An Error Made in Issuing a Marriage License.

Register of Deeds W. M. King handed us the following letter received by him which explains itself:

GRIMESLAND, N. C., Mar. 16, 1896.
MR. W. M. KING,

DEAR SIR:—I saw in last week's issue of the REFLECTOR that you made a mistake in the color of marriage license that you issued on March 2nd for J. M. Leggett and Adelaide V. Moore, and I hope to see your mistake corrected in next paper as we are white instead of colored. Don't neglect in correcting it, and oblige,

Yours respectfully,
J. M. LEGGETT.

It is due the Register of Deeds to explain how the error referred to occurred, which he tells us was in this way: It seems that at one of the landings down the river some one handed a memorandum to Capt. W. A. Parvin, of steamer Tar River, and asked him to get a marriage license for the parties mentioned thereon when he reached Greenville. Capt. Parvin went to the Register of Deeds' office for the license, but the memorandum he had failed to give the race of the couple and the question was asked him whether they were white or colored? He did not know but said he supposed they were colored, and the license was issued and entry made accordingly.

Of course when the REFLECTOR copied the list of names to whom licenses had been issued they were taken just as they appeared on the records in the Register of Deeds' office. However, we cheerfully publish Mr. Leggett's letter and this explanation which sets the matter right.

Not to be Commended.

Mr. Polk Miller, of Richmond, Va., is no doubt a fine success in delineating negro character, but it speaks badly for North Carolinians when they are driven to employing him to lecture over North Carolina to raise money to erect the monument to Senator Vance. We know nothing shabbier of North Carolina character than this. No one five years ago could have persuaded us that our people had so little patriotism, pride, generosity, appreciation and gratitude. In the great war the war records show that North Carolina lost in battle, killed and mortally wounded, 14,522 men, and that over 40,000 died in all during the four years. This too with a total white population of 629,942. But after straining and blowing all North Carolina, now with 1,700,000 population, has not been able to raise $1,000 for a monument to the great war governor, who fought, was imprisoned, and suffered for his people, and was their most popular citizen, but has to call in the services of a lecturer from another state to get a few hundred more. It is a disgrace to our people. We do not pretend to understand the indifference of our people. Going to hear a pleasant lecture, getting the worth of your money, in order to show your gratitude and admiration of Vance, is on a par with people who attend ice cream "festivals" on the plea of giving something and doing something for the church.—Wilmington Messenger.

Dr. C. A. Whitehead a graduate of the Baltimore Dental College, and a young man of experience and ability, has decided to locate here and practice dentistry.—Tarboro Southerner.

Bishop Edward Rondthale, of the Moravian church, Salem, N. C., will preach the baccalaureate sermon before the graduating class at the State University. Three members of the class belong to the Bishop's church.

How He Helped Himself.

"Help yourself, help yourself, little boy do;
Don't wait upon others to wait upon you."
Grandma was holding her afternoon chat,
Knitting and rocking away as she sat:
"Look at the birds, how they build their own nests;
Watch the brown bees always toiling their best;
Put your own hands to the plow if you'd thrive;
Don't waste your moments in wishing, but strive."
Up in her face looked a mischievous elf,
"Don't forget darling," said she, "help yourself."

Afternoon shadows grew drowsy and deep,
Grandma was tranquilly folded in sleep;
Nothing was heard but the old farmhouse clock,
Plodding along with its warning tick-tock;

Out from the pantry there came a loud crash;
Pussy jumped out from the hearth in a flash.
Back to her chair came this practical boy,
Steep to the ears in jam, custard, and joy.
Frightened, he cried: "Please, I've upset the shelf;
Grandma, I minded, I did help myself."

Some Curious Epitaphs.

Some of the most humorous as well as the quaintest epitaphs are to be found in New Jersey, Massachusetts, New York and Connecticut churchyards. Usually the lines tell not only of the life of the dead person, but the cause of death.

In a Hartford, Conn., cemetery is the following:

Here lies two babies so dead as nitts,
The Lord he kilt dem with His ague fits,
When dey was too good to live mit me
He took dem up to live mit He.
So He did.

A German in Rahway, N. J., noted years ago for his ability to compose and carve epitaphs, received the following from a German, which he carved on the tombstone as requested:

My wife, Susan, is dead. If she'd had life till next Friday she'd been dead shust two weeks. As a tree falls so must she stand. All things is impossible mit God.

In a South Carolina churchyard is this epitaph:

Here lies the body of Robert Gardin—
Mouth almighty and teeth accordin';
Stranger tread lightly over this wonder;
If he opens his mouth you're gone,
by thunder.

—N. C. Sun.

A Pastor's View.

Pastor E. D. Wells, of Greenville, N. C., writes: "Yes sir, I believe you are right. These certainly impress me as being an excellent people. They gave us such a warm welcome, and are so cordial and so generous, so active in the work, and so ready for renewed efforts, that we cannot but be hopeful and happy. We are here for work, and together with them, hope to be used of the Lord for the accomplishment of much good. We appreciate the many expressions and good wishes from brethren, and hope that we may have their prayers and co-operation in our work."—Biblical Recorder.

THURSDAY, MARCH 13TH, 1896.

Mr. William Conrad, a postoffice inspector who had his headquarters at Greensboro, was found dead in his bed Tuesday morning. He had been slightly sick for two days but nothing serious was thought of it. Mr. Conrad was well known through the State and was one of the best inspectors in the government postal service.

The Supreme Court decides that towns have a right to require dealers in second hand clothing to have them disinfected but no right to prohibit its sale, that second hand clothing is not of itself a nuisance and action in forbidding its sale can be taken only when it is proved to be a nuisance. The towns also have the right to levy a special tax on the dealers.

The Kentucky Legislature kept up the dead-lock through the whole session and the body adjourned without electing a Senator. There has been a lively rumpuss all along, and during the latter days of the session the military had to be ordered out to preserve peace and order. The Governor has no power to appoint a Senator, so that State will be deprived of one of its votes in the upper branch of the National Congress until a Legislature with more sense than the last one meets.

A telegram all the way from Raleigh to Charlotte, Richmond and Wilmington papers of Wednesday, tells that five hundred silver men of all political parties met at Morganton on Tuesday, and among those named who made speeches "ex-United States Senator T. J. Jarvis" heads the list. May be the smart Raleigh correspondent did not know that ex-Senator Jarvis has not been outside of Greenville in several weeks. If the papers that use this Raleigh correspondent's stuff had the X ray to apply to it they would find that he is usually further from the truth than he is close to it. But it serves the purpose of filling up space.

A Rocky Mount correspondent of the Tarboro Southerner last week said: "One of Edgecombe county's natives, now a successful farmer in Nash, told this writer last week that his pay-roll on the farm in '95 was $600 a month, but that he sold farm products amounting to over $14,000, and had more yet to market. This means a clear profit of over $8,000." And yet many persons go all around the country taking a delight, it seems, in saying there is not even a square living in farming. There may not be $8,000 a year for every farmer, or even $800; but any farm well managed will certainly be self-supporting.—Scotland Neck Democrat.

Thinks Sunday Marriages Not Legal.

A couple who applied to the Rev. J. J. Blackburn, of Cincinnati, on Sunday evening to marry them were refused on the ground that he never performed a marriage ceremony on Sunday. Mr. Blackburn said he considered a marriage a business transaction, and he could not conscientiously solemnize the ceremony on Sunday. He said no other legal transaction could be made on Sunday and stand the test of the courts, and every marriage performed on Sunday must be an illegal one. He said he had never heard of a case being tested on this point, and does not know that the courts would take his view of the subject, but he decided to be on the safe side, and has never, and will never, perform this ceremony on Sunday.—Baltimore American.

House Cleaning.

"Father, dear father, come home with me now, for ma has some carpets to beat; she's got all the furniture out in the road, from the front porch clear down to the street. The stove must come down and be put in the shed and the yard must be cleared of dry grass, for it's time to clean house and the duce is to pay, and the front window needs a new glass. Father, dear father, come home with me now, and bring some belogna and cheese; it's most twelve o'clock, and there's nothing to eat, I'm so hungry I'm weak in the knees. All the dinner we'll have will be scraps and such, and we'll have to eat standing up, too, for the tables and chairs are all out in the yard. Oh, I wish spring house cleaning was through! Father, dear father, come home with me now, for ma is as mad as a Turk; she says you're a lazy old thing, and that she proposes to put you to work. There's painting to do, and paper to hang, and windows and casing to scrub, for it's house cleaning time, and you've got to come home, and revel in suds and cold grub."

Never Too Late to Learn.

Cato, at eighty years of age learned the Greek language. Socrates, at an extreme old age, learned to play on musical instruments.

Plutarch, when between seventy and eighty, began the study of Latin.

Doctor Johnson applied himself to the Dutch language but a few years before his death.

Franklin did not fully commence his philosophical pursuits till he had reached his fiftieth year.

Ludovico Monaldesco, at the great age of one hundred and fifteen, wrote the memories of his own times.

Dryden, in his sixty-eighth year commenced the translation of the Iliad, his most pleasing production.

Ogilby, the translator of Homer and Virgil, was not acquainted with Latin and Greek till he was past fifty.

Boccaccio was thirty-five years of age when he commenced his studies of light literature; yet he became one of the greatest masters of the Tuscan dialect, Dante and Petrarch being the other two.

Sir Henry Spellman neglected the sciences in his youth, but commenced the study of them when he was between fifty and sixty years of age. After this time he became a most learned antiquarian and lawyer.

We could cite thousands of examples of men who commenced a new study, either for a livelihood or amusement, at advanced age. But every one familiar with the biography of distinguished men, will recollect individual cases enough to convince them that none but the sick and indolent will ever say, "I am too old to learn."

Said it Reluctantly.

A school inspector, finding a class hesitating over answering the question, "With what weapon did Sampson slay the Philistines?" and wishing to prompt them, significantly tapped his cheek and asked, "What is this?" The whole class instantly answered, "The jawbone of an ass."—Our Dumb Animals.

The Mountaineer's Bear Team.

"I was driving along a road in the mountains of western North Carolina a short time ago," said P. B. Mayfield, a man of St. Louis, "when I heard a wagon coming around a bend in the road. My horses shied, then began to tremble, being evidently in the most abject terror. I could not make them move a foot, and when the approaching team came into sight I saw the reason, and, getting out of the buggy, succeeded in quieting my horses, so as to allow the strange team room to pass, the driver of the brutes ahead of me calling, 'They won't hurt nothin', stranger; don't be skeared.' He was driving a team of full-grown black bears, and they were making about as fast time as a yoke of oxen would. They were hitched to a wagon loaded with logs. The upper part of the wagon was like any other, but the wheels were small and heavy, evidently the work of a local blacksmith. The bears paid no attention to me or my team and walked along leisurely, drawing their load seemingly without effort."—Washington Star.

We heard a gentleman of much observation in many parts of the country say recently that if the cigarette habit continues to grow on the boys for the next generation as it has for the past few years, there will not be brains enough left to run the Government. He said that nothing is so sapping to the very vitals of the youth of the land as cigarettes, and that cigarettes and whiskey may well be classed as co-evils.—Scotland Neck Democrat.

GET A GOOD SAFE.

GREENVILLE, N. C., Feb. 26th, 1896.

J. L. SUGG, Agent Victor Safe Co.,
Greenville, N. C.

DEAR SIR:—I am pleased to say that the Victor Safe you sold me some five or six years ago preserved in tact all its contents in the late fire in Greenville on the 16th inst. The safe stood at a point in my office in the Opera House block that must have been one of the hottest parts in the great conflagration. It contained many papers and other things of value. When it was taken out of the ruins and opened, some twelve hours after the fire, everything in it was found to be safely preserved and in good condition. I cheerfully make this statement of facts in recognition of the valuable service rendered me by this safe and you are at liberty to make such use of it as you may see proper.

THOS. J. JARVIS.

The Victor Safe is made in all sizes, convenient for home, farm, office or general business use. Every Safe sold with a guarantee to be fire proof. Prices range from $15 up.

What Tobacco Money Would Do.

According to the statement of the merchants of Vandalia, a town of about 250 people, there is enough tobacco sold by them in one year to run two schools ten months in the year, one for the whites and one for the colored paying the principal of each $45 per month and an assistant for each $30 per month, and still have a surplus of $420. Startling but true.—Pamlico Herald.

PRETTY CHIP CARVING.

Fascinating Fancy Work for the Ladies.

Sharp Tool and a Piece of Soft White Wood the Only Material Needed—The Carver Can Chip in the Drawing-Room, So Clean Is the Work.

The maiden of this end of the century has added a new accomplishment to her repertoire of arts and sciences.

It is chip-carving, the most delightful and "ladylike" work imaginable; a veritable fancy work, which one can take up as easily as a bit of knitting or embroidery. It has the advantage of wood carving, which requires such a vast paraphernalia before one can begin operations, and is so noisy in the doing that one's companions must be long suffering—or deaf.

English girls are devoted to chip carving, but the art originated in Germany. In the neighborhood of the Black Forest one can pick up delightful specimens of the work. Table tops, book-racks, picture frames, footstools, in fact, anything fashioned of wood is eligible for carving. White wood is the best for the purpose, and afterward it can be stained in any color—a black walnut tone brings out the carving to perfection, or white enamel paint is pretty.

A novice might begin with a book-rack, one of the miniature kind which holds half a dozen or so volumes and stands on the library table. This, made of white wood, can be bought for exactly 90 cents. The two ends are all that require carving.

The pattern, which is usually one of geometrical design for chip carving, is drawn or traced with lead pencil. Then, with tool in hand, one sits down at one's ease in the corner of the drawing-room, for the litter of chips is nothing to speak of and can easily be kept in the lap.

Only one tool is required for the work an amateur will do. It is a "straight" tool, and costs about 25 cents. It can be purchased at any hardware-shop, and must be fitted with a wooden handle and extremely sharp. Indeed, it is the sharp tool which makes the successful carver.

The design is left in relief and the superfluous wood carved away. If by chance a bit of the design is chipped off it can be glued on and will never show. However, the carver after some practice is not apt to make mistakes of this sort.

As the design develops under one's hand the work becomes quite as fascinating as embroidery of the most seductive description. It is rapid work, too, and two evenings ought to suffice to carve at least one end of the book-rack. When the other end is finished the whole should be colored. A bottle of black walnut stain will be the next investment, and two coats are usually required. Then, behold! Your book-rack finished and a thing of beauty, ready to present to a friend or to appropriate to one's own use.

It must be born in mind that geometrical designs are the best for chip carving. They are very easily transferred to the surface of the wood by means of tracing paper.—Chicago News.

HELLO!

Greenville Will Have a Telephone System.

Wednesday afternoon the Town Council held a meeting and granted a franchise to construct a telephone exchange in Greenville to Messrs. D. E. House, W. S. Atkins and R. J. House. These gentlemen will canvas the town to ascertain the number of 'phones that will be taken and as soon as enough are secured to start they will begin putting in the exchange at once. Greenville is going forward, and there are still more enterprises in store for us.

THE TRILBY MYSTERY.

A Large Crowd and Everybody Enjoyed Themselves.

The "Trilby Mystery" at Germania Hall Wednesday night was an enjoyable affair and every thing passed off very pleasantly. The attraction of the evening was the guessing who "Trilby" was. A booth was arranged in one side of the room and in a chair sat a masqued lady representing Trilby. The guessing was spirited and some outlandish votes were cast. At 10:30 o'clock the lady was unmasqued and it proved to be Miss Mollie Bagley and many exclamations of surprise were heard on all sides, eleven guessed Miss Bagley. The ladies realized $5 in this booth.

Another attraction was the "Good Night Drill," participated in by little Misses May Schultz, Abbie Smith, Marguerite Skinner, Irma Cobb, Henrie Ragsdale, Velma Rawls, Janie Tyson and Nina James. Their manoeuvrings, with lighted candles in sticks and in their night robes, were just beautiful and denoted good training, and at the close elicited rounds of applause.

The ladies had refreshments to serve and they were well patronized.

The Forbes' Orchestra furnished some delightful music.

By this entertainment the W. & W. Society netted $18.

A New Swindling Scheme.

A new swindling scheme has been devised, it appears, from the Newark, Ohio, Advocate. A farmer is induced to buy a bill of groceries from a traveling salesman, the goods to be shipped from some city. In payment the man agrees to take eggs. To make it all straight and right, the farmer gives his note for the goods and the traveling man gives his for the eggs. The goods and salesman are never seen later, but the farmer's note turns up at a bank.

ON RAINY DAYS.

On rainy days
We love—in quiet, fireside ways
To read some friendly poet's lays
(Whether he wore the blues or bays)
On rainy days.

On rainy days
We care not for life's blame or praise.
But think how we the cash shall raise
For that sad note of thirty days
Which, like Nemesis, with us stays
On rainy days!

—Constitution.

He Put it Frankly.

"I've got a quarter here," said the red nosed wanderer, "and I calculate to git me dinner with it."

"What's that to me?" asked the citizen whom he had stopped on the street

"Jist this. I'm goin to git a regular meal-table dole, see—and I thought that may be if you would lend me a dime to git a drink I could git a good enough appetite to eat my money's worth."—Indianapolis Journal.
