LOCAL NOTES AND TOBACCO JOTTINGS.

BY O. L. JOYNER.

Reader did it ever occur to you that an unfavorable report about anybody or any matter will acquire ten times the impetus that a good one will. A man may perform ninety-nine acts of charity and benovolence and if he refuses to go the hundreth one he will be hounded and abused more about the non performance of that one than he will be commended for any ten kind deeds that he has done. A business man may be public spirited and progressive and may open up channels of industry by which hundreds of idle loafers are given employment, and because he neglects to do something which somebody who never did anything for themselves or anybody else thinks ought to have been done, by this unfortunate class with which every community is afflicted this man has failed in his duty. So it is ten hogsheads of tobacco may be shipped to other markets, nine of which may sell for less money than they sold for at home and the tenth probably pay a profit of ten or twenty dollars and you will hear much more about the one that paid the profit than you will the nine that made a loss.

We have noticed it time and again, a man is not half so anxious to let it be known that he has lost money by shipping as he is to tell about the small profits he makes, notwithstanding the fact he is encouraging that which is in direct opposition to his best interests. There seems to be a tendency to keep quiet on the losses, but whenever there is a profit the hills will reverberate with the information. Only a few days ago we were on the cars coming home and noticed some farmers who had been off selling tobacco. We approached and asked one of them how his tobacco sold. Why, said, he I got four dollars a hundred more than I got in Greenville. We asked him what he got in Greenville. He said he had only averaged fourteen cents. We asked him to show us his bills and he began to feel for them saying at the same that he had not made the calculation himself but they told him it averaged eighteen cents. We asked him who told him so, and he said, they, the warehouse folks. By this time he found his bills and we took them, looked over them and asked him if it was the same tobacco that he sold in Greenville. Exactly, he said, the same tobacco. We then made the average in the presence of a good many others and showed him that it was less than fourteen cents, taking nothing out for his expenses. His only reply was a blank expression. If that man had sold in Greenville and only averaged fourteen cents we would never have heard the last it. As it was, like the boy the calf ran over he had nothing to say.

Uncle Sam you are going to get licked if you are not careful. Spain has blood in her eye and is spitting fire for you. The New Yorkers had a Cuban celebration the other day and it made Spain mad. She wants the United States to apologize. Uncle Sam has forgot how and does not want to learn over. If Spain wants any apologizing done why come over here and make us, we are not afraid of any country on the globe. Uncle Sam just pelt Spain in the palate and go about your business.

That's What Ails the Weather.

A young lady of fine literary culture and brilliant polish, is spending the week in Wilson; and her resplendent attainments impart a radiance to every scene in which she moves, for so radiant and sparkling are her emanations that we fancy that the dazzling flashes of the lightnings of the world had been accumulated into one glittering bolt, and hurled against the concentrated icebergs of past centuries, and that the flashing corruscations of their shattered brilliances had been collected and woven into the diamond dust sprinkled woot and warp of her sparkling mind.—Wilson Mirror.

Curious Bits of North Carolina History.

The Raleigh correspondent to the Richmond Dispatch wrote recently that "a curious bit of North Carolina history" has just been brought to light. He said that in 1860 a meeting was held in Halifax county asking the French emperor to take North Carolina under his wing. The Weldon correspondent to the same paper some days afterwards wrote that he had made diligent inquiry and could learn nothing of such a meeting in Halifax county.

The Democrat has learned the particulars of the convention in question and now gives them to the public.

The convention was held on 14th of October, 1860, at Hill's Ferry, on Roanoke river, now the little town of Palmyra, about six miles from Scotland Neck. It was held near the point where Halifax, Edgecombe, Martin and Bertie counties join. There were about three hundred persons in the convention. It was an all day meeting with a big dinner and barbecue. Warren county was represented with the counties already named.

There was a lively discussion over two sets of resolutions that were offered. One set of resolutions was to the effect that North Carolina go back under the protection of the English government; and the other, that North Carolina form an alliance, offensive and defensive, with France under Napoleon III.

After a lively discussion the latter resolutions were passed and made unanimous.

The Democrat gathers these facts from the only man now living who took a prominent part in the convention.—Scotland Neck Democrat.

Fearful Punishment.

A young negro was arrested at Longview, Grege county, Texas, charged with the murder of Mrs. Leonard Bell, near Tyler, the county seat of Smith, an adjoining county. He was taken back to Tyler, and there by a mob taken from the officers, removed to the scene of his fiendish crime, and then slowly roasted to death. Wilmington Star.

No off Year.

It is commonly considered that the year between our Congressional and State elections is an "off year" in politics. This year has been a most marked exception. Calamity howlers and place hunters who are already making calculations about their course after November elections in 1896, have kept up the fusillade the blessed year through.

Scarcely a single week has passed without some populist rally somewhere within the borders of the State. It has been Butler here, Skinner there, Thompson yonder, and now Henry somewhere else the livelong year. And the much-to-be-pitied followers of these hungry office-seekers have too often neglected their business in trying to find out from these Solons something new about the situation. All this is simply agitation artfully planned and skilfully executed by these men who are looking for nothing more nor less than their own personal interest.

It is absolutely appalling to see how some men will stultify themselves about things which they neither have the capacity to know nor ever had the opportunity to learn.

We do so much wish to see a time when men will lay aside all bitterness and forget all unpleasantness and turn their attention once more to the development of our goodly land.—Scotland Neck Democrat.

A Generous Word.

The South may have sinned; its sins were those of commission. We too have sinned, selfishly and arrogantly, but our sins have been those of heartless and inexcusable omission. Let us stop this patronizing. Let us treat Southern people as brothers who only made a little mistake which we are willing and eager to forget. It is our duty to be generous and helpful, for nowhere is the flag of our nation more zealously guarded than among the people who once tried to reject it. The people of the South are noble, patriotic and true. Let them see that we can be as generous in victory and prosperity as they have been courageous and strong in misfortune and defeat. —Boston Budget.

The Davidson County Commissioners, at their last meeting, passed upon and allowed the State cost in the Shemwell case, some $3,300. The defendants costs, ordered paid by Judge Boykin, were not allowed. The commissioners say they will not pay Shemwell's costs unless compelled to do so by law. The matter is now in the Superior court.

The newspaper is your friend in spite of you. It helps to build up the community that supports you. When the day comes to any people that the newspapers are dead, the people are on the edge of the grave, with nobody left to write the epitaph. Do you contribute to the newspaper? —Louisburg Times.

Professor Hicks' the weather prognosicator of St. Louis, predicts that January of 1896 will be a swinger for cold, and advises, people, even in the south, to "provide bountifully against severe winter storms and great cold." This is good advice, whether the severe weather and great cold come or not.

Chin Wah a New York Chinaman wants a divorce from his wife, an Irish woman. The charge is that she gets "too much drunk," and when in that condition not only chins Chin boisterously, but makes wah on Wah and knocks him out.

We have noticed from the Herald that prices paid for cotton in Salisbury, a town with several factories, are up to and often ahead of Norfolk quotations. Can you see in this where the advantage of having cotton factories comes in?

There is a move to put fourth-class post-masters under the Civil Service. This might take that part of the postal service out of politics, but it would be necessary to import postmasters. It is very often in the rural districts, not a question of who wants the postmastership but who will have it. Think of a man going to the expense and trouble of standing a civil service examination to get an officethat will pay him only $25 or $50 per year.
