ANOTHER OPPORTUNITY.

Greenville Should Have Factories.

Mr. C. D. Rountree, of the Star Warehouse, handed the REFLECTOR the following letter received by his firm with permission to publish it:

GOLDSBORO, N. C., July 31, 1896.
PROPRIETOR STAR WAREHOUSE,
Greenville, N. C.

DEAR SIR:—Can you kindly let me know at once what inducements a man might expect from the citizens of your place to open a smoking tobacco factory there? Do you think that a stock company could be formed to buy it? Trusting that you will kindly give me the desired information, I remain,

Very truly yours,
PAUL STANLEY.

Here is another opportunity for Greenville that the town ought to take hold of. Factories are just what is needed now to make the town prosper as never before, but to get them our people must show that they want them. This is also another instance in which a Board of Trade could do some good, but it seems that with all the argument that has been used our business men seem utterly indifferent as to organizing one.

ORIGINAL OBSERVATIONS.

The height of summer—a mountain top.

The backbiter always has sound teeth.

The work that one loves to do never becomes to him a drudgery.

Man gets but little here below o'er which to make much of a crow.

The clock has a strike every hour but it doesn't cause the hands to quit work.

It is better to give a little more taffy during life than so much epitaphy after death.

A sweet girl is often very bitter—if you don't admire her shirt-waist or agree with her preacher.—Orange (Va.) Observer.

Bethel Items.

BETHEL, N. C., August 3rd, 1896.
A. B. Cherry and wife left last Tuesday to spend a month up in the mountains in and around Asheville.

Rev. J. W. Powell filled his appointment at the Baptist church Sunday morning. He preached at the Methodist church Sunday night.

Rev. S. A. Cotten, of Conetoe, preached in the Methodist church Friday night. Rev. A. S. Barnes is still holding the protracted meeting in that church, services at 11 o'clock A. M. and night each day.

We hear much talk in this section of the crops being badly injured by the dry weather.

Walter Meeks died last week with typhoid fever.

How The Sales Impressed Him.

When the freight train going south reached here about noon Monday, having about forty minutes to spare Mr. N. Biggs and Dr. Johnson, of Sectland Neck, walked over to the Planter's Warehouse where the sale was then in progress. They were completely carried away with the sales, and and Mr. Biggs, catching up with the editor, made the latter "tell him all about it." Crenshaw's double keyed auctioneering was a wonder to them, and when old man Lipscomb made a sixty-second note roll Mr. Biggs broke out in a merry laugh that brought down the house. Said he "It's the best circus I ever saw."

ENCOURAGE THE MARKET.

GREENVILLE, N. C., Aug. 3, 1896.

EDITOR REFLECTOR:—The opening of the tobacco season was a pleasant surprise to any one who was present this morning at 9 o'clock when the bell tapped for sales to begin. The remarks of Mr. O. L. Joyner, of the Eastern, were in every respect appropriate, well timed and well received.

This is indeed a critical time for a business involving so much as the Greenville tobacco market contains. But the surprise was that under all circumstances there were such good prices uniformly in all the houses and all had good breaks. However, a greater surprise than all others was the conspicuous absence of the business men and merchants of the town, only two or three leading even their presence to the occasion. Who are the most interested class in the results of the tobacco business? The merchants and those doing business generally get most of the tobacco money.

Now this is written in all kindness and only to call the attention of our people to the importance of giving to the tobacco interest their moral and business support. It is a well known fact that the town of Greenville, and every avenue of business and trade in it, is greatly effected by the tobacco market. The greater interest there is manifested in building up of Greenville and her markets, the more it will be felt by all. It makes a better and wiser merchant to go out and be on the market. The people see the interest and note it. It is indeed refreshing to be on a lively tobacco break. "X."

[This letter was harded in for Monday's issue but unavoidably crowded out—Ed.]

Oakley Items.

OAKLEY, N. C., August 3rd, 1896.
Mrs. J. I. James is very sick with typhoid fever.

Between curing tobacco and saving fodder our farmers are kept busy.

We are pained to learn that B. D. Beach and two daughters are very sick with typhoid fever.

T. R. Bullock, of Bethel, was here Wednesday in the interest of the Planters Warehouse of Greenville.

J. O. Williams left Saturday morning for Rocky Mount to spend a few days with his sister, Mrs. J. E. Hines.

We are glad to shake the hand of red-headed Wiley, of the Star Warehouse Friday. He came out to talk to our tobacco farmers in regard to selling there tobacco at the Star. We bespeak for him a liberal share of patronage.

A Pleasant Surprise Party.

A very enjoyable evening was spent at Professor Bagley's last night by the young people. All day yesterday the boys and girls were arranging a storm party at Miss Emily Higgs. The plan was to meet at Miss Maggie Bagley's and go in a body to Miss Higgs, and so far as most of them knew this plan was to be executed at 9 o'clock sharp. Except two of the party, Miss Mamie Hines and Vernon Haskett, who were to be the chief couple of the storm and at the time for storming Vernon Haskett in a neat little speech announced that as it is customary to surprise everybody in these pleasant days of hot weather, the crowd would from this very moment storm Miss Maggie Bagley by a game of "up jinks" which was accepted with a will, and every single one proved their enjoyment by the shower of thanks to Miss Maggie for her superb effort in their pleasure.

True Democracy.

The Post has repeatedly shown that the Chicago Convention was not only Democratic, but probably the most Democratic of all the national gatherings that have ever taken place under the auspices of that or any other party in the United States.

The Chicago platform is not the Populist creed—is not what Peffer and Simpson and Lease have been putting forth. The one feature of that platform which Eastern Democrats denounce; the one issue which it raises in such shape as to effect something like a realignment of parties; the issue so important that all others are rapidly disappearing, is the declaration for free coinage. This is not Populism, but Democracy. The Democratic Party has been a free coinage party ever since that issue appeared in the political arena. Where is the Democratic State that is not for free coinage? When did a majority of the Democrats in Congress ever omit an opportunity to vote for free coinage? And who will assert that the victory won by the free coinage wing of the party was not the result of a long, open, bold fight, in which the victors had the disadvantage of opposing a Democratic administration?—Washington Post.

To Give is to Receive.

We must bless if we would receive a blessing. We must pour the water from the cup if we would have it filled again. Life is an exchange of bounties, a transfer from one hand to another. Earth gives her portion to the flowers, they send their fragrance unto man and man gathers them, decks the path of friendship and makes hearts sweeter with their rich fragrance. The sky is mellow for the passing cloud that lowers beneath it. The cloud receives the glory from the orb of days. All things are tributary to one another. The glow worm lights a traveler's path; the pebble turns the tide. Rills fill the river; rivers send their vapors forth and again fill the rill. If love flows from our soul unto our neighbors, something must be dislodged within the breast. It may be envy, pride or hate—what matter—or it may be sweetest strain of gratitude that will gladden some ear, though not our own. We are but workers, but not like earthly laborers waiting for our pay. It comes in God's time and always at the needed moment. Keep the waves in motion. Roll the ball of love heavenward. It will strike many hearts and gather accelerated speed. Pass the cup around. Bid the thirsty drink, for dust will gather on the cup that stands unmoved, and the water it holds will become unfit for our own or another's use.

Holes in the Sails for Speed.

The statement of an Italian sea captain that he had proved by experience that a ship goes faster when her sails are perforated with a number of holes than when they are quite scud was at first looked upon as too ridiculous for consideration. Unbelievers, however, now find that the Italian has gone a long way toward proving his case. His theory is that the force of the wind cannot fairly take effect on an inflated sail, because of the cushion of immovable air that fills up the hollow. To prevent this cushion collecting, he bored a number of holes in the sail, which let part of the wind blow right through it and allowed the remainder to strike against the canvas and exercise its full effect. Several trials have been made, and it looks as if this is another of those paradoxical truths which appears so impossible on the surface. The experiments were made in all weathers. In a light wind a boat with ordinary sails made four knots, while with the perforated sail she coursed five and a quarter knots; in a fresh breeze she did seven knots with ordinary sails, and eight and three-quarters knots with the improved sails; in a strong wind she did eight knots and ten knots respectively. If this augmented speed were sustained throughout a long voyage it would increase the value of the ship one-fifth, as she would make the same trip in four weeks that she did before in five weeks.—Boston Evening Transcript.

A Monster Pulls a Tug About and Breaks Her Shaft.

Garry and John Gallen were out on the sound yesterday morning in their 30-foot yacht Jessie B., when they saw what they thought was a little island that they had never seen before. They got alongside, and found it was a high sea turtle asleep. Captain Garry made a loop in a hawser, and he thus describes what happened:

"Just as I slipped the rope over his port fin he opened one eye and winked. We tried to pull him up, but the turtle started off toward Long Island, towing the Jessie B., stern foremost. We got our oars and pulled in vain. The turtle was hauling us through the water like thunder. We signalled for help, and the tug Vandercook of New York, came up and latched on to us.

"Then there was a mighty commotion. The tug put on full steam, and so did that darned turtle. It was a dead heat for a while, but finally the turtle got tired. Just as he gave up the struggle, the tug broke her shaft, but we were able to get the creature to land."

The turtle was landed by a big steam derrick, and the tug laid up for repairs.—The Baltimore American.

THE BILLVILLE BANNER.

Next year will be a great year for farmers. The goldbugs have about eaten up all the crow in the country.

We don't want the nomination for president or vice president on any ticket. It's about all we can do to manage the business of road overseer.

None of our family is related to Bill Bryan. There are two or three grocery bills in the family, but that's about as close as we can get to it.

They tried to lynch a man up north the other day. Imitation is the sincerest flattery. We therefore take courage and press on.—Atlanta Constitution.

HOW HE GETS IT.

Man wants but little here below,
And usually he gets it,
But should he want a little more
He starts a big department store,
And by his advertising lore
He tells the people o'er and o'er
That he has goods to sell galore,
His place is filled from door to door
By many people, score on score,
Who buy the goods on every floor,
And in his coffers money pour
Till he has wealth to make a show.
And that is how he gets it.

SUMMER SIGHTS.

The clouds are streaming round the blue,
But where—no mortal knows—
"My kingdom for a drop of dew!"
Cries the despairing rose.

While in the hot and dusty dells—
By every hill and plain,
A jangling, wrangling chorus swells
Eternally for rain!

Capt. William Wittigrod, of the North German Lloyd line, has crossed the Atlantic four hundred times, fourteen hundred thousand mile in all, or sixty times around the earth. He has safely carried two hundred thousand persons and rescued hundreds of persons at sea. This is a record of which any man may be proud.

FROM WIDDLETON TO WADDLETON.

When we set out a-journeying, my baby girl and I. It really is a wonder how the way goes fleetingly by. The course is from the sitting room, the charger is my knee And the minstrel music with us is her little laugh of glee.

"Oh, from Widdleton to Waddleton it's eighteen miles. But from Waddleton to Widdleton it's nineteen miles (Which is just a freak in distance which my conscience reconciles With the theory that baby songs are full of tricks and wiles)— Oh, from Widdleton to Waddleton it's eighteen miles."

Her grandma is so jealous when we set about our trip. She claims to see a tear shade in the quiver of her lip. She says the way is rocky and the steed is roughly shod, But we tell her of another path that's smooth and clear and broad.

We never have arrived at where we set about to go, For always on the journey baby's curly head drops low, And then I draw her closer, closer, closer to my breast, And the steed is turned to pasture and its rider is—undressed.

"Still from Widdleton to Waddleton it's eighteen miles, And from Waddleton to Widdleton it's nineteen miles, And the breezes bring a murmuring from drowsy afterwhiles, And a little prayer is uttered for a life to know no trials— Oh, from Widdleton to Waddleton it's eighteen miles."

Two Reasons.

At a circuit court held some years ago in a western state an action of ejectment was tried "by the court without a jury." The decision rendered was couched in such a way that it caused considerable amusement.

The suit was brought by a religious society to recover possession of a cemetery. The defendant was a physician in active practice, who, as one of a committee appointed by the church, had bought the ground for the use of the society.

Afterward he severed his connection with the society, and it was found that he had taken the title in his own name and intended to appropriate the premises for his private use. The defendant insisted that he had bought the ground in his own right after his relations to the society had ceased.

The court, after hearing the evidence and arguments, proceeded to state the grounds for his decision and ordered judgment for the plaintiff. Whereupon the defendant's counsel arose and asked the court to state more fully the reasons for the decision.

"Certainly," said his honor promptly. "But as you have heard what I have said I have only two additional reasons to give. One is that the church seems to need a cemetery, and the other that the doctor has failed to show that his practice is sufficiently large to make it necessary for him to keep a burying ground of his own."—Youth

From an Unpublished Letter From William Penn to Duke Ormonde.

I thank god I am safely arrived in the province that the providence of god and Bounty of the King hath made myne, and which the credit, prudence and industry of the people concerned with me must render Considerable. I was received by the ancient Inhabitants with much kindness and respect and the rest brought it with them; there may be about four (f. 215b) thousand soules in all, I speak, I think within compass; we expect an increase from France, Holland and Germany, as well as our Native Country.

The land is Generally good, well water'd and not so thick of wood as imagin'd; there are also many open places that have been old Indian fields, the trees that grow here are the Mulberry, white and red, walnut, black, gray and Hickery, Poplar, Cedar, Cyprus, chestnut, Ash, Sarsafrax, Gum, pine, Spruce, oak, black, white, red Spanish chestnut and Swamp which has a leafe like a willow, and is most lasting. The food the woods yeild is your Elks, Deer, Racoons, Beaver, Rabbets, Turkeys, Phesants, heath-birds, Pidgeons and Patredges, innumerable; we need no setting dogs to ketch, they run by droves into the house in cold weather. Our Rivers have also plenty of excellent fish and water fowl, as Sturgeon, rock, shad, herring, cadfish, or flatheads, sheeps-heads, roach and perch, and trout in inland Streames; of foule, the Swan, white, gray, and black goose, and brands, (f. 216) the best duck and tel I ever eate, and the Snipe and the Curlew with the Snow-bird are also excellent.

The Aire is sweet and cleare which makes a screen and steady sky, as in the more southern parts of France. Our Summers and Winters are commonly once in three years in extremes; but the Winters Seldom last above ten weeks and rarely begin till the latter end of December; the days are above two hours longer, and the Sun much hotter here then with you, which makes some recompense for the sharpe nights of the Winter season, as well as the woods that make cheap and great fires. We have of graine, wheat, maize, rye, barley, oates, severall excellent sorts of beans and peas, pumpkens, water, and mus mellons, all english roots and Garden stuff, good fruit and excellent Sider, the Peach we have in divers kinds, and very good, and in great abundance. The Vine (of several sorts and the signe with us of rich land) is very fruitful, and the not so sweet as some I have eaten in Europe, yet it makes a good wine, and the worst, good vinegar. (f. 216b.) I have observed three sorts, the Great grape that has green, red, and black, all ripe on the same tree, the muskedell and black little grape, which is the best, and may be improv'd to an excellent wine. These are spontaneous. Of Cattle, we have the horse, not very handsome, but good. Cow Cattle and hogs in much plenty, and sheep encrease apace.

Our town of Philadelphia is seated between two navigable rivers, having from 4 to 10 fathom water, about 150 houses up in one yeare, and 400 country settlements, thus do we labour to render ourselves an industrious Colony, to the honour and benefit of the Crown, as well as our own comfort and advantage, and lett there not be separated, say I.—Notes and Queries.

Thomas C. Platt.

Mr. Platt never smoked a cigar except once, when he was a stripling in Owego. He had just left Yale college and started a drug store in this now famous town of Tioga county. This was in the first days of the Republican party. He then wrote the songs for the Fremont campaign, later for the Lincoln contests, and later still for the Grant boomers. He has two trunks at his old home in Owego full of these campaign songs. All through New York state there are happy geniuses with a predilection for writing verses. But Mr. Platt has a record in this respect which is marvelous. A few years ago he was the guest of the newspaper-men of the Fellowcraft club. He was called upon for a speech. He looked round the board and saw politicians of the two parties, literary critics, artists and dramatists. All expected a speech from him. Instead he recited an original poem which he composed that afternoon at his office, 49 Broadway, telling of the ultimate fate of a mischievous yet enthusiastic pig. Mr. Platt's poem was the speech of the evening and was received with roars of

J. W. Martin was heard to remark after the sale Monday that one of his neighbors was thoroughly convinced that the Greenville Warehouse was the place to sell tobacco. This neighbor sold elsewhere that day, but when prices were compared he saw that the Greenville was away head. There is a lesson in this for the man who has tobacco to sell.

Peculiar Accident to a Horse.

Mr. M. B. Prince tells us of a peculiar accident that befell one of his horses Monday night. They run in a pasture lot where there are a number of fruit trees. When Mr. Prince went out Tuesday morning imagine his surprise to see one of the animals with its right hind leg hung in the fork of a peach tree three feet above the ground. It is supposed the horses were kicking at each other and in this way the one in question got her leg caught in the tree. The skin and flesh above the hock joint were considerably lacerated but beyond this no serious injury was sustained. It is remarkable that the leg was not broken or the hip dislocated. Mr. Prince thinks the animal will soon recover and beyond a bad scar will show no permanent marks of the accident.—Henderson Gold Leaf.

A Hearty Old Man.

Mr. A. A. Forbes tells us that he was riding along the road, Saturday morning, and seeing an old white haired man cutting a ditch he stopped to talk with him. The man, whose name was Nicholas McGowan, said he was 94 years old and that he had cut 20 yards of ditch that morning up to 9 o'clock. He said he was used to that kind of work and loved to do it.

Within the last few days we have heard a number of people inquiring for houses. There are not enough here to accommodate all who want to become citizens of the town.
