanderer.

The apex of the lofty Wash- ington monument, in Washing- ton City, is protected against lightning by a pyramidal block of aluminum. On a recent morn- ing a terrific thunder storm, ac- companied by many strokes of lightning, visited the city. Ac- cording to the story, one of the most vivid of these flashes struck the aluminum point on the tall monument. "The impact was followed by a ball of fire, shooting down the lightning rod and dis- appearing in the earth." The point has since been inspected through the most powerful field glasses and found to be wholly intact and unharmed. All of which suggests nothing so strongly as an incident in which the Rocky Face mountain, in Alexander county, and a citizen, now deceased, who lived near it, were the central figures. He drew his chair upon the porch, one summer evening, during a heavy storm and electrical dis- play, and he saw a stroke of lightning hit the well-named mountain, rip up the moss and glance off, he exclaimed triumph- antly: "There, by Davy! You met your match that time." The two cases seem to run parallel.— Statesville Landmark.

It takes a train of three cars to transport Fitzsimmons to his Texas training grounds. After his interview with Mr. Corbett it is possible that he can be return- ed my mail.

In answer to a telegram from the Washington Times, Rev. Dr. Talmage, who has just accepted the assistant pastorate of the First Presbyterian church of that city, wired it thanking it and all the other Washington papers for the generous things they have recently said of him, and incident- ally remarking that "the printing press is the front wheel of the Lord's chariot." Yet a North Carolina minister has recently said from the sacred desk that "the most conscienceless thing outside the penitentiary is the secular press of to-day." There is a difference of opinion here. But it all goes in a life-time.— Charlotte Observer.

The Phonograph In 1660.

A few months ago, while amusing myself with Cyrano de Bergerac's "Historie Comique des Etats et Em- pires de la Lune et du Soleil" (Paris, 1660), I was amazed to come across the matter quoted below, which surely foreshadows the pho- nograph as closely as do Bacon's words the steamship and railway.

The author (De Bergerac) is on a voyage over the moon. Left alone a little while by his guide, the latter gives him to help him while away the hour some books to read. The books, however, are different from any seen on earth. They are, in fact, little boxes, which Cyrano thus describes:

"On opening one of these boxes I found I know not what kind of metal (apparatus) similar to our clockwork, composed of I know not how many little devices and imper- ceptible machinery. It was a book, certainly, but a most marvelous one which has neither leaves nor char- acters—a book to understand which the eyes are useless—one needs only use his ears. When he wishes to read this book, he connects it by a sort of little nerve to his ears. Then he turns a needle to the chapter that he wishes to hear, and immediately there emerges from the instrument as from the mouth of a man or from a musical instrument all the words and sounds which serve the grands lunaires for language."

I will say further that Cyrano an- ticipated many of the inventions and conceptions of modern aero- nauts. No wonder that he was con- sidered by his contemporaries as "somewhat off."— Popular Science Monthly.

To Advertise the Market.

This week the Tobacco Board of Trade begins sending out 1,000 extra copies, weekly, of THE EASTERN REFLECTOR for the purpose of advertising the Greenville tobacco market, and showing to the outside world the advantages this town has to offer as a place for making good investments. Advertisers should make a note of the fact that this will give them a splendid opportunity of reaching the people of Pitt and surrounding counties. No business men should miss this chance.

The County to Have a Vault.

Mr. B. F. Smith, of Richmond, was here today and submitted to the Board of County Commissioners plans and specifications of a fire proof vault for the Court House. After considering carefully the plans submitted by Mr. Smith and hearing his statement as to terms for putting in the vault the Board by unanimous vote gave him the contract. In taking this step the Commissioners will receive the hearty commendation of the people of the county generally. It takes no argument to show the need of a place for the safe keeping of the records and other valuable papers in the Clerk's and Register of Deeds' offices. The vault to be put in by Mr. Smith will be a double one, with entrances from both offices. It will be constructed in the very best and most substantial manner and will be fitted with metal furniture. The work will commence at once. The vault will cost $3,200 to be paid for in four equal yearly payments of $800 each. Pitt County thus takes another big step forward.
