A SHEET OF PAPER.

A sheet of paper, pure and white,
Comes forth from out the mill,
In readiness for sale and use,
Its mission to fulfil!
What will that use or mission be?
And who will fill out its page?
Of what import shall its impress be?
And that for a day or an age?
Will its pen or print tell of noble deeds?
Or of ignominy and shame?
Will it tell of death and mourning
weeds?
Or of wreck by flood or flame?
Will it note the loss of friend by death?
Or of sad misfortune's frown?
Or yet, again, of treachery base?
Of hearts with grief bowed down?
Will it tell the tale of greed and wrong,
Or that of the good and right?
Of darkened days and dreary hours?
Or those of life and light?
Will it echo for good the pulpit's voice?
Of the teeming printing press?
And help to choose the better part,
Mankind and the world to bless?

A ministering spirit may this paper sheet
Be in dress of snowy white,
Bearing messages of good to man,
Each day, from morn till night,
Would that its wings might be the dove's,
Whose mission is that of peace,
Of good will from heaven to man below,
Of joys that ne'er may cease.

That its virgin surface may never be Marred by record of wrong or sin;
That its outer garb may well reflect
A mission for good within;
That the pen and ink, or printer's
hand,
Which colors its open page,
May minister only the pure and true,
In its impress from age to age.
—Clark W. Bryan, in Paper World.

GREENVILLE.

The Central and Natural Market for the Tobacco of Eastern North Carolina. Such is the Opinion of Those in High Positions to Know.

BY O. L. JOYNER.

A few days ago the writer was on a car between Goldsboro and Weldon.
Mr. J. T. Erwin, an old school mate and friend, was on his way home from Nashville, Tenn., where he has been for the past two years. We were discussing matters of various kinds in general, and Greenville in particular. Tom was saying that from what he could learn Greenville had a brighter future than any tobacco market in the east.
and just at this juncture a rather handsome and distinguished looking man, in the seat just in our rear leaned over and asked if he meant Greenville, N.
C. He was told yes and drawing himself up in a most impressive way he said that he had heard a great deal of that place on account of its tobacco and said he handled nearly all the tobacco grown in North Carolina and Virginia, that is marketed in the east. That is, said he handled it over his road and during the past few years had handled
a great deal of Eastern North Carolina and especially Greenville. We were on the main line of the W. W. R. R. and very impressively he remarked that two weeks ago he was before the Chigo Chamber of Commerce on business pertaining to Southern emigration and said he told them that in Eastern North Carolina, east of this road, the W. & W. there was the finest body of country in the South, for said he in addition to the trucking, fruit growing and manufacturing facilities, they grew the finest bright tobacco there that is produced in the world and this one feature alone is a great deal more than many more thickly populated sections in the South possesses. We told him that there were a good many people in Eastern North Carolina who said that tobacco had done Eastern North Carolina more harm than it had good, although that class of people were greatly in the minority. Well, said he, those people ought to go away from home and spend some time in a section where for the past ten years farmers have grown nothing but cotton and then come back home and contrast the difference. Tobacco would have no opposition from this class of people any more if they would do this. We told him we were glad to hear him express himself thus about our home town.

Why said he do you live in Greenville?
And on learning that Greenville was our home he became more pronounced in his praise of it. He then handed us his card but said I don't want you to quote me over my name in this matter.
This gentleman is in a position to know just how people on the outside think of our town and this section of our State and if his word is worth anything as to what others think of us in some respects at least we are held in higher esteem by others than we value ourselves.

He paid a high regard to our section of the state, said he himself was a Virginian by birth and was proud of his sister state and said he if bright tobacco continues to sell as well even as it does now the farmers of your section of the State will soon become absolutely independent if they will exercise good judgment and economy and with the independence of the farmers comes independence and contentment in all other branches of industry. By this time the whistle of the locomotive for Halifax was heard and bidding him good-by we changed cars for Greenville.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

It does not take a palace car to carry President Bryan. He can afford to ride in coaches with the people as was demonstrated by his journey from Chicago.

It seems as if Madison Square Garden will be selected as the place at which President Bryan is to be notified of his nomination. The young hero of the hour says "Carry the War into Africa."

Senator Jones, of Arkansas, has been elected Chairman of the National Executive Committee. It is said that the headquarters of the Committee will be transferred to Chicago. It does look as if the seat of Government is moving westward.

Editor Ramsey has spoken upon Mr.
Bryan and the Platform framed at Chicago, and, like his interview of recent date, has made converts to both.
His manner of opposition will probably aid the ticket as much as the bolt of goldbug and goldbug organs.

It is now certain that the Bi-metallic League, and the Silver Convention at St. Louis will endorse the Chicago rominees. We predict that the Populist convention will also fall in line, and we will have a square fight between gold and silver, with chances in favor of the latter.

WEATHER CROP BULLETIN.

EASTERN DISTRICT.

The past week has been very unfavorable nearly throughout the whole district. Rain occurred on every day of the week, and on the 8th in conjunction with high winds. The precipitation was very excessive; all low-ground was covered with water, and streams overflowed banks, destroying many low crops. Grass is gaining again very rapidly as no work could be done during the week. So far cotton has not been greatly damaged, a little shedding of forms is reported, some turning yellow and some little damage occurred by wind. The crop is running up fast; in south portion of district there are plenty of half grown bolls. Corn suffered more severely. Considerable corn was reported blown down by high wind on the 8th, and many lowland crops destroyed along streams. Corn and cotton were in good rows which helped to run off. Damage is probably overestimated at present. Tobacco curing progressing very well. Sweet potatoes fine. Peanuts being killed. In northern counties of the district where this is third or fourth week of too much rain, farmers are much discouraged. Elsewhere general conditions still very favorable.

CENTRAL DISTRICT.

The crop prospects have retrograded considerably. The area of heaviest rain-fall centered over the counties of Anson, Randolph, Alamance, Guilford and Stokes. Storms and floods did much damage, particularly on 8th, lands were badly washed; many bridges swept away and some crops damaged by winds. Cotton is running up very fast and shedding some lower leaves and fruit, but generally outlook continues fine; picking will probably begin early in August. Corn in bottom lands flooded to top of stalk and difficult to estimate damage; much of it may be completely destroyed. Outside of slight additional damage by wind the rain has benefitted crops. Early corn practically made and yield will be above average. Sweet potatoes best for several years. Some oats and wheat in shock washed away, and oats uncut beaten down and tangled in north portion. Tobacco also damaged to some extent by excessive rain, running up too tall, looks fine, however. Grapes doing well.

William Jennings Bryan.

The nomination of Hon. William J. Bryan, of Nebraska, by the Democratic convention yesterday, constituted the most astounding spectacle in the history of American politics. It was a logical culmination, perhaps. We are not prepared to say that, after the extraordinary demonstration of Thursday, the choice of any man other than Bryan would have been pertinent or explicable. What amazes us is that he should have been able, by the mere act of mounting a rostrum and delivering a twenty minutes speech, to dislocate the process of the convention machinery, to obscure every veteran aspirant in view, to change men's hearts, to divert the course of their passions and their preferences, and to transform a serious and deliberative body into an instrument upon which he played as Pan upon his pipe, as the blind prince of music on his immortal harpsichord.

It was a consummation without parallel, a denouement never to be explained this side of paradise. But so it happened.

On Thursday afternoon, at a time when Bland seemed to be the leader in the race, when Boies was a laborious second, and when McLean, brainiest and most conservative of them all, was enacting the role of the dark and dangerous horse, this young man Bryan suddenly appeared, tall, shapely, handsome as a Greek demigod, classic of outline, impassioned of address, thrilling with his tremendous message to the people—appeared like a fairy upon a dull and lifeless stage, and in one moment threw 20,000 human beings into a fever of indescribable exaltation. He called back from the vanished past the witchery of Orpheus, the magic of Demosthenes, the irresistible forces of the great Napoleon. He stood there, and with a dozen fiery phrases he converted thoughtful men into fanatics; he changed them as utterly as the wizard changes the toys he plays with on the stage. In all the annals of politics there was never such a scene.

We do not wonder that in the following day, still palpitating under the spell of Bryan's wondrous eloquence, the convention turned to him as a needle to a magnet. It may not be capable of analysis, it may not be coldly and accurately demonstrable. The fact remains, Bryan swept the floor of the convention as the fire sweeps the autumn prairie. The delegates went to him in a strange passion of desire. Nothing could check the fury of their bent. He was nominated—slowly at first, swiftly next, and at last in a wild crescendo of enthusiasm, he was lifted on a whitecap of animosity and thrown high and dry upon the beach of his surpassing triumph.

The country at large knows little of this extraordinary young man. He has been in Congress. He delivered a speech upon the tariff that enchanted and enchained the House. He has spoken many times since with reference to the tariff, and always he has held his audience as the sirens held the fated crew that sailed with Ulysses from the shores of Troy. He is a minstrel, a form of grace, a thing of beauty. What he is beyond that, who knows?

He has no record in statesmanship. He was too young to assert his patriotism thirty-five years ago. What schemes of government, what social theories occupy his brain, no human being can disclose. He is young, he is ardent, he is ambitious, he is gifted with the power to sway men's minds; he is a born leader, an attractive figure on the stage, and that is all we know. Whether the American people, after four months of solemn deliberation, will confide their destinies to his untried hands, we do not undertake to prophesy. What we do know is that William Jennings Bryan is the most dramatic product of our national politics, the most sensational and picturesque creature of our age.—Washington Post.

His Thumb Pained Him.

About four weeks ago it will be remembered that Mr. Thad Pleasants, the Seaboard engineer who was so badly scalded in the wreck at Manly, N. C. had his left hand amputated above the wrist to check a case of blood poisoning. Of course the operation was attended with a great deal of pain. But after his arm began to heal, the painful feeling remained, especially at the end of the amputated member. Mr. Pleasants complained when asked by his friends and family how he felt, and he invariably remarked that his thumb pained him. He said that his hand was drawn, and that his thumb was in an uncomfortable position, giving him much annoyance.

Mr. Pleasants's friends laughed good humoredly when he complained of his thumb, for they knew that his hand was buried in the backyard.

Mrs. Pleasants, however, had been more considerate of what her husband said about his hand. She heard him say one day last week that his thumb was drawn out of position and was clinched by the other fingers on his hand.

That evening Mrs. Pleasants went gently out in the back yard and dug up her husband's amputated hand. When exposed to view, there was the hand just as her husband described. The thumb was held tight by the other fingers. Mrs. Pleasants straightened the fingers and released the thumb. As soon as she entered the room Mr. Pleasants said his arm had quit paining him and that the tendons in his own arm felt free again.

Then it was that Mrs. Pleasants told what she had done. Mr. Pleasants has had no more trouble with his arm since.—Raleigh Press-Visitor.

THE EDITORS IN SESSION.

Welcomed by the Press and People of Wilmington.

(Special to Reflector.)

WILMINGTON, July 15.—About thirty members of the North Carolina Press Association were present at the opening this morning.

Iredell Meares on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce, and W. H. Bernard, editor of the Morning Star, on behalf of the press and people welcomed the editors to the city. J. C. Lipton, of the Shelby Review, responded on behalf of the association.

The address by President C. L. Stevens, of the New Berne Journal, was an admirable one.

Owing to sickness at home Secretary J. B. Sherrill, of the Concord Times, was not present and D. J. Whichard, of the REFLECTOR, was made secretary pro tem.

The editors will take in Wrightsville and the seacoast this afternoon.

The Printers Warehouse.

Your attention is called to the large and attractive advertisement of Messrs. Forbes & Moyer in to-day's issue on third page. The REFLECTOR takes pride in recommending these gentlemen as thoroughly reliable in business announcements and transactions and live to the core in the warehouse business. Your interest will be carefully looked after in their hands. A trial will convince you. Thoroughly alive to the necessity of advertising the tobacco interest of Greenville, they furnish an example worthy the imitation of every business man of the town.
