OUR BUYERS.

Some of Those Who Have Carried Their Part of the Burden in Pushing Greenville Forward.

Messrs. D. J. Walker and M. L. Richmond are recent buyers on the Greenville market, both of them having come here during the present season. Mr. Walker is from Durham and for years at that place has been connected in business with one of the best, most upright and thorough going business gentleman in the State, Mr. H. J. Bass. This year Mr. Walker came to Greenville to look around, before he decided to locate anywhere. On this trip we heard him say that he could get the class of tobacco that he wanted in Greenville and could get it on no other market, hence in a short while he returned to locate in Greenville. Mr. Walker is an easy going good man, a splendid judge of tobacco, and in the future our people will hear and know more of him as a buyer on this market.

M. L. RICHMOND.

Mr. Richmond is a Virginian, hailing direct from Danville. From that place he comes among us well recommended by some of the best tobacco-nists there. These young men have not been in Greenville very long but during their short stay they have been highly impressed, and we expect to see them permanently located here where they can make just such selections as they wish from the finest and choicest brights grown in the world.

ORIGINAL OBSERVATIONS.

What a drunken man sees may be described as a circular saw.

"A man of mettle" may have an iron will and yet be made of brass.

Students who attend the school of experience have no foot-ball team.

The sweet buy and buy will soon be here, the costliest time of all the year.

Of course our girl is the sweetest in the State, because she is made of Orange.

We have a strong suspicion that our best girl will make us a Christmas present this year by giving us "the mitten."

Though the days be dark and dreary keep a smilin', do not fret, for the blackest clouds will roll away and you will be happy yet.

The world is full of microbes. The tramp is a parasite who eats the bread of honest toil; the bore is a parasite who devours the time of the busy man; the gossip is a parasite that destroys the happiness in many a home with words of sugar coated venom; the slanderer is a parasite that murders character; the hypocrite is a parasite that entraps the unwary with falsehood while wearing a mask of fairness.—Orange (Va.) Observer.

MAN, POOR MAN.

Man that is born of woman is of few days and full of microbes.

He hoppeth out of bed in the morning, and his feet are pierced by the rack of disappointment.

He sitteth down at noontime, and is stabbed by the pin of disaster.

He walks through the streets of the city in the pride and glory of his manhood and slippeth on the banana peel of misfortune and unjoineeth his neck.

He smoketh the cigar of contentment, and behold it explodeth with a loud noise—for it was loaded.

He slideth down the banisters of life findeth them full of splinters of torture.

Behold he is impaled upon the hook of despair and furnishes bait for the Leviathan of Death in the fathomless pit of time.

Sorrow and trials follow him all the days of his life.

In his infancy he is afflicted with worms and colic and in his old age he is tortured by rheumatism and ingrowing toe nails.

He marryeth a cross-eyed woman because her father is rich, and findeth that she hath not sense enough to fry meat.

His father in law then monkeyeth with options and goes broke.

What is man but a tumor on the neck of existence?

He playeth the races and betteth his all on the brown mare, because he has received a tip.

The sorrel gelding with the bald face winneth by a neck.

Behold, he runneth for office and the dead beat pulleth his leg ever and anon and then voteth against him.

He exalteth himself among the people and swelleth with pride, but when the votes are counted he findeth that his name is Pants.

He goeth forth to breathe the fresh air and meditate upon the vanity of all earthly things, is accosted by a bank cashier with a sight draft for $327.30.

A political enemy lieth in wait for him at the market, and walketh around him crowing like unto a cock.

What is man but a pimple on the face of politics?

He trusteth to a man who claimed to be filled with righteousness, and standeth up high in the synagogue, and gets done up.

For behold his pious friends are full of guile and runneth over with deception.

From the cradle to the grave man giveth his cheek to the man that smiteth him.

Verily, man is but a wart on the nose of nature, a bunion on the toe of time, a freckle on the face of a universe.—Exchange.

Backbone Versus Diploma.

A pound of good, old-fashioned backbone goes farther toward success in this world than a dozen college diplomas.—Calkoun, Ga., Times.

Do not think that you necessarily get enough religion on Sunday to last you through the week. You may easily not get enough to last all day.

A Milwaukee, Wis., man has the smallest dog on record. It is a black-and-tan, two and a half years old, four inches in height and weighs a pound and a quarter. The man is so proud of it that he carries it around in his pocket. He says he is going to take it to Washington and present it to President Cleveland.

IN NORTH CAROLINA.

Matters of Interest Over the State.

North Carolina leads the South as a cotton milling State. This is something to brag on.

The handsome residence of the late Capt. M. E. Carter, on French Broad avenue, Asheville, was destroyed by fire at 3 o'clock Friday morning.

Little Frank Penn, son of Mr. F. R. Penn, of Reidsville, while hunting accidentally shot himself through the bowels and died in fifteen minutes. He was a bright boy of 15.

Two colored children were burned to death five miles east of Concord. They were alone in the house, in a cradle before the fire, and it is supposed the clothing in the cradle caught.

Miss Mary E. Wallace, 18 years old, of Mallard Creek, Mecklenburg county, died from the effects of having a tooth pulled about a week previous. Blood poisoning followed the pulling of the tooth.

The road to economy is a prudent buy-way.

Number of Barrooms.

Several newspapers in the State have recently averaged the number of barrooms to the number of inhabitants of their respective towns. The News and Observer says Raleigh has a bar to every 555 inhabitants, and the World says Salisbury has one to every 1,000. The Landmark says inside the corporate limits Statesville has one bar to about every 600 inhabitants. Greenville has seven barrooms within the corporate limits, which is one to about every 425 inhabitants.

As a rule those who are rich wish to be richer. Those who are learned wish more knowledge. Those who are lowly in social station wish to rise. Those who are high up wish to soar higher. Ambition possesses us all; but ambition is not to be decried, provided that the actuating motive is a proper one. But, alas, ambition and selfishness are nearly always partners, working together not for the glory of God, not for the good of the country, not for the alleviation of human sorrow, but for personal advancement.—Richmond Dispatch.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 3RD, 1895.

The war talk between Great Britain and Turkey which has been indulged in for the past few days seems to be at an end. The Ambassador of England backs down and withdraws his demand for extra guard ships. This ending of the quarrel places these powers in a ridiculous light before the world. Many, however, believe that this is only a lull in the storm that seemed about to burst on the powers of Europe and that it will soon be up again.

Speaker Crisp was unanimously nominated by the Democratic caucus of the House for Speaker, and will be voted for by them in its first session. This virtually makes him the leader in the House of the Democrats, and no better one could they have. He is undoubtedly one of the best informed men in the House, and has no superiors in either party. Reed will be elected Speaker by a large majority as the Republicans have the House this time.

The southern Republicans fared badly in the caucus of their party at Washington, Saturday night, so far as the distribution of offices is concerned. The following offices were nominated by the caucus and will be elected by the House:

Alexander McDowell, of Pennsylvania, for Clerk; Benjamin F. Russell, of Missouri, Sergeant-at-Arms; William J. Glenn, of New York, Doorkeeper; and Joseph C. McElroy, of Ohio, Post-master.

POLITICAL OPINIONS.

It does not matter that Richmond Pearson says this, and Tom Settle says that and Maryan Butler says something else. You Democrats can whack up your last dollar on having to fight Fusion next year, just as you did last year and you can then bet your hat that we are going to get licked if we do not organize thoroughly and muzzle those so-called Democrats who are preaching Populist doctrine.—Rutherfordton Democrat.

Those of us who remember what a piercing yell Mr. Linney emitted during the campaign about Congressmen Bower's private secretary will be astonished to know that the "patriot" has actually gone and appointed one for himself. And the Populists who elected Mr. Linney will have the privilege of congratulating Mr. E. Spencer Blackburn, a thick and thin Republican, on getting the appointment.—Gastonia Gazette.

It is not the least bit surprising to read that Judge Russell said, among other things, in his speech at Raleigh Thursday night, that "the Republicans who oppose fusion are the purchased allies of the Democrats. It has come to be so common in North Carolina to charge upon a man who does not agree with you upon a public question that he has been bought, that the allegation has almost ceased to be regarded, by the author of the charge, the subject of it or the public, as out of the ordinary. One of these days, however, somebody in making it is going to run against a snag.—Charlotte Observer.

THE NORTH CAROLINA AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATION

AT RALEIGH, NORTH CAROLINA.

Testing the Milk of Cows—Beware of Seed Peddlers—The Poultry Division—A New Cabbage Pest—Questions and Replies.
November, 1895.

The Experiment Station Bulletins.
The standing offer is made to send the bulletins of the station to all in the state who really desire to receive them. They are specially prepared to be serviceable as far as possible to the practical farmer. Thousands of farmers have already taken advantage of this offer. Unless you really want to be benefited please do not apply for them as we have none to throw away. If you desire to read them, write on postal card to Dr. H. B. BATTLE, Director, Raleigh, N. C.

Buying and Selling Cows by Tests of Their Milk.

The North Carolina Experiment Station proposes a plan for buying and selling cows. It is based on the yield of their milk, together with the quality of the same as determined by tests of the milk. The rule is to pay for the cow at the rate of $12 per gallon of milk given per day that is rich enough to show 3 1/2 per cent of fat. To this price add or subtract one dollar for every one-fourth of one per cent of fat which is above or below the 3 1/2 per cent. By this rule a cow is bought entirely on her merits. It is believed to be a conservative plan, and one if adopted (or one upon a similar plan) will certainly raise the standard of cows and increase their milk and butter production, for if they cannot be sold easily for milk cows, they will soon be turned over to the butcher, and a better animal be kept or a willing purchaser be found. The result cannot fail to be beneficial to all parties.

Beware of Travelling Seed Peddlers.
Farmers of the state should be on their guard against travelling seed peddlers who, it seems, have been operating in the eastern, and probably other districts of the state. A farmer near Rocky Mount, N. C., sends the Experiment Station a circular distributed by these persons. The following extract will suffice to show how they are trying to deceive and swindle the farmers:

"TRIFOLIUM OR SWEDISH HYBRID.
"An everlasting, perennial plant * * * It resembles all other varieties of clover, peas, beans, etc., grows two to four feet high on ordinary land and is adapted to thin or sandy soil. It is far superior to manure to plow under."
To a person having knowledge of such matters, the whole of the above quotation is pure fiction. The plant referred to is Alsike clover, a short lived perennial adapted only to rich moist land and a cool climate. It has no value for North Carolina or the South outside of the higher mountain valleys. Farmers who buy and plant it under such representations will be woefully disappointed and will suffer loss of all invested in the seed.

The New Poultry Division.

The North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station has added another division to the several already in operation, to be known as the Poultry Division. Among the specific studies for this division will be first to ascertain the best breeds of poultry which can be recommended for different sections of the State, how to raise them economically, including the best treatment for diseases and insects, and how to prepare and ship to market all poultry products. It will be the endeavor to foster the industry in North Carolina so that a profitable and financially paying business may be inaugurated in almost any locality, or on any farm. As but little capital is required, the returns for the investment should always be large. The Station proposes to publish educational bulletins to bring the matter before the attention of the people of the State, and to extend such knowledge to all who raise poultry, as would be of benefit in the management, preparation and shipment to market.

The poultry manager in charge of the Poultry Division of the Experiment Station will be Mr. E. E. Haze, now of the Riverside Poultry Farms of Newbern, N. C. He will enter upon his work on December 1st, on the farm of the Station adjoining the State Fair Grounds.

The raising of poultry and poultry products in North Carolina for market is susceptible of great extension, and this new departure by the Station will, without doubt, contribute largely to that end, and will prove, consequently, of great and far reaching value.

Advanced Monthly Summary of Meteorological Reports For North Carolina, October, 1895.

The North Carolina State Weather Service issues the following advanced summary of the weather for October, 1895, as compared with the corresponding month of previous years:

TEMPERATURE.—The mean temperature for the month was 55.8 degrees, which is 3.9 degrees below the normal, and the lowest for October since 1873. The highest monthly mean was 62.8 at Southport; lowest monthly mean 44.3 at Linville. The highest temperature recorded was 88 on the 7th at Rockingham; lowest, 18 on the 10th and 30th at Linville. The warmest October during the past 23 years was in 1881; mean, 66.4 degrees; the coldest in 1873 and 1896; mean, 55.8.

PRECIPITATION.—Average for the month, 1.86 inches, which is 1.80 inches below the normal. The greatest amount was 2.99 at Tarboro; least amount, 0.21 at Asheville. The wettest October during the past 23 years was in 1887; average, 6.72 inches; the driest was in 1884, average 0.81 inch.
WIND.—Prevailing direction, northeast, which is the normal direction for October. Average hourly velocity, 8.6 miles. Highest velocity, 52 miles an hour from the northeast on the 4th at Kitty Hawk.

Frosts were most general on the following dates: The 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 9th, 10th, 11th, 18th, 19th, 20th, 21st, 22nd.
Solar halos were observed at various places on the 11th, 14th, 15th, 29th, 30th.
Lunar halos were observed on the 1st, 2nd, 28th, 29th, 30th.
Ice formed in the western portion of the state on the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 10th, 11th, 20th, 21st, 22nd, 29th, 30th.
Earthquake shocks were felt in the eastern portion of the state on the 6th, in the west on the 31st, both slight.
The month was characterized by the long drought, which was not broken until the 31st.

The Testing of Milk.

A bulletin recently issued by the North Carolina Experiment station (No. 113) describes the different methods employed for testing milk, cream, butter, milk, etc., also for testing the adulterations in milk. The Babcock milk test is the chief method employed for the purpose. It is described in detail and anyone with care and short experience can soon learn how to conduct a test. Anyone who has several cows should know the relative value of each, and it often happens that a cow eats more food than is returned in her products. It is a waste to keep such stock. The Babcock test affords an easy plan for learning the richness and value of the milk. A person possessing the apparatus, which is simple and comparatively inexpensive, (costing only about $10) can easily test the milk of the cows belonging to his neighbors and charge a small amount for the service. Such a plan would be helpful and saving to both parties. Or else several could buy the test apparatus in common. An illustration (from a photograph) is given in the bulletin showing the appearance of two cows, one of which produced 226 pounds of butter per year, while the other produced 296 pounds. This was determined in the above way by the testing of the milk, and shows the variation which may and often occurs in two cows of the herd. The difference is 81 per cent greater than the poorer cow. The milk of cows varies in quality, and unless the quality is known together with the yield it often happens that cows are kept that are not profitable, and should be turned into beef.

A New Cabbage Pest.

The cabbage maggot, the larval form of a fly, anthomyia brassicae, is the most destructive pest of the cabbage in Europe, where it sometimes destroys whole fields of young plants. It has been occasionally troublesome in the United States since 1846. It has the past spring appeared in alarming numbers in a portion of the trucking section of this state.

The fly is slender and gray colored, rather smaller than the common housefly. The female lays her eggs in early spring on the roots or stem of young plants, both in the seedbed and field.

The eggs hatch out in about five days. The maggots eat off the young rootlets producing what is often called "club-foot;" they also bore into the larger roots and stems, causing the plants to turn yellow and soon after die, or remain as stunted plants which refuse to head. The flies continue to breed all the summer and pass the winter as dormant pupa in the hollow stems of cabbage and stumps if left in the field. Some of the winged insects also hide away in cellars and places where cabbage is stored, but the greater portion of the first brood of flies come from the dormant pupa in the field. The maggots feed by preference upon the roots of cabbage and other cruciferous plants—collards, kale, cauliflower, radish, mustard, etc., but they breed also in stable-manure piles, human excrement and rotten fish.

REMEDIES.

The first and most essential remedy is to clean cabbage fields thoroughly of stumps. Either plow these under at least 6 inches deep and then roll the ground, or gather the stumps and compost them with lime. Never follow cabbage by the same crop on any field. If the maggots appear on plants in the seed bed, apply a good dressing of lime or muriate of potash to the soil, or sufficient kerosene emulsion to wet the ground 1 inch deep. If plants in the field are attacked take a dibber or sharp stick and make a hole near each plant as deep as the roots of the plant and about 1 inch in diameter. Fill this hole with kerosene emulsion. If the emulsion does not wet the soil on all sides of the plant make and fill another hole on opposite side. Usually one treatment will be sufficient for each crop, but if neighboring fields are left untreated they will breed flies so fast that a second treatment may be necessary after ten days. The emulsion must be thoroughly made. But it will be safe in any case if it is not allowed to touch the leaves of the young plants.

DIRECTIONS.—Shave the soap and boil till all dissolved in the water. Remove from the fire and pour into the kerosene. Churn this or pass it through a sprayer or syringe until it becomes a thick cream and the oil does not separate from the soap. Dilute with 9 times its bulk of cold water before using. This remedy is equally as good for the onion maggot, cut worms and all other burrowing insects. When thoroughly made it would not burn the plants, but if any free oil rises to the top it will burn.—GERALD MCCARTHY, Entomologist, N. C. Experiment Station.

Do Oats Impoverish the Soil More Than Wheat?

People here contend that oats draw or impoverish land a great deal more than wheat. They say that crabgrass and weeds will not grow on land when oats have been removed, or not so fine growth as where wheat has grown. They argue that both crops may be seeded at the same time. Is it so, and if so why? Some information will be gladly received. J. W. F., Durham, N. C.

[Answered by F. E. Emery, Agriculturist, N. C. Experiment Station.] The difference between what wheat and oats take out of the land can be shown after we settle what should be considered a fair crop of each. Suppose 20 bushels of wheat and 40 bushels oats are an average crop. Which draws out most plant food from the soil? The station wheat experiments in 1891 yielded an average of 217 pounds of straw to 100 of grain. In 1888 experiments with oats at New York state station, yielded 128.4 pounds of straw to 100 pounds of grain. Using these relations of grain to straw the crop taken off from an acre of each grain would be for wheat: 1,200 pounds grain and 2604 pounds straw; for oats, 1280 pounds grain and 1643.5 pounds straw. From the New York station report for 1888 the following table is taken: It shows the pounds of plant food removed from the soil in 1 ton of 2,000 pounds of each article named:

	Lbs. of Plant Food in 2,000 lbs. of
	Wheat	Wheat Straw	Oats	Oat Straw
Ph. Acid (P ₂ O ₅)	15.1	2.0	11.9	1.2
Potash... (K ₂ O)	8.8	10.5	9.8	27.0
Nitrogen... (N)	34.2	9.5	30.0	7.6

Therefore from an acre each of wheat and oats from which the yields obtained are equal to the above assumption, the following amounts of plant food in pounds would be withdrawn from the soil:

	Lbs. of Plant Food contained in Each Crop.
	Wheat Crop			Oat Crop
	Gr'n	Str'w	Total	Gr'n	Str'w	Total
Phosph.
Ac (P ₂ O ₅)	9.06	2.60	11.66	7.62	0.99	8.61
P't'sh(K ₂ O)	5.28	13.67	18.95	6.27	22.19	23.46
Nitr'g'n(N)	20.52	12.37	32.89	24.96	6.25	31.21

In this case the wheat would carry off more phosphoric acid by 3 pounds and more nitrogen by 1 1/2 pounds, while the oats would take 9 1/2 pounds more potash than the wheat.

It is a matter of common observation among farmers that oats are a far better forager than wheat. That is, given an equal chance, the oats can get more and do better than wheat. Hence it is owing to the recognition of less ability of wheat to produce as well under like conditions that it is given the better of two fields where both crops are grown on the same farm and that determines the application of commercial manure to the wheat oftener, or in greater weight than for the oat crop.

Under equal conditions to start with, the oat crop would produce more, and would take more from the soil than wheat. It does not, however, on average conditions as met with, and the contention referred to, depends finally on the condition of the land previous to cropping with wheat or oats, and on the application of commercial or other manure made for the crop. Grasses require an abundant food supply in order to make any considerable growth. They cannot find it after as close a forager as oats has been removed from a rather poor field to begin with and but little help offered. They can find food after a wheat crop on better or even the same land, especially if some compost, stable or commercial manure was used to help the wheat. It will doubtless pay to dress land well for wheat and sow cowpeas on the stubble to be worked in with gang plow, or disk harrow, and harvest the crabgrass and cowpea hay, which will result on many North Carolina soils.

In regard to time of sowing, there is a great deal of latitude for both crops in North Carolina. The custom is to sow in September or October. In the east it is allowable to sow later than in the west. Even as late as Christmas has produced a good crop of wheat here on the Experiment Farm. Early sowing saves some expenditure for nitrogenous manure by depending somewhat on the nitrates of the soil, which may be largely lost before late sown grain could feed on it. Wheat is doubtless more benefited by early sowing than oats.

"De Sins Ob De Tongue."

The writer was once on a time sitting across the street from a chapel of colored people in Jacksonville, Florida, and heard the following original and unique exposition, by the preacher, of the rich man and Lazarus:

"An' now, brethren, an' specially you, sisters, why do you 'pose de rich man wanted de water on de tip ob de tongue only, and not all ober de hull body? I will tell yer. Mind now, an' specially you, sisters. 'Cause de sins ob de tongue so much wuss dan all de oder sins ob de body, dat his tongue burned so much mo' dan de rest ob him dat he forget everything else in his fire. Ah, sisters, tink ob de words dat are running off yo' tongue continually, an' look out for de tip ob fire in the nex world."—Ex.

Try Your Hand.

The Christmas feeling is already beginning to get into the atmosphere, and the hustling business man should now plant his holiday advertisement in order to catch the tide of trade at the young flood and hold it until it has reached the flood-tide. The REFLECTOR is excellent ground in which to plant the advertisement.

Will You Do It?

Friends of the REFLECTOR in both town and country, are requested to send us for publication any news items of a local nature that would be of interest to the general public. It is our earnest desire to make it a journal of real value, and to contain all the news of a local nature that may occur. Frequently there are deaths or marriages in the country that we do not hear of until it is too late to make note of them, and many personal items around town escape us. Give us the news.

Next Year's Garden.

It does not pay to wait until spring to begin the garden. The manuring and much of the fitting of the soil can be best done in the fall. If course manure is used plow the garden and apply the manure after plowing on the surface. If warm weather follows heavy rains plow the garden a second time and turn the manure under. This will insure a more thorough pulverization of the soil by frost, the coarse manure at the bottom of the furrow holding the soil up so that the frost can get into it more effectively. Towards spring an application of commercial fertilizers mixed with the surface soil will fit it for producing any crop.

Mineral Water.

The REFLECTOR has long been of the opinion that Pitt county abounds in excellent mineral waters. In the past we have spoken of two wells in Greenville, one of the yard of H. A. Sutton and the other at the College Hotel, the water from which contain high medicinal properties. There is also a spring on the Howell Cobb farm, near Farmville, that has for sometime been the subject of comment among people of the community. Recently some water from this spring was sent to the State Experiment Station, for analysis, and following is the report thereon as returned by the Director: "Total mineral matter per gallon 16.92 grains, consisting chiefly of calcium carbonate, and smaller quantities of sodium chloride, potassium chloride, magnesium carbonate, oxide of iron and silica—a calcic water."

Esquire W. H. Wilkinson, who showed us a copy of the analysis, says a large number of people have been benefitted by the use of this water.
