EASTERN NORTH CAROLINA

Has Advantages Over All Other Farming Sections.

BY O. L. JOYNER.

During the last two or three months there have been quite a number of strangers to our town and it has been our pleasure to talk with a good many of them. Almost without exception they have marveled at the superior quality of our bright tobacco. Until very recently, and in fact now there are a great many people that think the chief products of the eastern section of our State are tar, pitch, turpentine and a little cotton, while the bright tobacco belt of the State has been heralded to the world as lying in that section which is traversed by the Sea Board Air Line railroad, when in point of fact the best bright tobacco producing belt in the world to-day lies along the Atlantic Coast Line system of eastern North Carolina. These people that have passed through here from the North say the farmers of eastern North Carolina have a mint almost in the proper production of bright tobacco and yet the most of our people think, and they do, have a hard time making anything out of tobacco. If our farmers could take a prospective trip through the agricultural fields of New England and note the extreme advantages under which the people up there have to labor in comparison with the many advantages that the people of the South and especially eastern North Carolina have, it would be an incentive to our people to come back home and live more contented and utilize our opportunities in a more profitable way. We are fully aware of the fact that agricultural products of all kinds have depreciated in value at an amazing ratio during the last few years and we know, too, that for the amount of labor expended there is less pay in farming than almost anything a man can engage in, because the farmer's taper has been burning at both ends, for while over production has been working its serious injury to almost all our products the passage of laws by our national Congress inimicable to the farmer's interests has also played sad havoc in many instances. Yet under these circumstances purely as a matter of business our farmers should take advantage of all influences that are to their interest and make the best of the circumstances under which we live and which we cannot avoid. In other words farming should be conducted up on as high a plain of business as the mercantile or any other profession. The successful business management of a farm requires more careful judgment and the exercise of more hard down common sense than any other profession in which man can engage, and it is an account of the lack of this that the profession has been dragged down to its present standard. And then, too, business failures in other professions are dumped generally into the agricultural the last on earth to which they should go, and as a matter of fact having been failures at everything else they make an ignominious one here.

Our purpose when we started to write this article was to show to our readers the superior advantages that we possess as on agricultural people in the eyes of strangers who come among us, and that while we are to-day not getting as much for the fruits of our labor as we are justly entitled to, yet after all we are a great deal better off than many of our less fortunate friends in the bleak and rigid States of the North and West, where on account of climatic conditions it is almost impossible to get in more than eight months work in the year. Down here in eastern North Carolina we have a mild, genial climate that is not so bitterly cold in winter that outdoor work cannot be done the year around. Here on the average land we can grow almost every variety of crop at about half the expense that the same would cost in the Northern States, and while in many instances our lands have run down yet under skillful management in a short while their fertility can be replaced. And last, but by no means least, we have with us the native born Southern negro, the best laborer by far of any other in the world, when properly treated, to help us in our agricultural pursuits. With these advantages that we possess, under prudent business management does it not seem that we should get the full benefit of the opportunity that is presented.

AROUND THE TRACK.

Exciting Races for the Second Day.

If anything the races for Thursday were even more interesting and exciting than the day before. There were two races to the finish, and another through the fourth heat.

The first race was in the 2:50 class for a purse of $200 divided as follows: Winner, $100; 2nd, $50; 3rd, $30; 4th, $20.

The horses came in in the following order on the different heats:

1st Heat—Cantbale, (Hackburn & Willet, Newbern) Allie Mansfield, (M. H. White, Hertford) Elise, (Smith & Hooker, Greenville) Cadet, (Scotland Neck Breeding Farm) Time 2:49½.

2nd Heat—Cantbale, Elise, Cadet, Allie Mansfield. Time 2:40.

3rd Heat—Cantbale, Elise, Cadet, Allie Mansfield. Time 2:39½.

Winner, Cantbale; 2nd, Elise; 3rd, Allie Mansfield; 4th, Cadet.

SECOND RACE—2:40 CLASS.

Purse $250, divided as follows: Winner, $125; 2nd, $60; 3rd, $40; 4th, $25.

1st Heat—Little Steve, (W. M. Ellis, Newbern) Mamie Wells, (Hackburn & Willett, Newbern) King Allie (M. H. White, Hertford) Lillian D., (G. J. Studdert, Greenville). Time 2:39½.

2nd Heat—Little Steve, Mamie Wells, King Allie, Lillian D., Time 2:40.

3rd Heat—Little Steve, Mamie Wells, Lillian D., King Allie. Time 2:39½.

Winner, Little Steve; 2nd, Mamie Wells; 3rd, King Allie; 4th, Lillian D.

THIRD RACE—MATCH.

The free-for-all race not being made up, the two day's series of races was to close with a match race for a $100 purse between Prince Albert (J. W. Stewart, Newbern) and Julian May (M. H. White, Hertford). Both being fine trotters there was much interest in the race from the very start. Every heat was exciting and very close.

In the first Julian May came in ahead in 2:25½, and again in the second in 2:26. Fortune then turned the other way and Prince Albert won the third and fourth heats in 2:29 each. By this time it was so dark the horses could not be seen around the track and the final heat was postponed to 9 o'clock this morning.

During the night there was much speculation as to which horse would win, and a large crowd was on hand at the appointed hour to witness the final heat. It was won by Julian May by less than half length in 2:28. Every one present at the different heats declare that they never witnessed a finer race.

All the races of the entire series were good and reflect credit upon the Association.

BOYS' CLOTHING.

"A Mrs. Hopkins Boy."

Why do makers who produce inferior Clothing so often choose the Boys for victims? They must think the mothers can't tell.

But it gives us a brilliant chance,—we find they can discriminate. "Money back if you want it" doesn't go with poor Clothing. Spring Suits are here,—everything that's handsome and right. Bring the lad to-day and to-morrow and examine the gay and jaunty styles. Don't forget that we lead in Gentlemen Clothing and can suit you every time.

SUCCESS.

WHAT A PLEASANT SENSATION!

Do you wonder that we feel we have succeeded somewhat, when we see the ladies throw up their hands and exclaim "My, My! How pretty, how pretty!" And the same of the exquisite styles in Black Dress Goods—Mohairs, Crepons, &c., in the handsones designs ever known before. We can only suggest to you now that in wash goods, such as Percales, Ducks, Dimities, Organdies, &c., we are not behind. See us and you will not leave without purchasing. We can suit all in Clothing, a new, neat line to select from.

FRIDAY, APRIL 17TH, 1896.

It is very rare to find ground which produces nothing; if it is not covered with flowers, with fruit trees, or grain, it produces briars and weeds. It is the same with the man; if he is not virtuous, he is likely to become vicious.

The Food for the Orphans.

Bro. Jacobs says twelve barrels of flour are required every month to feed the large family at the Thornwell Orphanage. That sounds like a "whole heap" of flour, but our baker tells us that he knocks the heads out of twenty-four barrels of flour every month for our big family.

The superintendent says "give all plenty to eat" and we believe they have it.—Oxford Orphan's Friend.

A Warning to Piano and Violin Playing Girls.

A French scientist of note maintains that a large number of the nervous maladies from which girls suffer are to be attributed to playing the piano. He shows by statistics that of one thousand girls who study this instrument before the age of twelve no less than six hundred suffer from nervous disorders, while of those who do not begin till later there are only two hundred per one thousand, and only one hundred per thousand among those who have never worked at it. The violin, he says, is equally injurious. As a remedy he suggests that children should not be permitted to study either instrument before the age of sixteen, at least, and in the case of those possessing delicate constitutions not till a still later age.—Boston Cultivator.

Pearls of Thought.

One cannot live on air bubbles of sentiment.

No matter what a man does, he should, at least, be consistent.

On the verge of a decision we all tremble—hope pauses, with fluttering wings.

Woman's genius, if great and true, equals and often surpasses that of the most gifted man.

When one is attempting noble things, it is surely noble to suffer whatever it may befall us to suffer.

There are some griefs that can follow and persecute to the very death even Croesus among his bags of bullion.

Remembrance is very bitter, and useless as well; to play one's part out bravely in the world, it is necessary to have no memory.

Men never fall in love at first with a woman's mind. They may learn to admire the mind afterward, if it is worth admiration, but it is a secondary thing.

What a false world we live in—how full of the most gracefully performed lying! The pity of it is that when truth is spoken no one can be got to believe it.

There are two things, each of which he will seldom fail to discover who seeks for it in earnest: the knowledge of what he ought to do, and a plausible pretext to do what he likes.

Everybody is making mistakes. Everybody is finding out afterward that he has made a mistake. But there can be no greater mistake than the stopping to worry over a mistake already made.

Having made up your mind that trying to be happy is as silly as chasing fireflies in summer to furnish you with fire in winter, the next thing is to save your money and you will become known as a sensible man.

If a singular antipathy seizes you for a particular friend at first sight, no matter how foolish it may seem, you may be almost sure that there is something in your two natures that is destined to remain in constant opposition.

It's a deep mystery—the way the heart of a man turns to one woman out of all he has seen in the world, and makes it easier for him to work seven years for her, like Jacob did for Rachel sooner than have any other woman for the asking.

HOW SHE HATED HIM.

The young man made up his mind that he was not going to have any more nonsense from that girl. It was late. He had stayed the other man out, and now she looked right at him and said:

"You have stayed long enough. You can just go home."

He was between her and the door, anyhow, and he looked very black and said he wouldn't.

"Then I will leave you," she retorted. "Good night."

He caught her wrist and exclaimed:

"No; you stay here."

It was a slender wrist, but she shook it vigorously, saying:

"Aren't you ashamed of yourself, you big, ugly fellow? Let go."

"I'm not ready for you to go."

He looked very black and ugly. The girl's red mouth set itself angrily.

"I don't want to stay."

"You will have to."

"I hate you."

"You can stay till you get over it."

"O-o-o you ugly thing!"

They were quiet some time, she snapped her angry eyes at him, he stolid and sullen. Presently she whispered, "You hurt me."

"You have hurt me," he returned.

"Let go!"

"No."

Then she got angry again and presently pouted: "Oh, you can let go; you think I will run, but I won't. I don't want to stay, and you make me against my will, but you needn't hold me, you big, ugly thing."

He thought a moment, then he let go, watching her narrowly. She sat quite still, scowling furiously with her pretty brow tied in knots and her mouth one angry pout. Presently she said, "May I go now?"

"No."

"When may I go?"

"I don't know."

"I hate you."

"I love you."

"O-o-o-ugh!"

He began to feel that he couldn't keep it up much longer. She was so adorable and spunky. She needed the lesson, of course. It was time she learned to be respectful to the man whose engagement ring she wore, and he meant to teach her right there. He got up and put his hands on her shoulders held her stubborn little face in place, and kissed her. She squirmed fiercely and in an enraged whisper protested: "It's all very well to be kissed, but not because one has to. How I just wish I was big enough to pound you! How dare you make me do anything? O-o-o-ugh! I hate you!"

He went right on kissing her, but her little face was tied up into such a tangle of rage and her pink fists were doubled up so fiercely that he bethought him that he might be going too far. He dropped his hands and, without a word, turned into the hall, picked up his hat and laid his hand on the door-knob. There was a rustle of crisp muslin beside him and a plaintive little voice said:

"Oh, dear! Are you going, and not kiss me? How cruel!"

"I thought—" but she interrupted:

"Oh, yes; but you aren't making me now!"

Too Gallant.

"Yes, I told him that it was said that kisses were much sweeter in the dark—"

"And he turned down the gas?"

"The idiot did nothing of the kind. He just sat there like a stick and said that if a girl were as handsome as I, he thought darkness would detract from the pleasantness of the occasion. It was a very nice compliment, but there is time to speak and to act."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"Why don't you call me a donkey and have done with it? You've hinted at it long enough," he snarled out.

"It wouldn't be quite true," she replied.

"I suppose not. I suppose I haven't ears enough for that animal," he retorted sarcastically.

"Oh, yes, you have," she returned sweetly. "You don't need any more ears."

"What do I need, then?"

"More legs and a better voice."—Philadelphia Life.

Even More Wonderful.

"When you come to think of it it is wonderful how many men have achieved distinction in youth," said the man with the magazine.

"Possibly, possibly," replied the man with the newspaper, "but I run across things every day that are more wonderful than that."

"Such as what?"

"Well, the number of young men who haven't achieved distinction, but who think they have."

And the man with the magazine was convinced.—Chicago Post.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

—The Schenectady Locomotive works are using for certain parts what is called "steeled iron," a mixture of 70 per cent. good iron and 30 per cent. steel, of which the castings obtained are about 25 per cent. greater in strength than common cast iron.

—North Carolina has a mica output of 100,000 pounds a year. New Hampshire produces about 25,000 pounds, South Dakota 18,000 pounds and New Mexico 1,000 pounds. The mica of North Carolina is of the best quality and brings the highest price.

—Our exports of iron and steel and their products for the first nine months of this year amounted in value to about $32,000,000, the largest by over $4,000,000 in the history of the country. Included in this sum were 135 locomotives, which were mostly sent to South America.

—The world's record for lumber cutting is claimed for the Port Blakely mill of Port Blakely, Wash. During the ten months of this year up to the end of October 83,676,212 feet of lumber had been cut at this one mill, and it is estimated that the total output for 1895 will be at least 105,000,000 feet. Loaded in regular car lots, this amount would make a train more than 60 miles long.

—An apostle of physical culture, according to the Medical Record, says that nervous headache may be cured by the simple act of walking backward for ten minutes. "It is well to get in a long, narrow room, where the windows are high, and walk very slowly, placing first the ball of the foot on the floor, and then the heel. Besides curing the headache, this exercise promotes a graceful carriage."

—The large part played by alcohol as a cause contributing to insanity receives fresh confirmation in the 40th report of the commissioners in lunacy," says the British Medical Journal. "For the five years ending 1893 alcoholism was the predisposing or exciting cause in 20.8 per cent. of male and 9.1 per cent. of female lunacy. Intemperance is credited with 25.6 per cent. of male and 10.9 per cent. of female general paralytics."

DEER HUNTING BY LOCOMOTIVE

The Reason Some Adirondacks Railroad Men Didn't Feast on Venison.

Once in awhile the engineer of a train on Dr. Seward Webb's Adirondack railroad has a race with a deer. Sometimes it happens that the frightened deer won't leave the track and is killed. One night in September, when Pat Cummings was pulling the through train down to Utica, he walked back to Conductor Clarke, while his fireman was taking water at Nehosene, and said:

"Bill, I killed a deer back there by the river. It was a fine big buck. He run ahead of me for a long piece, and I could see him plain. When I hit him he went up over the pilot higher'n he ever jumped before in his life, I bet. He landed just out there in the ditch, and I had a notion to stop and get him, but I was afraid you'd kick."

"I wish you had stopped," said Clarke. "The next time you catch a deer that way you stop. It won't take so long to get him, and we can easily make up the time. Deer meat is too scarce and too high to let it go like that."

Cummings said he surely would stop the next time, and Clarke got the agent to telegraph to the agent at Horseshoe to send the section men down to the river with their hand car to get the deer. It was after 11 o'clock, but the section men started out, and after a smart pull got down to the river. They looked a long time, but could find no deer. Up and down the track they went, and at last were just about to give up in disgust when one of the men found it. It lay out on the bank of the ditch beside the track. It was a fine large yellow dog.

Now if you ask Pat Cummings if he has killed a deer lately you want to be ready to dodge, and dodge mighty quick, for Pat is a husky citizen.—N. Y. Sun.

Waste of Happiness.

There is nothing which we waste more than happiness. Even those who are thrifty and prudent in other directions are prodigal here. They stint and plan to save a halfpenny, but they are often indifferent about the loss of days of happiness. We do not enjoy our friends until they die or we lose them in some other way. The early spring and summer days pass without our realizing their beauty. We rush through a holiday trip and miss half the scenery, because we are in a hurry, or cross or anxious about worthless trifles. Nearly every old or even middle-aged man who looks back honestly on his life will admit that, however wretched he may be now, opportunities of happiness were given to him. A French writer recorded what most of us know from experience to be true when he said that many people could be made happy with the happiness which is lost in the world. We lose happiness because we often scorn calm, quiet pleasures, and seek only for those that excite. Or we make the mistake of thinking that happiness lies only in big sensational events instead of in the small, trifling incidents of daily life. Or we seek for it in the future rather than in the present, which is like a man looking for his hat when it is all the time upon his head.—Home Queen.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

—The tea plant is said by Chinese writers to have been cultivated in that country from at least 3000 B. C.

—As wood is largely wanting in Australian gold fields several steamships are now engaged in carrying timber from the Pacific coast for use in Australian mines. The steamships carry from 2,000,000 to 2,500,000 feet each. The wood is California pine or fir.

—Though Ireland has 3,000,000 acres of bog land, large quantities of peat litter are imported from Belgium and Holland. Mills are being fitted up to separate the litter from the turf, and it is hoped that peat moss litter may soon be an article of export.

—After two seasons of failure Oregon has an abundant crop of tomatoes. There are oceans of them, and fine ones, according to the Portland Oregonian. One factory alone is using four to five tons per day, which are bought for $10 per ton, and are made into catsup.

—A correspondent of an English party says: "I sent you on September 20 a white turnip which I pulled from a large field near Burnmoor. About one-half of the field is white turnips and the other half swedes; the whole of the whites are swarming with green fly and rotting away, while the swedes are quite healthy."

—The hygienic value of soap is hardly realized by the general public. Recent experiments have shown that a solution of soap will kill typhoid or cholera microbes. A one per cent. solution will do so in 12 hours, while a seven or ten per cent. solution will do it in a few minutes. This is about the simplest and most reliable means of disinfecting that we have at our disposal.

—Geological conditions have changed a great deal since the Cambrian age. The continents then were much smaller and the ocean much larger, while being shallower. The greater part of North America was submerged in Cambrian times. Cambrian rocks, though covered by later deposits in most places, are exposed in a few others, chiefly on mountain peaks in America, Asia and Australia.

—In cultivating strawberries under glass of various colors Prof. Zacharewicz, of Vauluse, France, has obtained the following results: Ordinary clear glass gave the best and earliest fruit; orange glass increased the vegetation, but injured the quality, size and earliness of the fruit; violet glass increased the yield, at the expense of the quality; red, blue and green glass were hurtful to all kinds of vegetation.

The Old Man's Joke.
"Jane," said her father, "I thought you hated stingy people, and yet your young man—"
"Why, pa, who says he is stingy?"
"Oh, nobody says so; only I could see that he was a little 'near' as I passed through the room." — Boston Transcript.

ANOTHER GERMAN.
That Proves very Delightful.

Another delightful German was had, under the auspices of the D. G. S. Co-lillion Club, at Germania Hall, Thursday evening, complimentary to the visiting ladies. It was not as largely attended as the one on the previous evening, but very enjoyable. Music was furnished by the Italian band.

The German was led by Miss Lillian Dillon and W. B. James. The following couples participated:

Miss Dora Carr with Bruce Cotton.
Miss Sallie Cotton with L. I. Moore.
Miss Annie Foley with C. S. Forbes.

Another Double Chicken
Mr. J. W. Smith, Superintendent of the County Home, tells us a chicken was hatched in his neighborhood, a few days ago, that is decidedly out of the ordinary. This particular chick had four feet, four wings, two necks, but only one head. It was amply prepared to do its own scratching and flying.

Farm Work Advanced.
Mr. W. R. Whichard, of Whichard, while in town to-day told us he had finished planting his cotton. He also said that farmers in his section are well advanced with their work and lands are in as good condition as he ever saw for the time of year. When asked about the fruit prospects he said he thinks peaches and pears were both injured by the recent cold weather.
