THE WORLD OF LABOR

The Busy Mill, the Workshop, and Where Labor is Employed.

Steanna: boasts a $40,000 "log cabin."

Electric heat thaws English frozen water pipes.

A Michigan mill makes 7,500,000 tooth-picks daily.

Chicago has 760 miles of electric railroad track.

Seventeen per cent, of Great Britain's doctors live in London.

Most of the canal barges in the South of England are worked by women.

Since 1851, it is estimated, 48,219 men have been killed in mining accidents in Great Britain.

In France there is a law compelling physicians to write their prescriptions in the language of the country.

The machinery and material are in readiness at the new Salem, Oregon, woolen mills, and the mill will be started up.

The Pilot's Association of New York has completed plans for an electric lighted steam pilot boat, the finest in the world.

A journal devoted to the pen, ink and paper trade says that the world now uses 3,500,000 steel pens every day in the week.

Quotations of Greenville Tobacco Market.

Since last week prices have very materially advanced on all grades, with color and character, and with the improvement in price we think the character of the offerings improved.

LEAF—common.....	3½ to 6

We have been asked a good many questions in regard to the future outlook but as yet we have seen nothing to warrant a change of former opinion, namely: that the price of tobacco will establish itself as the market advances and that nothing definite can yet be said, though our private opinion is that prices will be better a little later.

Borrowed (?) One Mule too Many.

Saturday night at the Greenleaf Johnson Lumber Co's camp near Whichard, a negro named Will Branch borrowed (?) a mule and took his departure without taking anybody to send the mule back by. The negro went in the neighborhood of Bethel where he put the mule up as his own and hired himself out to work. After a pretty thorough search over that territory the mule was found by the owners, and this morning the negro was captured and brought to jail by Mr. W. R. Whichard, Jr. While the parties were hunting for the mule one of the horses they were driving fell dead in the road.

Look at These Figures.

C. D. Rountree and Wiley Brown made tobacco hum at the Star Warehouse to-day. For Stokes & Evans they sold a load of primings as follows: 68 lbs at $7.50, 53 lbs at $14.50, 35 lbs at $15, 72 lbs at $19, 22 lbs at $21, an average of $14.50. The Star also sold for Hill & Williams several lots $10.25, $8.75, $19, $18.50, $12.25 and $6. If you want the best prices go to the Star.

Last Party This Season.

"Uncle" John Cherry is making up a party to go from here to Ocracoke on Thursday. They will go down on steamer Myers to Washington, then by schooner to Ocracoke, reaching there early Friday morning. Persons going then can return home next Monday or remain a week longer if desired. This will probably be the last party to go from here this season. Fishing is fine down there now and trout are reported to be biting like snappers. Proprietor George Credle has made a reputation for his hotel this season and all are glad to know that he is to continue in charge.

Keeps Humming.

So far this week the Greenville Warehouse, the old reliable, has sold tobacco from seven counties and two States. Here are some of the prices obtained: For I. L. Porter—lots at $12.75, $18.25, $25 and $7.25. For A. Savage—lots at $13.25, $17.50 and $22, an average of $17.75. For B. C. Jones—lots at $14.50, $16, $20 and $10.75. For T. E. Little—lots at $13, $22.50, $15 and $18.50, an average of $18.50. What is done for these can be done for you. The Greenville is still ahead in prices and holds her own in quantity.

Have You Seen This Beaten?

G. W. Vandertord sold 1,411 pounds of tobacco at the Eastern Warehouse to-day and got a clear check for $181.76. The different lots brought these prices: 140 lbs. at $6.10, 193 lbs. at $10.50, 300 lbs. at $12, 87 lbs. at $15, 293 lbs. at $21, 310 lbs. at $14.50 and 88 lbs. at $6.10. His average was close to $13.50. So much for selling at the Eastern, where high prices rule every day.

Stop and Try It.

It is not often that a sum works out like this one, every figure in a line being just alike. A man sold 222 pounds of beef for 4½ cents a pound, on Monday, and the calculation looked so odd that he brought it to us. Work it out for yourself and you will have three 2s, three 8s, three 1s, and three 9s each in a line to themselves. Looks funny, don't it, but it is right all the same.

Will Enlarge the Depot.

A force of hands are at work grading for a side track west of the railroad near the depot. The cotton platform is to be moved over on that side of the road to make room for a 60 foot addition to the warehouse.

Carries Mail on a Wheel.

A few days ago Pender & Co. received an extra large Rambler bicycle with 32 inch wheels. This wheel was a special order for the rail carrier between Greenville and Tarboro who is now using it regularly on his route and makes good time.

How's This?

Talk about good all around prices, the Planters Warehouse sold 11,000 pounds of tobacco to-day at an average of $9.25. When it is high prices you are looking for try the Planters.

In 1871 the average cost of refined sugar exported was 13.2 cents; it fell to 10.5 cents in 1874; since 1891 the average has been 4.5 cents, or one-third the cost twenty-five years ago. The introduction of the centrifugal machine enormously reduced the cost.

Emerson once said: "I have forgotten the books I have read, and so I have the dinners I have eaten; but they both helped to make me." Every good sermon helps to make some man's character.

TESTING THE HONESTY OF MONEY.

"What is the test of honesty in money? It must certainly be found in the purchasing power of the dollar. An absolutely honest dollar could not vary in its general purchasing power; it would be absolutely stable when measured by average prices. A dollar which increases in purchasing power is just as dishonest as a dollar which decreases in purchasing power. Prof. Laughlin, now of the University of Chicago, and one of the highest gold standard authorities, in his work on bimetalism not only admits that gold does not remain absolutely stable in value, but expressly asserts "that there is no such thing as a standard of value for future payments, either in gold or silver, which remains absolutely invariable." He even suggests that a multiple standard, wherein the "unit is based upon the selling prices of a number of articles of general consumption," would be a better standard than either gold or silver, or both, because "a long time contract would thereby be paid at its maturity by the same purchasing power as was given in the beginning."

"It cannot be successfully claimed that monometallism or bimetalism, or any other system, gives an absolutely just standard of value. Under both monometallism and bimetalism the government fixes the weight and fineness of the dollar, invests it with legal-tender qualities, and then extends the mints to its unlimited coinage, the purchasing power of the dollar to be determined by the number of dollars. Bimetalism is better than monometallism not because it gives us a perfect dollar, that is, a dollar absolutely unvarying in its general purchasing power but because it makes a nearer approach to stability, to honesty, to justice than a gold standard possibly can. Prior to 1873, when there were enough open mints to permit all the gold and silver available for coinage to find entrance into the world's volume of standard money, the United States might have maintained a gold standard with less injury to the people of this country; but now, when each step toward a universal gold standard enhances the purchasing power of gold, depresses prices, and transfers to the pockets of the creditor class an unearned increment, the influence of this great nation must be thrown upon the side of gold unless we are prepared to accept the natural and legitimate consequences of such an act. Any legislation which lessens the world's stock of standard money increases the exchangeable value of the dollars. Therefore, the crusade against silver must inevitably raise the purchasing power of money and lower the money value of all other forms of property.

EVILS OF THE GOLD STANDARD.

"Our opponents sometimes admit that it was a mistake to demonetize silver, but insist that we should submit to present conditions rather than return to the bimetallic system. They err in supposing that we have reached the end of the evil results of a gold standard; we have not reached the end. The injury is a continuing one, and no person can say how long the world is to suffer from the attempt to make gold the only standard money. The same influences which are now operating to destroy silver in the United States will, if successful here, be turned against other silver-using countries, and each new convert to the gold standard will add to the general distress. So long as the scramble for gold continues prices must fall, and a general fall in prices is but another definition of hard times.

"Our opponents, while claiming entire disinterestedness for themselves, have appealed to the selfishness of nearly every class of society. Recognizing the disposition of the individual voter to consider the effect of any proposed legislation upon himself, we present to the American people the financial policy outlined in the Chicago platform, believing that it will result in the greatest good to the greatest number.

"The farmers are opposed to the gold standard because they have felt its effects. Since they sell at wholesale and buy at retail they have lost more than they have gained by falling prices; and besides this, they have found that certain fixed charges have not fallen at all. Taxes have not been perceptibly increased, although it requires more of farm products now than formerly to secure the money with which to pay taxes. Debts have not fallen. The farmer who owed $1,000 is still compelled to pay $1,000, although it may be twice as difficult as formerly to obtain the dollar with which to pay the debt. Railroad rates have not been reduced to keep pace with falling prices, and besides these items there are many more. The farmer has found just complaint against the gold standard. The wage-earners have been injured by a gold standard and have expressed themselves upon the subject with great emphasis. In February, 1895, a petition asking for the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at 16 to 1 was signed by the representatives of all, or nearly all, the leading labor organizations and presented to Congress. Wage earners know that while a gold standard raises the purchasing power of the dollar, it also makes it more difficult to obtain possession of the dollar. They know that employment is less permanent, loss of work more probable and re-employment less certain. A gold standard encouraged the hoarding of money because money is rising. It also discourages enterprise and paralyzes industry. On the other hand, the restoration of bimetalism will discourage hoarding, because when prices are steady or rising money cannot afford to lie idle in bank vaults. The farmers and wage earners together constitute a considerable majority of the people of the country. Why should their interests be ignored in considering financial legislation? A monetary system which is peculiarly advantageous to a few syndicates has less to commend it than a system which would give hope and encouragement to those who create the nation's wealth.

IN ANSWER TO OPONENTS.

"Our opponents have made a special appeal to those who hold fire and life insurance policies, but these policy holders say that since the total premiums received exceed the total losses paid a rising standard must be of more benefit to the companies than to the policy holders.

"Much solicitude has been expressed by our opponents for the depositors in savings banks. They constantly parade before these depositors the advantages of a gold standard, but these appeals will be in vain, because savings bank depositors know that under a gold standard there is increasing danger that they will lose their deposits, because of the inability of the banks to collect their assets; and they still further know that if the gold standard is to continue indefinitely they may be compelled to withdraw their deposits in order to pay living expenses.

"It is only necessary to note the increasing number of failures in order to know that a gold standard is ruinous to merchants and manufacturers. These business men do not make their profits from the people from whom they borrowed money, but from the people to whom they sell their goods. If the people cannot buy, retailers cannot sell, and if retailers cannot sell, wholesale merchants and manufacturers must go into bankruptcy."

"Those who hold as a permanent investment, the stock of railroads and of other enterprises—I do not include those who speculate in stocks or use stock holdings as a means of obtaining inside advantage in contracts—are injured by a gold standard. The rising dollar destroys the earning power of these enterprises without reducing their liabilities, and, as dividends cannot be paid until fixed charges have been satisfied, the stockholders must bear the burden of hard times.

"Salaries in business occupations depend upon business conditions, and the gold standard both lessens the amount and threatens the permanency of such salaries.

"Official authorities, except the salaries of those who hold office for life, would in the long run be adjusted to the needs of those who occupy them, and if the present policy continues, we must expect the contest between the taxpayer and the tax-eater to increase in bitterness.

"The professional classes—in the main—derive their support from the producing classes, and can only enjoy prosperity when there is prosperity. I am not tempted to describe the effect of the gold standard upon classes, in fact, I have time to mention a few, but each person will be able to apply the principle expressed to his own case. It is the earnestness of the people generally to convert their earnings into real or personal property. This being true, in considering any temporary advantage which may come from a system under which the dollar rises in its purchasing power, it must not be forgotten that the dollar cannot buy more than formerly unless property sells for less than formerly. Hence it will be seen that a large portion of those who may find some pecuniary advantage in a gold standard will discover that their losses exceed their gains.

"It is sometimes asserted by our opponents that a bank belongs to the debtor class, but this is not true of any solvent bank. Every statement published by a solvent bank shows that its assets exceed the liabilities. This is to say, while the bank owes a large amount of money to its depositors it not only has enough on hand in money and notes to pay its depositors, but, in addition thereto, has enough to cover its capital and surplus. When the dollar is rising in value slowly, a bank may, by making short time loans and taking good security, avoid loss, but, when prices are falling rapidly, the bank is apt to lose more money because of bad debts than it can gain by the increase in purchasing power of its capital and surplus.

"It must be admitted, however, that some banks combine the business of a bond broker with ordinary banking business, and these may make enough in the negotiation of loans to offset the losses arising in legitimate banking business. As long as human nature remains as it is, there will always be danger that, unless restrained by the public opinion or legal enactment, those who see a pecuniary profit for themselves in a certain condition may yield to the temptation to bring about that condition. Jefferson has stated that one of the main duties of government is to prevent men from injuring one another, and never was that duty more important than to-day. It is not strange that those who have made a profit by furnishing gold to the government in the hour of its extremity favor a financial policy which will keep the government dependent upon them. I believe, however, that I speak the sentiment of the vast majority of the people when I say that a financial policy administered in behalf of all the people would make our government independent of any combination of financiers, foreign or domestic.

"Let me say a word, now, in regard to certain persons who are pecuniarily benefited by a gold standard and who favor it, not from a desire to trespass upon the rights of others, but because the circumstances which surround them bind them to the effect that the gold standard has upon others.

How and Why It Rains.
Rain is an accumulation of the tiny particles of the vapor of the atmosphere into drops. These drops, first small of size, attract others of their kind and become drops of such magnitude that they fall to the earth because of their weight. There is a limit to the quantity of water which the air is capable of absorbing and retaining as invisible vapor. Warm air is able to hold more than cold air. Hence, when the air which is saturated with moisture becomes cold for any reason whatever, it can no longer retain its moisture. A portion must, under such condition, accumulate into drops. These fall to the earth in the shape of rain.—St. Louis Pa.

Every superintendent of a national cemetery must be an honorably discharged, disabled soldier or officer of the regular or volunteer army.

In 1880 the wages paid to cotton mill hands aggregated $42,000,000. Ten years later it had increased to $66,000,000.

The Magna Charta.
The Magna Charta was written with ordinary black ink on very heavy parchment. It is a curious fact, as stated by an eminent English historian, that of all the barons who signed that most important document not one could write other than his signature, and only two were able to write even that.

Ants' Eggs.
The egg of the ant is uniform, smooth, tight and bright, without any division. When the larva has come from it, only a very thin membrane is left, which rolls up and is reduced to an imperceptible point, and even if the egg does not hatch it is still so small as to escape the eyes. This is why these eggs are so little known, for what is commonly and improperly called the egg is really the larva and is endowed with life and motion. These eggs, or rather these larva, of ants are very much sought after by barnyard fowl.—Popular Science Monthly.

A shoemaker was fitting a customer with a pair of boots when the buyer observed that he had but one objection to them, which was that the soles were too thick. "If that is all," replied Crispin, "put on the boots, and the objection will gradually wear away."

Clever Boys They Are.

Last Friday while Leon Evans was sick and unable to personally conduct the sales at the Greenville Warehouse the buyers decided that his prices should not fall in consequence. The boys just bucked against each other and run up prices so high that it was conceded, taking quality and present condition of prices into consideration, that no warehouse in the state had ever shown a better sale. We hear the "Parson" still expressing his appreciation of the way the boys treated him.
