SLIPPERS AND SHOES.

AT THE SLIPPER
COUNTER

You could hear these exclamation:

"Oh, Mamma, buy me
them."

"Aint they darlings?"

My, where did you get them Mr. Munford?"

"Just the thing for the baby."

"The ones that will give wife solid comfort and stop that tired feeling."

"The only up to date line that I have ever seen in Greenville."

"Why is it that Mr.
Munford's salesmen are so are anxious to show
them?"

Mrs. Hardtoplease.---

THE LEGISLATURE.

Condensed Report of Proceedings.

FIFTEENTH DAY.

SENATE.

Lieutenant-Governor Reynolds called the Senate to order at noon, Prayer by Rev. Mr. Betts, of Raleigh.

Ashburn presented a petition to prevent the killing of partridges except by permission of land owners.

Abell, to amend section 1,357, of The Code, relating to depositions by adding: "Provided the clerk shall not pass upon any objection to evidence in any deposition upon the ground that the same is immaterial, irrelevant or incompetent, and such objection shall be passed upon and determined by the judge or court upon the trial." That this act apply to all depositions and upon any trial before a justice of the peace.

Newsome, to abolish Herford county criminal court and turn the records over to the Superior court.

Parker, of Randolph, to incorporate the Pinhook Railroad Company.

Moye, to amend chapter 380, laws of 1880, in relation to canal liens.

Shore, to prohibit timber or other obstruction in the Yadkin river.

Utley, to pay J. M. Turner for teaching public school in St. Mary's township.

Justice, to incorporate the Levi Bank of Rutherfordton.

Mitchell, to levy a special tax for Nash county.

Rollins, to regulate the procuring and distributing of dead bodies.

Early (with a petition), to amend chapter 245, laws of 1890, in relation to fishing.

Moye, to establish a scale of fees for clerks of Superior courts, extending chapter 363, laws of 1891, to all counties in the State. (This chapter prescribes fees for all work done by clerks in Pitt county—lower than in most of the counties.)

HOUSE.

The House was called to order at 10 o'clock by Speaker Hileman, Dr. Dixon opening with prayer.

Among bills introduced were:

Harris, to repeal the act to amend the charter of Wilmington, ratified March, 1895, and declaring all laws and clauses of laws concerning Wilmington existing at that date in full force and effect, save that there shall be elected by the qualified voters of each ward, one alderman and the Governor shall appoint one alderman, and the alderman thus constituted shall elect a mayor.

Lawhon, to protect cultivated ground from the ranges of poultry, by making it a misdemeanor to allow poultry to go on or remain on such ground after one day's notice by its owner.

Meares to pay registrars and judges of elections $1.50 each for services last election day and $1.50 each to persons who carried returns of election to the county seat. This not to apply to counties where such officers have already been paid.

Abernathy, to amend the Code as to pauper suits, by striking out the words "one or more witnesses" and inserting "by 2 disinterested witnesses and by the affidavit of one or more practicing attorneys."

Chapman, to require the cross in dextral of deeds etc., in 24 hours after they are registered.

Bill reducing registrars' fees passed second and third readings.

Bill to allow Clerk to appoint deputies and they be allowed to take probate of deeds. Several counties were added, and the bill, on the suggestion of Col. Lusk, was referred to the committee for a general bill.

That guardians, administrators and executors who who misapply funds, be indicted for embezzlement, passed second and third readings.

To exempt funeral directors from jury duty, passed second and third readings.

Hancock, by consent, introduced a bill to amend the Code of Pharmaceutical Association.

Murphy, moved to adjourn until 11 o'clock. Amended by Lusk to 10, and after current announcements, the House at 2:02 adjourned to meet at 10 o'clock

BURNED THE LOOKUP.

And Lost His Life in the Fire.

(Special to Reflector.)

TARBORO, N. C., Jan 25.—Anderson Brodie, colored, set fire Friday night to the lookup at Enfield, in which he was a prisoner, and succeeded in burning the building and cremated himself in it.

Brodie was wanted for shooting and killing another negro, some time ago, with whom he had had a difficulty over a pair of boots. He was captured and locked up at Enfield about 4 o'clock Friday evening, and set fire to the prison about 11 o'clock at night.

We Thank the Stranger.

We are told that a stranger in town a few days ago, after looking over a copy of THE DAILY REFLECTOR, said it was the best paper he ever saw published in a town the size of Greenville. This gives our people an idea of the impression their home paper makes for the town.

Build Houses.

We learn of a man, who wanted to locate in Greenville and who would have made an excellent citizen, having to go to another town because he could not get a house to live in. In this way Greenville loses. The town needs more dwellings, and must have them. Cases like this will occur.

Undertaking Establishment.

R. Greene, who returned Saturday evening from Philadelphia, tells us that while in that city he took practical instruction in embalming in all its forms. He purchased embalming tools and fluids, also an improved city hearse and a large stock of coffins and caskets in wood and metallic. He expects his stock to arrive the latter part of this week and will open at the John Flanagan Buggy Co's office.

OTHER LOCALS.

When a man writes with a pencil you sometimes can't get an inkling of his meaning.

One of the children of Jason Joyner, of Farmville township, was badly burned Saturday, and died Sunday evening.

The Frogtown kid wants to know why people chop down trees, and then chop them up.

Christmas is eleven months off today, but we notice some papers are running Christmas advertisements.

The man who has the greatest amount of gas is not the one that enlightens the world most.

Following the almost spring like weather of Sunday, the cold snap this morning took people by surprise.

Governor Russell has offered a reward of $100 for the arrest of John Keel, who killed David Crandall, in this county, on Christmas day.

R. M. Wright, of Surry county, a very old man, does not know a letter or note in the book. He cannot sing, or even raise or pitch a tune, yet when he sleeps he sings some very beautiful songs in a melodious voice.

Sam Jordan Nelson and one of his sisters have been adjudged insane and were taken to the asylum at Raleigh today. Both of them have been idiotic all their lives. Sheriff W. H. Harrington and his son, Charlie, took them to Raleigh.

Money Not Needed.

"It takes money to run a newspaper."—St. John (Kansas) News.

What an exaggeration; what a whopper. It has been disproved a thousand times; it is a clean case of airy fancy. It doesn't take money to run a newspaper. It can run without money. It is not a business venture. It is a charitable institution, a begging concern, a highway robbery. B'Godfory, a newspaper is a child of the air, a creature of a dream. It can go on and on and on, when any other concern would be in the hands of a receiver and wound up with cobwebs in the windows.

It takes wind to run a newspaper; it takes a gall to run a newspaper. It takes a scintillating, acrobatic imagination, and a half dozen white shirts and a railroad pass to run a newspaper. But money—heaven to Betsy and six hands round, who ever needed money in conducting a newspaper! Kind words are the medium of exchange that do the business for the editor—kind words and church social tickets. When you see an editor with money watch him. He'll be paying his bills and disgracing his profession. Never give money to an editor. Make him trade it out. He likes to swap.

Then when you die, after having stood around for years and sneered at the editor and his little jim crow paper, be sure and have your wife send in for three extra copies by one of your weeping children, and when she reads the generous and touching notice about you, forewarn her to neglect to send 15 cents to the editor. It would overwhelm him. Money is a corrupting thing. The editor knows it and what he wants is your heartfelt thanks. Then he can thank the printers and they can thank their grocers. Take your job work to the job offices, and then come and ask for half rates for the church notices. Get your lodge letter heads and stationery printed out of town, and then flood the editor with beautiful thoughts in resolutions of respect and cards of thanks. They make such spicy reading, and when you pick it up filled with these glowing and vivid mortuary articles, you are so proud of your little local paper.

But money—scorn the filthy thing. Don't let the pure, innocent editor know anything about it. Keep that for sordid trades people who charge for their wares. The editor gives his bounty away. The Lord loves a cheerful giver. He'll take care of the editor. Don't worry about the editor. He has a charter from the State to set as a door mat for the community. He will get the paper out somehow, and stand up for the town and whoop it up for you when you run for office, and lie about your pigeon-toed daughter's wedding, and blow about your big-footed sons, when they get a $4 a week job, and wean over your shrivelled soul when it is released from your grasping body and smile at your giddy wife's second marriage. Don't worry about the editor; he'll get on. The Lord knows how—but somehow.—Emporia Gazette.

Our Glorious Language.

We'll begin with box, and the plural is boxes.
But the plural of ox should be oxen, not oxes.
The one fowl is a goose, but two are called geese.

Yet the plural of mouse should never be meese.

You may find a lone mouse or a whole nest of mice.

But the plural of house is houses, not hices.

If the plural of man is always called men.

Why shouldn't the plural of pan be called pen?

The cow in the plural may be cows or kine.

But a bow if repeated is never called bine.

And the plural of vow is vows, never vine.

If I speak of a foot and you show me your feet.

And I give you a boot, would a pair be called beet?

It one is a tooth, and a whole set are teeth.

Why shouldn't the plural of both be called beeth?

If the singular's this and the plural is these,

Should the plural of kiss be nicknamed keese?

Then one may be that and three would be those.

Yet hat in the plural would never be hose,

And the plural of cat is cats, not cose.

We speak of a brother, and also of biethren,

But though we say mother, we never say methren.

Then the masculine pronouns are he, his, him,

But imagine the feminine she, shis and shim!

So the English, I think, you ali will agree,

Is the greatest language you you ever did see.

—Coston Commonwealth.

A Cotton-Ginners' Convention to Discuss the Round Bale.]

The Manufacturers' Record of last week, in discussing the need of better handling for cotton, says:

"A call has been issued for a convention of the cotton growers of Texas in Waco on January 25, 1897, for the purpose of organizing a State Ginners' Association and to consider the effect the round bale system will have upon the ginning business and other subjects of minor importance. The call is signed by Charles Bainter, of Waco, and eleven other ginners of Central Texas."

This will, we believe, be the first gathering of ginners called for the purpose of discussing the influence of the cylindrical baling system upon the present methods of ginning and compressing. The Manufacturers' Record has followed this new baling system closely since the establishment of the first experimental plant two or three years ago, and it is inclined to accept the opinion that it will mark a great change in cotton handling as the harvester and self-binder made in wheat harvesting. For years the need of better handling and better baling of cotton has been realized, but no improvement has come in sight except the round bale. If that can be made to fulfill the claims of the people interested in bringing it before the public, a long step will have been made toward giving to cotton handling the benefit of advanced modern methods. So far everything seems to indicate that this system is a complete success, and should this prove to be true the South will necessarily adjust itself to a change that will mean an enormous saving as compared with the wasteful methods of the present. Every improvement in cotton handling, and every decrease in the cost of ginning, compressing, insurance and transportation, strengthen the South's control of the world's cotton markets, and in all their wide ramifications finally inure to the grower, and thus to the benefit of the whole South.

Maxims for 1897.

Keep your head cool, your feet warm and subscribe for the ReflectoR.

Don't spend more than you can borrow, and don't borrow more than you can pay promptly.

Don't kindle the fire with kerosene unless you are prepared for a land that is fairer than this.

If you are angry at a man count fifty before speaking; if he is a great deal bigger than you are count four hundred and sixty.

Don't blow in your gun to see if it is loaded, unless you want to get your name in the papers and your family is well provided for.

Be satisfied with the world as you find it, remembering that you are only a tenant here and may not find yourself as well suited when you move.

Love your neighbor. If he keeps a dog that howls at the moon do not make harsh remarks about him, but borrow the dog to go hunting and forget to bring him back again.

Don't brag about the achievements of your ancestor. A great ancestor in the grave is poor capital of itself for a man to go into business on. And besides, our ancestors had their faults. Even Adam's record is not as clean as we would like it to be.

Lynching the Wrong Men.

A case in Missouri is like several others which have been reported within the past few years. In one of the Southern States it was proved indisputably that two men lynched for a crime were absolutely innocent of any participation in it, and only the other day a man confessed that he committed a murder for which another man was lynched. The Missouri incident involves two men, and the state's attorney who has investigated the facts finds not only did they have nothing to do with the crime, but the lynching was instigated by the men who were the guilty parties.

There is a very old story of a mistake of this sort in the far West. One of the lynchers was deputized to break the news of the discovery to the widow. "Madam," he said, very solemnly, "the joke is on us." The difficulty in such jokes is that there is no way of getting the victim back. Dead men tell no tales, and they can receive no apologies. The best way, of course, is to forget lynching. Possibly, a few innocent men have been hung after trials by juries, but they are very few. There is no doubt that a great many innocent men have been lynched, and it is quite possible, as in the Missouri case, that some of the lynchers took part in the original crime. Lynching is in itself murder, and every man who takes an active part in a lynching is a murderer.
