ORIGINAL OBSERVATION.

The well-read men ought never to get blue.

Continual fretting is the eleomargarine of trouble.

You cannot run down a person unless you follow at his heels.

The prop-her study of mankind is how to support a wife.

In base-ball playing the pitcher contains the cream of the players.

In politics the lyre is merely the accompaniment of the organ.

If you want to know what a sliding scale is try to handle a wet fish.

Weddings at the Greenbrier White are the genuine Sulphur matches.

A man doesn't know the true import of wearing a title until he gets a brick in his hat.

Love flies out of the window when a man discovers that his wife snores and likes onions.

There is a tide in the affairs of some men which, taken at the flood, carries them over the dam.

Bathing suits this season have wavy trimmings and many fur-billows. We think this is sur-ficient.

It takes the average girl longer to arrange her bangs than it does for her mother to cook breakfast.

Every man who calls the silver men "anarchist" and "repudiators" has a hoop around his head and blisters on his brain.

Only One.

The Register of Deeds had dull work issuing marriage licenses this week, only one being called for. That was for a white couple, William Taylor and Susan Harris.

The Republican Pow-Wow.

The Republicans of the county held what they called a county convention here this afternoon. It turned out to be one of the squally affairs like they used to have in years gone by, all noise and confusion. It began in a squabble and ended in uproarousness. The main cause of the fight was a scramble for pie, and because there was not enough to go around there was a bolt.

It seems, at least was so stated by one of the speakers, that this morning a proposition was submitted by the Populists offering more places on the ticket to the Republicans if the latter would fuse with them. The Republicans held a caucus, accepted the terms made by the Populists and nominated a ticket, which they asked to be read to the convention when that body met.

This action did not suit the convention but the bosses run it rough shod over them. There were loud denunciations and declarations of refusal to vote any such ticket. The ticket as fixed in the caucus was as follows:

- For Legislature—E. V. Cox.
- For Register of Deeds—J. J. Perkins.
- For County Commissioner—John Thompson.
- For Coroner—B. J. Wilson.

E. V. Cox denounced the action of the caucus in vigorous terms and said he could not accept a position on a ticket born in any such manner. A large majority of those who tried to speak amid the confusion that followed this showed by their action that they were ready to join Cox in repudiating the work of the caucus.

The convention held too late for the REFLECTOR to get anything like a full report of it this evening, but it will be given in Monday's issue.

Right.

They love pie more and silver less is the logical conclusion from the outcome of the Populist State Convention.—Durham Sun.

Eclipse.

There will be an eclipse of the moon moon about midnight to-night. The moon will be in the shadow over three hours. With a night favorable as far as clouds are concerned, the eclipse will be an interesting one. It is the one of four of the year that is visible to this part of North America. About three quarters of the moon's disk will be obscured.

Prize House Completed.

Rountree, Brown & Co. have about completed their prize house and have commenced using it. This building is one of the best equipped on the market. It has four floors for storing and hanging tobacco and a brick basement containing grading and ordering rooms. They are now well prepared to hold the weed.

A Conjuror Trapped.

The subjoined amusing anecdote is related of a renowned conjurer. He had traveled over the whole world, when he sought to try his fortune before the sultan of Morocco, says the New York Mercury.

After having successfully entertained the powerful ruler with several tricks, he determined upon closing the entertainment with the following wonderful performance:

Taking a snow-white and gray pigeon, he appeared to cut off the head of each and then to place the white head on the gray pigeon, after which they flew away, just as though nothing had been done to them.

The sultan was very enthusiastic about this performance, and having ordered two of his eunuchs, a negro and a native, to be brought forward, he commanded the conjurer to cut off both their heads and exchange them as he had done in the case of the pigeons.

The performer being somewhat taken aback at this preemptory request, he managed to retain his presence of mind and said, through his interpreter:

"Pardon, your most precious majesty. My apparatus today is only arranged for pigeons and not for men. I require at least fourteen days to prepare for the desired performance."

"Good!" replied the sultan, "the extension is granted." The conjurer hurried from the palace and lost no time in getting out of the country.

MR. BRYAN'S SPEECH.

Reconstruction of Society is Not Being Sought.

EQUALITY BEFORE THE LAW

Income Tax and Free Coinage

RESULT OF HOSTILE LEGISLATION.

"In the second place, a change in the ratio is not necessary. Hostile legislation has decreased the demand for silver and lowered its price when measured by gold, while this same hostile legislation, by increasing the demand for gold, has raised the value of gold when measured by other forms of property.

"We are told that the restoration of bimetalism would be a hardship upon those who have entered into contracts payable in gold coin, but this is a mistake. It will be easier to obtain the gold with which to meet a gold contract, when most of the people can use silver, than it is now, when we are trying to secure gold. The Chicago platform expressly declares in favor of such legislation as may be necessary to prevent, for the future, the demonetization of any kind of legal tender money by private contract. Such contracts are objected to on the ground that they are against public policy. No one questions the right of Legislatures to fix the rate of interest, which can be collected by law; there is far more reason for preventing private individuals from setting aside legal tender law. The money which is by law made a legal tender must, in the course of ordinary business, be accepted by ninety-nine out of every one hundred persons. Why should the one hundredth man be permitted to exempt himself from the general run? Special contracts have a tendency to increase the demand for a particular kind of money and thus force it to a premium. Have not the people a right to say that a comparatively few in individuals shall not be permitted to derange the financial system of the nation, in order to collect a premium in case they succeed in forcing one kind of money to a premium?

"There is another argument to which I ask your attention. Some of the opponents of free coinage point to the fact that thirteen months must elapse between the election and the first regular session of Congress, and assert that during that time, in case the people declare themselves in favor of free coinage, all loans will be withdrawn and all mortgages foreclosed. If these are merely prophecies indulged in by those who have forgotten the provisions of the Constitution, it would be sufficient to remind them that the President is empowered to convene Congress in extra session whenever the public requires such action. If in November the people, by their ballots, declare themselves in favor of the immediate restoration of bimetalism, the system can be inaugurated within a few months. If, however, the assertion that loans will be withdrawn and mortgages foreclosed is to prevent such political action as the people may believe necessary for the preservation of their rights, then a new and vital issue is raised. Whenever it is necessary for the people as a whole to obtain consent from the owners of money and the changers of money before they can legislate upon financial questions, we shall have passed from a democracy to a plutocracy. But that time has not yet arrived. Threats and intimidation will be of no avail. The people who, in 1775, rejected the doctrine that kings rule by right divine, will not in this generation, subscribe to a doctrine that money is omnipotent. In conclusion permit me to say a word in regard to international money. We are not opposed to an international agreement looking to the restoration of bimetalism throughout the world. The advocates of free coinage have on all occasions shown their willingness to co-operate with other nations for the reinstatement of silver, but they are not willing to await the pleasure of other governments when immediate relief is needed by the people of the United States, and they further believe that independent action offers better assurance of international bimetalism than servile dependence upon foreign aid.

IS THIS NATION HELPLESS?

"For more than twenty years we have invited the assistance of European nations, but all progress in the direction of international bimetalism has been blocked by the opposition of those who derive pecuniary benefit from the appreciation of gold. How long must we wait for bimetalism to be brought to us by those who profit by monometallism? If the double standard will bring benefits to our people, who will deny them the right to enjoy those benefits? If our opponents would admit the right, the ability of our people to act for themselves on all public questions, without the assistance and regardless of the wishes of other nations, and then propose the remedial legislation which they consider sufficient, we could meet them in the field of honorable debate; but when they assert that this nation is helpless to protect the rights of its own citizens we challenge them to submit the issue to a people whose patriotism has never been appealed to in vain.

"We shall not offend other nations when we declare the right of the American people to govern themselves, and, without let or hindrance from without, decide upon every question presented for their consideration. In taking this position we simply maintain the dignity of 70,000,000 citizens who are second to none in their capacity for self government.

"The gold standard has compelled the American people to pay an ever increasing tribute to the creditor nations of the world, a tribute which no one dares to defend. I assert that national honor requires the United States to secure justice for all its citizens, as well as do justice to all its creditors. For a people like ours, blest with natural resources of surpassing richness, to proclaim themselves impotent to frame a financial system suited to their own needs is humiliating beyond the power of language to describe. We cannot enforce respect for our foreign policy so long as we confess ourselves unable to frame our own financial policy.

"Honest differences of opinion have always existed and ever will exist as to the legislation best calculated to promote the public weal, but when it is seriously asserted that this nation must bow to the diction of other nations, and accept the policies which they insist upon, the right of self-government is assailed, and until that question is settled all other questions are insignificant.

TO THE CITIZENS OF NEW YORK.

"Citizens of New York, I have travelled from the center of the continent to the seaboard that I might, in the very beginning of the campaign, bring you greeting from the people of the West and South, and assure you that their desire is not to destroy but to build up. They invite you to accept the principles of a living faith, rather than listen to those who preach the gospel of despair and advise endurance of the ills you have. The advocates of free coinage believe that in striving to secure the immediate recreation of bimetalism they are laboring in your behalf as well as in their own behalf. A few of your people may prosper under present conditions, but the permanent welfare of New York rests upon the producers of wealth. This great city is built upon the commerce of the nation, and must suffer if that commerce is impaired. You cannot sell unless the people have money with which to buy, and they cannot obtain the money with which to buy unless they are able to sell their products at remunerative prices. Production of wealth goes before the exchange of wealth; those who create must secure a profit before they have anything to share with others. You cannot afford to join the money changers in supporting a financial policy which, by destroying the purchasing power of the products of toil, must in the end encourage the creation of wealth.

"I ask, I expect, your co-operation. It is true that a few of your financiers would fashion a new figure—a figure representing Columbia, her hands bound fast with fetters of gold and her face turned toward the East, appealing for assistance to those who live beyond the sea—but this figure can never express your idea of this nation. You will rather turn for the inspiration to the heroic statue which guards the entrance to your city, a statue as patriotic in conception as it is colossal in proportions; it was the gracious gift of a sister republic and stands upon a pedestal which was built by the American people—that figure, liberty enlightening the world—is emblematic of the mission of our nation among the nations of the earth. With a government which derives its powers from the consent of the governed, secures to all the people freedom of conscience, freedom of thought, and freedom of speech, guarantees equal rights to all, and promises special privileges to none, the United States should be an example in all that is good, and the leading spirit in every movement which has for its object the uplifting of the human race.

How and Why It Rains.

Rain is an accumulation of the tiny particles of the vapor of the atmosphere into drops. These drops, first small of size, attract others of their kind and become drops of such magnitude that they fall to the earth because of their weight. There is a limit to the quantity of water which the air is capable of absorbing and retaining as invisible vapor. Warm air is able to hold more than cold air. Hence, when the air which is saturated with moisture becomes cold for any reason whatever, it can no longer retain its moisture. A portion must, under such conditions, accumulate into drops. These fall to the earth in the shape of rain.—St. Louis Pa.

A Shoplifter's Ruse.

A well dressed woman recently entered a Paris jeweler's shop and asked to see some valuable gold pins, says the Pittsburg Dispatch. While she was examining them a man began playing a barrel organ before the door. The music seemed to annoy the lady, and stepping to the door she threw a piece of money to the man and told him to go away, which he did at once.

On returning to the counter she said that none of the pins suited her, but that as some compensation for the trouble she had given she would buy a brooch. She accordingly chose one, paid 10 francs for it and was leaving the shop when the jeweler missed a diamond pin of great value from among those she had been examining.

He accordingly stopped his customer, who seemed highly indignant and insisted on the jeweler's wife searching her, which was done, but no pin was found. The jeweler sent his sister to watch the woman, who was seen to enter another jeweler's shop and was pretending to make a purchase when the organ grinder made his appearance.

As soon as he began playing she again threw him some money and ordered him to move on, but the person who was watching her perceived that with the money she had given the man a piece of jewelry.

This was at once made known to the police, who arrested both and found on the man several articles of stolen jewelry.

Alias, Poor Motorman. A motorman's life is not a happy one. While the self satisfied conductor is chinking the coin in his pocket, jangling the register, pulling the bell cord or blithely mispronouncing street names, the motorman is silently grinding out his life at the brake, his mind strung to its utmost tension, and his hands and arms never for a moment idle. Yet he's the one to be blamed whenever an accident happens, without a thought being given to the many calamities which have been avoided through his alertness and precaution.—Boston Transcript.

CATARRH.

His Worst Enemy Defeated by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy.

FOR THREE YEARS HE SUFFERED—COULD HARDLY BREATHE AT NIGHT—ONE NOSTRIL CLOSED FOR 10 YEARS.

Mr. A. M. Ramsey, of DeLeon, Texas, was a sufferer from Catarrh in its worst form. Truly, his description of his sufferings seem little short of marvelous. Instead of seeking his couch, glad for the nights coming, he went to it with terror, realizing that another long, weary, wakeful night and a struggle to breathe was before him. He could not sleep on either side for two years. P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, cured him in quick time.

DE LEON, TEXAS. Messrs. LIPPMAN BROS., Savannah, Ga. Gentls: I have used nearly four bottles of P. P. P. I was afflicted from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet. Your P. P. P. has cured my difficulty of breathing, smothering, palpitation of the heart, and has relieved me of all pain. One nostril was closed for ten years, but now I can breathe through it readily. I have not slept on either side for two years; in fact, I dreaded to see night come. Now I sleep soundly in any position all night. I am 50 years old, but expect soon to be able to take hold of the plow handles. I feel glad that I was lucky enough to get P. P. P., and I heartily recommend it to my friends and the public generally. Yours respectfully, A. M. RAMSEY.

THE STATE OF TEXAS—County of Comanche.—Before the undersigned authority on this day, personally appeared A. M. Ramsey, who, after being duly sworn, says on oath that the foregoing statement made by him relative to the virtue of P. P. P. medicine is true. A. M. RAMSEY. Sworn to and subscribed before me this August 4th, 1891. J. M. LAMBERT, N. P., Comanche County, Texas.

Publicity paves the way to prosperity. If you are not an advertiser in this paper you are failing to improve the opportunity secure a larger trade.

If friends are visiting at your house let the editor know it. Don't wait for him to find it out by accident or instinct, and then think him partial or indifferent if he fails to make note of their presence.

"The constant drop of water
Wears away the hardest stone;
The constant knaw of Towser
Masticates the toughest bone;
The constant cooing lover
Carries off the blushing maid;
And the constant advertiser
Is the one who gets the trade."
