WEATHER BULLETIN.

The week ending Saturday, August 29th, 1896, no material change in the crop conditions. The weather continued quite warm the first few days, but following the rain on the 24th, cooler weather set in, and Saturday was the coolest day of August. The rain fall was poorly distributed; more occurred on the 24th than any other date; but over large portions of the State the drought really continues unabated.

EASTERN DISTRICT.—Rains occurred at a good many points on the 24th, and in south portion also on the 25th and 27th, which benefited potatoes, peas, rice and peanuts. The northern portion is dry, and rain is still needed at many other points. A cool wave prevailed the latter part of the week. Old corn is fine and will soon be ready to gather. Cotton practically past improvement, is about half open and being picked rapidly. Where rains occurred many turnips were planted. Much flooded ground on Roanoke has been planted in peas for hay. Haying is progressing with favorable weather.

CENTRAL DISTRICT.—Good rains occurred at many points on the 24th but large portions of the district are still suffering from drought. Cooler weather last of week very agreeable. The rain and wind-storm did some damage to cotton in portions of Richmond, Rockingham and Anson counties. Where rain occurred late corn revived somewhat, and potatoes and peas improved, and some farmers were enabled to plant turnip seed. Little or no improvement in cotton, which looks dry and is no longer growing. Picking is progressing in earnest. Fodder is nearly all pulled; earliest known. Tobacco cures thin and what is left of that crop seems very poor. Pea-vine hay being cut. Ground too dry for fall plowing.

WESTERN DISTRICT.—The weather continued warm until the latter part of the week; drought still prevails, though some favorable showers occurred on the 24th, benefiting late corn in the west. Cotton-picking has progressed uninterruptedly; much shrinking in size of bolls as well as shedding occurred, but some late cotton is reported as blooming nicely. Fodder-pulling is still going on, and hay-making is underway. Considerable tobacco is still to be cured. Sweet potatoes and field peas fairly good; poor stand of turnips. Ground too dry at present to do fall plowing.

A new magazine is called what to Eat. That is not what's bothering the people, however. Where to Get It is the leading question.

The negro has been given civil liberty and he has deliberately taken upon himself the chains of political slavery. The only difference: Before the war the negro was a slave, but he got his board and clothes from his master. Now he works for the Republican party the year round for nothing and boards and clothes himself.—Durham Sun.

The Republicans have engaged a school of whales as orators in this campaign—they are great spouters.

The cheapest garment some people wear is the cloak of religion, but they expect it to cover a multitude of sins.

The proverb says, "Laugh and grow fat." What a saving of corn it would be if hogs could laugh.

Major Guthrie in his speech at Wadesboro last Saturday, speaking of Cyrus Watson, said he was going to meet him next week and ask him some questions. As to Russell, he was in the bushes and wouldn't come out. ("Why don't you shake him out?") Neither the Republican or Populist party owed Russell one debt of gratitude. The Major spoke of Russell's calling the negroes savages, and saying that they would steal six days in the week. Will you vote for such a man as that? ("We ain't gwine to vote for him, nuther.") ("He an't gwine to get my vote.") This part of the speech aroused much seeming indignation against Russell, and he shouted: "Why don't he come down here and meet the charges? "And yet," he added, "he came up to the Legislature last time, with a lot of bills, and was the biggest bull in the pen." (Laughter.)

"Are you going to vote for a man who won't meet his competitor?"

A volley of "Noes" came forth in answer to this question. The Major continued to scorch Russell, saying he had turned tail and run (laughter), and exclaimed: "Drop him like you would a hot potato!" ("Dat we will!")

"Do you want a man who calls you savages?" ("Naw, sah!" with accent, accent on the 'sah'—an' we ain't gwine to hab'm, nuther.")

This does not look as if Mr. Russell is going to have much support from the Populists, and yet there are Republicans in these parts who are telling that many of the Populist will vote for Russell and not for Guthrie. It seems from the Major that not many negroes are even going to vote for the man who seems to hate everybody.

We trust the day will never come when North Carolina will have a Russell for its governor.

SOME BODY IN A HOLE.

Below we give some extracts from Col. Dockery's speech at Wadesboro last Saturday as given by Mr. Christian who was present. It shows what a pretty plight the Republicans are in. When their Executive Committee met after the Populist State Convention they at once put on their (Republican) ticket all the nominees of the Populists except Hal Ayer. They put Dockery on and said "didn't we put the Populists in a hole when we got them to nominate Dockery." It looks now like somebody else is in a hole. Here is a man defiantly abusing every body connected with the Republican ticket and yet he is on for Lieutenant Governor, on that ticket. He says it will be late when he accepts on their ticket. He shows that they are all for gold and advises the Populists not to vote for anybody who favors the gold standard. Read what Col. Dockery says and you will pity the pitiable condition of a party forced to put him up and vote for him on a ticket which he denounces. Here is the report of the speech:

Col. Dockery came forward. ("God bless you," said a negro voice, almost reverently). The Colonel said he had a chill on him, as he arose. "In some essential features, the Colonel exclaimed in the very next breath, "the Republicans are wrong this time, and I am not going with them in this election?"

This startled the crowd. The Colonel said he had helped to draw the Republican resolutions in favor of free coinage. He referred to the convention of two years ago, at which he appointed Loge Harris as chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, and told him not to fail to frame a resolution on free coinage, and Loge said he would.

He had been true to this resolution, and here had come along that man Russell, who had swindled him out of the nomination; not that he wanted it, "If I had gotten it, knowing that McKinley was going to be put up on a gold plank, I would not have accepted it."

Russell and Pritchard are coming out now for gold, though they were for silver, and Russell once for greenbacks. "I am not made out of that kind of dirt. They are in it for the pie. I can get my pie made at home. I am for free silver, and I am against any party that is against free silver. I can't advise you to vote for McKinley, because I don't think it's right; I know it's not right." He scoffed at gold bugs who said the times were never better. Such men ought to be put in jail and locked up with sixteen keys. The speaker eulogized Clay, and plead for protection of labor, though he was not as high a protective man as some. He would not to-day vote for the McKinley bill, if he were in Congress. It was simply a tub thrown to the whale. He was in favor of moderate protection that would not rob one part of the country for the benefit of another. When this bill had first been passed, during his absence abroad, he had called his son and said, "Claude, look at it Claude, it is fatal to the success of the Republican party!"

Col. Dockery reviewed the history of coinage in this country down to 1873, saying that all went along smoothly until then, when something happened that wasn't done in daylight—as things like that ought to be done. He said silver was, in 1873, worth 103 and asked why did they take the highest metal to demonetize. It was a conspiracy from Europe and Wall street. Then he told a funny joke, illustrating the preciousness of gold, which raised a great laugh, an old negro, who was afraid to pick up a piece of gold in the road saying: "Naw sah, I ain' gwine tech dat; dat's white man's money; mout be 'hind de tree to shoot ef I dar' to pick it up."

Then he exclaimed: "I never will deceive the people. I had rather live all my life on hoe-cake than do injustice to my convictions!"

"Well, tell us about Russell!" cried a voice. "Russell was the man who swindled me out of my nomination. They put a man in as chairman (referring to Marshall Mott) who went there pledged to me from Wilkes county, who sold out, bought out, went out, did something, declared Russell nominated when the whole convention cried 'no, no.'"

Col. Dockery formally announced himself as candidate for the Lieutenant-Governor. He was not a Populist; he was only in accord with the Populists. He was a silver Republican. He twitted Guthrie again, saying he had boxed the compass, but that he had improved with each change. The Colonel spoke with vehemence, saying some of the Republicans, he knew were going to pitch into him now: "Let 'em pitch and be darned." (Laughter)

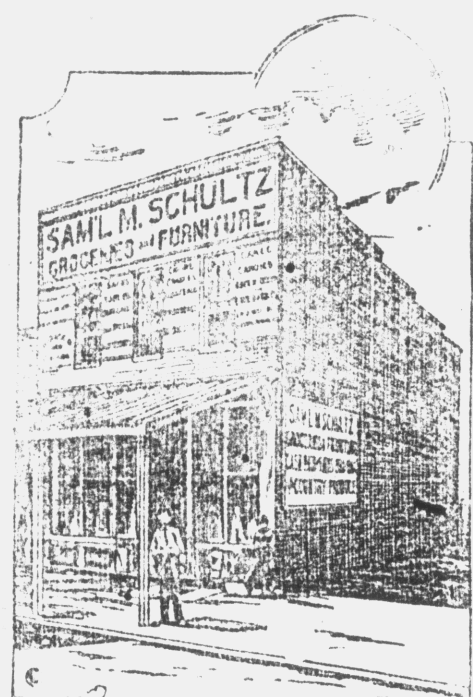

"In 1888 Russell wanted to run for Governor. His brother Tom came to my house, and asked me if I wanted the nomination; I said, 'No, I don't care a snag for it.' 'Well,' said Tom, 'if you don't, brother Dan does.' I told him I would say more; I would send letters declining the nomination; I would go and put his brother Dan in nomination." The Colonel told how surprised he was at the telegram announcing his unanimous nomination, "and no one expected it less than I." He told how he was prevailed upon by his good wife to take the nomination against his will. He had taken it to get the appointment he got in order to pay off some security debts. He had handled about $200,000,000 while Consul at Rio, and when he got back to settle, he had $1,200 to his credit and he was told that he was the first man who had come back from abroad who was not sued for some balance. He had learned more in those four years abroad than he could in forty on the Pee Dee, and there in Rio it was that he had studied the questions of tariff and finance and had changed his views.

The Colonel rehearsed here the arguments of the gold bugs in the conventional way, and said he felt like stopping, but that he would come back to Wadesboro soon (Cries of "go on! go on!") and make them a speech that would satisfy them. He was worn and worried now, he said, from the tension he had been through during his son's sickness.

He was a party man, "but when my party leaves me, I say 'Go it, boots, you'll get there after awhile.' I am a silver man, and I shall advocate the election of Bryan and Watson, cry it over the world if you want to! I care nothing about the gold-bugs; it's the laboring people I care about."

He referred to Russell as "that bogus Governor," who had said then that fusion was a failure, and how he came to run for the first office he could get. He had denounced you as thieves and your mothers before you, and had written to men in the north trying to disfranchise you. The speaker said that he had never scratched a colored man on a ticket in his life, and the first man Major Guthrie had ever voted for was a negro. He spoke of how Democrats had kept the negro out of his vote and excited considerable murmur among the negroes. He continued in this bloody-shirt strain for some little time, and said the fight had then to be made against this by alliance with the Populists. "We whipped them and we want to whip them again. I want you to elect Maj. Guthrie; I don't care whether you elect me or not. I am on two tickets. I was simply put on that Republican ticket simply as a safety-valve, to keep the old ship from sinking. They may put me on that ticket if they like, but it will be late in the day before I'll accept it. I want to travel with friends when I travel. I want to travel with gentlemen." The welfare of everything demands that we stand together now for silver. Pritchard was setting the woods on fire for silver. Now, what is he? For silver until the 4th of March; after that for gold. What's that? That's pie. Pritchard was at the convention two years ago. Russell was dodging as he is now. " (Wha was he?) " "I reckon he was down there writing to the savages." It Russell would find out that he had more brains in his belly than he had in his head. He extended to all an invitation to come up to the polls in November and vote right, and took his seat amid cheers and laughter, and all kinds of approval, having spoken for a little over an hour.

CATARRH.

His Worst Enemy Defeated by
P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy.

FOR THREE YEARS HE SUFFERED—COULD

HARDLY BREATHE AT NIGHT—ONE NOSTRIL CLOSED FOR 10 YEARS.

Mr. A. M. Ramsey, of DeLeon, Texas, was a sufferer from Catarrh in its worst form. Truly, his description of his sufferings seem little short of marvelous. Instead of seeking his couch, glad for a night's rest, he went to it with terror, realizing that another long, weary, wakeful night and a struggle to breathe was before him. He could not sleep on either side for two years. P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, cured him in quick time.

DE LEON, TEXAS.
 Messrs. LIPPMAN BROS., Savannah, Ga. Gentls: I have used nearly four bottles of P. P. P. I was afflicted from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet. Your P. P. P. has cured my difficulty of breathing, smothering, palpitation of the heart, and has relieved me of all pain. One nostril was closed for ten years, but now I can breathe through it readily. I have not slept on either side for two years; in fact, I dreaded to see night come. Now I sleep soundly in any position all night. I am 50 years old, but expect soon to be able to take hold of the plow handles. I feel glad that I was lucky enough to get P. P. P., and I heartily recommend it to my friends and the public generally.
 Yours respectfully,
 A. M. RAMSEY.

THE STATE OF TEXAS—County of Comanche.—Before the undersigned authority on this day, personally appeared A. M. Ramsey, who, after being duly sworn, says on oath that the foregoing statement made by him relative to the virtue of P. P. P. medicine is true.
 A. M. RAMSEY.
 Sworn to and subscribed before me this August 4th, 1891.

THE PARTY PLATFORMS IN A NUTSHELL.

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM. The democratic platform reaffirms the allegiance of the party to the principles of Jefferson—freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of conscience, the preservation of personal rights, equality before the law, and home rule. It demands— Free silver at 16 to 1. That bond issues in times of peace shall cease. That the government, and not the banks, shall issue the paper money. That the tariff shall be for revenue only. That there shall be an income tax. That immigration be restricted. That the powers of the interstate railroad commission shall be increased. The extravagance of republican congresses is denounced. Interference by the federal government in local affairs is condemned. Government by injunction and rule of the courts by contempt proceedings are denounced. Refusal of congress to refund the Pacific debts is approved. The ruling of the pension commissioner against arbitrarily dropping names from the rolls is endorsed. The admission of New Mexico and Arizona is approved. Sympathy for Cuba is expressed. Life tenure in office is condemned. Devotion to civil and religious liberty is proclaimed. Arbitration of strikes is recommended.

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM. The preamble is an arraignment of the democratic party, which is charged with causing all the hard times, bond issues, etc.; and the party's record is held up for comparison with that of the republicans. The platform speaks for—

FAYETTEVILLE MILITARY ACADEMY FAYETTEVILLE, N. C.

Recognized as a school of the VERRY FIRST RANK. Prepares for any college or for business. Students admitted to colleges of Va. and N. C. on certificate. Teachers and pupils form our household, thus making the home element very prominent. Number of boarders limited. The individuality of the student is constantly kept in view. Classes small and best personal work given to each cadet. The discipline is strict but parental. WE REFER TO ANY PATRON. Write for catalogue. COL. T. J. BREWERY, C. E., Principal.

PEACE FOR YOUNG LADIES INSTITUTE. Raleigh, N. C.

No superior work done anywhere, North or South. It has now the best faculty it has ever had. The advantages offered in Literature, Languages, Music and Art are unsurpassed. Address [University of Virginia.] Princip Protective tariff; reciprocity. Protection to sugar producers. Protection to wool growers. Restoration of the American merchant marine. Preservation of the existing gold standard and no free coinage of silver except by international agreement, which the party pledges itself to promote. Pensions to war veterans. Vigorous foreign policy. Control of the Hawaiian islands. Building and control of the Nicaraguan canal. Purchase of the Danish islands. Active work on the part of the United States to restore peace in Cuba. Maintenance of the Monroe doctrine. Strengthening of the navy. Exclusion of immigrants who cannot read and write. Continuance of the civil service laws. Free ballot. No lynch law. National arbitration of strikes. Public lands for homesteads. Admission of the territories to statehood as soon as possible. Representation in congress for Alaska. The platform expresses horror over the Armenian massacres; sympathy with efforts for temperance and approves equal pay for equal work for men and women.

POPULIST PLATFORM.

The populist platform says that through executive power and patronage the will of the people has been thwarted and plutocracy has been enthroned on the ruins of democracy. It demands— Free silver at 16 to 1. Increase in the volume of the currency. That no more bonds shall be issued except by specific act of congress. That demonetization of lawful money by contract shall be prohibited. That the government shall exercise its option in paying its obligations in either gold or silver. That a graduated income tax shall be levied. That postal savings banks shall be established. That the government shall own and operate the railroad and telegraph lines. That the Pacific railroad lines shall be foreclosed. That the grants of railroad lines not needed by the roads shall be reclaimed and held for settlers. That the initiative and referendum by which the people can vote on the enactment of laws shall be inaugurated. That the president, vice president and senators shall be elected by direct vote of the people. The platform expresses sympathy for Cubans; favors home rule in the District of Columbia and the early admission of the territories to statehood; favors just pensions, denounces rule of the court by contempt proceedings and denounces ballot-box frauds.
