LOCAL NOTES AND TOBACCO JOTTINGS.

BY O. L. JOYNER.

There were large breaks at all the warehouses Tuesday.

We heard a traveling man say a few days ago that he had had occasion to make some collections in Pitt county this year and he had found the people in better condition and more ready to pay their debts than in any county he had been.

R. J. Little sold eighteen piles of tobacco on the floor of the Eastern Monday. A better sale we have not seen made this year. Of the eighteen piles there were but two lots that brought less than 20 cents and those two brought 16.75 and 19.75. The entire lot, and it was all cutters, averaged nearly 25 cents.

While in Atlanta a few days ago we were walking around looking at the North Carolina exhibits, and seeing some tobacco taken from the territory along the Seaboard Air Line, we remarked that Eastern North Carolina could beat the world on bright tobacco. A gentleman from South Carolina standing near by, said South Carolina was superior in color to that of any State. We notice, however, that there are numbers of the best judges in Virginia who think to the contrary notwithstanding.

A few days ago we were talking with a farmer who had shipped a lot of tobacco to a distant market. We asked him how he liked his sales, and he said just splendid, that he averaged two dollars a hundred more than he expected. Meeting with such a reply we told him that the only advice we could give was to ship some more, that we believed in selling where the most could be obtained. But, said he, I have a load ready that I am thinking of selling with you to-morrow. This very much surprised us and we asked him what it meant, why did he not continue

RICHER AND HANDSOMER

Than any ever produced. My Clothes, Hats and Furnishings, I'm talking about. Look over the stock; it's complete now, and see if you don't agree with me. One of two things I always mean to do: To sell you better goods than you get elsewhere for the same price; to sell you the same goods lower than you get them.

FRANK WILSON,
The King Clothier.

to ship (Of course we were glad of an opportunity to sell it.) He said you did not go far enough. The first lot I shipped I got more than I expected, the next lot I thought only sold ordinarily and the last and largest did not bring half as much as I expected, so I concluded that I had better try home again as my fancy prices were only given in order to induce me to carry more to the same place. There are hundreds of just such cases in the eastern section to-day, but the great trouble is the most of them are not frank enough to admit it after they have been taken in.

The two famous pacers, John R. Gentry and Joe Patchen, are now in Reidsville, and will contest for the honors of the season in a race there to-morrow. John R. Gentry is a North Carolina horse and honors are about even between him and the Kansas horse, Joe Patchen, for this season. We hope to see the North Carolina horse the winner to-morrow here in his native State. Both horses go in for the winter after this race. Mr. Holt will be the driver of his own horse in this contest and fast time may be looked for.

EVERY AFTERNOON (EXCEPT SUNDAY)

The University of Virginia was burned last Sunday. The money loss is estimated at two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. There were only ten thousand volumes of the library saved out of a total number of fifty three thousand volumes. The statue of Thos. Jefferson, the founder of the institution, was saved by the heroic efforts of the students. The work of the institution is still going on and efforts will at once be made to replace the buildings which have been destroyed by the fire.

C. L. Abernethy, editor of the Beaufort Herald, has written a letter as a vindication of the people of Beaufort in reference to the insurance cases which have been recently tried there. No one has ever thought that many of the citizens of that town and county were connected with these cases and no blame has been attached to them, but it is very evident that there is a class who have been systematically robbing the insurance companies for some time, and the action of Judge Graham in moving the cases shows that the parties could not be convicted there.

Lovely Autumn.

The glory of summer is past and gone, but it has been succeeded by the subtler glory of autumn. A poet once remarked of autumn that "the melancholy days have come, the saddest of the year," but autumn is neither melancholy nor sad to those thoughtful souls who keep their lives in working order. There is nothing dyspeptic about nature. The melancholy and sadness were in the poet's mind and not in the season, for autumn is really the ripest and most joyous season of the year.—Durham Sun.

How do the Pops like the way their newly elected fusion Judges lord it over them. The humble countryman must not appear in their presence without wearing a coat. He must not stand up in the court room and he must not wear creaking shoes. In only one instance do we know of a Democratic Judge ever having tried to put confusion and shame upon an innocent, unsuspecting man, and that Judge, we believe, afterwards turned Populist. Compare the courtesy, dignity and respectfulness of Judges like Holt to the uppishness of these new Judges, and you have the difference between Democracy and Fusionism.—Charlotte Times.

The Seven Ages.

- Sixth Age—Decides to be satisfied with a very small section.
- Seventh Age—Gets it.—Judge.

THE EXPERIMENT STATION.

AT RALEIGH, NORTH CAROLINA.

The North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station During 1894

The above is a title of a work issued by the station. In connection with the volume, "North Carolina Weather During 1894," it includes all the finished work done by the station during 1894. The volume contains 605 pages, and a full table of contents and index make it easy to refer to any part of the subject matter. An interesting portion of the report gives the several benefits the station has been to the farmers of North Carolina. There are recorded 140 of these, and a more detailed summary might easily multiply them to a considerable degree.

The report includes all the bulletins issued during 1894, from Nos 94 to 110 inclusive. With the full index, any subject treated in these bulletins can readily be found. The general subjects embraced in addition are the operations of the Fertilizer Control Station and the State Weather Service, which are integral parts of the Experiment Station. Each of these is described in detail.

The above report is not sent to the full mailing lists of the station, but is supplied to those in North Carolina who apply for them. To others on receipt of 25 cents.

Co-Operative Dairying.

The station has been ready for some time to assist farmers in undertaking some co operative dairying.

Up to date for over five months one farmer has furnished some milk to the Station Dairy at the Experiment Farm. As a part of the practice of a special student, this small milk supply was examined five days and daily tests made of the per cent of fat. This milk was separated by itself and the skim milk was tested each day. Then the cream which had been kept by itself was churned and the butter milk was tested. Subtracting the amount of fat formed in skim milk and butter milk from what had been found in the milk for five days, left what was incorporated into the butter or lost in the mechanical operations. The total amount thus found calculated as butter at 85 per cent fat indicated a yield of 205 pound less than was actually made for sale.

This milk was paid for by the Babcock test, or rather the fat was paid for, and the skimmed milk was returned to the producer. At 25 cents per pound for butter fat an average of $1.27 per 100 pounds was realized for the milk. This is 11 cents nearly per gallon. At the dairy, if we count the butter worth at wholesale price of 25 cents per pound, there were 4 cents per pound realized for the making and selling. When the selling price was 27 cents per pound there was realized $0.597 on ten pounds and seven ounces of butter. This would be 57 cents per pound which, if it could be carried out on a sufficiently large scale, would pay well. It would also pay well to produce milk at 11 cents per gallon for the butter fat contained in it, and have the skim milk returned to feed pigs, calves and chickens, or possibly lambs.—F. E. Emery, Agriculturist, North Carolina Experiment Station.

The Harlequin Bug.

Can you give remedy for the cabbage beetle that is destroying my cabbages and turnips?—J. R. G., Durham, N. C.

[Answered by Gerald McCarthy, Entomologist.]

The insect you complain of is the Fenopin or Harlequin Bug, now becoming the worst pest of the cabbage family every where throughout the South. This pest seems proof against all available poisons. Hand picking is the only practical remedy for this insect. Use a shallow pan with a handle. About one fourth fill this with water and on the water pour a film of kerosene oil one fourth inch thick. Place the pan under or at side of the plants and shake or jar the plants; the bugs will easily drop into it and be killed by the oil. Be careful that the oil does not spatter on the plants as it will burn them.

Beets for Stock Feed.

Will sugar beets be a good feed for hogs and milch cows?—H. W., Newton, N. C.

[Answered by F. E. Emery, Agriculturist, N. C. Experiment Station.]

Yes, they are good but owing to expense in growing and harvesting they are not much used for that purpose. Sugar beets grow wholly underground and the leaves spread on the surface. They are considerably covered with fine roots which hold much dirt from most soils and this should be washed off before feeding the roots which is another expense.

There are varieties of stock beets called mangolds, or sometimes mangels which grow mostly above the ground which are comparatively free from soil holding roots. These are more easily grown and harvested though they do not contain so much sugar.

Trucking in the South.
A bulletin (No 112) has been issued by the North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station describing the methods deemed advisable for raising trucking crops especially in North Carolina. These crops are asparagus, beans, beets, early and late cabbages, cauliflower and lettuce, cucumbers, celery, egg plant, muskmelons and watermelons, onions, peas, Irish and sweet potatoes, radishes, spinach, tomatoes and turnips. There are 68 pages devoted to this bulletin and the various subjects are treated in a thoroughly practical way. An appendix of 14 pages describes the various formulas suggested for the several crops, what ingredients to use to give the desired percentages for the different crops, and how to mix them. This bulletin is sent free to parties in North Carolina requesting it, and to others on receipt of 10 cents in postage.

Questions and Replies.
The Station will be glad to extend its usefulness by answering as far as possible questions on agricultural topics sent by any one in North Carolina who may desire to ask for information. Address all questions to the North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station, Raleigh, N. C. Replies will be written as early as possible by the members of the Station staff most competent to do so, and when of general interest, they will also appear in these columns. The Station desires in this way to enlarge its sphere of usefulness and render immediate assistance to practical farmers.

Which is the best onion to grow for market in this section?—J. S. D. V., Brinkland, Bladen Co., N. C.

[Answered by W. F. Massey, Horticulturist, N. C. Experiment Station.]
It depends upon how you propose to sell your onions. If you wish an onion to sell early as a green bunch onion, I would advise you to plant in October sets of the Early Pearl, or of the white potato onion. If your object is to grow a mature crop of onions, that will keep for late sales, then I would sow in February seed of the Southport White Globe, or the Opal (red). Or you may, if you have some glass sashes, sow seed of the Prizetaker in a frame under glass in January, and transplant the young plants in March and get a crop of extra sized onions. But this variety must be sold as soon as ripe for they will not keep. The big yellow onions now seen at the stores are of this variety.

Variety of Trees for Peach Orchard.
"I wish to set a peach orchard so that I will have three or four trees bearing all the time from June to October. Will you please advise me as to what varieties to get?"—J. T. H., Burlington, N. C.

[Answered by W. F. Massey, Horticulturist, N. C. Experiment Station.]
I would suggest the following varieties: Alexander, Mountain Rose, Early York, Mary's Choice, Reeve's Favorite, Old Mixon Free, Elberta, Crawford's Late, Beards' Snick, Williams' Heath, Sawyer and Chair's Choice.

Varieties of Trees For Apple Orchard.
I wish to set out an apple orchard. Would like to have a variety, say two or three to ripen, each month, from June to October. Could you offer any suggestions as to those best suited to this (Richmond) county?—J. Mc. P., Laurel Hill, N. C.

[Answered by W. F. Massey, Horticulturist, N. C. Experiment Station.]
I think that you will find the following list a good one for your section:
Early Apples—Red Astrakan, Carolina Red June, Yellow Transparent, Early Harvest, Fall Apples—Mannum, Bonum, Maryland Maiden's Blush, Fallawilder, White Apples—Winesap, Limber Twig, Golden Besset, Buckingham, Grimes' Golden, Jonathan, Nickajack, York Imperial.

Asbestos.
As asbestos comes from the mine it is of a greenish hue, and the edges are frayed with loose fibers. The more nearly white asbestos is the better its grade. The length of fiber is also of great importance, the longest being the most valuable. From the mines the asbestos is taken to the manufacturing in the United States.

In a Dream.
In Lough Erie, near Carrick-on-Shannon, Ireland, an ancient black oak canoe, without nail or rivet, was lately discovered in a strange way. A Mr. Mulligan dreamed that he saw a canoe at the bottom of the lake. The lake was dragged and the canoe found.
