BRUTAL MURDER.

Man Killed in Broad Day Light—Murderer Caught.

Our neighbor town, Tarboro, was the scene of a most brutal murder Wednesday morning. The Atlantic Coast Line pay train had just been along and one of the employes settled with was a white man named Nevell, keeper of the water tank just on the outskirts of town. Soon after the pay train passed and while Nevell was at his post he was assaulted, murdered and robbed by a negro. No one saw the murder, but when the deed was discovered a telegram was sent to Norfolk for blood hounds. The dogs arrived on the evening train and search was started for the murderer. He was tracked over a circuitous route and located in his home at 5 o'clock this morning. The negro's name was George Washington and Nevell's knife and $51 in money were found in his pockets. There was a general rejoicing throughout the town when the murderer was found and arrested.

SCENE AT THE TELEPHONE.

Mary Ann Tackles One Wire That He Can't Pull.

A very amusing incident occurred in the office of Alhambra Hotel, at Atlanta, while the North Carolina editors were down there last week. A man wearing a "know-it-all" air walked very pompously up to the telephone, consulted the directory, put the 'phone to his ear, pulled the signal button, and one side of a conversation that ran like this was heard:

"Hello, central, put No. so and so on No. so and so."

Ting-a-ling-ling.

"Hello! Is that so and so?"

"?"

"Butler."

"?"

"Senator Butler."

RICHER AND HANDSOMER

Than any ever produced. My Clothes, Hats and Furnishings, I'm talking about. Look over the stock; it's complete now, and see if you don't agree with me. One of two things I always mean to do: To sell you better goods than you get elsewhere for the same price; to sell you the same goods lower than you get them.

FRANK WILSON,
The King Clothier.

"Senator Butler, of North Carolina."

Ting-a-ling-ling.

"Hello!"

Ting-a-ling-ling.

"Hello!"

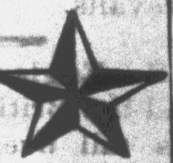

As the man at the other end, if there was any, could not be heard, the reader can do his own imagining as to the questions, these interrogation marks represent. But the conversation had not proceeded half way when all eyes in the office had turned toward the 'phone, and when snickers began to break the silence that pervaded all other parts of the room, the composure at the 'phone gave way to an awfully subdued expression, and turning to the clerk, who like the others could scarce restrain his laughter, he said in almost pleading tones "won't you please work this thing for me? I can't manage it."

Gov. Carr is about to accept two new infantry companies—one at Plymouth and one at Salisbury.

It was so cold at Mt. Airy on Monday that water thrown one would freeze almost as soon as it touched the ground.

Miss Frances E. Willard, of Baltimore, was elected as president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union for the seventeenth consecutive time on Tuesday.

Superior Court is in session this week at Beaufort and a great deal of interest is manifested in the insurance trials. Fifteen bills have been sent to the grand jury for forgery and false pretense.

The railway commission has issued an order that on and after November 15th next, all railways doing business in North Carolina shall, in addition to the regular bell cord, have an alarm cord running entirely through all trains.

Trains on the West Virginia Northern railroad have been abandoned, except one a day, on account of the scarcity of water. It cannot be procured for the locomotives. The wells are nearly dry and the springs have been dry for weeks. Great excitement prevails.

So England has her back up and the British lion is switching his tail over toward Venezuela and trying to force that country into submission. It seems that Venezuelan soldiers had murdered and robbed some of England's subjects and the latter is trying to get satisfaction and Venezuela says she has made reparation and will make no more. England claims certain boundaries and Venezuela says they are going beyond the line and called a bluff. Uncle Sam has some claims over there and may take a hand and if the old man reaches back in his coat-tail pocket, pulls out his red bandana, gives his nose a blow, England will hear that blow, and it will mean you had better look out how you tread on my toes or you will hear something drap. The United States navy will compare favorably with almost any navy in the world and we believe she has the backbone to stand square up to Johnny Bull.

The great Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight has been declared off. They were to fight in Dallas, Texas, on October 23rd, and then it was transferred to Hot Springs, Arkansas, but the Governors of those States put a quietus to any such performances. A conference between the Florida Athletic club officials and the managers of Corbett and Fitzsimmons, the club asked for a postponement of the contest to November 11th. Brady, Corbett's manager, agreed to this, but Julian, Fitzsimmons manager, steadfastly refused to concur. There was a wordy wrangle and finally the club declared the fight off. Brady then announced that Corbett was prepared to fight any man in the world on November 11th, Robert Fitzsimmons preferred, the man to be named within twenty-four hours. The outcome of the muddle cannot be foretold but it looks as if there would be a fight of some kind on November 11th.

ATLANTA'S ATTRACTION. The Great Exposition Increases in Interest. ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 21st, 1895— After enjoying the chimes mentioned at the close of our last letter from Atlanta, we next visited the Woman's building in which the fair women of the South have displayed their handiwork and ingenuity. No building in the grounds surpasses this in beauty and interest.

Then on around lake Orla Meer to the left the Electrical building is reached. This contains every imaginable piece of mechanism used in the varied work done by electricity. Passing on the Transportation building is next reached, where are all manner of riding vehicles and an almost endless display of bicycles. Of course we were interested in the latter, and being a champion of the Victor were not long in hunting up the representative and going through the superb exhibit of wheels and sporting goods made by the Overman Wheel Co. Other manufacturers also had fine displays. A little further on is the handsome building of the Southern Railway, a system that has done much for Atlanta in particular and the South in general. By the way, most of our trip to and from Atlanta was over this system and its trains on the through line were exquisite and its service excellent.

On beyond the Southern building is the Georgia Manufacturer's building containing varied displays by the manufacturers of the Empire State.

The next is the Negro building containing exhibits made by the negroes of the South. These are highly creditable to the colored people and speak stronger than can be told in words the great advancement this race has made. No one who goes to the Exposition should fail to spend some time in this building.

Passing on you come to a large shed under which several railroads had full trains on exhibition. Talk about "palaces on wheels" they were there in some of the vestibuled cars. From the train exhibit one sees the door of the California building standing open invitingly, and upon entering you feel like you could just stay there always. The Golden Gate State fairly does herself proud. Beside occupying a large apartment in the Manufacturers building with a number of county exhibits of the finest fruits of all kinds we ever beheld, in this special building was a marvelous display showing what the State as a whole can produce. Outside of Georgia, to our mind California was the best represented State at the Exposition.

As we lingered in this building so long we will leave the reader here for our rounds to be further described in articles that will follow.

You will find that a dollar will buy more at my store than a dollar ever bought before. This a broad statement, but it is true. The only way to account for this lowness in prices is the fact that a little profit is all I expect. To simply say my line of dress goods are pretty is not doing them justice, they are more than pretty, dainty and sensible novelties that combine style and wear and satisfaction. My line CLOTHING and GENTS FURNISHINGS is in reach of every one. I have the nicest and cheapest ever brought to this town. Don't forget to see me before buying.
