ST. LOUIS CONVENTION.

Bryan Seemed to be in the Lead—No
Nominations.

(Special to Reflector.)

St. Louis, July 25, 10:50 A. M.

Gen. Weaver makes an eloquent appeal for nomination, not endorsement of Bryan. He concludes amid great cheering. A banner is carried around the hall with the following upon it: "A Crown of Thorns."

Guidons, of Arizona, Florida, West Virginia, Idaho, Wyoming, Michigan, New Mexico, Montana, Indiana, Georgia, Louisiana, Oregon, Mississippi, Kansas, Missouri, Minnesota, all carried over to the Nebraska delegation, cheering still continues.

Gen. Fields, of Virginia, seconds the nomination of Bryan and moves that the rules be suspended and that he be nominated by acclamation.

Roll of states continues. Texas says she is ready for Bryan if he will endorse the populist platform.

Roll call of states ordered on Gen. Field's motion. Roll call interrupted, confusion, chairman rapping for order.

Telegram is read from E. V. Debs, asking that his name should not be presented.

Gen. Field's motion withdrawn.

Carr, of Colorado, seconds Bryan's nomination.

Ex-Gov. Hines seconds Bryan's nomination.

Donnelly, of Minnesota, seconds Bryan's nomination.

Mrs. Lease is introduced and addresses the convention.

Idaho seconds the nomination of Mr Bryan.

Taubeneck on behalf of a majority of the delegates seconds Bryan's nomination.

Iowa conceded her time to Kolb, of Alabama, who seconds Bryan's nomination.

OVER THE WIRE.

James Armstrong, the well known soap manufacturer of Baltimore, has made an assignment for the benefit of creditors. Liabilities $200, assets not stated.

In the United States Court at St. Paul, Minn., the Colorado anti-cigarette law was declared unconstitutional. The grounds for the decision were the same as in the liquor original package law.

Secretary Herbert announces that he will go to Alabama to vote August 3d for Johnson, the Democratic candidate for Governor. He will then return to Washington and go on board the Dolphin for his annual inspection trip.

After a struggle lasting all day in the Republican State Convention of Missouri, Robert E. Lewis, of Henry county, was nominated for Governor. This is generally considered a serious defeat for the faction headed by C. I. Filley, of St. Louis, who has so long been a leader in that State.

Deputy Sheriff Dave Rogers, who shot and killed Wash. Smith in a fight at Knoxville, Tenn., last Thursday, was killed himself by a son of Smith in Union county, Tenn., yesterday. Rogers was released on bond and had gone home. Young Smith had sworn to avenge his father's murder and he killed Rogers on sight.

Jos. P. Myers, formerly agent of the Seaboard Air Line Railway in Charlotte, N. C., and who suddenly left that city with $3,200 of the company's money on July 11th last, accompanied by a woman named Etta Basonette, was yesterday remanded in the Centre Street Police Court of New York to await the arrival of requisition papers from North Carolina.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, July 24th, 1896.

Senator Faulkner, chairman of the Democratic Congressional committee, is being daily astonished at the extraordinary increase in silver sentiment in the middle and eastern States, as shown by letters written to the committee asking for information and literature on the subject. He is also surprised to see that a majority of these seekers after silver documents, instead of being farmers, are professional and business men residing in town and cities. Speaking on the subject Senator Faulkner said "I am astounded at the tone of some of the letters I am receiving and it appears to me that the silver wave sweeping over the east with as much force as it has shown in the west and south. It may be permanent or it may be only temporary, but that it exists now is certain." Senator Faulkner is not the sort of man to allow his enthusiasm to bias the judgment, hence his declaration of his belief, that unless some great reaction takes place, which will change existing public sentiment before election day, Bryan will be elected by a large majority, carries great weight.

Representative Hart, of Pennsylvania says his district (the eighth) will roll up a good majority for Bryan and Sewall. He says there are very few Democrats in the district who have said they would not support the Chicago ticket and platform, but that a great many Republicans have come out for Bryan and Sewall and free silver. He says that the tariff question cuts no figure at all among his people, but that they are all anxious to learn everything possible about the silver question. It was largely to satisfy their yearnings in that line that Mr. Hart came to Washington. He has arranged with the Congressional committee to send a lot of silver literature to his constituents. Among the documents to be sent is the Chicago speech of Mr. Bryan, which Senator Faulkner says "is about the best statement of the silver question, from our standpoint, that has been made."

Hon. William J. Hendricks, ex-Attorney General of Kentucky, said in Washington this week: "In the fierce contest that has been waged in Kentucky between the gold and silver partisans my voice and influence have ever been on the side of sound money. I still adhere to the opinion that free silver coinage by this government, independently of the other great nations, would be a mistake. But I am a democrat, and democracy stands for so many other things besides free silver that it is impossible for me to renounce my party allegiance, and I shall cheerfully do all in my power to promote the success of the Chicago ticket. With all the faults of the platform it is infinitely better than McKinleyism. Bryan and Sewall will unquestionably carry Kentucky."

There is some talk about establishing a democratic daily newspaper in Washington which will support Bryan and Sewall and the Chicago platform. Perhaps such a paper might make some votes, but, in my opinion, it would not make one per cent of the votes that could be made by spending the amount of money that it would cost to run a Washington daily during the campaign in circulating the democratic dailies and weeklies already established and enjoying more prestige in their localities than a Washington paper could possibly get.

Mr. S. D. Weaver, city attorney of Burlington, Kans., who is now visiting Washington, says: "It is the opinion of conservative men that Bryan will carry Kansas. It is true that some Democrats who believe in sound money will not support him, and yet more of these will vote for him than will support McKinley. There are also a great many silver Republicans in the State who will vote for Bryan."

Theatrical men are as a rule good judges of the drift of public sentiment. Mr. J. W. Morrissey, widely known as a manager says of a coming event: "Bryan's descent on New York will be a stupendous affair. He will pack Madison Square Garden to its limits—16,000 people—but 10,000 more will be in the streets to give him welcome. Only a fraction of that monster gathering will be able to hear a word he utters, but few will fail to read it afterwards. Already there is a big chance of sentiment in New York favorable to silver and Bryan's coming will make converts by the thousand."

While it cannot be said that the action of the populist convention was altogether satisfactory to Democrats, none of them are disposed to worry about it, because their minds were made up before the convention met that Bryan would get the vote of every populist who does not wish to throw his vote away, regardless of what the convention might do, and there was nothing about the work of the convention to cause them to change their opinion.

Fatal Snake Bites.

Hagerstown, Md., July 19.—Walter Drury, aged 5 years, son of Martin Drury, of Blair's Valley, was bitten by a copperhead snake ten times and died from the effects of the poison. He was in bed with his older brother, Ignatius. They awoke in the night, and Walter thought a mouse was biting him on the foot. He called to his parents, and they came into the room with a light. A snake wound itself around Walter and sank its fangs into his body ten times until the child fell from pain and exhaustion. He was bitten twice on his arm, twice on the stomach once on the breast and on his feet and legs. In the meantime Ignatius was battling with a second copperhead snake which crawled out of the covers. Ignatius was bitten twice, once on the hip and once on the arm. He shook off the snake and leaped out of bed. Mrs. Drury, in going to the rescue of her boys, stepped on the snake which had bitten Ignatius, and the snake bit her on the foot. Both snakes disappeared through a hole in the floor through which doubtless they had crawled into the house. The body of Walter swelled to immense size almost immediately, and he suffered intense pain. Mr. Drury rode six miles for a physician, but when the doctor arrived the lad was dying. The physician was too late to save Walter, but he gave Mrs. Drury and Ignatius remedies to counteract the poisonous bites, and both of them will recover. The house in which Mr. Drury lives is built at the foot of North mountain, and the boys slept in the basement to keep cool. It is thought the snakes crawled into the house from the mountain.—Baltimore Sun.

CATARRH.

His Worst Enemy Defeated by
P. P. P., Lippman's
Great Remedy.

FOR THREE YEARS HE SUFFERED—COULD HARDLY BREATHE AT NIGHT—ONE
NOSTRIL CLOSED FOR 10 YEARS.

Mr. A. M. Ramsey, of DeLeon, Texas, was a sufferer from Catarrh in its worst form. Truly, his description of his sufferings seem little short of marvelous. Instead of seeking his couch, glad for the nights coming, he went to it with terror, realizing that another long, weary, wakeful night and a struggle to breathe was before him. He could not sleep on either side for two years. P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, cured him in quick time.

DE LEON, TEXAS.
Messrs. LIPPMAN BROS., Savannah, Ga.
Gents: I have used nearly four bottles of P. P. P. I was afflicted from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet. Your P. P. P. has cured my difficulty of breathing, smothering, palpitation of the heart, and has relieved me of all pain. One nostril was closed for ten years, but now I can breathe through it readily.
I have not slept on either side for two years; in fact, I dreaded to see night come. Now I sleep soundly in any position all night.
I am 50 years old, but expect soon to be able to take hold of the plow handles. I feel glad that I was lucky enough to get P. P. P., and I heartily recommend it to my friends and the public generally.
Yours respectfully,
A. M. RAMSEY.

THE STATE OF TEXAS—County of Comanche.—Before the undersigned authority on this day, personally appeared A. M. Ramsey, who, after being duly sworn, says on oath that the foregoing statement made by him relative to the virtue of P. P. P. medicine is true.
A. M. RAMSEY.
Sworn to and subscribed before me this, August 4th, 1891.

LIGHTING PARLIAMENT.

How the Commons and Lords Are Furnished With Illumination.

Although gas, candles and oil lamps are used to light the parliament buildings, says the Westminster Budget, incandescent lamps are in most general use. The system of electric lighting is controlled from the basement, and throughout the building the lamps themselves are everywhere arranged with great care and forethought. In the dining rooms, for instance, they are placed very high up, so that while the supply of light is ample there is no glare over the tables. In the tea-rooms, besides the lights from the ceiling, there are wall brackets over the tables and even movable table lamps for those who care to use them. And in the kitchen and the service room adjoining the commons dining room all the fittings are made of iron, rather than of brass, so that they may suffer as little as possible from the steam.

With a staff of about 50 men the superintendent is able to make all sorts of ingenious and pretty fittings. And, as another specimen of the economy which is everywhere visible, it may be mentioned that he has succeeded in making many pretty electroliers out of the old gas fittings. The big electroliers—notably that in the central hall, which weighs 18 hundredweight and bears 93 lamps—and the smaller ones in the peers' chamber, St. Stephen's hall and elsewhere are made to be raised and lowered for purposes of cleaning or of replacing broken lamps. This big electrolier has, high up in the dome, a crane, which moves over it on tram lines, by which it is raised and lowered, while the electric wires are carefully drawn aside on another tramway so that they may not be damaged in paying out while the electrolier is being lowered. And in the roof above the house of lords there are similar arrangements, but with simply a weight and a couple of earthenware pulleys in place of the crane.

The commons chamber is not lighted entirely by electricity. Round the arched doorway are ten incandescent lamps, which are principally required to show up the carving and the clock face, and under the side galleries there is a lamp placed behind each pillar, so that while it cannot itself be seen, it prevents the members who may be sitting there from being in deep shade and so invisible to the speaker. The principal lighting here, however, comes through the painted glass roof, behind which 64 powerful gas lamps are used, gas being preferred to electricity here both on account of its superior spreading powers and because the heat creates a draft, and so assists ventilation. Under the glass is a very fine wire network, so that were a breakage to occur there would be no danger of a cabinet minister being decapitated.
In the lobbies and the libraries electric lighting is used, however. In the libraries and reading rooms it is placed lower than in most parts of the building, for obvious reasons. And in all the larger electroliers the lamps are divided into three groups, which light independently of one another. Thus, on a dull day one set of lamps would be in use; if it were foggy, there might be two sets, and at night all three are employed.

Ruskin and Science.
One of the worst enemies of science is Mr. Ruskin. When Agassiz published his book on "Fossil Fishes," which was deemed of such importance in determining the relative ages of the strata in which they were found that the United States government contributed to the expenses of publication, Mr. Ruskin, in "Præterita," volume 2, page 112, says, "Agassiz was a mere blockhead to have paid for all that good drawing of the nasty, ugly things, and that it didn't matter a stale herring whether they had any names or not," a piece of criticism written with the pen of ignorance. But what shall we say when we see the same writer speaking of "little Mr. Faraday" finding a hydrocarbon oil in heaven which makes a stink? (I quote from memory.) Surely, if ever a man was great both as a man and an explorer of nature's mysteries, it was the blacksmith's son who made his way from the position of a little newsboy to that of the greatest experimentalist that ever lived.
