THE GROWTH AND DEVELOP-MENT OF THE GREENVILLE
N. C. TOBACCO MARKET.

Some Interesting Facts About Greenville Now and Greenville Five Years Ago.

1890 had been a good crop year and nearly every farmer that had planted any tobacco in that year increased his crop in '91, besides numbers who had never planted and begun cultivating it. The '91 crop was not a good one. The heavy rains in July caused it to fire on the hill, but at this time the culture of tobacco had spread from the little community just above Greenville almost all over Eastern Carolina. Farmers had gone to the expense of making preparations and one poor crop did not discourage them, while some reduced their acreage a great many who had never planted any before planted a few acres. It was in this year, 1891, in June that a meeting of the citizens who were interested in tobacco was called. At this meeting The Greenville Tobacco Warehouse Co., was formed and steps were immediately taken to have a tobacco warehouse built. In the meantime Tarboro was pushing ahead with two tobacco warehouses, Rocky Mount had already had new life infused into its sordid veins and that market too was making a great clamor for prestige. Wilson too was making rapid strides progressively ward. Several new houses were built there this year and tobacco men were coming in from every quarter to locate in either Wilson, Rocky Mount or Tarboro and just here we want to call the attention of the reader to the condition of the Greenville market. In June 1891 the present site of the Greenville Tobacco market is shown in the cut of the old field, nothing but a neglected old pine and broom sedge field, that for years, had almost been considered worthless. On Sept. the 23rd, 1891 the Greenville warehouse was opened for the sale of tobacco. Just a week prior to opening day the writer was sent by Mr. G. F. Evans, who had charge of the house, to visit some of the older markets and try to get buyers. Nearly everyone that we approached said that he had an idea of placing a man on the eastern markets but they knew nothing of Greenville. Rocky Mount, Tarboro and Wilson seemed to be the only markets that were known and very much worried but not discouraged we came back and depended on luck to get some one to buy the tobacco. Nearly everybody knows what a time we had the first year. Some of our merchants came on and bought for a while. A few young men from Oxford and Henderson came down to buy and it was soon reported throughout the county that we were all buying tobacco and shipping it to these markets making money on it.

THE GREENVILLE WAREHOUSE.

This well known and popular Warehouse was the first to be built in Greenville for the sale of leaf tobacco, and the day that marked its advent was the beginning of a new era in the prosperity of the town and community. In June, 1891, a meeting was held here, a stock company organized and this house was the result, its completion being in time to begin the fall business of that year.

The first season the house was conducted by G. F. Evans, who took it through the experimental stage and showed that a market could be established here. The next year he formed a copartnership with Ola Forbes and they ran the house through two seasons following. The fourth year he formed a copartnership with R. H. Hayes and L. F. Evans. This season, the fifth since the house was built, it is conducted by Evans & Co., the proprietors being L. F. Evans, A. H. Critcher and R. S. Evans. The manager of the house is man. He has been identified with the industry ever since the market was established, being connected with the Greenville warehouse before he become one of its proprietors. He is a man in whom the people have confidence, for when Leon tells them he will do a thing it is done just as he says.

In conducting the house this season he is ably assisted by A. H. Critcher, his brother in-law, and R. S. Evans, his younger brother.

is one of our own boys. Everybody knows Dick and though he is the youngest in the flock he is a hustler from the word go. Taken altogether these young men compose a strong business team and they richly merit the splendid success with which they are meeting.

A Kansas man has discovered that brandy can be made from wet elm sawdust, and a discouraged Prohibitionist asks what chance the good cause will have when a man can go forth with a rip saw and get drunk on a fence rail.

Shedman Bros' trained animal show will be in Greenville Wednesday and give two performances here that day and remain through the week. This show has just had a successful week at Washington.

W. B. Grimes and wife, of Raleigh, are at Hotel Macon. Mr. Grimes comes down here to be in closer touch with his farming interests in this county. We hope he can be induced to make his home in Greenville.

The second Sunday in November, fifteen years ago, it snowed. The Free Will Baptist Conference was in session at Piney Grove, and many people remember going home through falling snow.

A Salisbury man asked "Coot" Whichard, of the Herald, for advice as to what to do in time of an earthquake, saying that advice had been given for cyclones and storms, and he wanted to know what shall be done to prevent being caught in an earthquake. "Coot" says he offered no suggestion, but he ought to have told the enquirer to go up in a balloon.

Capt. A. J. Griffin, of Hope Fire Company, says the fire engine is a useless ornament to the town unless there was water to go along with it. In this the Captain speaks wisely. About the time the engine was purchased there was talk of building cisterns and digging wells at convenient places over the town, but the talk seem to have ended in words only.

They Say.

That when a boy grows up, his face begins to grow down.

That the man who wishes good advice will consult his purse.

That some men won't drink a drop, while others won't drop a drink.

That if you do good without hope of reward, you may keep on doing for the same pay.

That promises made in time of affliction require a better memory than people commonly possess.
