THE LEGISLATURE.

Condensed Report of Proceedings.

FIFTH DAY.

HOUSE.

At 11 o'clock the House met and Representative Greene offered the opening prayer.

A memorial from Asheville Typographical Union was presented, praying that the Legislature in awarding the public printing require the employment Union labor.

Bills introduced were as follows:

Sutton, of New Hanover, to repeal act incorporating Black River Navigation Company.

Ferrah, for displaying the National flag from the capitol.

Abernathy, to reduce salaries to conform to the prices of farm products.

Howser, to provide for ventilating the hall of the House.

Duncan, to protect fish in Neuse river.

Brown, to change Pollocksville's charter.

Pinnix, to forbid hunting in Yadkin gave by consent of land-owners.

Petree, to have the school fund apportionment made in September instead of in January.

Ward, to provide for the cross-indexing of wills.

Carthy, to allow sheriff of Swain to collect tax arrears.

Conley, for the relief of ex-Sheriff Gardin, of McDowell.

Petree, providing that terms of justices of the peace elected last year shall end on the first Monday in December, 1898.

Pearson, of Burke, to prohibit railroad companies from defeating or lessening competition.

Sutton, of Cumberland, to make the unlawful taking of a legislative bill or other paper a felony.

Sutton, to prohibit the sale of cigarettes in this State, and to prohibit the giving away of the same; the punishment to be fine or imprisonment or both.

Sutton, to protect the public from baggage smashers. (It requires also the provision of suitable waiting rooms, and the publication of schedules in newspapers.)

Sutton, to provide that in appeals to a higher court, all the evidence shall, if desired, be sent to the higher court.

Hauser, requiring that vouchers for the pay of clerks, etc., of the House, be not issued until endorsed by the chief clerk.

Cox, instructing Senators and Representative in Congress to use all their efforts against any further extension of Civil Service reform and to so modify the present law as to prevent anything like life tenure in office.

The Senate resolution raising a committee to investigate charges of bribery in the Senatorial contest was unanimously adopted.

The resolution requiring the keeper of the capitol to display the National flag on the capitol during the legislative session was adopted.

At 12:20 the house adjourned until 10:30 Tuesday, in order that it might witness the meeting of the Electoral College.

SENATE.

Called to order at noon by Lieutenant-Governor Doughton.

Prayer by Rev. Mr. Ashburn, of the Senate.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Clark, to permit foreign railroads to become incorporated in North Carolina.

Ferson, to prevent lynching and provide a punishment for lynchings.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

For the first time in 26 years the entire control of the State Government has passed from the Democratic party and is virtually under the control of the Republican party.

On Saturday night a block of the business portion of the town of Lumberton was destroyed. The fire originated in a store underneath the Robesonian office. We regret exceedingly that Mr. McDairmid, editor of the Robesonian, lost his entire office, not a cent's worth being saved out of it. His loss is estimated at $5,000 with insurance for only $3,000.

WHAT NORTH CAROLINA NEEDS

Is Only That Her Resources be Known.

Mr. W. H. Ramseur, of Charlotte, a true and patriotic representative of the Ramseur name and fame of Confederate days, a true and worthy type of North Carolina chivalry and heroism during the late war between the States, is taking a leading part in showing to the Nation and the world the vast and valuable resources of the Old North State.

Mr. Ramseur is fitting up a car made of North Carolina wood and is collecting many valuable exhibits of the State to show our great sources of wealth and attract the attention of the world to North Carolina's natural worth and merit.

This is a big undertaking in the right direction, and will and should receive the approval and aid of every patriotic North Carolinian. If the Tar Heel State can be shown to the world as she really is, no State or section can show more or better inducements to live or invest in.

This car of North Carolina on wheels will be ready in a few months to take a summer tour through the States. Exhibits of every kind are desired from each county and section of the State. Everybody should be an agent to help in this work of showing our State's resources to the business world. Get up your interesting relics and your best exhibits of various kinds and let Mr. Ramseur have them to display in this car. He will pay freight on all articles sent him to Charlotte.

Auction! Auction!

$10,000 worth of watches, diamonds and jewelry to be sold at auction to the highest bidder, regardless of cost or limit. The fine and large stock is from the well known pawn office of R. Ansell, Chattanooga, Tenn., and consists of solid gold watches mounted with diamonds and precious stones, fine gold filled and silver watches with the best of American movements, such as Elgin, Waltham, Howard and Swiss make. Also a large stock of chains, diamond rings, &c. This stock will be sold at J. W. Brown's store on Evans street, Thursday evening, Jan. 14, 1897, and will continue until entire stock is sold. This fine and large stock will be on exhibition Thursday morning where ladies and gentlemen are invited to call and examine them. Remember sale will take place Thursday evening, 7:30 o'clock.

Another Snow.

It began snowing about 9:30 o'clock this morning and continued until the afternoon, about as much as an inch in depth falling. The ground was dry and cold, in good condition for holding snow, and things were soon looking white. A slightly rising temperature caused it to melt a little later in the day, but there is no telling what tonight will bring forth, as there is every indication for more snow.

Bicycle Fire Engine.

In Paris is to be seen a fire engine propelled by cycling firemen. The machine has the appearance of two tandem bicycles coupled with a single steering post. Hanging between the two bicycle frames are the hose reel and a rotary pump. The whole outfit weighs less than 140 pounds, and four experienced wheelmen can push this along faster than any other fire engine ever went. The foot power of the four men propels the machine to the scene of action, and when once there the same power pumps the water. After the arrival at the scene each man is assigned to some part of the duty of making the change. One raises the back of the machine on a leg, allowing the rear wheels to revolve freely. He also throws the pump into working order, and the others have unreeled the hose and made the coupling connections. Then, jumping into the saddles again, the energies of the men are directed to pumping. About 4,500 gallons of water per hour can be thrown between seventy-five and one hundred feet in the air. The rapidity with which the machine can be propelled to a fire and also with which it can be put into action are its two great advantages. In two or three minutes after its arrival all necessary changes can be made and the machine pumping a stream over the roof.

A Few Remarks About Pride.

True pride is a good thing. It inspires higher motives and better actions. But false pride is bad. Some people are proud because they possess a little more of this world's goods than their neighbors; this is the pride of wealth, and is a false pride. Some are proud because they are better educated—know more than their neighbors. This sort of pride is not so bad; but if such people would only reflect how little they know in comparison to what is to be known, they would better realize how little they have to be proud of after all. Some people, though poor, are too proud to work. This is mean pride. Work is honorable. The idler is of no use to himself, or herself, or to anybody, but is a dead expense and burden upon honorable people who earn a livelihood and have an excuse for living. A few people are as "proud as Lucifer" without having a solitary thing to be proud of. They have neither wealth, knowledge, or wisdom. They are poor, proud fools.—Kinston Free Press.

People Want to Know.

Why Col. Harry Skinner, who split his coat for a silver man at St. Louis, is now splitting his throat for Pritchard, a gold man.

Why Col. Walter Henry, who split his vest for Bryan and silver at St. Louis, is now writing long high sounding words pleading for the re election of Pritchard.

Why Col. G. Ed. Kestler, who was a middle-of-the-roader at St. Louis, has been in Raleigh during the past week tearing his hair for Pritchard.

Why Col. A. L. Swinson, another middle-of-the-roader, is now in Raleigh pleading for Pritchard with tears in his eyes.

Why Col. H. E. Hodges, of Beaufort, is such a strong Pritchard man.

Why several men "of, for and by principle" are wending their way in noncommittal style around about Raleigh.

Why the re-election of Pritchard is more important than the keeping up of friendly relations between the Populist and Republican parties. (The money power can explain that if it will.)

Why certain men who never before cared so much about "keeping pledges" are now so anxious to keep pledges that never ought to have been made, and which are now void.—Progressive Farmer.

Big Insurance Money.

The fire insurance adjusters, who are making up their annual statements, report that the business of the past year has been one of the most prosperous they have ever enjoyed. Losses in the aggregate are believed to have been several millions less during 1896 than for years previous, and all the great companies expect to make an excellent showing. One president, who has received authentic information, told of one concern which had made a clear profit of 86 per cent. on a capital of $200,000. Another with a capital of $250,000 made 61 per cent. One of the best New England companies reports a profit of 29 per cent. on the enormous capital of $4,000,000. Other reports quite as startling are looked for.—New York Dispatch.

A writer in the Winston Republican of last week discusses with asperity a recent statement of the Observer that the bench of the State is filled at this time, to a great extent, "by men of poor ability and general unfitness for the positions they hold." This declaration is met with the declaration that there is not one of the present judges "that is not equal in learning and ability to some of the Democratic judges on the bench and to several that have been on the bench since Democracy has had control of the State." That might be conceded and still our contention hold good. But it is a matter of common knowledge that the bench in North Carolina today is weaker than it has been in twenty years. Any lawyer of any party, who will speak candidly, will say so, and every intelligent layman knows it.—Charlotte Observer.

Three Children Burned to Death.

In Wayne county William Fort and wife went to a neighbor's to a hog killing, leaving their three little children locked in the house to prevent them from going out in the cold. The house caught fire and the children were burned to death. Only their bones were found in the ashes when the parents returned in the afternoon.

Thomas Carlyle on Justice and Success.

In this God's world, with its wild whirling eddies and mad foam oceans, where men and nations perish as if without laws and judgment for an unjust thing is sternly delayed, dost thou think that there is therefore no justice? It is what the fool hath said in his heart. It is what the wise in all times were wise because they denied and knew forever not to be. I tell you again, there is nothing else but justice. One strong thing I find here below—the just thing, the true thing. My friend, if thou hadst all the artillery of Woolwich trundling at thy back in support of an unjust thing and infinite bonfires visibly waiting ahead of thee to blaze centuries long for thy victory on behalf of it, I would advise thee to call halt, to fling down thy baton and say in God's name, "No!" Thy "success?" Poor devil, what will this success amount to? If the thing is unjust, thou hast not succeeded. No, not though bonfires blazed from north to south, and bells rang, and editors wrote leading articles, and the just thing lay trampled out of sight to all mortal eyes an abolished and annihilated thing. Success? In a few years thou wilt be dead and dark—all cold, eyeless, deaf, no blaze of bonfires, dingdong of bells, visible or audible to thee again at all forever. What kind of success is that?—Thomas Carlyle. "Past and Present." Starve was once to die any manner of death. Wyolf's sermons tell how "Christ starved on the cross for the redemption of men."

"Ancient" coins, many of which antedate the Christian era, are made in large quantities in London and find sale all over the world.

The Ass Who Predicted.

An Ass who heard a Goose observe that the Water in the Pond was getting very Low, at once offered his Services to Predict Rain. This having been Noised about, the Hens asked for continued Dry Weather, the Foxes demanded a snowstorm, the Oxen wanted frosty mornings, and the Mule, the Wolf, the Dog and the Peacock each demanded that he be Favored with Weather made to order. As a result the Ass could Please no one, and as his Failure was charged to his Obstinacy, the Whole Crowd fell upon him and Wounded him almost to Death. He was Complaining of this to the Peasant When the latter Replied: He who seeks to Please all will end in Pleasing nobody at all.—Detroit Free Press.

Men and Theories.

Man is a theory making, theory loving animal, and, as a result, there are about a thousand theories in this world to every solid fact. But still it happens that the facts have the best of it, because no fact can confound another. They live together in eternal peace, whereas theories lead but a cat and dog existence, and the mortality among them is frightful to contemplate.—"In Sugar Cane Land," Eden Phillpotts.

W. H. RAGSDALE,

He Needed Air.
He was sick, or at least said that he was, and the other day he entered the office of a well known physician up town and sank into a leather covered armchair in the anteroom waiting his turn on the list. At last it came, and the doctor examined his tongue critically, felt of his pulse, inquired as to the symptoms of his illness and then looked wise. Taking a pad from the table, he wrote a prescription calling for bread pills and distilled water or something of that sort. Then, turning in his chair, the physician said: "I cannot see that anything serious is the matter with you. What you need is plenty of air!" The patient smiled a broad, bland smile, but said nothing. "Take this prescription regularly every night, but above all things get plenty of air. Good, wholesome outdoor atmosphere, that is what you need more than anything else." "Ha! ha! ha! I need air, do I?" shouted the man. "Well, that is funny." "Why, what do you mean?" inquired the doctor. "Mean? Why, I am a street car driver." He is laughing yet.

Just Like It.
When a man stops taking a newspaper just because its opinions and his are unlike, it is like his refusing to enter into conversation with a friend because the two have different ideas on the same subject.—Troy Press

Queen Louise of Prussia and the Rose.
Before parting Napoleon spent a few moments at her side, and at the end, turning, pulled from a bunch a beautiful rose, which he offered with gestures of gallantry and homage. Hesitating a moment the queen at last put out her hand and said as she accepted it, "At least with Magdeburg." "Madame," came the frigid reply, "it is mine to give and yours to accept." But he gave his arm to conduct her to the carriage, and as they descended the stair together the disappointed guest said in a sentimental and emotional voice, "Is it possible that, having had the happiness to see so near the man of the century and of all history, he will not afford me the possibility and the satisfaction of being able to assure him that he has put me under obligations for life?" With solemn tones Napoleon replied: "Madame, I am to be pitied it is a fault of my unlucky star." Queen Louise's own lady in waiting related that her sovereign's sternness overcame her at the last, and as she stepped into the carriage she said, "Sire, you have cruelly deceived me."—Professor Sloane in Century.

Proved Case.
The building blocks had been having a dispute in the nursery. "I'm worth just as much as you are," exclaimed the letter H. "No, you're not," replied the letter C. "If you were worth anything at all, the English would never drop you."—Washington Star

AN INFORMATION MAGAZINE

Edited by ALBERT SHAW

"If only one magazine can be taken, we would suggest the REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as covering more ground than any other magazine."—Board of Library Commissioners of New Hampshire, 1896.

THIS magazine is, in its contributed and departmental features, what its readers, who include the most noted names of the English-speaking world, are pleased to call "absolutely up to date," "thoroughly abreast of the times," "invaluable," and "indispensable." It is profusely illustrated with timely portraits, views, and cartoons. Its original articles are of immediate interest, by the best authorities on their respective subjects. The Editor's "Progress of the World" gives a clear, rightly proportioned view of the history of the human race during the current month. The "Leading Articles of the Month" present the important parts of the best magazine articles that have been written in every part of the world. The newest and most important books are carefully reviewed. Indexes, chronological records, and other departments complete the certainty that the reader of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS will miss nothing of great significance that is said or written or done throughout the world.

THE JANUARY SALES.

Now that Christmas time is over,

And your pocket book is flat,

Come a period distracting,

Till you don't know where you're at.

For the bargain counter's loaded,

Piled with bargains by the bale,

And the shopper's heart is broken

By the January sale.

Silks and satins gone a-begging,

Crepes, brocade, and lace galore;

Everything to tempt the bravest

At prices never known before.

Well-bound books by well-known authors,

Dainty, yet decadent tales,

Always just the ones you wanted,

At the January sales!

Household staples, hemstitched linen,

Napery in damask blooms,

Wave by elves with flowers and frost

work,

Product of unearthly looms;

Petticoats afloat with laces,

Decked with ribbons sweet but frail;

How the spirit writhes in anguish

At the January sales!

For one's heart is broken, broken,

When the pocket-book is broke,

When for sordid coal and gas bills

One's reluctant wealth's besoke,

Fortunatus, Plutus, Midas,

Hear a tortured mortal's wails!

Come and go with me a-shopping

At the January sales!
