A New Intruder.

M. H. Jones, of this city, has had some of his plum and pear trees infested with some kind of insects. He cut twigs from the trees and sent them to H. B. Battle, director of the N. C. Agricultural Experiment Station.

Dr. Battle writes that the plum twigs show that they are infested with the San Jose scale, the scientific name of which is Aspidiotus perniciosus. The pear twigs were infested with oyster shell scale, the scientific name being Mytilosporium. The first named is said to be one of the worst and most destructive pests known to the orchardist. It has only been recently reported from this State, but in California and some of the northern States it has ruined many thousands of trees.

The second named pest is common and injurious in many apple and pear orchards, but has not the destructive qualities that the San Jose scale has.

The following formula how to prepare a scale wash, to be used after the leaves fall and before they emerge in the spring, was given:

Whale oil soap dissolved in water and used hot. Two pounds of soap to each gallon of water. Apply with a sprayer or use a scrubbing brush.

Another and less expensive treatment is "winter scale wash," formula No. 5, bulletin 120, of the experiment Station, a copy of which will be sent to all who are troubled with these pests. This wash must be used only during winter, or dormant season of trees. It will require two thorough applications—one in the fall and one in the early spring.

This information may be of incalculable benefit to many people in Durham and vicinity, hence we give it to our readers. —Durham Sun.

Another Good Man Dead.

Mr. Robert Turnage, aged 76 years, died at his daughter's, Mr. Martha Joyner, Wednesday night at 10 o'clock. Mr. Turnage was one of Pitt county's oldest citizens. He leaves a host of relatives and friends to mourn his departure. He had a large family of children, many of whom are still living. G. L. Henry C., and A. P. Turnage are his sons; Mrs. Martha Joyner, Mrs. Sarah Sheppard, Mrs. Selecta Moore, Mrs. Dicey Gainor and Mrs. Julia Fields are his daughters. Those who knew him best loved him most. His was a quiet, consistent pilgrimage through life and his highest aim was to do unto others as he would have them do unto him. Twenty years ago he witnessed the death of his wife, whom he laid away in the family grave yard where his remains were interred this evening.

Judge Brown's Joke.

Judge Brown is a free silver man and he made some facetious remarks along that line. A prisoner was found guilty and the Judge, before passing sentence, asked what the costs were. The clerk said about thirty-nine dollars. "I suspend judgment on payment of costs," said the Judge, "thirty-nine dollars is punishment enough under a gold standard.—Ex.

Superior Court begins here next Monday.

The south bound freight was over three hours late this afternoon.

Our wire reports show a decline in cotton today, ranging from 11 to 16 points.

Don't wait until time for the train to leave in the morning and then rush up to the depot to get a ticket. Go early and give the agent time to sell tickets without being rushed.

Good Work for Greenville and Eastern North Carolina.

That is a good work Col. I. A. Sugg has engaged in and should be appreciated by every citizen of eastern North Carolina, and especially of Pitt county. Col. Sugg has interested himself in having a photograph taken of the largest bright tobacco break that ever occurred on any one floor of the Greenville market since its establishment, this was on Tuesday, 15th inst., at the Eastern Warehouse, the exact number of pounds sold that day being 46,632.

Col. Sugg is also having a photograph taken of the Greenville tobacco market, representing the warehouses, prizehouses, &c., covering the market surroundings as a whole. The photographs will appear in the American Agriculturist, and in the Year Book now being prepared by Col. J. B. Killbrew, a veteran statistician of Tennessee. Col. Sugg has also prepared an article on Eastern North Carolina and Pitt county as a tobacco section, which will appear in connection with the photographs. He desires the names of several hundred farmers and business men to whom a copy of the Agriculturist may be sent free, such as feel interested and would appreciate the development of the "New Golden Belt."

It is evident that Col. Sugg feels the greatest possible interest in Pitt county as he has always shown and thinks it the greatest section in the Union, and wants the world to know it.

Slavin Defeats Kilrain.

Baltimore, Md., September 15.—Ex-Champion Jake Kilrain was knocked out by Frank P. Slavin at the Eureka Club tonight.

The Baltimore heavyweight was little more than a punching bag for the Australian, and it took him but two and a quarter minutes to put the ex-champion out.

Kilrain was very fat, and it was evident when he appeared in the ring that he was in no condition to meet Slavin, who was trained to the hour. Kilrain's weight was announced as 210 pounds, but he looked at least fifteen pounds heavier, Slavin weighed 194.

Beware of Pickpockets.

Chairman Manly has published a warning to people going to hear Bryan speak to look out for pickpockets who work such large crowds. So when you go to Rocky Mount Friday keep a watch for these rascals and don't let your pockets get picked.

OTHER LOCALS.

The Academy boys have got a new foot ball and started up the game.

Some people spend enough time grieving over spilt milk to buy a new cow.

An additional room is being built to the central office of the telephone exchange.

Jesse Speight has moved his office into the Forbes building on Five Points.

The town tax list has been placed in the hands of the collector and he gives notice for people to settle with him.

It everybody goes who says they are, Rocky Mount will catch most of the Greenville and Pitt county folks tomorrow.

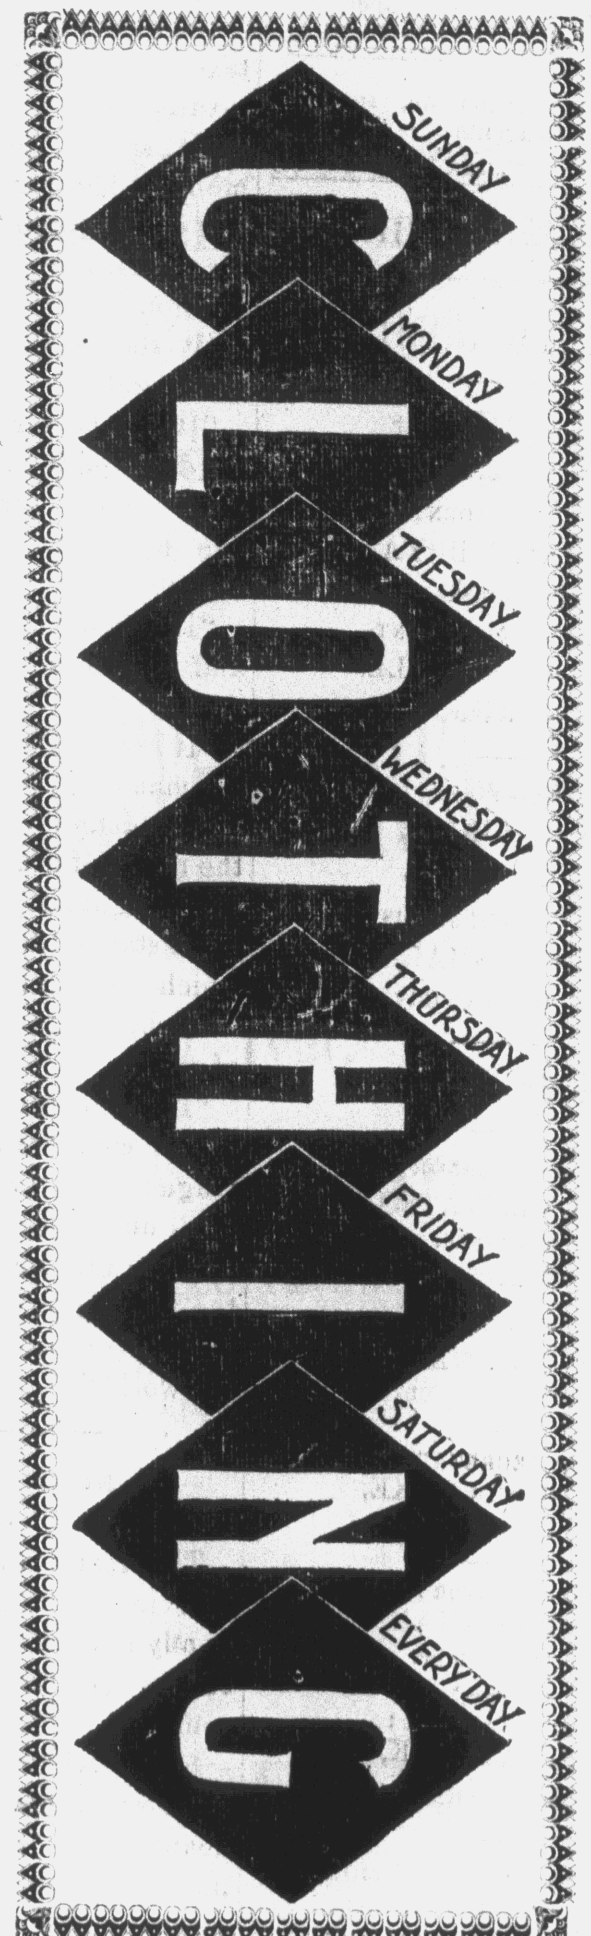

It can never be repeated too often; When money is plenty, work seeks the man; when money is scarce, the man, in vain seeks work.

G. A. McGowan & Co., Undertakers and Funeral Directors, have an advertisement in the REFLECTOR. They can furnish any kind of cases and give prompt service.

What McKinleyism Stands For.

McKinley says: "No one need be in doubt about what the republican party stands for."

To which the Topeka Co-operator makes reply: "No, if there ever was a doubt it has been dispelled."

"It stands today for all that the American people do not want."

"It stands for what benefits the bond-gamblers of Wall street."

"It stands for protection to American laborers' one day in the year, and then legislate against them the other 364 days."

"It stands for the wealth consumers and against the wealth producers."

"It stands for 10-cent corn, 30-cent wheat and 5 cent cotton."

"It stands for the policy of making the poor man pay the bulk of taxes while the rich go free of taxation."

"It stands for two kinds of money—one for the bondholder and gold gambler and the other for the farmer, mechanic and old pensioners."

"It stands for high taxes and low wages."

"It stands for a policy that has filled our jails and almshouses."

"It stands for landlordism on one hand and pauperism on the other."

"It stands for scarce money and low prices of labor's products."

"It stands for money as against the man."

"It stands for the doctrine that the rights of property are superior to the rights of person."

"It stands for a financial policy which a trial of years have brought the country on the verge of ruin."

"It stands for gold monometalism, a conspiracy which in the language of Secretary Carlisle 'will ultimately entail more misery upon the human race than all the wars, pestilence and famines that has occurred in the history of the world.'"

NO INDICATION.

The result of Monday's election in Maine must not be taken as any indication as to the result of the national contest in November.

Long before the election the State was conceded to the Republicans—it has always been Republican—and no one expected anything different than what is shown of Monday's contest. However, the Republican host are making a great do over what they term the victory in Maine, but are keeping very quiet over the Democratic victory in Arkansas, and the same will be the case when they hear from Georgia, and a number of other States soon to be heard from.—Norfolk Virginian.

The Republicans have captured Maine, and of course there will be loud crowing. But inasmuch as the Republicans are in the habit of capturing Maine it doesn't seem that they have any particular reason to paint the towns red this time. But they are exceedingly rejoiced when they hold their own these days. The Democrats had no expectation of carrying the State, and made no pretensions to it.—Wilmington Star.

A HOUSEHOLD NAME.

Royal Baking Powder and the Secret of Its Success.

"Royal Baking Powder" is a household word pretty much the civilized world over, and the article itself has become a necessity in thousands and thousands of families in nearly every civilized country. Much of the success of this splendid preparation is due to judicious advertising, but in greater degree its success is due to the fact that it is exactly what it is represented to be. One of its great recommendations is its high leavening power. That, of course, appeals to every housewife. It secures a light baking with the least amount of attention and trouble. It can be counted upon. But it has a virtue beyond that—its virtue of virtues lies in the fact that it is "absolutely pure." Royal Baking Powder contains nothing deleterious. It can be used with perfect confidence, and with the certainty that so far as is concerned, the baking will be thoroughly wholesome. It has been subjected to the most searching analysis, and pronounced free from impurities or chemical ingredients that are harmful to the system. By abhorring honestly and conscientiously to their formula, the manufacturers of Royal Baking Powder have established for it a reputation that has made it, as it were, a great staple. It is a boon to the housewife and cook, and a reproach to all that would adulterate food products in any manner, shape or form. In short, it is a perfect baking powder, in that it combines the highest leavening power attainable with purity in the highest degree.

A Sensible Populist.

"I do not propose to throw my vote away on the Presidential ticket," said a true silver Populist to the editor one day this week. "I am for silver and I want Bryan to get the electoral vote of North Carolina. If an agreement is not reached between Populists and Democrats, I shall cast my vote for Bryan and Sewall electors." This is the right way to look at it. All the silver voters should do likewise.—Franklin Times.

He Built a Dam.

All kinds of animals do wonderful things without ever being taught. Each in its own line inherits an education which in common language goes by the name of instinct. The Woman's Journal gives this story of a beaver.

A college professor in Maine tells how he convinced a friend who did not believe that beavers could build a dam. He bought a baby beaver of a hunter and sent it to his skeptical friend.

The creature became a great pet in the house, but showed no signs of wanting to build a dam until one Monday morning a leaky pail full of water was put on the floor of the back kitchen. The beaver was there. He was only a baby, to be sure, but the moment he saw the water oozing out of a crack in the pail he scampered into the yard, brought in a chip and began his work.

His owner was called and watched the little fellow, very much astonished at what he saw. He gave orders to have the pail left where it was, and the industrious beaver kept at his work four weeks, when he had built a solid dam all around the pail.

Why He Stopped His Paper.

A recent subscriber to a Georgia newspaper writes to the editor to stop his paper and makes this explanation:

"I think people ought to spend their money for papers mi daddy didn't and everybody sed he was the intelligentest man in the kentry and had the smartest family of boys that ever dug taters."

CHEFS OF NEW YORK.
Important Personages In Clubs—Valuable Wives Who Are Cooks.

Cooks were men of high pay and much distinction in old Greek days, and they have come to be persons of consideration in modern New York. When a man, lunching at a club the other day, found a particular dish especially to his taste, he asked, with some hesitation, whether the cook could be persuaded to reveal the secret of its composition. The head waiter thought he might and undertook to be the diplomatic intermediary between the dining room and the kitchen. There came in reply an inquiry from the gentleman below stairs as to whether the gentleman above stairs could read French, and when this query had been answered in the affirmative there came from the nether region the recipe, neatly written and well expressed in that language, upon the note paper of the club. The club member sent his respects and acknowledgments to the invisible potentate of the kitchen, and thus an agreeable incident came to an end.

Nearly all clubs and considerable hotels have French cooks, male, of course, though it is usual in small clubs to employ as second cook a woman. The chef in a large club has as many assistants as he demands and is a personage of the highest consideration, well paid, much deferred to, and, as far as possible, conciliated. Cooks maintain their ancient reputation for ill temper, and the company in the luncheon room of a Fifth avenue club was startled one day to see some sort of kitchen underling burst into the apartment, actively pursued by the raging cook, butcher knife in hand, bent upon doing execution upon the frightened offender. A good club cook costs from $750 to $1,200 a year, and there are some who receive much higher salaries.

One finds in some of the smaller French restaurants a woman cook, perhaps the wife of the proprietor, a tireless creature who labors late and early and manages by her peculiar gift to confer a special reputation upon the place. A wife such as that is an unspeakable treasure to any restaurant keeper, for not only does she do the work of a skilled and well paid man and keep it up for twice as many hours as he can be induced to stay in the kitchen, but, above all, the cooks that are at the same time wives, whatever their peculiar traits and however ill their tempers, do not "give notice." The services of such a wife can hardly be valued in money, and widowed indeed is the man that loses her.

A pleasing feature of a restaurant that has now, alas, deserted the old French quarter for the new was the occasional presence of the cook, clad all in white, his paper hat on his head, in the dining room among the guests. He knew some of the regular patrons, and it was his custom to honor one or another by taking a seat at his side and entering into conversation. The chef in most clubs, hotels and restaurants is an object of awe to all his fellow servants, if indeed the cook may, even by implication, be called a servant. His moods are watched; his moments of rage are indulged. The waiter that must carry to the kitchen a dish that has been rejected in the dining room sneaks in with fear and trembling and endeavors to propitiate him whose art has been called in question. The cook comes in for a large share of the Christmas box at every club. Though he may be unknown by sight to any member of the club, and a stranger even to the house committee, he is known by his deeds, and he stands firmly for all his rights and privileges. To dismiss so great a man is a duty that few care to take upon themselves, and to admonish him is the most delicate and diplomatic of tasks.—New York Sun.

A Tongue Twister.

Try it yourself, very slowly and carefully, until you can say it easily; then pass it along to your friends. Here it is:

"She stood at the gate, welcoming him in."

Ten to one a person trying to pronounce the sentence for the first time will fumble it laughably. These tongue twisting sentences, however, are good elocutionary exercises. They give you control of your vocal organs, so that you can enunciate properly, just as finger exercises on the piano or organ give control of the fingers.

What an immense amount of mechanical practice does it require to establish anything like a close sympathy between the brain and the physical organs!

Wilson Air-Tight Heater.

With Patent Automatic Smoke Doors.

The Wilson Heater, which is a stove for house heating, is the most remarkable that has ever been patented.

In the first place it radiates more heat than any stove known, and will save 25 per cent. in fuel over any stove made.

Second, with two or three ordinary sticks of pine stove wood it will keep the fire from 36 to 48 hours, and with ordinary care the fire will never go out.

Third, being entirely closed at the base there is no danger of fire, and it is the cleanest stove in use. It is not necessary to remove the ashes oftener than once a month. These stoves are made in different styles—the small one, which is made for bed rooms, is specially recommended for health as well as comfort.

The Wilson Heater has a great advantage over any similar stove, because it has Patent Automatic Smoke Doors, which prevent the smoke from coming into the room when you take the top off to put in the wood. These doors are so constructed that they can be taken off and put back on in one minute. These stoves can be seen at our store, come and look at them.
