NAMING THE BABY.

They talked of Medora, Aurora, and Flora, Of Mabel and Marcia and Mildred and May; Debated the question of Helen, Honora, Clarissa, Camilla and Phyllis and Fay.

They thought of Marcella, Estella, and Bella: Considered Cecilla, Jeannette and Pauline Alicia, Adela, Annette, Arbella, And Ethel and Eunice, Hortense and Irene. One liked Theodora, another Lenora; Some argued for Edith, and some for Elaine, For Madeline, Adeline, Lilly and Lora; And then, after all, they decided on Jane.

FOURTH OF JULY.

Big Day in Greenville—Tremendous Crowd Here.

Another 4th of July has come and gone, and it proved to be a big day in Greenville, not so much over what was done but in the crowd it brought to town. People began coming in early in the day, and they just kept coming until the crowd was immense. All day long Main street was so packed with people that pedestrians found difficulty in getting along on the sidewalks. The colored citizen was much in evidence, places, where red lemonade, candy and fruits were sold being the centers of attraction for this class.

For the white people the races were the chief event of the day, and about a thousand of them went out to the Greenville Driving Association's track to witness the trials of speed.

The first race was in the 3 minute class. In this there were three entries: Dictate, by A. J. Baker, Red Cross, by J. B. Tripp, and Harold, by S. T. White. Dictate won in three straight heats, Red Cross coming second. Harold was distanced.

The second was a bicycle race between Cherry, of Bethel, Haddock, of Centreville and Susman, of Washington. Cherry was an easy winner, coming in first on every round with Haddock second.

The next was a buggy race between Ida K., by Joe Parker, Kibo Wilks, by W. L. Cobb and Maud M., by Joe McLawhorn. Ida K. had a walkover in this race, both the other horses being distanced.

The fourth and last race was free for all, but only two horses entered. These were Iza B., by Ben Shelton and Lucy Ashby, by Smith & Hooker, the former coming in winner. The best time made on any heat was in this race, Iza B. making it in 2.26 1/4.

Down town there was a little fighting and more drinking than usual. Seven gentlemen of color found quarters in the guard house, and when Mayor Forbes finished calling the roll of offenders he had added about $50 to the town treasury.

HOW CONTRACTS ARE MADE.

MR. EDITOR.—The remarks made by you sometime ago about mail contracts is why I write this. When the contract was advertised for bids from here to Farmville, some bids went from here at about $300 per annum but a contractor in Tennessee bid $121 and got it. Everybody thought well surely he will have to carry it, knowing $250 would be about what a man could live at. But he came here and sub-let it at $120, about what it will cost to feed a horse if corn and hay stay at present prices. The man who took the contract from here to Tarboro on the south side of the river is down here trying to find another sub who calculates like the Tennessean. He is offering from $400 to $600, when $800 is the lowest price that it was ever contracted for, and the men who have had it at that say they have lost on it and don't try to get it any more, as it is a horse killing route. Dor.

MRS. CLARK'S WILL.

W. B. Whichard Qualifies as Executor.

The last will and testament of Mrs. A. M. Clark, deceased, has been deposited with the Superior Court Clerk for probate and registration. The will is quite a long document, covering six pages of legal cap paper, and the following condensed extracts are taken from it for publication:

Item one lends to her niece, Susan E. Poole, during her natural lifetime, all furniture in parlor except piano and stool, all furniture in room occupied as a bedroom, and cast iron yard vases. After death of Mrs. Poole all said furniture and vases to be divided between her two daughters, Mary Louallie Pool and Susan S. Poole.

Item 2 gives to J. G. Staten a gold watch and chain and a gold fob chain.

Item 3 gives to Mary Louallie Poole a solid silver tea set, silver dinner castor, set of decorated china used with silver service, silver soup ladle and a large plated waiter.

Item 4 gives to Susan S. Poole a pure diamond brooch, silver water pitcher and two goblets, one dozen dinner and desert spoons, one and a half dozen tea spoons, one sugar spoon, one sauce ladle, and one mug, all silver, also two plated salt cellars and spoons.

Item 5 gives to Lina Sheppard the piano and stool, one large iron frame sole leather trunk and $300 in money.

Item 6 gives to Estelle Sheppard, Bettie Ragsdale and Henrietta Whichard all household and kitchen furniture not otherwise disposed of, also all property in outhouses or lying loose about the premises to be equally divided between them, and $100 in money to each.

Item 7 directs that the Executor sell all real estate within twelve months, collect all debts due the estate, and out of the funds arising therefrom he shall pay, first, the cost of proving will and qualifying as Executor; second, funeral and burial expenses; third, all just debts; fourth, $100 to Greenville Baptist church; fifth, the special legacies made, and the balance of the funds to be equally divided between Mary Louallie Poole, Susan S. Poole, James G. Staten, Louisa B. Staten and Ella Staten, or so many of them as may be living at time of her death. John D. Biggs, of Williamston, was appointed guardian for these heirs, and in case he refuses to act the will directed that the Clerk of the Court appoint some suitable man who is disinterested and unconnected to herself or them, as she did not want a near kinsman or near connection to act as her executor or their guardian.

The Executor was also directed to mark her grave with a tasty and appropriate monument of white Italian marble at cost not to exceed $200.

Willis R. Whichard was named as Executor of the will, he to give bond before taking charge of the estate. He qualified before the Superior Court Clerk to-day.

The will was dated April 23rd, 1886, with J. R. Rieves and W. H. Rieves as subscribing witnesses.

Mrs. Clark's estate was valued at $12,500 exclusive of household and kitchen furniture, silverware jewelry and china.

His Revenge.

A dandy went to a photographer to get his picture taken. When the job was done he refused to pay on the ground that the picture did not look like him and he left the establishment. Next morning he passed by the place, and saw his picture hanging in the show case, and under it were the startling words, in big letters.

"The biggest fool in the whole town." He rushed into the shop and abused the photographer.

"But my dear sir," said the latter, "since the picture doesn't resemble you, what in the world are you complaining about?"

BUSY VESUVIUS.

Showers of Lava Are Increasing the Mountain's Height.

Year after year and century after century Vesuvius puffs away. The first recorded eruption of Vesuvius was in 79 A. D., when Pompeii and Herculaneum were overwhelmed. Between the first and sixth centuries nine eruptions are recorded, and since that epoch there have been 48 great ones.

The last destructive eruption was on April 26, 1872, when about 50 sightseers were killed and more than 40,000 people fled from Naples. Of the present condition of the ominous monster the Paris Herald says: Vesuvius is 150 feet higher than it was nine months ago. The constant showers of porous lava have filled in one side of the old hollow crater and have built up the new cone, which, from its bold outlines, has greatly changed the appearance of the summit and is still changing it slightly every day.

A year ago visitors looked into the hollow of the old and somewhat cooled off crater. Of late they have gone inside the boundaries of the old crater to get a good look at the new cone, from the summit of which, at intervals of a few minutes, there is a gust of steam, laden with red hot ashes, which are sent into the air 200 feet or more. Before the steam has drifted away there is another rumble, a sound of watery explosion, and another shower of ashes. Thus from a distance in the daytime there seems to be a constant curl of white vapor from the summit, but at night each separate eruption throws up a vivid light, which then fades away in a dull glow.

The natives who live on the slope of the mountain say that after the new cone has been built somewhat higher it will fall in of its own weight and close the present breathing hole. Then the mountain will be like a corked up bottle. A new vent will have to be made, and in the making of this vent there will be a fierce eruption, an overflow of lava and the formation of a new crater.

There was, indeed, a general belief that the renewed and growing activity of the volcano would lead to some sort of eruption, but it was hoped that it would be nothing more serious than a flow of lava down over the old and hardened beds. The last outbreak and the flow toward Resina, in the direction of the buried city of Herculaneum, was, therefore, not unexpected.

The large cone is simply a heap of cinders dignified by size. The ride to the foot of the cone consumes five hours, but it requires only ten minutes to reach the top of the funicular railway. Then there is a walk of ten minutes up the jagged edges of the huge crater to the bowl, and in this is the little cone thrown up by the recent eruptions.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Vogt and Huxley.

Like Huxley, his English prototype, Vogt was also an admirable lecturer. Vogt never allowed the opportunity of a pun to escape him, and his bon mots were at times hardly more elegant than they were appropriate, but, for all that, he was very popular, and equally so with the few women students of his class as with the men. He spoke in French with a decided German intonation, frequently relieving himself of a sigh brought about by an uncomfortably asthmatic condition. His powerful bodily frame, disproportionately shortened through a generous development of tissue about the equatorial region, was in marked contrast to the tall and nearly upright carriage of Professor Huxley, whose slightly stooping head and shoulders reduced somewhat what might otherwise have been considered a more than average height. Huxley never entered the class lecture room except in a dress in which he was immediately prepared to go to the street; Vogt rarely appeared without a coat which did not in one or more places show visible signs of underlying shirt sleeves.—Popular Science Monthly.
