OUR NAVAL STRENGTH

And That of Spain Compared With Ours.

Commander Philip Hickborn, the Chief Constructor of the Navy, shows in his generalizations upon the subject that in number, equipment, and fighting strength the American Navy is far the superior of the Spanish Navy. In answer to a query as to the ships which the United States will have in commission not later than July 1, Commodore Hickborn stated that they would be thirty five in number, as follows:

Name and displacement of armored ships:
Indiana	10,288
Oregon	10,288
Massachusetts	10,288
Maine	6,682
Texas	6,315
Miantonomoh	3,990
Amphitrite	3,990
Terror	3,990
Monadnock	3,990
Monterey	4,084
Puritan	6,060
Katahdin	2,155
New York	8,200
Olympia	5,870

Name and displacement of unarmored ships:

Columbia	7,375
Minneapolis	7,375
Baltimore	4,413
Philadelphia	4,324
Newark	4,098
San Francisco	4,098
Charleston	3,730
Cincinnati	3,213
Raleigh	3,213
Boston	3,000
Detroit	2,089
Montgomery	2,089
Marblehead	2,089
Bennington	1,710
Concord	1,710
Yorktown	1,710
Castine	1,177
Machias	1,177
Vesuvius	929
Petrel	900

"How many additional ships could you have in commission within ninety days after next July if their services were needed?"

"We could have two fighting ships, the battle-ship Iowa, of 11,410 tons displacement, and the Brooklyn, an armored cruiser of the New York type, but larger and more powerful than that splendid vessel, of 9,271 tons. There is also the Chicago, which is now undergoing repairs, and nine other vessels, mostly of the gunboat class, which could be used at that time. Our small fleet of torpedo boats on Oct. 1 next would be supplemented by seven others now building. The list I have given you," continued Commodore Hickborn, "does not include any of the old turreted monitors or any of the old cruiser class, either of wood or iron, though doubtless some of them might be moderately serviceable in a war with any but a first-class naval power."

A summary of the fighting value of the two fleets will be as follows:

Type of Ship.	U. S.	Spain
1st-class battle ships	4	1
2nd class battle ships	8	6
Armored ram	1
Armored cruisers	3	1
Unarmored cruisers above 4,000 tons	7	2
Unarmored cruisers above 3,000 and below 4,000 tons	9
Unarmored cruisers above 2,000 and below 3,000 tons	3
Unarmored cruisers above 1,000 and below 2,000 tons	14
Torpedo boats	14	45

IN NORTH CAROLINA.

Matters of Interest Over the State.

Buncombe county has nine iron bridges, costing $41,000.

W. L. De Rossett will start the Daily Herald in Wilmington to succeed the Wilmington Review.

Col. Paul E. Faison, of this State, who held the position of Inspector of the Indian Agency in Oklahoma, died in that territory on the 4th.

Salisbury is to have electric lights and an electric car service, a company having been formed in that place for the purpose of building and operating them.

Two mules were at play in a pasture in Mecklenburg county when one of them got the other by the tongue and pulled so hard that it came out by the roots. The wounded animal had to be killed.

The number of white female convicts in the State penitentiary is 7, and of colored 61. Of the latter 33 are in the central prison, the others on the farms as cooks and washwomen.

The State Treasurer reports that there are 86 banks in North Carolina, of which 26 are national, 40 State, 15 private, and 5 savings. The total resources are $20,159,000; paid in capital stock, $5,313,000; individual deposits, $9,875,000.

A white man named Stephen Rouse, while on his way home in Stony Creek township, Monday night, was set upon by an unknown negro, about a mile from town, clubbed into insensibility, and robbed of $15.50. The negro was on the wagon with Mr. Rouse at the time.

The Value of Independence.

A poor estimate is placed upon our powers when we are always dependent on somebody. It is not meant to say that we can be independent of God, from whom our every blessing comes.

But there are some people—many people—who are ever afraid to turn loose and paddle their own canoe. Confidence in one's self is a thing to be desired by all people. Even the idiot does not hesitate to do something to show his independence, even though his work is done in a way different from what others would do it.

This spirit of dependence is the result of faulty training of the child. It's the child's nature to walk, and nature must be heeded. No parent ought to make a slave of himself or herself in order to give the children an easy time.

Let the children learn to be independent. Scatter them, if necessary; break up the indulgences, and give them to know that what they have they must earn. The best men and women are those who are raised to work. Work makes one independent, but man, a bright boy has made a lazy tramp simply because he was always looking for favors and never learned that the road to wealth lies in honest toil.—Orphans Friend.

She Went With Them.

Recently a strong-minded mother, discovering that her daughter was about to elope with an objectionable suitor, donned her husband's coat and trousers and boarded the same train taken by the unsuspecting lovers. The trip occurring in the daytime she took a seat in the smoking car and all wed the fugitives to complete their journey in blissful ignorance of pursuit. When the lovers left the train upon reaching their destination, this Spartan mother, throwing away the cigar she had been pretending to smoke, coolly took possession of her offspring, the other actor in the drama being too dumfounded to do or say anything to the contrary. And yet some people maintain that there is no such thing as the new woman or that, if here, she is no good.

GET A GOOD SAFE.

GREENVILLE, N. C., Feb. 26th, 1896.

J. L. SUGG, Agent Victor Safe Co., Greenville, N. C.

DEAR SIR:—I am pleased to say that the Victor Safe you sold me some five or six years ago preserved in fact all its contents in the late fire in Greenville on the 16th inst. The safe stood at a point in my office in the Opera House block that must have been one of the hottest parts in the great conflagration. It contained many papers and other things of value. When it was taken out of the ruins and opened, some twelve hours after the fire, everything in it was found to be safely preserved and in good condition. I cheerfully make this statement of facts in recognition of the valuable service rendered me by this safe and you are at liberty to make such use of it as you may see proper.

THOS. J. JARVIS.

The Victor Safe is made in all sizes, convenient for home, farm, office or general business use. Every Safe sold with a guarantee to be fire proof. Prices range from $15 up.

J. L. SUGG, Agent,
GREENVILLE, N. C.

The Insurance Companies have adjusted my loss and I will now throw all of my stock that was damaged on the market at prices below cost. All who want bargains are invited to come and see what I can do for them. The goods must be disposed of as early as possible.

Queer Events of One Day.

The curious things do not happen once in a while. They happen every day. A summary of the strange events of a single day that are chronicled in the newspapers would make a table of contents that would put to blush any sensational novel ever issued. Here are just a few that appeared in one day this week:

A man who lived six weeks with a broken neck; a man who left his fortune in prize packages for his heirs; a protest against wasting good whiskey in christening the warship Kentucky; a tramp in full dress found stealing a ride in a freight car; a man, lovesick for fourteen years, sent to the madhouse; death of a tramp worth $100,000; thief in police uniform robs people on Broadway; two sexagenarians carry their love affairs into court; a woman scared to death; a would-be Chinese bridge jumper tangled in his pigtail and sandals; a misplaced tub of water saves a woman from burning to death; rival lovers fatally wound one another; a deathbed confession tells of the lynching of an innocent man; trolley cars collide upon the porch of a house, and a woman in revival meeting tells of casting $50,000 in jewels upon her bureau and one of the congregation steals them.

And there are others!—Syracuse Journal.

A Kansas Freak.

Captain Jud Haskins, who lives in Atchison, Kas., is perhaps the most patriotic man in that section. He lives in a two-story frame house and has just completed the work of painting it red, white and blue. The stripes run horizontally around the house. The first stripe, which is blue, comes up to the lower windows, the second stripe, white, reaches to the second story windows and the balance, together with the roof, is red. It looms up in great shape from the road, and it is said that it looks rather artistic.

New Cure For Alcoholism.

The Buffalo (N. Y.) Courier announces a new cure for alcoholism, which is simply "a bowl of ice water and a raw potato peeled. By dipping the potato into the ice water and sucking it when ever the desire for drink becomes uncontrollable, a perfect cure is said to be effected. The testimony of a prominent citizen who was entirely cured of the craving for drink by this treatment is given to encourage others to try it.

A man with good health, a clear conscience, a determination to work and do right, will get along in this world. You cannot keep such a man down. It is a pitiable sight, however, to see a bundle of so many possibilities sitting on a goods box railing because every thing is not done just as he would do it, and waiting for the Lord to take him by the largest rotunda of his pants and coat collar and throw him into the land of Canaan. That man would muddle the honey and sour the milk.—Durham Sun.

SWEETEST SONG.

I have heard the greatest artists that the world shall ever see
Sing all the grandest music of the day.

I have sat with soul transported in a mist of melody,
As I listened to each life-uplifting lay;
But the music that is sweetest—surest—round my heart to creep—
Is the voice that every evening softly
sings my boy to sleep.

Singing in the twilight simple, soulful little airs,
Fragments of some love song, old
and dear;
They touch my better nature and they melt my heart to tears,
Just the kind of music that is always good to hear;
So full of Heaven's tenderness, with love so sure and deep,
Is the voice that in the twilight, softly
sings my boy to sleep.

Heart-swells from her girlhood, maybe seeing through girlish tears,
Now doing cradle duty for her God.
They come to me like echoes from the ton b of buried years—
Just a little glimpse of Eden on the sod;
O, the air is full of angels and their wings around me sweep,
As I listen to the twilight voice that sings my boy to sleep.
—Nashville American.

That Blue-Gray Parade.

General Ivan N. Walker, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, has vetoed the proposed Gray-Blue parade in New York city, on the Fourth of July. General Walker has two weighty reasons, either of which is sufficient. The first is that it will be too hot to tramp the streets of New York on the Fourth of July. The second is that he seems to march with the men who fought for a cause that was "shot to death" some years ago. We say that either of these reasons is sufficient. If it is too hot to parade, and you don't like the fellow you are asked to parade with, and don't want to parade, anyhow, why should you parade? These are knock-down objections, and we don't see how they can be overcome. There are some reasons in favor of the parade scheme of course. For instance, it would give a large number of General Walker's pensioned veterans a chance to see for the first time a real live rebel with rebel clothes on. The sight would probably make their wounds bleed afresh, and give them a claim for more pension money. But this consideration is as dust in the balance against the reasons set out by Ivan N. Walker, of the Grand Army of the Republic. Walker doesn't want to parade, and he will not parade, and there can be on parade without Walker.

We are well content to have Walker interpose his veto, and the ex-Confederates will no doubt sustain it. They will not be very critical as to Walker's reasons, for they have reasons of their own, just as good as Walker's. They wouldn't object in the least to walking down Broadway with old Union soldiers in pleasant weather, if it were convenient and there were good reasons for it. Johnny Reb has not got anything against Yank. But he can find better employment than that of jarding the lean streets of New York with his melting fat on the Fourth of July, and getting himself knocked dead with sunstroke to make a Gotham holiday. Let us have done with all this flummery, once and for all.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

A GOOD MEMORY.

Bright Young American Staggered
His German Challengers.

A story is told of a bright young American and several German officers who, at a dinner one evening, set out to make him uncomfortable by chaffing him about his country. The young man is Albert H. Washburn, the United States consular agent at Magdeburg. Henry F. Merritt, the consul at Chennitz, was the first one of the Americans to be attacked with a taunt from one of the Germans that he could not give the names of the Presidents of the United States. Merritt named them over with some deliberation, and drew from his German friend the declaration that he did not believe there was another American present who could do it.

Young Washburn had said nothing until now, but he broke in and declared: "I can do it, and will give you the vice presidents." He was about to begin, when a second thought struck him, and he said: "While I am about it I might as well give you the Secretaries of State, too." The Germans got down a book giving the names, and kept tab on the young man as he correctly went through the list. They were pretty well backed down already, but Washburn had no idea of letting them off so easily. "Now, I should like to know," he said, "whether any of you can give the names of the Prussian rulers from the time of Charlemagne and his sons down to the Emperor William?"

Not one of them could go half through the list, and they were on the point of apologizing to the young Massachusetts scholar when he took them down still more by modestly suggesting, "Perhaps I had better do it for you." He began with Charlemagne and went through the list without a break, much to the astonishment of his German hosts and the delight of Consul Edwards and the other Americans. "How did you do it?" asked Merritt. "Oh, my father had a taste for such things and taught them to me when I was a boy, and you see, they are sometimes useful to know," he replied.—Kansas City Star.

A Bit of Unneeded Advice.

It would be a good idea for mothers-in-law to let their daughters-in-law alone where domestic matters are concerned, unless their advice is asked. This sounds harsh, but it is meant to be sensible. The husband's mother, as a rule, is too fussy about her son. Of course, it is difficult for her to realize that another woman and a comparative stranger, can know as much about "my boy" as his mother does, but it's very often true.

So that cheery and wide-awake mother-in-law who comes in smiling, makes no suggestions, offers no criticisms, thinks everything splendid—or says she does—and isn't full of tiresome reminiscences of "how she used to do," is likely to be the power behind the throne if she covets that position.—Philadelphia American.

A Wonderful Light.

"That's a wonderful light that foreign scientist has discovered," said Hicks. "It's so strong that if you let it shine through a pocketbook a camera will make a picture of money in it." "Jove!" said Wilbur. "I'd like to have some of that. If it could make a picture of money in my pocketbook I'd have an easier time with my creditors."—

Some Hints Which the Wise Woman Will Do Well to Note.
There is little change to record in table linen, except that the pretty colored lunch cloths are no longer in vogue, and I am sorry. They were much more cheerful than the small square of linen in the center of a bare oak table now preferred. The colored cloths now serve as a cover when the table is not in use. There are very pretty ones, in delectable blue and white; and another dainty pattern shown is on pale pink and silver.
If you wish pie-crust to be very nice, fold it, lay it on a plate, and stand in the refrigerator over night. This will improve a good plain paste so that it is almost as flaky as a puff paste. In sealing a pie moisten the inside, but not on the edge, with a pastry-brush dipped in water or the white of an egg. Put the upper crust in place and press the two together with the thumb dipped in flour. Press together, but not on the exact edge, or the pastry will not rise.
When the ice chest smells queer and yet it is immaculately clean in every nook and cranny of the compartment, pour some boiling-hot soda water down the escape pipe and look at the fearfully and wonderfully made rope of solid matter that is washed down by the soda water. The pipe ought to be thus flushed once a week to keep the refrigerator sweet. No servant does this of her own free will. Many mistresses don't, either. Pour in cold water afterward to cool off the box and wipe dry. Food keeps better in a dry, cold atmosphere than it can in a damp, cold one.
A great many women in this world who fancy themselves good cooks spoil every bit of food that they prepare, except, perhaps, hard-boiled eggs and baked potatoes. They are careless and indifferent. If a recipe calls for more than they happen to have they make it up with water; if they do not happen to have the herbs and seasonings for the turkey stuffing, they do not bother to go or send to the grocer's for them—just leave them out. They cut down the amount of butter that a recipe calls for because butter is expensive, and the result of these little economies and carelessnesses is that the food is flavorless, spiritless and wearisome to the palate. Really, they waste a good deal because the food, not being especially good, is not all eaten, and some must be thrown away. Generally, economy is excellent, but not economy of that kind.
When particular baking is receiving attention and several unfamiliar dishes are being manufactured, it is of special importance to have the oven in perfect condition, and as far as possible under the control of the cook. The best of stoves, says an experienced housewife, are tricky sometimes, and bear watching. Nearly each one has its peculiarity. A tendency to burn at the bottom, or a habit of scorching at the top, while the lower part remains raw and sodden. Familiarity will enable the cook to correct these difficulties. She will overcome the first fault by placing the grating of a pan under the baking dish, and the other by covering the cake or loaf with a pan or paper until the bottom is done. A plain piece of manilla paper laid over the top of a cake will insure thorough, even baking, when without this arrangement the top would become scorched long before the cake was baked through.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

NOT AT HOME.
A New Way of Getting Rid of a Bill Collector.
The death of Tom Hannum, one time a well-known habitue of the press galleries on both sides of the capitol, was sincerely deplored among the old-timers the other day, and some amusing anecdotes were told of the popular newspaper man by his friends in the course of the day. One of the best is worth repeating.
Hannum was in the habit of taking a late breakfast at the Press club every morning. On one occasion, while he was vigorously discussing a hearty repast of ham and eggs, a bill collector suddenly walked up to Hannum's side, and laid his account before him. Hannum looked at the bill and then at the collector, and in a deliberate tone began:
"You blamed fool, can't you observe the amenities of ordinary civilized society. Don't you know that a man's club is like his home, and that you are in danger of being summarily ejected for coming in her without a card of membership and without being introduced? The rules of this club require that if you have business with a member you wait in the lobby outside until a waiter takes in your card and ascertains whether the gentleman with whom you have business is present. Now, you go out into the lobby—take this bill with you—and comply with the rules of this club."
The collector apologized for the infraction of the rules of the Press club, which, to tell the truth, were never enforced on anything, and waited until the steward came to ascertain his wishes.
"Please announce me to Mr. Hannum," said the collector.
The steward told him to wait, and he carried the man's card to Hannum, who looked at it carefully, then handed it back to the steward, and said: "Not at home."—Washington Post.

Looks of All Colors.
An Atchison young man gets a lock of hair from every new "steady" and has collected an elaborate array during the ten years he has been in the market. The color of the hair in his collection varies from a bright red to a coal-black. He has over 60 specimens, which shows that he has averaged a new "steady" every two months during the time he has been gathering his collection. Some of his specimens have faded badly, showing that the hair had been dyed. One specimen has changed from a deep black to red and gray. He prizes his collection very highly and keeps it locked up for fear some one will steal it. Whenever he sees a girl with a shade of hair which is different from anything he has in his collection he immediately goes after her and she becomes his "steady" until he gets a lock of her hair. Then he goes after another girl with a new shade of hair. He has heard of girls who had blue hair and is now looking for one. He claims to have seen a girl with a little blue mustache, but was afraid to ask for a specimen.—Atchison Globe.

The Old Man's Joke.
"Jane," said her father, "I thought you hated stingy people, and yet your young man—"
"Why, pa, who says he is stingy?"
"Oh, nobody says so; only I could see that he was a little 'near' as I passed through the room." — Boston Transcript.

Pure North Carolina Butter 20 cents a pound at D. S. Smith's.

Fine Oranges 25 cents a dozen at Morris Meyer's.

Canned Deviled Crabs and Shells at the Old Brick Store.

Smoke the best—the Golden Seal. JESSE W. BROWN.

Try "Sweet Marie," for the best smoke, at J. S. Tunstall's.

The sun now stays with us until 6 o'clock in the evening.

Pure North Carolina Butter 20 cents a pound at D. S. Smith's.

Silver Tip Cheroots are the best in town. J. L. STARKEY & CO.

This is the month for kites, but boys here don't do much kiting.

Gentlemen always want to smoke the best, and that is why they smoke the Golden Seal. JESSE W. BROWN.

NEWS.—The best Flour is Proctor Knott sold by S. M. Schultz. Try a 24 lb bag.

Pure North Carolina Butter 20 cents a pound at D. S. Smith's.

This has been an all round spring day, with the haze and lazy feeling accompanying such weather.

The best cigar is always what you want, if it is then buy the Golden Seal at Jesse W. Brown's.

Cod Fish, Irish Potatoes, Prepared Buckwheat, Oat Flakes, Cheese, Macaroni, P. R. Molasses, at S. M. Schultz.

Mrs. R. H. Horne has vacated the corner store so that it can be fitted up in readiness for Lang's new stock.

Many a mortgage is now being made to pay for fertilizers, instead of using home made manure. From every railroad station wagons are daily hauling loads of fertilizers, which will take many a bale of cotton next fall to pay for.

NOT BURNED OUT.—But moved again. We have moved our office to the REFLECTOR building, near Five Points, where our friends will find us ready to write Life, Fire and Accident Insurance. WHITE & SPEIGHT.

No one has come forward yet to call a meeting of our business men to organize a Board of Trade. Why wait? A good board could help much in getting the town rebuilt this summer, and in securing new enterprises.

MARCH MUSIC.

These People Make the Strings for this Aeolian Harp.

Mc D. Holliday, of Dunn, is in town.

R. L. Davis, of Farmville, was here to-day.

J. D. Grimsley, of Snow Hill, spent today here.

Dr. H. A. Joyner has returned from Laurinburg.

Mrs. M. M. Nelson left to-day for a visit in the country.

A. H. Taft returned from New York Thursday evening.

R. J. Cobb returned from the northern markets Thursday evening.

Mrs. Judge Boykin arrived Thursday evening to spend a few days here.

Capt. Farmer, conductor on the A. & R. road, is here as a witness at court.

White & Speight are moving their office in a portion of the REFLECTOR building.

Agent J. R. Moore, Chief of Police Perkins and S. M. Daniel went to Kingston, Thursday evening, as witnesses in a railroad case.

W. G. Stokes, of Stokes, was here to-day. He says he noticed that the farmers between his place and Greenville are planting for large potato crops.

Engineer George Smith is off his run for a few days, being here as a witness in court. Engineer Jas. Thrower, of the main line, is making the run temporarily.

Notice.

I have moved in my new office over the Old Brick Store, next to the King House. Am ready to do all work in the line of Dentistry. Will be glad to see my friends and former patrons. Can be found at all hours. Patronage solicited. H. A. JOYNER, D. D. S.

Buildings going up on both sides the REFLECTOR office keeps a merry clatter going on down our way.

Baker & Hart's new hardware store is almost ready for occupancy. They will commence opening to-morrow.

The dilapidated corner section of the Dancy House has been removed and a new building will go up in its place.

FOUND.—Bunch of keys, two for pad-lock and two flat—one of the latter brass. Owner call at REFLECTOR office.

All persons having in their possession buckets and shovels belonging to me used in fighting the fire on the 16th will please return them to me at Five Points. D. D. HASKETT.

There were some sharp gamblers along with the show that was here Thursday. As usual they found people who were ready and easy to be taken in.

Several of our neighboring towns are moving in the direction of telephone exchanges. We predict that at no far distant day many of these towns will be in speaking communication with each other.

Big Saving to the County.

It is now little more than a year since Mr. J. W. Smith was selected by the Board of County Commissioners as Superintendent of the Home of the Aged and Infirm. In this time he has proven his efficiency in the management of the Home and has saved the county several hundred dollars. During the year preceding his administration there were 23 inmates in the Home who were maintained at a cost of $2,008 to the county. The first year under Superintendent Smith's management the number of inmates averaged 27 and were maintained at a cost of $1,537, a saving to the county in one year of $471. And during the year the value of the property has been considerably increased, the farm has been supplied with implements, the quarters of the inmate have been made more comfortable, and there is improvement in every way. Mr. Smith is a good man for the places

Speedy Justice.

A few nights ago Bob Hodges, a colored barber, had a difficulty. He was summoned to appear for trial. Instead of appearing he hit the grit for Greenville. Police Jones started in hot pursuit up the Jamesville road, but hearing nothing from him for five miles, returned and took the Greenville road. Near Pactolus he nabbed the runaway, brought him to town, and the court gave him 51 days on the road. Yesterday, a wiser but a sadder man, he began to work on the public highway.—Washington Gazette.

Missionary Tea.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Baptist church have a meeting on Thursday afternoon of each week, and once in three months they have a "missionary tea" at which they are entertained by some of the members and all the unite boxes are opened. The meeting on Thursday afternoon was of this character, when the Society was very elegantly entertained by Mrs. Lucy Bernard at the home of Miss A. M. Perkins, where the Society usually meets. We hear some of the members speak of it as a most pleasant occasion.

CAN'T BE BEAT.—That's what they say about the "Southern Leader." The best 5 cent cigar on the market. All kinds of cigars cheroots and cigarettes at D. S. Smith's.
