LOCAL NOTES AND TOBACCO
JOTTINGS.

BY O. L. JOYNER.

There will be many changes in the tobacco world within the next twelve months. Just watch and wait and we will see some startling manifestations.

It will soon be in order to know who will build the fifth warehouse in Greenville next year. The market has added a new house every year since the first. The next best thing for Greenville is factories to work up the abundance of raw material that we have.

Greene county grows the nearest white tobacco of any of the eastern counties. Pitt county grows the best bright mahoganes and lemon cutters, but Craven county produces the most pliant and glove feeling tobacco of any that is grown in eastern soil. There seems to be just enough of silica and vegetable matter in the soil to give it that soft and easy feeling, while there is not too much of either to make it heavy or spongy.

One of the best things that we have heard was told a few days ago by a young man who is drumming tobacco for one of the Greenville warehouses. He said in the section in which he was trying to work up a lot of tobacco for Greenville he met with considerable opposition and it was caused by the cross firing of several markets, it being nearly half way ground between them. One of them had taken a very good and influential farmer and given him a salary to solicit trade for them in his community. It happened that the young man who was working for Greenville learned just before reaching this immediate section that this good old citizen who was working for the other market had sold a lot on the floor that he was working for the day before and had tucked every tag. He also knew that this man had been offered 17 cts around for his tobacco by a Greenville man. As he rode into the little village that is in the center of this section he saw the drummer for the other market lively engaged talking to one of his neighbor farmers. Surmising the topic of conversation he too walked up and asked the drummer how tobacco was selling on his market. Very well, indeed, he replied and by the way, said he, I learn here that Greenville is busted. Oh no, said the Greenville man, taking the other by surprise, I was in Greenville yesterday and sold tobacco at satisfactory prices and am here to-day ready to give you 17cts for the balance of that tobacco that you sold in— yesterday at 12½cts. His neighbor farmer looked very much astonished and wanted to know if he didn't get but 12½ cts. for his tobacco. Oh said he I was fooled in my tobacco. It was not what I expected. Why did you take it in then? said the Greenville man. Well I, I thought I might be able to get more another day but my tobacco was not what I thought it was. Well, said the Greenville man, I am not fooled in it. If you have any more like it I will give you 17 cents for it today. Thus very much composed the drummer departed, promising to see his neighbor later in the day.

WHAT A WOMAN'S THOUGHT. LESS TONGUE COST.

The rendering of a verdict in Richmond for $10,000 against Mrs. Thos. J. Todd for alleged defamation of character ought to have a salutary effect. Miss Louisa H. Gibson, a young woman who established a high character, was employed as a clerk in the store of Miller and Rhodes. Not a great while ago, Miss Gibson received a note from her employers dispensing with her services. She demanded to know the cause of her dismissal, and was told that Mrs. Todd accused her of saying that the wife of Rev. Dr. W. E. Hatcher would steal goods from the counter. She denied having made any such charge in reference to the great Baptist preacher's wife and brought suit for slander, gaining a ten thousand dollar verdict.

This trial ought to emphasize the importance of trying to tame "the unruly member." Men and women are both prone to make charges involving integrity and morals upon the slenderest foundation, and the gossips and tattlers are quick to spread abroad any scandal affecting any man or woman, and the more prominent in business, political or social life the person talked about is, the more rapidly does the scandal spread.

If every man and woman had to pay ten thousand dollars for every slanderous word spoken, it would put a bridle on all tongues. It is a severe punishment imposed upon Mrs. Todd, but if guilty, as charged, the good name of Miss Gibson, or any other young woman of character, is worth far more than ten thousand dollars. If Miss Gibson had slandered Mrs. Hatcher, as alleged, no punishment could be too severe for her.

If the prospect of having to pay ten thousand dollars for slander does not make men and women more guarded in speech, St. James is right in saying "But the tongue can no man tame." — Raleigh News and Observer.

Suspicion rests upon another boarder at the same house who has since disappeared and who was noticed to be spending money rather freely.

Quick Justice.

George Washington, colored, who on the 23rd of October murdered and robbed a young white man named Neville, superintendent of the railroad water tank near Tarboro, was tried before Edgecombe county Criminal court this week and convicted of murder in the first degree. Today he was sentenced to be hanged on the 4th day of December. When the courts generally deal out such speedy justice for brutal crimes, as has been done in this case, lynchings will be things of the past.

FIRE NEAR TOWN.

The Buck Dwelling and Contents Burned.

Wednesday night people in town were attracted by a bright light in a north-east direction beyond the river. The cause of the light proved to be the burning of the dwelling house of Edgar Buck, about two and a half miles from town. The fire originated in the kitchen and was quickly communicated to the dwelling, both buildings and nearly all contents being destroyed. The dwelling house was an old one but a very substantial two-story building, constructed of heavy heart timber, and burned rapidly. Only a few articles of furniture could be saved from the building. We could not learn at this writing the amount of Mr. Buck's loss, but it is considerable. He carried a little insurance but not near enough to cover the loss. His host of friends sympathize with him and his aged mother in the loss of their home.
