NEXT DOOR TO BANK.

LOCAL NOTES AND TOBACCO JOTTINGS.

BY O. L. JOYNER.

Mr. R. B. Carr, of Willow Greene, Greene county, sold 1500 pounds of tobacco on the floor of the Eastern Warehouse Wednesday for $300.

We have written to several prominent tobaccoists in Virginia, leaf dealers that know what a piece of tobacco is when they see it, asking them for an expression of their views of how the Eastern Carolina tobacco compares with that of other North Carolina markets, as to color and texture. We have received answers from some and expect others soon. We will publish these when they are all in and let the world know what others think of our tobacco.

The first issue of the thousand extra copies of the REFLECTOR have gone out. A thousand extra will be sent out each week from now till the middle of December and we earnestly hope that some of our tobaccoist friends who ought to feel an interest in this market will help us in getting up the tobacco page. For three years we have been writing for this department, and while we have not yet been told that our articles were getting stale it would spice the news to have some help from an outside source, besides it would greatly help us.

A friend of ours, and a tobacco buyer here, tells us that while on a visit to a neighboring market a few days ago, in discussing the eastern markets a very prominent bank official told him that he considered it almost miraculous how Greenville had stood the tide of opposition and without men of very great means had made for itself a most enviable reputation and worked itself to be second to no tobacco market in North Carolina. He said that nothing but the indomitable energy and perseverance of young blood would accomplish for any town such wonderful results. He cited the thousands of dollars that had been spent in Wilson and Rocky Mount in building up their markets, while Greenville had plodded along without setting the world on fire with its great achievements, and was now the equal, if not the superior of either of these.

Ten little fingers,
Two little eyes,
One little mouth
That laughs and cries,
One little boy
Playing with his toes,
Mamma is gone to Frank Wilson's
To buy him a Suit of Clothes.

RICHER AND HANDSOMER

Than any ever produced. My Clothes, Hats and Furnishings, I'm talking about. Look over the stock; it's complete now, and see if you don't agree with me. One of two things I always mean to do: To sell you better goods than you get elsewhere for the same price; to sell you the same goods lower than you get them.

FRANK WILSON,

The King Clothier.

It is truly wonderful how Greenville has accomplished so much with so little, and two causes can be assigned for it; First, our natural advantages in growing the finest tobacco in world, and the back ground from which the market drew. Second, the projectors of the Greenville market were young men, with one exception, who had all their means, their reputation and good name wrapped up in the destiny of the tobacco market. They were scoffed at and their views made light of by the older citizens of the town who had made their fortunes when merchandise was sold at a greater profit than now and when cotton was worth from 18 to 25 cents a pound. Urged on by these incentives and with a determination to exhaust every available resource, hard and constant work, ambition and determination, with but little money but plenty of determination and good will, the almost obscure Greenville of five years ago has been transformed and is today attracting the attention of tobaccoists all over the tobacco world. So we repeat, with the original promoters of the market it was a case of sink or swim, live or die, survive or perish. Success, brilliant success has been accomplished at a heavy expense to those who had the market on their shoulders, and Greenville today stands out in bold commanding view of the world, the queen city of the finest tobacco region of the world.

DID YOU BUY YOUR HUSBAND

His last Suit of Clothes? Most ladies do buy their husband's Clothes. Its right that they should. A man don't know what looks well on him and besides he don't know a good piece of goods from a common piece. His wife does and its to his interest to let her buy his Clothes. He saves money by it and is more becomingly dressed. Speaking of Clothes I have a very nice line for Men I bought at a bankrupt sale which I will sell at a very low price—about one-half its real value. I have Suits from $2 up. Don't fail to see me before buying. I have also a nice line of Dress Goods and Notions that I am selling cheaper than any man in town. When in need of SHOES remember my stock is complete and will sell them cheap.

EVERY AFTERNOON (EXCEPT SUNDAY)

Gen. Mahone died in Washington D. C., on Tuesday after an illness of a few days caused by paralysis. He has had a wonderful career. He served through the late war in the Confederate army and was brave to a fault. After the war he came near being involved in a difficulty with Gen. Jubal Early in reference to a biographical sketch written for some Northern journal but he retracted what had been said about Early and the matter ended. But Gen. Mahone is more noted on account of his political record in Virginia than anything else. At one time he had the political distinctions in his hands. He came very near ruining the State and when elected to the United States Senate he acted with the Republicans and lost the respect of the Democrats. Before his death he seems also to have been forsaken by his Republican friends. Many hard things have been said about him and his lot was truly an unenviable one for the past few years of his life.

Colonel Bob Ingersoll favors a law that will exempt from taxation, as well as from levy and sale, a homestead worth $1,500 or $2,000. He says that every family should have a home which cannot be taken away.

Toledo, Ohio, is flooded with counterfeit five-dollar bills. During the last few days they have been thrown out of nearly every bank in town. It is said that hundreds of the bills were passed before it became known that they were counterfeit.

Statistics from the United States railway service show that one passenger is killed for every 2,000,000 passengers carried, or every 44,103,228 miles traveled. One is injured for every 4,709,771 miles traveled, or one out of 204,248 passengers carried.

Do Not Hesitate.

The negro of this region can often throw in a word to describe a situation when a scholar is conversant with many languages would fail. The other day at a station on the Seaboard Air Line, this side of Hamlet, a lady approached, and being a stranger and seeing an old negro man asked: "Uncle does the vestibule train stop here?" "No marm," answered the old coon, "she do not even hesitate."—Press-Visitor.

It is a singular coincidence that in South Dakota a week or so ago it was necessary to close the schools on account of the intense heat, and two days later they were closed again because of the excessive cold. Evidently the elements would pay no attention to compulsory education laws in South Dakota.

Some time ago a Birmingham, Ala., firm bidding against the world, secured a contract for iron piping for sewers in the city of Tokio Japan, and it has just been announced that a firm in Bessemer Ala., has secured the contract for piping for the city of Honolulu, which will require something over 20,000 tons.

The wadesboro Messenger says: So great is the demand for empty molasses barrels here that it is almost impossible to get hold of one for either love or money. Reason: Farmers are now making into molasses the largest sorghum cane crop ever grown in the county.

Spread of the Novel.

"When the public says literature," writes Andrew Lang in his article on "Tendencies In Fiction" in The North American, "the public means novels and new novels. The public does not care for history. In philosophy Herbert Spencer has shot his bolt, or rather emptied his quiver, and Darwin is lost to the Darwinians. We have indeed Biblical critics, or we borrow them from Germany. But history, philosophy and theology are not now read as our fathers read them in works of theology, philosophy and history. Modern novelists, reading grave works or articles about them, produce the novel of philosophy, of theology, of 'tendency' and the problem for the pensive but indolent public."

What a Pitt County Girl Did Raising Tobacco.

Little Dora Elks, the 8 year old daughter of Mr. Louis B. Elks, of Chicod township, begged her father to give her a crop of tobacco to grow. He let her have 700 hills, just one-seventh of an acre. Dora did all the setting and worming and helped in all the work possible that her little hands could do, and a few days ago sold her crop at the Star Warehouse. After deducting all expenses for fertilizing, grading, etc., she received $21.35. Little Dora is "a chip from the old block." Her father is one of the very best farmers in the county, and says that on a two horse crop in corn, cotton, tobacco and sweet potatoes this year he will make above $1,000 net. Mr. Elks cultivates only a small farm but attends to it and makes a full crop of everything. Who can beat Black Jack!
