A Matter of Serious Importance.

Under the direction of the Baltimore school authorities a rigid investigation of the eyesight of the pupils was made some time ago. It was found that out of a total of 53,000 pupils whose eyes were examined fully 9,000 were disqualified from attending school.

In addition to this startling disclosure it was also found that several thousand others were in such a bad condition that prompt medical attention was advised.

The precedent established by the Baltimore school authorities in causing the eyesight of pupils to be investigated should appeal to the good sense of educational boards all over the country. In Atlanta there are nearly 15,000 children enrolled in the public schools. It is fair to presume that every pupil is blessed with good eyesight and that not a single one of them is in need of medical attention? Such an assumption would be ridiculous in view of the recent disclosures in Baltimore. The subject is one which the board of education should gravely consider, as it involves not only the efficiency of our public school system, but the physical condition of numberless pupils attending the schools of this city.—A lauta Constitution.

OAKLEY, N. C., Nov. 16, '96.

Now that election is over lets get back to business again. as we can do nothing only accept the situation as it is. Jarvis has had his say, and Skinner has had his say it all don't amount to anything with the Democracy. We are defeated, that's all there is in it.

Miss Mary Whitehurst commenced today teaching school at Mason's school house, on Grindle creek.

Miss Mary Highsmith is teaching school at Piny Green.

We hear it hinted that this, the Washington branch R. R., will go through to Newbern at no distant day. So mote it be.

G. O. Taylor, near here, leaves for Florida on the 23rd of this month, where he purposes making his home the coming year.

Complimentary Banquet.

There was a decidedly enjoyable gathering of young men in the office of H. A. White, Monday evening from 8 10 o'clock. The occasion was a banquet given by the tobacco boys complimentary to Rice Gwynn who is to be married at Rocky Mount Wednesday afternoon. There were covers for eighteen guests and the bill of fare was excellent indeed.

Just as supper was over the Italian band came in and entertained the assembly with several delightful selections. When "Dixie" was played the boys could restrain themselves no longer and filled the room with cheers.

Mr. Gwynn was the recipient of congratulations on his approaching marriage and all extended their best wishes.

The tobacco boys never do things by halves, and they showed their skill in entertaining handsomely on this occasion.

P. H. Gorman was master of ceremonies, and it was principally through his efforts that the banquet was given.

Opposed to State Aid.

At the Baptist State Convention in Morganton, on Saturday, the following resolution was offered and adopted almost unanimously, only two votes being cast against it:

"Whereas, The State aid to higher education by taxation is wrong, unjust and unwise, a wrong against the whole people, who cannot receive the benefit of such opportunities: unjust to the private and the corporate and denominational institutions voluntarily supported: unwise because the people of North Carolina are now inadequately provided with public schools for their children and need every cent of their taxes that can be spared for that purpose:

Resolved, therefore, That the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina re-affirm its opposition to State aid by taxation to higher education."

Negro Politicians Can't Rent Farms

The farmers of every township in Mecklenburg county are organizing to protect themselves from the influences wielded by the negro political leaders. They refuse to rent land to these negroes, and are putting white men in their places. In Providence township, over 60 land owners have joined the organization, and the negro leaders find it impossible to rent an acre of ground. The organization is also in good working order in Steel Creek and Sharon townships.—Charlotte Observer.

Robt Bryan and Andrew Moore went to Falkland Sunday.

T. R. Bullock smiled pleasantly last Saturday. It's a fine boy.

During the round up of the electoral vote from all the states the Watson electors have almost been forgotten says the Nashville American, but the returns show that he did get quite a number, and in the electoral college may receive as many as twenty-one votes, if not more. It is estimated now that he will get four votes from Louisiana, five from North Carolina, four from Nebraska, two from Washington, one from Utah, one from Montana, and four from Missouri. In 1892 the Populists had twenty-two votes in the electoral college, and as far as the vote for Watson can be considered indicative of strength, they have about held their own by fusion. But for fusions Watson would have obtained but four electoral votes.

BRYAN SPEAKS AT LINCOLN

The Fight for Free Silver to Be Continued.

LINCOLN, NEB., Nov. 14.—Under the auspices of the Lincoln Bi-Metallic Club, the local Traveling Men's Bryan Club and what was known during the campaign as the "Bryan Home Guards," Wm. J. Bryan tonight delivered his first formal address since the election, sounding what is generally accepted as the keynote of himself and his followers in the campaign which is to continue for free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver.

Mr. Bryan was given a flattering reception by the people of his home city. The meeting was held at the Funke Opera House which was crowded to the doors. Mr. Bryan was in good voice and never in his many speeches before Lincoln audiences has he spoken with greater vigor or earnestness.

It was Bryan day in Lincoln, beginning at 3 o'clock p. m., when the Democratic candidate spoke to the ladies and concluding shortly before 11 o'clock when he rounded out his effort before a crowd which was unable to gain admittance to the opera house and waited patiently for his appearance at Bohannon's Hall.

Mr. Bryan was loudly cheered when he made his first appearance this evening. He spoke deliberately and with emphasis saying in part:

"Mr. Chairman and Fellow-Citizens: I do not know that I can make myself heard for any length of time. My voice, which has served well for several months during which it has been sorely tried, is worse today than it has been at any time during the campaign. I want to say a word for the future. We have passed through this campaign and we have been defeated, and I want you to remember this, that there is not in this land a single advocate of free coinage who is not willing to abide the decision of the American people without complaint. (Cheers.)

"You do not find among the silver men those who say, as a distinguished Republican in New York said, 'We may not abide by the result.' You do not find among the silver men persons who will stand up and express doubt as to whether the will of the American people is supreme. Those people who say that you find among the great corporate interests of the country, which are entrenched behind the Republican party and who threaten not to abide by the decision of the election unless they could continue to represent the American people. Among the men who called us anarchist you find the ones who hinted at possible means by which the will of the people could be defeated. I am proud that in our ranks we had men who loved this form of government, that no matter what the people say they rule and we bow to their supremacy. But my friends, bowing to a decision without complaint, the result of an election, does not mean that we shall surrender our convictions or that in the future we shall fight with less earnestness than we have fought in the past. You must remember that in the history of this nation some party has always been defeated, and yet parties have not gone out of existence because of defeat. Remember that the Democratic party lived for many years without ever having won a presidential election, and it lived after it won a presidential election and then failed to get the presidential election—because it is the opinion of the Democrats of this nation that Samuel J. Tilden was elected President of the United States and yet the people who supported him were willing to abide by a decision of a tribunal instituted for the purpose of settling that dispute. I say the Democratic party has lived through defeat and the Republican party has lived through defeat; all parties have lived through defeat if they had anything to live for; and when our opponents tell us that this defeat means the annihilation of those who believe in free silver they take counsel of their hopes instead of their judgment. (Great cheering.) I believe that we have made great progress in this campaign. We have not made the progress that we hoped for; we have not achieved the results which we expected to achieve, but, my friends, the cause of bi-metallism was stronger the day after election than it was at any day during the campaign. I want to say this and your observation will bear out my remarks; that we went into the fight a disorganized army; we came out of it a fighting force that has never had a superior in history.

"Now we have passed the stage of argument. I want to suggest to those who are going to continue the organization of clubs that they meet at stated times, say once a month, or at such times as the members of the club may decide, and at these meetings they discuss public questions. I understand from the papers that the Republican national committee has suggested that they also keep their organization. I am glad of it. I have never advised those who believed with me to do a single thing that I would not advise our opponents to do and when I advise our people to keep organized and keep discussing, I advise our opponents to do the same thing, because if they would discuss and think more there would be less of them. Now I would like to see all the silver clubs in the United States maintain their organizations, hold regular meetings and discuss their questions. I would like to see all the Republican organizations keep up and then I would see joint debates between our organizations and theirs, because, my friends, if they can convince our people that we are wrong we have no claim upon our people, and if we can convince them that we are right, then I think we will not only have a claim but we will successfully assert it." (Applause.)

A Sure Match.

Seeker—Do you think Jowler's attention to Miss Fender will result in a match?

Sawyer—Beyond a doubt.

"I don't see how you can figure it out. The old man's unalterably opposed to it and was never known to give in to anyone."

"That's why I say it will result in a match. He's obstinate and determined and so is Jowler, and before they get through with it there will be a slugging match, you can bet on it."—Boston

A Curious Custom.

A strange custom prevails among the members of a certain tribe in the Caucasus. When a single young man dies some one who has carried to the grave a marriageable daughter in the course of the year calls upon the bereaved parents and says: "Your son is sure to want a wife; I'll give you my daughter and you shall deliver to me the marriage portion in return." A friendly offer of this description is never rejected and the two parties soon come to terms as to the amount of the dowry, which varies according to the advantages possessed by the girl in her lifetime. Cases have been known where the young man's father has given 30 cows to secure a dead wife for his dead son.—Chicago News.

Collection.

Curious collection of stamps, not limited to the postal service, but including to an official of the post office department who has been in the service for over 20 years, there have been no counterfeiting of stamps during that period. The official referred to has been identified with the third assistant's office for many years and he is familiar with almost every detail in relation to the stamp question. He has a large fund of anecdote on the subject of stamp collectors, which he gives out in homeopathic doses when not too busy with the routine business of his office.

There are several thrifty stamp collectors in New York who make handsome incomes from buying and selling stamps. A few years ago the postmaster general ordered a reprint of an obsolete design of a five-cent stamped envelope. It was a mistake on the part of the department and as soon as it was discovered all of these envelopes, about 10,000 in number, were called in. A stamp collector in New York in some way learned that these envelopes were soon to be called in, so he bought 1,500 of them before the postmaster had time to send them back to the department. After all the others had been called in he had a monopoly of the issue and he was selling them freely at five dollars each to "stamp cranks." He paid but five cents apiece for them, hence his profit was enormous.

There is another incident where a stamp collector learned that there would be a short issue of a certain denomination put in circulation, so he went to the contractor and purchased $10,000 worth of the new issue. He attempted to sell them at greatly advanced prices and complaint was made to the department. An investigation was ordered and the result was an unlimited number was ordered to be printed and the man who had invested in $10,000 worth was so badly stuck that he appealed to the department to redeem those he had not sold.

"Stamp collectors are a queer lot," continued the official, "for there are many of them in the business who will resort to almost any means to get hold of a rare issue. They keep a sharp lookout for all changes made in the quality of paper used in the manufacture of stamped envelopes and they manage to find out every time when a change in any design of stamp is contemplated."—N. Y. Times.

He'd Done It Before.

"You look after the dimes," he said in his lordly manner at the conclusion of a few remarks on the cost of running a house, "and I'll look after the dollars."

"I've been looking after the dimes all my life," she protested indignantly; "that's all I've had to look after, while you—you—"

"Maria," he cautioned, fearful that there was about to be an explosion. "while you have been diligently looking after the dollars—"

His face relaxed in a gratified smile. "to spend," she said in conclusion. He realized then that she had made a study of him.—Chicago Post.

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS
Monthly Illustrated
AN INTERNATIONAL MAGAZINE
Edited by ALBERT SHAW

"If only one magazine can be taken, we would suggest the REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as covering more ground than any other magazine."—Board of Library Commissioners of New Hampshire, 1896.

THIS magazine is, in its contributed and departmental features, what its readers, who include the most noted names of the English-speaking world, are pleased to call "absolutely up to date," "thoroughly abreast of the times," "invaluable," and "indispensable." It is profusely illustrated with timely portraits, views, and cartoons. Its original articles are of immediate interest, by the best authorities on their respective subjects. The Editor's "Progress of the World" gives a clear, rightly proportioned view of the history of the human race during the current month. The "Leading Articles of the Month" present the important parts of the best magazine articles that have been written in every part of the world. The newest and most important books are carefully reviewed. Indexes, chronological records, and other departments complete the certainty that the reader of the Review of Reviews will miss nothing of great significance that is said or written or done throughout the world.
