SPARKS & ALLEN'S CIRCUS

Coming to Greenville on Wednesday,
Sept. 30.

Take a trip to Sparks & Allen's colossal one-ring circus. Its true there is only one ring, but it's big enough for the biggest show on earth, and the horses do not have to lay out in the air like cards shot through the wind when they go around. This is said to be as good a circus as ever you crawled under the canvas to see and as wholesome and refreshing as the pies mother used to bake. You'll enjoy this show more than anything you ever saw under any canvas, and you'll have a chance to compare the talking and singing clowns of long ago with the latter-day ones. There are five singing, talking and grotesque clowns with this show, to say nothing of a corps of leapers, tumblers, gymnasts, aerialists and equestrians, besides a big museum of curiosities and one of the greatest schools of trained animals ever exhibited under a circus tent.

The admission is only 25 cents for adults and 10 cents children.

A free balloon ascension and thrilling parachute jump will be given twice daily—at 1 and 7 p. m. on date of performance; this free for everybody, whether you attend the circus or not. Above all, keep in mind the day and date, which is Wednesday, Sept. 30. See ad. in today's paper.

George Davis, murder, guilty in second degree, sentenced 15 years in penitentiary.

Kenny Edwards, assault with intent to commit rape, guilty.

James Moore, retailing without license, submits, fined $10 and costs.

Orange For-man, carrying concealed weapons, submits judgment suspended on payment of costs.

J. A. Whichard, bastardy, guilty.

J. J. Jones, retailing without license, not guilty.

Gets a Bad Fall.

Agent J. R. Moore, of the Coast Line, met with an accident, Thursday afternoon, that came near proving serious. He was attending to loading some cars with tobacco, when the gangway from the platform to the car, upon which he was standing at the time, slipped and fell. Mr. Moore was thrown four feet to the ground, falling flat of his back. A man of his size getting such a fall, it is a wonder he was not seriously injured. As it was, he was considerably bruised and shaken up.

Loses an Arm.

Mr. Cornelius Barnhill, near Grindool, met with a serious accident, Wednesday, in which he lost an arm. Mr. Barnhill was at work about his gin and got his arm caught in the saws. The limb was so badly lacerated and broken that amputation was necessary. The operation was performed by Drs. F. W. Brown and Charles Laughinghouse. Mr. Barnhill has much sympathy in his misfortune.

Public Speaking.

Hon. Cyrus B. Watson, Democratic candidate for Governor, will speak at Kinston, Wednesday, Oct. 14. Snow Hill, Thursday, Oct. 15. Greenville, Friday, Oct. 16. Washington, Saturday, Oct. 17.

Last Year and This

A few days ago a practical farmer, and a good judge of tobacco was out at the Warehouses walking around looking at prices. The sales were over and he had examined several piles he walked into the office and said to one of the warehousemen, "well, I have a good lot of tobacco all graded out which I should like to sell, but really tobacco is so low that I hate to put mine on the market now.

The warehouseman asked him to go with him back on the floor and without looking at the price at which the tobacco sold that day asked him to price it according to the way it sold last year. The first pile the farmer examined pretty closely and finally said, "well, last year that tobacco would have sold for 15 cents." The warehouseman showed him the tag and it was marked 18 cents. "Oh," said the farmer "you just picked out that pile because it sold aigh." "Very well," said the tobacco man, "we will examine any pile on the floor," and in the presence of a number of farmers they went to several piles and there was not a single pile that did not sell for more money that day than it was priced by last years prices.

The trouble this year with tobacco is this, it is by far the most inferior crop that we have ever had and farmers are not governed so much by the quality of the tobacco as they are by the prices they got last year for tobacco that was at least on an average 25 per cent better than this crop, hence a great deal of the talk of low prices.

"Good Lord—How 'Bout Dis?"

Standing on the platform at the depot Thursday, two colored men stood talking in earnest conversation when the train, bearing Mr. Bryan and escort, rolled in, and seeing the great mass of humanity making such a rush and huddling together, one said to the other: "Good Lord, how 'bout dis? Is all dese people gwine ter vote for dat man? He'll be 'lected right ha'r.—Concord Standard.

Good Cotton Picking.

Worth Lyles, an 18-year old boy who lives in No. 5 township, makes a splendid record in cotton picking. For eighteen work days he has averaged 215 pounds each day, and on Wednesday last the young fellow pulled out 302 pounds. Mr. Lyles picked several hundred pounds more than three bales during the three weeks.—Concord Standard.

To Receive $2 a Day.

Some of the Populists are quoted as saying that, under a special act the election registrars are to get $2 a day for the five days they work. Under the new election law they get 1 cent for each name registered. There is practically a new registration almost all over the State.—Raleigh Press-Visiter.

The Difference.

Today a physician asked, what is the difference between Sparks circus and McKinley? When it was given up he announced that Sparks has a show in North Carolina while McKinley has not.

GENTLEMEN'S FINE CLOTHING! A SPECIALTY.

Hotel Etiquette.

A gentleman of Carrolton, who has lately returned from the west, has brought with him a copy of some of the rules he found posted in a hotel dining room.

The hotel was the "Rustlers' Rest," at Little Cayuse Creek, Col. The "Rules for the Guidance of Guests" follow:

"All gents with shooting irons or other weapons must check them before entering the dining room. Waiters are too scarce to be killed.

"Gents are requested not to attract waiters' attention by throwing things at them. This is no deaf-mute asylum.

"Seven kinds of pie are given with every dinner.

"Tablecloths are changed every Sunday.

"Our food is all of the best quality. Our milk is pure, eggs new-laid and the butter speaks for itself.

"Guests tipping waiters must pay funeral benefits in case one should die from heart disease.

"No more than six eggs will be given each at a sitting. Any guest found trying to work off shells on a neighbor will be fired from the table.

"Biscuits found riveted together can be opened with a chise supplied by a waiter. The use of dynamite is strictly forbidden.

"Disputes over articles of food must be settled outside.

"Don't lasso the waiters, because the guest who can't throw the rope will be at a disadvantage.

"Gents can take off their coats if they want to, but they must keep on their vests."—Baltimore Sun.

An Orland (Me.) woman whose husband came home drunk and got her out of bed, heels first, ran to the street and grabbing a cobblestone hurled it through the window with such force that it took the curve out of the balloon jib of his waistcoat in a way that was painful to him. He came out to grapple with her, but she laid him low with a fence rail, and then went to the house and threw all his bottles of liquor into the gutter, breaking them. The couple had a brief argument in court the next day and now live happily together with a perfect understanding of each other's humors.

J. L. SUGG, Esq.,
Agent Accident Department,
Aetna Life Ins. Co.,
Greenville, N. C.

Dear Sir:—I hold accident policy No. 9787 in your Company.

On the 23rd day of June, 1896, while superintending work at my saw-mill my arm was crushed between two logs.

On the 27th day of August I filed my claim with your company for indemnity for two weeks, claiming $25. Your company, noting that my disability was for a period longer than I claimed, sent me their check dated Sept. 1st, 1896, for $26.78. This is a striking contrast with companies which prefer to steal a claim instead of paying the full amount.

I thank you and your company for this prompt and generous settlement, having paid me more than I claimed.

I commend your excellent company to those desiring the best insurance.

Yours very truly,
W. E. PROCTER.

A DOCTOR'S STORY.

Showing the Ability of a Somnambulist to Use His Eyes.

A Star writer was asking the physician a great many questions and getting answers to them, while the physician wasn't getting a cent of pay for the part he was performing. "By the way," inquired The Star man, "do you think that a somnambulist can see?"

"Do you mean when he is awake or when he is somnambulizing, so to speak?" smiled the physician. "While he is somnambulizing, of course. I'm not talking about blind men."

"Well, I won't answer your question directly, but I'll tell you a story which may go as an answer. About ten years ago I had a roommate, a young fellow who was a student in the medical college, and a bright young fellow he was too. He was fond of shooting, and to keep up his practice he had a fine airgun, and he converted the hall on the third floor, which we occupied, into a shooting gallery. I used to take a hand myself every time I had a chance, and sometimes for an hour at a time he would be hanging away at the target he had fixed at the far end of the hall.

"One morning I came in from a patient's about 3 o'clock and found the whole upper story dark. I lit the gas in the front room, which we used as a sitting room, and was about to go out and light the gas in the hall, when the young fellow came walking in from our sleeping room, attired in his nightclothes and with his eyes wide open. I spoke to him, thinking something was the matter with him, but he did not answer, and in a minute I saw that he was walking in his sleep.

"This was not altogether unusual with him, but I had never caught him in the act before and concluded I would watch him. He came directly across the room, going around a chair and a table that stood in his path, and opening a drawer where he kept the airgun he took it out, and then he loaded it, getting the small bullets we used out of a box on the mantelpiece. This box he stuck into what would have been his coat pocket, if he had had a coat on, but as he hadn't the box fell to the floor, which he took no note of.

"Then he went into the dark hall, carefully avoiding all furniture in his way, and going as straight to the door as if he had been awake. I followed him cautiously into the hall, and when he had reached the usual point from which we did our firing he stopped, took careful aim and fired. The slight snap and shock of the gun seemed to have quite a different effect than either my voice or the bright light in the room, for on the instant he dropped the gun, made a half step forward and fell into my arms, just about as he would have fallen out of bed if he had waked suddenly on its edge.

"He was wide awake in a minute and began laughing and asking me what had happened. I told him, and we at once lit the gas in the hall and examined the target. The target had been repainted after we had had our last practice, so that we could see plainly where his bullet had hit, and I assure you he had made almost a center shot. Now," concluded the physician, "in the lighted room he missed all the furniture in his way, and in the dark hall he had hit the target. Do you think he could see, or couldn't he?"

The answer wasn't quite satisfactory as an answer, but it made a problem to wrestle with, and the physician kindly consented to let his questioner figure it out to suit himself.—Washington Star.

Why He Ceased Whistling.

One day as Field Marshal Wrangel and the late Emperor Frederick were walking in Berlin they met an apprentice boy who was whistling a lively tune, but stopped as they came nearer and doffed his cap with a pleasant smile.

Wrangel was highly gratified with the civility of the lad, and said to the crown prince:

"There, your royal highness can see how loyal these apprentice lads are. How delighted they seem to be when they come across a member of the royal family!"

"Wrangel," said the crown prince, with a touch of merriment, "just ask the boy why he has stopped whistling."

"Here, my lad," exclaimed Wrangel. "Tell us why you ceased whistling."

"Whenever I see you," replied the boy, "I can't help laughing, and then a fellow can't whistle, you know." And, so saying, he took to his heels and promptly disappeared.

Wilson Air-Tight Heater.

With Patent Automatic Smoke Doors.

The Wilson Heater, which is a stove for house heating, is the most remarkable that has ever been patented.

In the first place it radiates more heat than any stove known, and will save 25 per cent. in fuel over any stove made.

Second, with two or three ordinary sticks of pine stove wood it will keep the fire from 36 to 48 hours, and with ordinary care the fire will never go out.

Third, being entirely closed at the base there is no danger of fire, and it is the cleanest stove in use. It is not necessary to remove the ashes oftener than once a month. These stoves are made in different styles—the small one, which is made for bed rooms, is specially recommended for health as well as comfort.

The Wilson Heater has a great advantage over any similar stove, because it has Patent Automatic Smoke Doors, which prevent the smoke from coming into the room when you take the top off to put in the wood. These doors are so constructed that they can be taken off and put back on in one minute. These stoves can be seen at our store, come and look at them.
