THE BONNER CASE.

Brantley Makes No Defense—Rebuttal Evidence Strong Against the Bells—Evidence Closed and Argument Begins.

[Special to Reflector.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—When court opened yesterday morning Judge Hoke asked if the defendant Brantley would offer any evidence, and Brantley's counsel replied that he would offer none at all.

The State then put on a number of character witnesses to prove the character of other witnesses that were previously examined for the State. All of these witnesses proved good characters. The defense in cross examination asked the witnesses as to the character of the Bells. They all testified that Sherrill had borne a good character but that Uriah had been wild for some time. One stated that he was the worst boy in Aurora.

The State also offered rebuttal evidence to contradict testimony offered by the defense. It was proven that Mrs. Jones had made entirely different statements from what she said upon the stand. It was also testified that Ben Jones was heard to say a week after the murder that he knew nothing that would help the Bells, but if he knew swearing to a lie would get them out of jail he would go to Washington the next day and do so.

Peggy Moore, a colored woman, said she lives back of W. A. Thompson's store and heard a buggy drive up near her house the night this store was entered. She looked out window and saw the buggy, heard something jingle and talking, and they drove off rapidly. Next day she found the money drawer near where the buggy stopped. Two witnesses said the colored woman had told them about this.

B. T. Bonner said he heard C. C. Sparrow say he "would bet $5 that the d—n scoundrel (referring to Uriah) was with him in five minutes after he killed Bonner." When Sparrow was on the stand he had denied saying this.

When Sherrill was on the stand he said he did not remember ever being at Brantley's house. J. B. Whitehurst said he had seen both the Bell boys sitting around the fire in Brantley's house smoking with him. Counsel Moore for the defense wanted to know of this witness why he had taken so much interest in the prosecution? Whitehurst replied, "Bonner was foully murdered, and it is the duty of all good citizens to see that the murderers are punished. I want to see whoever did it hanged." This statement was followed by a burst of applause in the court room and the Judge had to demand quiet.

Solomon and Haywood Jenkins, colored, (the boys Uriah said he was hunting with on one of the nights Credle implicated him) said they did not go hunting with Uriah but one night last fall, and that was Thursday night before the first Sunday in November. Their father, who is a preacher, fixed the time by one of his appointments to which he went then.

L. C. Stephens testified that Brantley went to Credle in the woods on Thursday of the week before the murder, the time Credle stated the proposition was first made to him to join the band. Witness said he saw them talking together in the woods as he passed in sight on two occasions, and they showed surprise when they saw him. Brantley also asked him Sunday night after the murder "if blood hounds were to run a man down would he be arrested?" to which he replied yes.

Dudley Hudnell said Uriah bought two pistols from him about a month before the murder, and one on Friday before and the same day, he sold cartridges to Brantley. (Uriah stated positively on the stand that he did not buy a pistol the day before the murder.) This witness also stated that on Sunday night he saw Uriah under the stoop at Whitehurst's store alone, that Credle and Paul were under there and that Uriah came the second time with Henry Bonner. Either time he was in a few feet of Credle. (Uriah said he did not go there. It is when Credle said Uriah gave him the key.)

Several times counsel for the defense tried to shake the testimony of the rebuttal witnesses but failed to do so.

After the examination of a few character witnesses this morning, counsel for the defendant Bells gave notice that they would close their case. At this announcement a hush fell upon the audience which was broken by Judge Hoke asking how many speeches there would be. Counsel for the State said there would be four speeches on the side of the prosecution, counsel for the Bells said three on their side, and counsel for Brantley said one—making in all eight speeches. The court then instructed the counsel to proceed and Solicitor Leary began the opening argument for the State.

It is thought that the arguments on both sides will consume at least two days and that the case may be given to the jury Tuesday evening or Wednesday of next week.

The aged father of the murdered man has been a constant attendant upon the trial. At one time in the Solicitor's speech reference was made to Mr. Bonner's closing his work for the week, and starting home to spend the night and the Sabbath with his affectionate family was struck down by assassinations, and as these words fell from the speaker's lips the aged man was noticed weeping.

Wake Forest Items.

F. S. Brockman, the college secretary of the Y. M. C. A., addressed the student body on the evening of the 21st inst.

The Wake Forest Academy, in charge of H. A. Chappell, is in a very prosperous condition with an enrollment of more than one hundred students.

Dr. C. C. Bitting, the agent of the American Baptist Publication Society, delivered two interesting lectures here last week. The more interesting one was on the plan of Solomon's Temple.

At the recent fire which destroyed three of the leading stores here, the students worked heroically, and it was largely through their efforts that the flames were finally checked.

About a dozen men began the study of law with the opening of the spring term. Five members of the class will apply for license in February. Of these S. McIntyre will locate in Lumberton, and E. V. Cox in Greenville. Mr. Cox is the leading man of the class.

The enrollment of students for the present session is 256. Fourteen of these have entered since the opening of of the spring term. This is the largest enrollment in the history of the college. The largest enrollment previous to this was in 1891-92. The number of students then was 233.

The sixty-first anniversary of the Euzelean and Philomathesian Literary Societies will occur on Feb. 14. In the afternoon there will be a public debate on the query "Should the Government own and control our Railway and Telegraph system?" The affirmative will be represented by W. G. Briggs and A. B. Cannady, and the negative by G. N. Bray and R. N. Simms. At night orations will be delivered by T. B. Hill and Jasper Howell, Jr. A large attendance is expected.

Two for One.

The really good Clothier does more than sell good clothes. He frequently makes economical suggestions. The finest cloth, you know, is not always the longest wearing cloth, and he will not hesitate to tell patrons they are mistaken when they select goods too fine for business or pleasure. The good Clothier, moreover, will often advise a quality of cloth that will answer two purposes—giving a buyer two suits, practically, for one price. If the buyer used his own judgment, it might be necessary to get two suits.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 25TH, 1896.

Tim Cambell, who for a considerable period represented one of the New York city districts in the House, and who, when he failed to secure the Tammany nomination ran as an independent Democrat and was defeated by Henry Miner, the Tammany candidate, has been turned down by one of the Home Election Committees. He contested Miner's seat, but the committee decided against him. Tim says he'll try again. Personally Tim is very popular in Washington. He originated the expression, "What's the constitution between friends," which was jocularly quoted by Senator Hill the other day.

The departure of Miss Clara Barton, president of the Red Cross Society, for Armenia, and the reporting of a resolution expressing sympathy for the Armenians and calling upon the European powers to give the protection guaranteed them by treaty, to the Senate, brought that matter quite prominently to the front this week. Although Secretary Olney does not believe that the Sultan of Turkey will allow Miss Barton to enter Armenia for the purpose of distributing money contributed by our people for the destitute Armenians, after his recent order against it, he has instructed My. Terrel, our minister to Turkey, to aid Miss Barton in every way that he can.

It remained for Senator Wolcott to strike the first discordant note heard in Congress in connection with President Cleveland's Monroe doctrine message, and the appointment of the Venezuelan Boundary Commission, which he declared to be a menace rather than a guarantee of peace. That Mr. Wolcott is a brilliant orator is conceded by all, but that he is too shallow ever to become a statesman was well known before he delivered that speech attacking Secretary Olney, President Cleveland and the Monroe doctrine. Oratory is a gift, while statesmanship can only be acquired by deep study and long experience, with more than the average allowance of brains to start with. Had Senator Wolcott confined his remarks to opposing the Monroe doctrine resolution this week reported to the Senate by the committee on Foreign relations he would have been in good company, as many of the strongest friends of the Monroe doctrine consider that resolution ill-timed and badly worded, but when he tried to jump upon the administration for its action in patriotically upholding the Monroe doctrine, and upon the doctrine itself, he found himself alone.

Advertising for Farmers.

While waiting at a country station I became acquainted with an intelligent, nicely dressed farmer. During our conversation he learned that I was connected with the advertising department of the press.

"I believe in advertising," he remarked, "and practice it, as also do several of my neighbors."

The possibility of a farmer advertising had never occurred to me, and upon expressing a curiosity to know in what manner farmers could advertise, he said:

"I live in one of the best counties in Michigan. In addition to growing all kinds of grain I raise both cattle and hogs. When I conclude that I am ready to sell my stuff I insert a local in three or four local papers stating the amount and quality and, if stock, when it will be ready to go. Then instead of being compelled to go from one dealer to another in order to receive a fair price, they come to me and put a price on it. The buyers know my methods, and also know that other dealers, are after me, and as a consequence they bid the highest price they can afford. I always get the best prices going, and my little outlay in advertising pays me. Then another thing: If I want to buy a milk cow what is the use of my riding all over the country, spending four or five dollars worth of valuable time when fifty cents invested in an advertisement in the local paper will bring such a throng of eager sellers as to give my premises the appearance of a country fair ground?" —Printers' Ink.

Whiskey's Sad Work.

News comes from Henderson that Captain Charley J. Voorhees died at that place on Thursday in destitute and peculiarly distressing circumstances.

From being the honored, popular and trusted agent of the R. & D. road at Durham, and at Henderson, and afterwards general traveling passenger agent of the Seaboard Air Line; the courted guest of the best people wherever he was known; the best man at many marriages and the acknowledged good fellow at all gatherings of good society, he died a pauper, a physical and mental wreck.

With most generous impulses he numbered his friends by the hundreds, and many there are who will drop a tear of pity on his bier. That such a soul should have yielded to the absolute power of alcoholism is cause of much regret; but, "rest his soul in peace." —Durham Sun.

IF YOU HAD A LOAD OF WOOD TO SELL and told every man you met that you had a load of wood to sell, and every man you met would in turn tell every man he met that you had a load of wood to sell and every man you met would in turn tell every man he met that you had a load of wood to sell, it would, in course of time, become pretty well circulated that you had a load of wood to sell; but why not cut it short—not the wood, but the method—and place a good ad in a good newspaper and tell everybody at once. "Delays are dangerous," and a good newspaper would start in where the last man left off and keep on telling everybody that you had a load of wood to sell; or anything else. Try the columns of the REFLECTOR.

—The tea plant is said by Chinese writers to have been cultivated in that country from at least 3000 B. C.
—As wood is largely wanting in Australian gold fields several steamships are now engaged in carrying timber from the Pacific coast for use in Australian mines. The steamships carry from 2,000,000 to 2,500,000 feet each. The wood is California pine or fir.
—Though Ireland has 3,000,000 acres of bog land, large quantities of peat litter are imported from Belgium and Holland. Mills are being fitted up to separate the litter from the turf, and it is hoped that peat moss litter may soon be an article of export.

—After two seasons of failure Oregon has an abundant crop of tomatoes. There are oceans of them, and fine ones, according to the Portland Oregonian. One factory alone is using four to five tons per day, which are bought for $10 per ton, and are made into catsup.

—A correspondent of an English party says: "I sent you on September 20 a white turnip which I pulled from a large field near Burnmoor. About one-half of the field is white turnips and the other half swedes; the whole of the whites are swarming with green fly and rotting away, while the swedes are quite healthy."

—The hygienic value of soap is hardly realized by the general public. Recent experiments have shown that a solution of soap will kill typhoid or cholera microbes. A one per cent. solution will do so in 12 hours, while a seven or ten per cent. solution will do it in a few minutes. This is about the simplest and most reliable means of disinfecting that we have at our disposal.

—Geological conditions have changed a great deal since the Cambrian age. The continents then were much smaller and the ocean much larger, while being shallower. The greater part of North America was submerged in Cambrian times. Cambrian rocks, though covered by later deposits in most places, are exposed in a few others, chiefly on mountain peaks in America, Asia and Australia.

—In cultivating strawberries under glass of various colors Prof. Zacharewicz, of Vauluse, France, has obtained the following results: Ordinary clear glass gave the best and earliest fruit; orange glass increased the vegetation, but injured the quality, size and earliness of the fruit; violet glass increased the yield, at the expense of the quality; red, blue and green glass were hurtful to all kinds of vegetation.

BOMBHELL, AN ARTILLERY DOG
He Saved Two Little Children from Serious Danger.

While a gun was being loaded, Bombshell would sit on the parapet and watch the operation. That finished, he would jump up and look out to sea over the range, and then scamper down from the parapet and follow us into the bomb-proof.

As usual, Bombshell was on hand to see the test of the new big gun.

He superintended the loading, and, while I was aiming the gun, he looked over the range as carefully as did the lookout; and from his air of responsibility one might have supposed that to him had been intrusted the duty of seeing that the range was clear.

But when we started for the bomb-proof, instead of following us, as was his custom, Bombshell remained on the parapet, looking out to sea and sniffing the air. In a moment he dashed off through the bushes which covered the narrow beach between the parapet and the sea.

Though thinking his actions peculiar, I was sure that he would not remain in front of the gun, because he had done so once, when quite young and inexperienced, and the burning grains of powder—which are always thrown out by the blast of a gun—had buried themselves in his skin, burning him badly. He had never forgotten this.

Certain that he would take care of himself, I paid no further attention to him, but went with the others into the bomb-proof, and took my place by the electric key, ready to fire at the command of the captain.

Just as the command "Fire" was about to be given, Bombshell reappeared on the parapet and began to bark furiously into the very muzzle of the gun.

I called to him, but he would not come. Annoyed at the delay of the test, I tried to catch him, but could not do so. As I approached he retreated, still barking and apparently urging me to follow him.

Finally, convinced from the dog's actions that something was wrong, the electric wire was disconnected from the gun, and I followed Bombshell. Wagging his tail with joy at having accomplished his object, he led me through the underbrush to the beach.

There, concealed behind a clump of bushes, were two little children quietly digging in the sand and entirely unconscious of the danger in which they had been.—Lieut. John C. W. Brooks, in St. Nicholas.

Fire Annihilators in London.

In London every public building from the queen's palace down is supplied with a fire annihilator. Some of the large ones will produce 17,000 gallons of carbonic gas and steam in the space of four or five minutes.

A FEW YEARS FROM NOW.
Oh, the Twentieth Century Girl!
What a wonderful thing she will be!
She'll evolve from a mystical whirl!
A woman unfeathered and free!
No corset to crampen her waist,
No crimps to encumber her brain;
Unafraid, bifurcate, unlaced,
Like a goodness of o'd she will reign.
She'll wear bloomers, a matter of course!
She will vote, not a question of doubt;
She will ride like a man on a horse,
At the club late at night she'll stay out,
If she chances to love, she'll propose,
To blush will be quite out of date.
She'll discuss potities with her beaux
And outtalk her masculine mate!

She'll be up in the science of things,
She will smoke cigarettes, she will swear
If the servant a dunning note brings
Or the steak isn't served up with care.
No longer she'll powder her nose
Or cultivate even a curl,
Nor bother with fashion or clothes,
This Twentieth Century Girl!

Her voice will be heard in the land,
She'll dabble in matter of State,
In council her work will command,
And her whisper the laws regulate.
She will stand beneath her banner unfurled,
Inscribed with her principles new,
But the question is: What in the world
The New Century Baby will do?
—Chambers Journal.

Same Old Game.

If anybody thinks that this part of the country is not still thickly populated with a lot of the greenest fools that ever swallowed a sharper's bait, then he is woefully mistaken, in proof of which it is only necessary to instance the avidity with which about a hundred of them paid $1 for a rag, with strings tied to it, by courtesy called an electromagnetically pad, Tuesday afternoon. The fakir who relieved these fools of their money first appealed to their cupidity by selling them one of the "pads" for $1 and then giving them $1.25 back. After this part of the game had been sufficiently worked, the fakir proposed to sell the "pads" for $1 straight, but each purchaser was to be given a present. About 100 persons taking two and three and one or two as many as six or seven. Of course no presents were given, and the deluded suckers are now wiser, but poorer, men. —Wadesboro Messenger.

The physiologists and scientists in general have been making some curious experiments with a view to determine the relative length and strength of "right" and "left" limbs. Fifty and nine-tenths per cent. of the men measured had the right arm stronger than the left; 16 4-10 per cent. had the two arms of equal length and strength, and 32 7-10 per cent. had the left arm stronger than the right. Of women 46 9-10 per cent. had the right arm stronger than the left; 24 5-10 per cent. had the left stronger than the right. In order to arrive at the average of length of limbs, 50 skeletons were measured, 25 of each sex. Of these 23 had the right arm and left leg longer, six the left arm and right leg, while in 17 cases all the members were more or less equal in length.—Home Queen.

—The Schenectady Locomotive works are using for certain parts what is called "stepped iron," a mixture of 70 per cent. good iron and 30 per cent. steel, of which the castings obtained are about 25 per cent. greater in strength than common cast iron.

—North Carolina has a mica output of 100,000 pounds a year. New Hampshire produces about 25,000 pounds, South Dakota 18,000 pounds and New Mexico 1,000 pounds. The mica of North Carolina is of the best quality and brings the highest price.

—Our exports of iron and steel and their products for the first nine months of this year amounted in value to about $32,000,000, the largest by over $4,000,000 in the history of the country. Included in this sum were 135 locomotives, which were mostly sent to South America.

—The world's record for lumber cutting is claimed for the Port Blakely mill of Port Blakely, Wash. During the ten months of this year up to the end of October 83,676,212 feet of lumber had been cut at this one mill, and it is estimated that the total output for 1895 will be at least 105,000,000 feet. Loaded in regular car lots, this amount would make a train more than 60 miles long.

—An apostle of physical culture, according to the Medical Record, says that nervous headache may be cured by the simple act of walking backward for ten minutes. "It is well to get in a long, narrow room, where the windows are high, and walk very slowly, placing first the ball of the foot on the floor, and then the heel. Besides curing the headache, this exercise promotes a graceful carriage."

—The large part played by alcohol as a cause contributing to insanity receives fresh confirmation in the 40th report of the commissioners in lunacy," says the British Medical Journal. "For the five years ending 1893 alcoholism was the predisposing or exciting cause in 20.8 per cent. of male and 9.1 per cent. of female lunacy. Intemperance is credited with 25.6 per cent. of male and 19.9 per cent. of female general paralytics."

DEER HUNTING BY LOCOMOTIVE

The Reason Some Adirondacks Railroad Men Didn't Feast on Venison.

Once in awhile the engineer of a train on Dr. Seward Webb's Adirondack railroad has a race with a deer. Sometimes it happens that the frightened deer won't leave the track and is killed. One night in September, when Pat Cummings was pulling the through train down to Utica, he walked back to Conductor Clarke, while his fireman was taking water at Nehosene, and said:

"Bill, I killed a deer back there by the river. It was a fine big buck. He run ahead of me for a long piece, and I could see him plain. When I hit him he went up over the pilot higher'n he ever jumped before in his life, I bet. He landed just out there in the ditch, and I had a notion to stop and get him, but I was afraid you'd kick."

"I wish you had stopped," said Clarke. "The next time you catch a deer that way you stop. It won't take so long to get him, and we can easily make up the time. Deer meat is too scarce and too high to let it go like that."

Cummings said he surely would stop the next time, and Clarke got the agent to telegraph to the agent at Horseshoe to send the section men down to the river with their hand car to get the deer. It was after 11 o'clock, but the section men started out, and after a smart pull got down to the river. They looked a long time, but could find no deer. Up and down the track they went, and at last were just about to give up in disgust when one of the men found it. It lay out on the bank of the ditch beside the track. It was a fine large yellow dog.

Now if you ask Pat Cummings if he has killed a deer lately you want to be ready to dodge, and dodge mighty quick, for Pat is a husky citizen.—N. Y. Sun.

Waste of Happiness.

There is nothing which we waste more than happiness. Even those who are thrifty and prudent in other directions are prodigal here. They stint and plan to save a halfpenny, but they are often indifferent about the loss of days of happiness. We do not enjoy our friends until they die or we lose them in some other way. The early spring and summer days pass without our realizing their beauty. We rush through a holiday trip and miss half the scenery, because we are in a hurry, or cross or anxious about worthless trifles. Nearly every old or even middle-aged man who looks back honestly on his life will admit that, however wretched he may be now, opportunities of happiness were given to him. A French writer recorded what most of us know from experience to be true when he said that many people could be made happy with the happiness which is lost in the world. We lose happiness because we often scorn calm, quiet pleasures, and seek only for those that excite. Or we make the mistake of thinking that happiness lies only in big sensational events instead of in the small, trifling incidents of daily life. Or we seek for it in the future rather than in the present, which is like a man looking for his hat when it is all the time upon his head.—Home Queen.

WATER IS MOST IMPORTANT.

MR. EDITOR:—In response to your invitation for an expression of opinion in regard to the most urgent needs of Greenville at the present time, I would say that it seems to me there can be no doubt as to the one prime necessity.

Many suggestions can be made of our needs and all of them would be real and important and would add greatly to our future prosperity. But first and foremost both in point of time and in actual and crying want is a supply of water sufficient for every need.

This has not been suggested to me by the recent fire but has been a growing impression for several years past.

Electric lights, good streets, &c., are needed, but they sink into nothingness in comparison with the demand for water.

Investments in factories, dwellings and enterprises of all kinds must make this town a city of it ever becomes one, but how can we expect a man to invest his money here when he can at some other place where the probability is ten to one in favor of its security.

What is the necessity of waiting until thousands and thousands of dollars worth of property shall have been consumed by the flames before realizing this prime necessity? The man or the men who will give Greenville an abundant supply of water will in my opinion do most towards insuring the future prosperity of the town. S.

OBITUARY.

It is with sorrow we announce the death of our beloved sister, Emma Little Smith, wife of Jesse L. Smith, of Beaver Dam township. She was born June 24th, 1859, and died Dec. 22nd, 1895, being in her thirty-seventh year. She leaves a husband, five children, two brothers, and a host of relatives and friends to mourn her death, but we believe our loss is her eternal gain. She was taken with pneumonia and lived only eight days thereafter.

Sister Smith was married a little more than eleven years. She united with the Free Will Baptist Church at Marlboro, about fourteen years ago, and lived a faithful member, always occupying her seat in church when health would permit.

Why do we mourn departing friends, And shake at death's alarms?

'Tis but the voice that Jesus sends To call them to his arms.

Then let our mournful tears be dry,

Or in a gentle measure flow;

We hail them happy in the sky

And joyfully wait our call to go.

VAL STAINES.

"We seek no strife; the child lifts not the brand
Against its mother with a heart at ease.
With pride we view thee rule the encircling seas,
With one accord, throughout our fair, free land
We glory in thy present greatness, and
Thy history's splendid past in war and peace;
But yet, when kneeling at thy knees,
We caught thy spirit, and therefore we stand
The champion of the weak against the strong.
A younger sister of our western band
For succor cries: We pledge to her our word.
Unchallenged the world shall offer her no wrong.
We pray you pause, the olive in one hand,
Although the other half-unsheathes the sword."
