Quickly Grown Potatoes.

The secret of the new method of potato growing is to grow the potatoes before planting and dig the potatoes planted.

Sprout the potatoes and raise little potatoes from the sprouts to plant. To obtain these results the discoverer of the new method constructed a sprouting house with double walls filled in with sawdust and sawdust overhead, and double doors. The seed potatoes are put into old barrels and small boxes to keep them warm and make them sprout. The room is kept warm by means of charcoal fire in a bake oven. The potatoes will begin to grow, and in four to six weeks they will be the size of peas.

The discoverer tells how he plants in the following language:

"I now knock the barrels or boxes to pieces, and I find a mass of roots and sprouts and myriads of new potatoes. The numerous roots hold the whole mass together, and I load it on handbarrow and have two men carry it down the row while I break off a handful of the mass and drop it on the bank in the furrow already prepared, as stated Count the little potatoes on the stems until you can form an idea of how much of a handful you must break off. Your hand should not contain more than forty nor less than twenty.

"I plant in a water furrow, but leave a narrow balk in the bottom and upon this I drop the seed every eighteen inches. Part of the seed falls on one side of the balk and part on the other, so I have really a double hill. I cover with two furrows. The seed I use is generally the size of English peas, though they run from the size of a bird's eye to that of a marble. Of these I drop from twenty to sixty in each hill, and if there is enough rain every one will make a fine potato. It never takes more than seventy-five potatoes grown in this way to make a bushel, and often sixty will do it; but it takes manure to grow them. After rains, I put liquid manure in addition to the manure already in the soil. The manure governs the yield."

It is claimed by the new method potatoes can be grown in from four to six weeks, while the old method requires from three to four months. By the new method, six crops can be raised annually. Of course the ground is heavily fertilized.—Horticultural Gleaner.

The Raleigh correspondents, who have opportunity to interview people from all sections of the State, report the crystallization of some sentiment favoring the nomination of Col. J. S. Carr for Governor. Col. Carr would make a good run, and no doubt, if elected, a good Governor. Besides these things, he is a man of sufficient means to be Governor, which not every one is at a salary of $3,000 a year, and could live creditably at the mansion without saddling the Durham Bull with a chattel mortgage.—Clinton Democrat.

Here is a list of the new fashions which have already appeared in Paris:

The hoop-skirt.
Large bustles.
Small, tight-fitting sleeves.
Hip pads in various sizes.
High heels.
Collars of enormous size.
Hats worn well over the forehead.
Marie Antoinette curls dangling from the back of the coiffure.

Such is the array of horrors which the fashionable woman must contemplate before planning her spring wardrobe.

IN NORTH CAROLINA.

Matters of Interest Over the State.

Forty counties have thus far made full settlement of State taxes.

Col. A. K. McClure, the distinguished editor of the Philadelphia Times, will visit the State in March.

A man by the name of Dow, in Davie county, has been sent to jail for 30 days, by a magistrate, for kicking his mother-in-law.

By the explosion of the engine at his grist mill, in Pender county, Maj. C. W. McClammy, of Wilmington, and a colored fireman were both killed.

W. T. Sutton, of Lenoir county, died Tuesday at the Soldier's Home, aged seventy-three years. He was a member of Co. H., North Carolina Cavalry.

A five-year old boy in Alamance county was bitten by a mad dog a few days ago. He has been taken to the Pasteur Institute, New York, for treatment.

Tuesday night the Primitive Baptist church on the Milburnie road, near Raleigh, was destroyed by fire. Services were being held in the church when the fire occurred.

Little Robt. Respass, the eight months old son of Mr. Gus Respass, is really a little genius. He is quite a whistler and crows like a rooster, which is a great feat for one so young.—Wilmington Gazette.

The town of Salisbury is jubilant over the contemplated location there of the Southern Railway car shops. The shops will be a great help to the town. Charlotte was anxious for them but Salisbury got ahead of her.

The decrease in the assessed value of property for taxation throughout the State last year was $5,040,000. The decrease in the total amount of taxes will be about $6,700. This is a much smaller falling off in both cases than had been expected.

A Wake Forest negro put pepper on a stove in a church while the minister was preaching. The congregation was set to sneezing at such a rate as to break up the services. The negro was arrested for disturbing religious worship and will pay for his fan.

A Building for the Young Men's Christian Association at the University of North Carolina.

Less than a year ago a movement was started to erect a building to supply the needs of an abiding place for a large and increasing Young Men's Christian Association. The cost is to be twenty thousand dollars. The students, faculty, townspeople, friends and a few of the alumni have already pledged over many thousand dollars. Over one-half of this amount has come from students.

From such a building the University as well as the Christian Association will derive supreme benefit. As such this movement deserves and will receive the support of all alumni who hold alma mater dear.

Papers Wanted.

In going through the files of THE DAILY REFLECTOR preparatory to having them bound we found that two copies were missing. These are Mar. 16, 1895, No. 83, and July 10, 1895, No. 181. If any of our readers have a copy of these dates we would be glad to get them so as to make our file complete.

Rev. J. W. McManara will preach at Mt. Pleasant Sunday. He will also deliver a lecture there on Saturday night.

GET A GOOD SAFE.

GREENVILLE, N. C., Feb. 26th, 1896.
J. L. SUGG, Agent Victor Safe Co.,
Greenville, N. C.

DEAR SIR:—I am pleased to say that the Victor Safe you sold me some five or six years ago preserved in fact all its contents in the late fire in Greenville on the 16th inst. The safe stood at a point in my office in the Opera House block that must have been one of the hottest parts in the great conflagration. It contained many papers and other things of value. When it was taken out of the ruins and opened, some twelve hours after the fire, everything in it was found to be safely preserved and in good condition. I cheerfully make this statement of facts in recognition of the valuable service rendered me by this safe and you are at liberty to make such use of it as you may see proper.

THOS. J. JARVIS.

The Victor Safe is made in all sizes, convenient for home, farm, office or general business use. Every Safe sold with a guarantee to be fire proof. Prices range from $15 up.

J. L. SUGG, Agent,
GREENVILLE, N. C.

The Insurance Companies have adjusted my loss and I will now throw all of my stock that was damaged on the market at prices below cost. All who want bargains are invited to come and see what I can do for them. The goods must be disposed of as early as possible.

ADVICE GRATIS.

He had a cold, a simple cold,
Located in his head.
He did not call a doctor in,
But asked advice instead
Of all his friends and neighbors, who
Knew just what should be done
In any such emergency,
They gave it—by the ton.
Said one: "Rub tallow on your nose,
In mustard soak your feet;
Keep sniffing eucalyptus and
Drink lots of whiskey neat.
You must not think of going out,
But stay in bed and nurse
Yourself a bit." He did so, but
The next day he was worse.

Another said: "Go out of doors,
Take heaps of exercise;
Don't sit and shiver by the fire,
For that is most unwise.
The poison's in your system, so
You want to work it off."
He did as he was told. Next day
He had a beastly cough.

A third declared: "The water-cure
Will quickly put you right.
Just wrap yourself in soaking sheets,
And sleep in them all night.
Then if you're feeling feverish,
Take cold baths all day long."
He did. Bronchitis supervened.
And both his lungs went wrong.

Then they advised all sorts of things,
Hot bottles, turpentine,
Beef-tea, pills, leeches, poultices,
Massage and cocoa wine.
Draughts, embrocations, lozenges,
Electric batteries.
They will effect a cure, no doubt—
Unless the beggar dies.

Queer Suit For Damages.

One of the most unusual cases to be tried at this term of the Federal court is on the calendar for Friday next.

Nathan Holleman is suing Harward and Hunter, the Apex druggists, for three thousand dollars damages. The complaint alleges that the defendant wilfully and with gross negligence and disregard of proper precautions, sold to the wife of Mr. Holleman numerous lots of laudanum (Mrs. Holleman being addicted to the opium habit) and thereby disturbed the peace and happiness of the plaintiff's family.—Raleigh News and Observer.

DR. HUFHAM HONORED.

Rev J. B. Boone, general manager of the Baptist Orphanage at Thomasville, addressed the congregation in the Baptist church here last Sunday in the interest of that institution.

Mr. Boone was elected to the position which he holds last August and he entered upon his duties the first of September. He is following in the line of progress that has characterized the work ever since the establishment of the institution and its nine years of successful operation under the management of Mr. J. H. Mills.

It is a fact well known in the history of the Orphanage that the Scotland Neck Baptist church gave the first impetus that made its establishment and success possible; and in his plans for enlarging the work Mr. Boone came before the Scotland Neck people to give them, he said, the opportunity to make the first contribution for a new central building, which he thinks will cost $5,000. With it Mr. Boone says at least eighty more orphans can be added to the hundred and thirty already there.

Mr. Boone said before the Baptist congregation Sunday that the individual or church that contributes as much as $500 towards this new building will have the privilege of a memorial slab, to be placed to the memory of any one they may choose so to honor.

After hearing the proposition by Mr. Boone, the good condition of the institution, the statement that no physician had been on a visit to a sick person there this winter, and the great and good work the Orphanage is doing, the church voted to raise $500, and passed a resolution that the memorial slab, to which the contribution will entitle the church, be made in honor of Rev. J. D. Hufham, D. D., pastor of the Scotland Neck church for fourteen years and pastor of it at the time he made the first personal fight for the Orphanage.

The contribution in cash and good pledges amounted to $600.

Mr. Boone left Monday morning on his return to the Orphanage with six orphans from Scotland Neck. If the Baptists of Scotland Neck have ever demonstrated anything clearly, it is that they hold dear the memory of Dr. Hufham, and they desire to honor him while he lives.—Scotland Neck Democrat.

STANLEY AND THE CONGO.

The Great Explorer Tells of His First Journey Down the River.

The geographical world was anxious to know what was this mysterious river the quest of which had occupied Livingstone's declining years. The London Daily Telegraph joined with the New York Herald in defraying the cost of this second expedition. The story of how I set out a second time from Zanzibar, circumnavigated the Victoria Nyanza, discovered Lake Albert Edward, voyaged around Lake Tanganyika, and reached Livingstone's farthest point—Nyangwe—on the banks of the Lualaba, has been told in detail in my book "Through the Dark Continent." It also relates how, after a tedious land journey parallel with the river, I made ready my English boat, collected about a score of native canoes, embarked my followers, and how, after a course of nearly 1,800 miles, we reached the Atlantic ocean at the mouth of the Congo. By this river voyage the question which had puzzled Livingstone for 11 years was solved. It is a noticeable fact that when I began my descent of the Congo I was the only white man—excepting my companion, Frank Pocock—to be found between the Zambesi and the Bahr-el-Ghazal, and between Zanzibar and the Lower Congo.

It may easily be understood why, on returning from the discovery of the great African waterway, I should be anxious that England should avail herself of it. In 1816 England had dispatched a naval expedition under Capt. Tuckey to ascend the Congo, but it terminated disastrously 200 miles inland. In 1873 Capt. Grandy, another English officer, had attempted the task. In 1876 Admiral Hewitt's expedition had suppressed the pirates of the Lower Congo. For over 60 years England had kept watch over the Congo slavers. Half of the expenses of my expedition had been contributed in England. She was also rich, tender and just toward the natives, and her people were the best colonizers in the world. All these facts were, in my opinion, claims that might justify England in stepping forward and taking possession.—Henry M. Stanley, in Century.

Cabbage with Cream Sauce.

Wash thoroughly a medium-sized cabbage; cut off the thick stalk. Plunge the cabbage into slightly-salted boiling water and boil it until it is uniformly tender. Drain, and serve with a sauce made by mixing together one and a half ounces of fresh butter and a scant tablespoonful of flour until creamy; add to this half a pint of warm milk, a small teaspoonful of salt and a sprinkling of cayenne. Put in a farina boiler and cook until it will cling lightly to the spoon, then add another ounce and a half of butter and a teaspoonful of lemon juice, stirring until smooth.—Ladies' Home Journal.

BICYCLES IN OLYMPIC GAMES.

Modern Wheels Rolling Amid the Scenery of Ancient Greece.

The Grecian athlete has taken up the bicycle, according to our consul at Athens, who, in a letter to the state department, calls attention to the chance American wheelmakers have of disposing of their product. Consul George Horton says "there are at the present time about 400 bicycles in Athens. They are mostly of English make. The average price at which wheels sell here is $78.65, and the average weight is 26 pounds. The character of the roads renders a lighter make impracticable, unless the machines are of a high grade and with a wide base. The duty on bicycles is insignificant, not being manufactured here.

"The history of the bicycle in Greece is interesting. The first machine was brought here many years ago by the king. It was an all-wood affair, front driving, of the variety known as 'boneshaker.' Naturally, his majesty did not appear in public on the streets, as bicycles were regarded by the natives as supernatural and uncanny for many years. The pioneer bicyclists of Greece were subjected to many inconveniences and even dangers. They were hooted and laughed at on the streets of Athens, and were sometimes stoned and tumbled from their wheels. At the present day the rustic generally crosses himself and utters a prayer when a bicycle passes him.

"Bicycling may be said to have commenced here in earnest about eight years ago with the founding of several clubs and the adoption of the wheel as an amusement by leading Greeks. It is safe to predict a craze in the near future, as the royal family and many of the leading diplomats are now enthusiasts. The crown prince and the English, American and German ministers, among others, may be seen on the streets every day mounted upon wheels. Such leadership has more weight in Greece than it would have in America. Last year one of the dealers here brought over five wheels of a celebrated American type from New York. He had no difficulty in selling them immediately at 1,000 drachmas apiece. They were lighter than the English makes ordinarily used here, and very much admired. No attempt has since been made by American makers to place wheels in Athens.

"Many agreeable excursions can be made with the wheel, among them from Athens to Phalerum, to the Piereus, to the king's property at Tutoi, to Marathon, to Thebes and other places. Many long trips are possible; for example, there is a magnificent road skirting the sea all the way to Corinth. After stopping a day or two to visit the ancient Acropolis one may continue the journey to Nauplia, the capital of Greece under Otho, taking in the ruins of Mycenae, Argos and Tyreus on the way. The scenery of such a trip is magnificent beyond description, and the points touched at are of surpassing historical interest. The climate is favorable for bicycling, there being a wet and a dry season, so that one knows before starting what weather to expect."

The revival of the Olympian games, which occurs in April, will include bicycle races, and Consul Horton thinks American wheelmakers would find it advantageous to have a representative present.—Boston Herald.

A DESPERADO'S NERVE.

His Affability Toward the Man Who Had Come to Hang Him.

J. K. Chambers, Union depot ticket agent, when in a reminiscent mood, can tell many interesting stories of the west in early days.

He was in the service of the government at Sydney when that town was the toughest place in Nebraska, if not in the west, and whence persons bound for the Black Hills started.

A few days ago Mr. Chambers was sitting in the Milwaukee city office, and the conversation turned to early days in the transmissouri country and bravery.

"The man of iron nerve I saw in Sydney in 1877," said Mr. Chambers, "was a beardless man, scarcely more than a boy, and I should judge had not reached his majority.

"He was a tough man even in Sydney, and his reputation was sustained, for he always carried a revolver and he would shoot at the drop of the hat. His name was Dough Reed. "It was said around town that he would never die a natural death.

"That turned out to be true, as he was lynched by a mob one morning, and that is where he displayed his nerve.

"The lynchers took the keys and unlocked the doors and went into the cell where Reed was.

"He was smoking a cigar when the men came in, and when he saw them he looked up as cool as you please.

"Good evening, gentlemen. I suppose you are going to take me out and hang me," he said as nonchalantly as though he was asking them to take a drink.

"He was told that he was correct in his supposition.

"He got up as unconcernedly as you please, and putting on his coat remarked that he was all ready if the rest were.

"He walked through the jail and out into the moonlight, smoking his cigar and even making little rings of smoke.

"He simply glanced up at the moon, and turning to one of the men asked him where he was going to be swung off, saying that it was of no use walking a man a mile or so out into the country.

"He was marched up the street to a telegraph pole that stood in the very heart of the town.

"By this time half the townspeople were around.

"A rope had been brought along, and it was slipped over his head, and he was bound.

"I can't climb that pole and fall off. I ought to have a ladder so as I can get up," he said, and accordingly a ladder was brought and placed against the pole. He was asked if he had anything to say and remarked that he hadn't, and if he had he wouldn't.

"When the ladder was placed against the pole, one of the men started up to tie one end of the rope about the pole.

"You needn't do that," he said, "for if you will unwind these cords about my wrists I'll do it."

"The cords were unwound, and he climbed up the pole as far as the ladder reached and fastened the rope around the pole.

"When he had done this he looked around over the crowd, standing very quietly then, and called out:

"Goodby, boys!"

"With that he jumped off the ladder, and in a few minutes his lifeless body was swinging there.

"His nerve never forsook him once. He acted through it all just as though he was used to it. He was the nerviest man I ever met."

Balaklava and Chancellorsville.

Your interesting reference to the Crimean war brings to mind Tennyson's lines, which have immortalized the "Charge of the Light Brigade."

No one who was present in the ranks, as was the writer, can well forget the opening fire of Stonewall Jackson's 20,000 veterans, when he surprised Hooker's right after sunset at Chancellorsville in 1863. This wing of the army rolled back upon itself with frightful loss and confusion by the advancing rush of the Confederates. For a time the worst fears were entertained by those who were in immediate command of the Union forces.

At this moment Major Keenan, with about 300 cavalry, was ordered to the charge "to hold the enemy back at all cost" until the guns, then "parked on the hill," were "placed" to save the army. The order was well understood by this brave officer, and immediately executed, 300 against "twice 10,000 gallant foes." Keenan's command was annihilated, "nor came back one his wounds to tell "

An Unlucky Bangle.

On the 21st of December, 1885, Admiral Dundas gave up the command of the fleet and returned to England. He was succeeded by Admiral Lyons, between whom and Dundas a signal parting took place which will long be remembered as a standing joke in the navy.

As Admiral Dundas left the fleet at Kamiesch the crews of both English and French ships manned the yards and gave him a parting cheer. At the same moment, by the desire of Dundas, a signal was run up to Sir E. Lyons on board the Agamemnon, "May success attend you," to which Sir E. Lyons ordered to be hoisted in reply, "May happiness await you."

But though in real life hanging and happiness are generally considered to have no very close connection, yet in the signal code they are very much alike. Unfortunately, in the hurry to reply to Admiral Dundas, the flag for the former instead of the latter word was hoisted, and what was worse the stupid blunder was not discovered and hauled down till the whole fleet had seen and read it.—Pearson's Weekly.

A Paris physician recommends a very simple remedy for cold. It is cologne inhaled from a handkerchief several times a day. The first effect is to irritate the affected parts, but relief is soon experienced in ordinary cases, he says. It is worth trying.

Good Motto of a Good Paper.

The bright Durham Daily Sun has just completed its seventh year. Editor Robinson knows how to make a good paper, and says "with trust in God, an abiding faith in Durham and elbow grease we shall keep pushing on."

A Remarkable Instrument.

There is a negro man who lives near Mr. Hector Smith's place in Little River Township who makes horns out of lightwood knots. We saw this morning one of these unique instruments. It is made of a short-leaf pine knot, hollowed out in the shape of a cow's horn, and is thirteen inches long and five inches in diameter. A remarkable fine tone can be gotten out of it. The darkey can play all sorts of pieces upon it, from Yankee Doodle to Home Sweet Home, and he plays them well, too. It beats the old fox horn to hollow, and can be heard several miles.—Fayetteville Observer.

Scene 5—Hall. Enter wife.

Wife—Good-by, dear.

Husband—Good-by.

Wife—Are you so very, very hungry?

Husband—No, not very.

Wife—You are not in good humor.

Husband—Yes, I am.

Wife (with waiting eyes)—Then dear, will you let me have $22.75 to pay for my bonnet when it comes?

Husband—Yes, certainly; take this fifty and keep the change for pin money.

(Exit Husband.)

Mental Geography.

The most populous country is Oblivion. Many go there; few return.

The largest river is Time.

The deepest ocean is Death.

The region where no living thing hath habitation is called yesterday.

The most highly civilized country is Today.

The highest mountain is called Success. Few reach the top save those who watch sharply for the passing of the spirit of the mountain. Opportunity, who carries upward all those that seize upon him.

The greatest desert is called Life, and it hath many an oasis. These are called Hope, Ambition, Love, Charity and Home. And of them all the last is most beautiful. Besides these, are many others, similar in extent, whence the traveler obtained refreshments during his journey through life.—Chicago Times.
