JOHN W. DANIEL.

Temporary Chairman, of the National Convention.

(Special to Daily Reflector.)

CHICAGO, ILL., July 7.—The National Committee by a vote of 27 to 23 named D. B. Hill, of New York, for temporary chairman of the Democratic National Convention. The minority report substituted the name of John W. Daniel, of Virginia, in place of Hill. The roll of States was called resulting in Daniels 552, Hill 343.

NATIONAL CONVENTION.

Senator White of California, Permanent Chairman.

The bulletins received from the National convention to-day have been very meager.

CHICAGO, ILL. July 8, 1896.—Only about one-third of the delegates were present when the convention assembled at 10:30, but they came in rapidly.

Senator White, of California, was made permanent chairman of the convention.

Soon after the convention was called to order the committee on credentials was called to meet in committee room immediately.

The Bland club entered and loud cheering.

Gov. Hogg, of Texas, was requested to address the convention and took the platform amid cheers and the band played "Dixie."

Boise was called on for an address, the call being attended by loud cheers and confusion, but he was not present.

Hill was next called for, the confusion increasing, but he was not in the hall.

Altgeld was called for but did not respond at first. Loud cries were repeated for him, and as he arose and proceeded to the platform he was given a great reception. In the course of his speech Altgeld said that nearly everything was under mortgage, from our farms to the sewing machines of the seamstress, and all paying interest on English money, and the action of this convention was expected to change such a condition of affairs. He pointed out that the gold standard had lowered prices of farm products while the farmer has been compelled to pay more for what he had to buy. (Loud applause.)

Williams said the convention was in no wise sectional, that the New England representatives had as much at stake as those from the West and South, and he spoke for five millions spindles now silent. He pleaded for harmony and doing away with sectionalism.

There were calls for Tillman but he did not respond and the convention adjourned till 5 o'clock, at which time the committee on platform are expected to report.

Her Reason.

The young man picked up his hat and looked sadly at the lining.

"There is no hope for me?" he asked faintly.

"None whatever," replied the beautiful girl, her eyes filled with compassion.

When he reached the door he turned toward her again.

"I have to thank you for one thing," he said, bitterly.

"What is that?" she inquired.

"You have not told me that you would be a sister to me."

"I thought of that," she rejoined, hurriedly; "but I suddenly remembered."

"What?" he asked shortly, as she stopped.

"That I promised this morning, to marry your father."—Brooklyn Lite.

Bethel Items.

BETHEL, N. C. July 7th, 1896.—Miss Lizzie Mayo is teaching the public school District No. 85, at Pleasant Grove on mile from town.

Miss C'ena Cherry is spending a few weeks at Asheville.

J. L. Britton, of Houston, Texas, is visiting his parents and relatives here.

Harvey James, son of W. A. James' of Asheville, is visiting his grandfather, Alfred James.

Mrs. J. C. Wyan and Thos. Britton, of Rocky Mount, spent last week here with their parents Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Britton.

Robert Staton, T. T. Cherry, M. C. S. Cherry, W. J. Whitehurst and John D. Blount went to Washington yesterday. Our bicyclists wanted to participate in the race that was to have taken place but no one would run against them.

Rev. J. W. Powell filled his pulpit in the Baptist church last Sunday morning and night.

Lodge Property—J. L. Sugg, F. C. Harding, J. E. Starkey.

They Got the News.

The great convenience of the telephone exchange was exemplified Tuesday evening. THE DAILY REFLECTOR received a special from Chicago containing particulars of the temporary organization of the National Convention, which came just after the paper had been sent out, but by means of the telephones the news was given to people in various parts of the town in a few minutes.

New School District.

The Board of County Commissioners have divided white school district No. 75, in Contentnea township, making a new district out of a portion of it with the railroad the dividing line. The west side of the railroad will be continued as No. 75 with the same committeemen as heretofore, while the east side will hereafter be known as No. 96, with G. W. Parker, C. O. Brown and James Harrington committeemen.

Storms and Floods.

Last night Postmaster G. B. King received a telegram from the Weather Bureau saying that during the twenty-four hours following heavy rains would fall, causing considerable rise in rivers in the eastern part of the State and flooding the lowlands.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR also received a telegram saying a storm on east gulf coast would probably move across south Atlantic States, probably causing rains and high winds in Carolina, followed by rapid rise in rivers.

WEEKLY CROP BULLETIN.

The reports of correspondents of the Weekly Crop Bulletin, issued by the North Carolina Climate and Crop Service, for the week ending Saturday, July 4th, 1896, indicate generally a very favorable week. The temperature was slightly above the normal, the precipitation below, with good seasons everywhere, and too much rain in only a few sections. There was more sunshine than for several preceding weeks.

Special reports on cotton indicate an exceptionally favorable outlook for that crop. It is considerably in advance of the season, blooming freely and fruiting well, is large and thrifty, and reports of yellowing and shedding squares come from very few sections.

EASTERN DISTRICT.

The past week has been generally very favorable for the growth of all crops and especially for farm work. The weather was comparatively dry and warm, with abundant sunshine, and sufficient rain in most sections for all requirements. Too much rain occurred only in portions of Gates county, Beaufort, Pasquotank, Northampton, Pamlico and Pitt. Some slight local damage was caused by severe thunder-storms. Crops of all kinds are in excellent condition, except in the northern tier of counties, where there was too much rain. Crops are coming out much better than anticipated in the hail districts. Corn is exceptionally fine, about all worked for last time. Some complaints of tasselling low on poor lands. Cotton is doing nicely, good stand and now tolerable clean. A fine crop, considerably in advance of season, blooming generally and full of young bolls. Forming too much weed in some sections. The crop will be laid by soon. Pea-nuts, potatoes, peas, etc., are doing well. Grapes fine. Watermelons coming into market.

CENTRAL DISTRICT.

With rather more diversified conditions in this district than in others, the past week was generally fine, comparatively dry and warm, good for farm work and growing crops, though the heat was slightly injurious where there had been too much rain previously. Good seasons occurred, and too much rain only in portions of Stokes and limited sections elsewhere. Farmers have succeeded in cleaning most crops of grass. Corn has grown well, but chinch bugs are still doing some damage. Local injury occurred to lowland corn by water. Cotton is larger than usual for July 1st, blooming freely and fruiting well; will soon be laid by. Crop is reported poor in portions of Johnston, Anson and few other counties, where it is yellowing and shedded forms. Tobacco being topped; some correspondents say it is growing too narrow.

WESTERN DISTRICT.

There were good showers throughout the district. Excessive rain-fall is reported from three places; all others report fine growing weather. The week was warm, with about the average amount of sunshine. Reports on cotton are almost unanimous in saying that the crop is unusually promising, blooming nicely, and generally full of squares. Lice, which were attacking cotton badly in some places, have about disappeared. Corn is generally reported excellent, some being laid by. The season has also been favorable for tobacco, potatoes and garden crops. Hay is being cut, but meadows are reported short.

TEMPERANCE DEPARTMENT.

WHAT I HAVE LEARNED ABOUT THE WORLD'S PETITION.

BY HELEN SEANER.

The plan of the World's Petition was thought out by Miss Frances E. Willard. The idea of it is to get as many singers as possible and present it to the different governments of the world to induce them to abolish the liquor traffic and the opium trade. Mrs. Mary Clement Leavitt, our first round-the-world missionary, was also the first one to circulate the Petition.

She started from her home in 1883, and was absent nine years. In that time she traveled to nearly every government of the world. Mrs. R. C. Shuman was the one who made the Petition and she started it in 1890. It took about eight hours of her time every day for two years. It was made of white cloth and bound with red ribbon on one side and blue on the other, making the three colors of our national flag. The cloth is 2,000 yards long and the ribbon is over 4,000 yards long without counting what it took to make three rolls from England. The ribbon Mrs. Shuman sewed on all by hand. The names are pasted to the cloth three columns across. There are 1,000,121 actual signatures, 6,000,000 attestations and 1,000,000 men have indorsed it. There are 150,000,000 in all who have indorsed it. The Salvation Army is recorded 50,000 strong and the United Society of Christian Endeavor have increased the list by 2,000,000. Over a thousand churches signed and there are eighty thousand in rising votes.

The names of dignitaries, men in authority and such like are in one roll. Neal Dow's name heads the list, and just below it is the name of Joseph Cook.

In one of the letters Mrs. Shuman received was a sentiment from a Texas woman, which I will quote: "What is done in this line must be done by woman—man is a failure—commence at the cradle." Mrs. Shuman says that when she was making the Petition she felt as though she was weaving together the groans of the dying and the tears of the saints. Miss Willard had an interview with President Cleveland one day, and Mrs. Hoffman and some other ladies, including the president of the Washington W. C. T. U., went with her. Miss Willard told the President about the Petition, after which Mrs. Hoffman read the document. Cleveland made a speech and did not say anything to discourage the women. This petitioning is only a part of the work. The temperance work is going right on fast and I think we will soon have Prohibition.

The L. T. L. children are growing up and the liquor men will get fewer and fewer "as the days are going by." —The Union Signal.

The Southern Baptist Convention in session at Chattanooga, Tenn., after a spirited debate, passed a resolution on temperance introduced by Dr. J. B. Cranfill, of Texas, who was the Vice-Presidential candidate on the prohibition ticket in 1892.

A temporizing substitute was proposed, but was tabled, and Dr. Cranfill's resolution passed almost unanimously. The following is the resolution:

Resolved, That we, the members of the Southern Baptist Convention, reassert our truceless and uncompromising hostility to the manufacture, sale, importation and transportation of alcoholic beverages in any and all their forms. We regard the policy of issuing government licenses for the purpose of carrying on the liquor traffic as a sin against God and a dishonor to our people. We furthermore announce it as our conviction that we should by all legitimate means oppose the liquor traffic in municipal, county, State and nation.

"Furthermore we announce it as the sense of this body that no person should be retained in the fellowship of the Baptist Church who engages in the manufacture or sale of alcoholic liquors, either at wholesale or retail, who invests his money in the manufacture or sale of alcoholic liquors, or who rents his property to be used for distilleries, wholesale liquor houses or saloons. Nor do we believe that any church should retain in its fellowship any members who drink liquors as a beverage or visit saloons or drinking places for the purpose of said indulgence."

PROFITABLE PUBLICITY.

What the Public Wants.

BY NATH'L C. FOWLER, JR., DOCTOR OF PUBLICITY.

(Copyright, 1896, by Nath'l C. Fowler, Jr., Tribune Building, New York.)

Advertise the goods you sell, not the people who sell them.

If you are for sale, advertise yourself.

Your reputation is a part of your stock in trade, and it pays to allow advertising to assist in building up mercantile character, but the public cares more about what you have for sale, than they do about any other condition of your business.

Don't print your name in the largest type, and more conspicuously than the announcement of your goods.

Don't have your name appear at the top and bottom of the advertisement. Once is enough. Better have it at the bottom than at the top.

The top should be devoted to large type announcement of the goods you have for sale, or of expressions which will gain attention.

A great many merchants believe in having the firm name appear in a sort of trade mark type, something distinct and different from other type used, and this plan is to be recommended provided too much space is not given too it.

People will find you, if you properly announce something the people want, if your name is at the bottom in the smallest readable type.

Don't tell too much about your goods; leave something for the imagination.

Tell enough to command attention, and to excite curiosity and interest, that the reader will call at your store to further inspect the goods.

Advertising doesn't sell goods. Advertising makes it easier for you to sell goods.

It is the business of advertising to bring people to the store.

It is your business, with the assistance of your salesman, to consummate the trade.

The more people visiting your store, the more goods you will sell.

The more advertising you do, the more people you will have to do business with.

The best salesman can't sell anything unless he has some one to sell it to.

The best advertising is worthless unless there is some one to show the goods when the customer calls.

In the combination of good advertising and good salesman, is good business.

Butler Arrested in Wilmington.

Segator Butler spoke here at the Opera House last Friday night to about 250 people, most of whom were Democrats. To give a little pungency to the affair, a dash of claret, as it were to the Populistic lemonade, the Honorable Dary Ann was arrested in the street at the instance of Mr. W. E. Worth, for an old debt, due for ice two years ago. He had been repeatedly dunned for the money, but paid no attention to such vulgar things and as a consequence was warranted here for the debt.—Southport Leader.

American Soapstone.

In the Ragged Mountain in Albemarle county, Virginia, the scene of one of Poe's weird tales, exists a great deposit of soapstone which is said to be the finest in the world. It was discovered only about 12 years ago but now a small colony of people exists at the spot and three quarries have been opened. The stone, which is very hard, and finegrained, is cut out in blocks averaging 9 tons in weight, and afterwards sawed into slabs. It is employed, among other things, for tanks in chemical laboratories, tubs and sinks in laundries, linings for fireplaces, griddles, which need no greasing when made of soapstone, tables and fittings in hospitals in dissecting rooms. Acid is said to have no effect on the stone.

One of the old residents of a Massachusetts town deigns the younger generation with her stories of life in the town 70 years ago, when she was a little girl. Her father, with his wife and children, and his brother, with wife and children also, occupied a great farmhouse which is still in a state of excellent preservation in spite of its years of hard service.

"My father and my uncle had a 'common purse,' " said the old lady to a young visitor who was begging for reminiscences of that bygone time, "and all the family expenses were provided for from the funds it contained.

"There were 12 children in our part of the house and 13 in my uncle's, so that it took a good deal to provide us with food and clothing.

"My uncle had the reputation of being a little more prudent in money matters than was considered necessary by my father or any one acquainted with our affairs, so I have heard since. In those days the children of both families knew by instinct that my father was the person to whom an appeal for some desired bit of finery or what we called 'unnecessaries' had better be made. The common purse seemed to have greater powers of extension in his hands than in my uncle's.

"I well remember my pretty Cousin Myra dancing with delight when she was on the eve of her sixteenth birthday. 'I'm to have a piano after all, Jennie,' she cried, giving me a hug. 'Father was very doubtful about it, but Uncle Amos told me not to worry, for if father couldn't afford to give it to me he could.' "—Youth's Companion.

France and Fine Speeches.

When I read his (Gambetta's) fiery patriotic phrases, and when you tell us that he was avant tout un patriote, I think of Dr. Johnson's brusque saying, "Patriotism is the last refuge of a scoundrel." It is hard to practice the plain virtues, but not hard to se griser de mots about la patrie. What France wants is men with a passion for the plain virtues and capable of inspiring this passion in others. His intellectual qualities, his perception of the law of evolution in politics and his suppleness and adroitness in shaping his course accordingly are far more remarkable. * * * They seem to me Italian rather than French, but whencesoever they proceed they are not, although valuable, what France most needs and cannot supply the place of this.—Matthew Arnold.

This Most Extraordinary Country.

"How did this doosid place get its name?" asked the visiting Britisher. "The night it was named," explained the Oshkosh citizen, "they was a lot of fellers drinkin hot Scotch. Finally they got full an decided to name the town 'Hot Scotch,' but by that time they was so full that the highest they could come to it was 'Oshkosh,' an they let it go at that."

"Haw! 'Ow American!"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Every great man exhibits the talent of organization or construction, whether it be in a poem, a philosophical system, a policy or a strategy. And without method there is no organization nor construction.—Bulwer.

Col. Carr's Float Ruled Out.
With all the glory of the Richmond re-union there was an incident which decidedly marred the occasion. Those who went from North Carolina are indignant because Col. Julian S. Carr's beautiful and costly float was ruled out of the procession, for what reason it does not seem altogether clear, except that some exceptions were taken to some inscriptions on the float concerning the soldiers North Carolina furnished during the war. The result was that Col. Carr's float stood inanimate in capital square, while the rest of the grand pageant was passing in review. The North Carolinians who have been seen and expressed themselves are thoroughly disgusted at the proceeding. Col. Carr, with his usual patriotism, had prepared the float with great care and at great expense. So explanations, we think, will be in order.—Durham Sun.
