NORTH CAROLINA TOBACCO.

A Paper Read Before the Oca'a Convention by Mr. O. L. Joyner.

[CONCLUDED FROM YESTERDAY.]

When we come to view the types of tobacco produced in the same States we find them very varied sometimes and the object of this paper is to give the Tobacco Growers and Dealers Convention some idea of the types of tobacco produced in North Carolina and the magnitude of the industry there.

North Carolina's greatest length east and west is 588 miles and practically speaking throughout the entire width of the State the Indian weed is grown to a greater or less extent. From the cloud piercing mountain tops of Cherokee county in the extreme west to within the sound of old ocean's roar in the alluvial lands of the tide water belt the tobacco field is no uncommon sight.
A rather singular coincidence is the fact that the extreme eastern and northern sections produce the nearest similar type.

According to facts gathered a short time ago from depositions taken by the American Tobacco Co., from prominent and reliable tobacco growers and dealers throughout different sections of North Carolina, 6 per cent. of the tobacco grown in North Carolina is used in the manufacture of cigarettes. If this be true (and I do not question it) then I should judge that at least 75 per cent. of the tobacco produced in the extreme eastern and western portions of the state is used for this purpose. By this I do not mean that 75 per cent. of it is bought and manufactured by American but by both domestic and foreign manufacturers. The remaining 25 per cent. is used for different purposes. Of this we get a small per cent. of fine bright wrappers which sell at fancy prices.
That which is used in the manufacture of cigarettes sells on an average at from 12½ to 15 cents a pound. The remainder is what we call green tip or very common fillers which sell at from 1 to 5 cents a pound according to color and weight or body. The lands in the piedmont section of North Carolina produce a rich heavy bodied tobacco a great deal of which is used in the manufacture of plug tobacco and good wrapping stock.

As a matter of course this section of the state produces some good cutters but nothing like the eastern and western sections. The main object sought for in selecting cigarette tobacco is to get a fine soft leaf with silky fibre and texture while for plug manufacturing the reverse is the case, hence land that produces fine cigarette tobacco is not likely to make good plug leaf and vice versa.
The difference in the cigarette tobacco of eastern and western sections of North Carolina is mainly in the texture of the leaf. In western North Carolina there is very little vegetation in the soil, hence the leaf is composed mainly of silica which gives it a hard file, while in eastern North Carolina there is very little mineral matter in the soil and the filler is soft and kid glove like.

North Carolina can be very properly classified into three distinct tobacco growing sections.

The mountain section which produces largely cigarette tobacco. The Piedmont belt which produces cigarette and rich plug. The eastern section recently termed the "New Golden Belt" produces cigarette and fine white wrappers.

The process of preparing plant land the tobacco field, the cultivating, topping, curing and preparation of the crop for market is much the same throughout the state, differing only in mode of application while the principal is the same. The preparation of the plant land is begun in January and it can be done at any time successfully from that time till about the middle of March. A thorough preparation of the soil is essential to get the best results from a crop of tobacco. This is done by thoroughly working the land and then harrowing. The rows are layed off three and a half feet apart, the guano at the rate of about seven to eight hundred pounds to the acre, and what other ma-nures that may be used, is put in and then the furrows are listed the middle is opened and the land is then ready for transplanting. The plants are set out from April 20th to middle of May and the curing season commencing about July 1st and lasts till about Sept.

1st.

This is the most important work that we have to do. The barns should be properly arranged so as to give ventilation when necessary. The tobacco is cut or stripped from the stalk, taken to the barn and elevated on the tier poles at the rate of from five to six hundred stalks to the barn 16 feet square, then a slow fire is started in the furnace so as to get a temperature in the barn a few degrees above the normal temperature of the atmosphere outside.

The process of curing varies according to the condition of the plant and requires an average of from 56 to 72 hours to complete the process. After the cure is complete the tobacco is allowed to remain in the barn till it comes into a semi-damp condition in which it is taken from the barn and bulked down in the packhouse for some time before stripping for market. The grades are assorted according to size, body and color and when ready for market are sold loose on a warehouse floor. It is frequently remarked now that the tobacco industry of North Carolina is on the wane but so however but like all other farm products it has depreciated in value during the last few years, but as long as boys continue to be raised they will smoke cigarettes and thus so long will the tobacco industry continue in North Carolina.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Condensed Report of Proceedings.

NINETEENTH DAY.

SENATE.

The senate was called to order by Clerk Patterson at 8 o'clock, Lieutenant Governor Reynolds not having arrived from Chapel Hill.

On motion of Ray, Smathers was called to the chair.

On motion of Abell the senate adjourned at 11 o'clock. No business was done.

HOUSE.

The house met at 8 o'clock. Only forty members were present.

A bill was introduced by Lusk to authorize the governor to appoint temporary notaries public.

The following passed third reading:
Resolution asking congress to rebuild the United States arsenal at Fayetteville.

The bill to amend the section of the code relating to appeals from assignments of widows was supported.

The bill to amend the lynch law came up. It increases the pains and penalties for those who break into prison houses for the purpose of lynching.

Sutton, of Cumberland, said the section providing that the county shall be responsible to the amount of $50,- 000 to representatives of persons lynched had been stricken out by the committee.

Mr. Schulken said he thought the present law amply sufficient, and thought the bill had a look of danger to be passed now so precipitately.

The bill was put on its passage, passed the second reading, and the third reading being objected to by Mr. Mc-Kenzie.
House adjourned.

FUSION ENDED.

Republicans Make No Reply to Populists—The Latter Repudiate Co-operation—An Address from Butler and Other Populists

Since the election of a Senator by the Legislature and the division arising among the Populists over it, there has been much speculation as to the outcome of such division and whether there would be co-operation hereafter between the Republicans and the bolters or with the regulars. Several caucuses have been held and ultimatums issued, the regulars endeavoring to force the Republicans to decide which faction of the Populists they would work with. The Republicans refused to decide the matter, and on Wednesday night the Populists held another caucus and adopted the following:

"Resolved, That inasmuch as the republican caucus has failed to give us an answer to our request that they observe the contract of co-operation, and inasmuch as they have refused to even hold a caucus to consider our request, that this caucus reaffirm the resolution passed last night to the effect that they by their failure to proceed had broken the contract entered into last summer and that, therefore all communications and negotiations from this caucus to them be closed and all other resolutions passed last night be and are hereby reaffirmed."

This was unanimously adopted. There was a full attendance of members. The caucus issued an address of some 3,000 words to the populist voters in North Carolina and the United States. It includes one of the addresses issued last week. The address says, among other things:

"The election of Pritchard, the candidate of Hanna, Sherman and Wall street to represent the silver sentiment of North Carolina in the United States Senate is a shock to every true patriot of this State, as well as the nation. Already the populist supporters of Hanna's man begin to call themselves co-operative populists, when, in truth, they are nothing but republicans, while attempting to serve the purposes of the republicans by masquerading as populists. 'By their fruits ye shall know them.'

"The only way by which the populist party can be able to maintain its existence, strengthen its lines and advance its principles, upon which good government must be founded, is by purging from its ranks all who have committed the crime of placing self above the welfare of the people. Seventeen members of the legislature calling themselves populists under the traitorous direction of Congressman Harry Skinner, aided and abetted by prominent populists of other states, high in the councils of the party, have committed this crime and have been promptly repudiated and expelled from the organization and, therefore, branded as traitors to the basis principles of good government and enemies to the welfare of humanity. The seductive but slimy snakes of fusion has no doubt stuck its poisonous fangs to a greater or less depth into the organization of the people's party in many other States; therefore, this purging must be done. It cannot begin too soon.

"In the last national convention we were confronted by the baneful and onous effects of republican fusion in the south swinging the party to one extreme and democratic fusion in the west swinging the party to the other extreme, which not only destroyed harmony and unity of method, but also endangering every existence of organization. They co-operate with us for their own advancement and with a view to our disruption and ultimate absorption. Only last week immediately after Senator Pritchard's election by a bolting faction of the people's party, The Asheville Register, his personal organ, gloated over the apparent disruption of our ranks and boasted that the republicans would absorb by 1900 every populist in North Carolina 'that is worth having.' The boasting hope of the republican party in North Carolina finds, no doubt, a parallel elsewhere in the hope and purpose of the democratic party against the continued existence of our organic life, but we have not come upon the stage of political action as food to prolong the life of the two old parties."

The address was prepared at a conference of Butler, Thompson, Ayer and Fountain.

True, Even If Not Spiritual.

My son, follow not in the footsteps of a loafer, and make no example of him who is born tired, for verily, I say unto you, business is overstocked, the seats on the corners are all taken, and the whittling places are all occupied. It is better to saw wood at two bits a cord than to whittle in a loafing match and cuss the government. My son while thou hast left in thy skull the sense of a jay bird, break away from the cigarette habit, for lo, thy breath stinketh like a glue factory, and thy whole appearance is less intelligent than a store dummy.—Beymour News.

North Carolina and Her Public Schools.

To show how far behind North Carolina is in the matter of public schools, we can compare its school statistics with those of other States. The average number of days of school of all the children of North Carolina each year is 24. The schools run from two to four months; but many attend only part of the time and a great many (over 200,000) do not attend at all. This makes the average so low. The average number of days of school each year for all the children of the United States is above 60. There are 21 States that make a showing three times better than North Carolina; there are over 36 that make a showing twice as good. North Carolina is next to last in the general average. These facts being facts that cannot be denied, it is plain that our condition from an educational point of view is such as to call for the active interest of every citizen.—Biblical Recorder.

When bilious or costive, eat a Cascaet, candy cathartic, cure guaranteed, 10c, 25c.

The southbound vestibule train, which passed through this city at 1:06 o'clock this morning, broke the Southern record for fast running. It ran the distance from Rocky Mount to Florence, 172 miles, in 203 minutes, including seven stops and three slow-downs. This is a mile a minute.—Fayetteville Observer.

A Shoemaker Prince.

In addition to Hans Sachs, the shoemaker poet, and Tolstoi, the shoemaker novelist, there is now, according to The Woman at Home, a shoemaker prince, Albert Edward, prince of Wales, duke of Cornwall, duke of Rothesay, count of Chester, etc.—in short, the heir apparent to the throne of Great Britain. It appears, says the journal just named, that the queen of England and the prince consort desired that each of their children should learn from the beginning some useful trade. The Prince of Wales chose shoemaking and soon acquired such perfection in the art that his handiwork became the pride of his fellow cobblers, as it was the envy of gentlemen of fashion. The prince has never attempted to conceal his talent and does not fail even today to pass with a critical eye upon the shoes sent him by the furnishers. And that is why Albert Edward is the best shod gentleman in England.

A Sudden Increase.

"I tell you it takes a burglary to make a man rich."
"You mean poor, don't you?"
"No; I mean rich."
"In what way?"
"Well, I have been reading about the value of the goods stolen from Singer's house, and I find that he has lost more than he ever had."—Chicago Post.

SCROFULA AND ERYSIPELAS

Two Diseases That Cause Their Victims to Be Shunned by Their Fellow-Man.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. GENTLEMEN: I commenced taking P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, last Fall, for Erysipelas. My face was completely covered with the disease; I took a short course of P. P. P., and it soon disappeared. This Spring I became much debilitated and again took another course, and I am now in good condition. I consider P. P. P. one of the best blood preparations on the market, and for those who need a general tonic to build up the system and improve the appetite I consider that it has no equal. Will say, anyone who cares to try P. P. P. will not be disappointed in its results, and I, therefore, cheerfully recommend it.

ARTHUR WOOD, Springfield, Mo. Erysipelas and Scrofula cured by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, surely and without fail.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. GENTLEMEN: Last June I had a scrofulous sore which broke out on my ankle. It grew rapidly, and soon extended from my ankle to my knee. I got one bottle of your P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, and was agreeably surprised at the result. The entire sore healed at once. I think I have taken almost every medicine recommended for scrofula and catarrh, and your P. P. P. is the best I have ever tried. It cannot be recommended too highly for blood poison, etc.

Yours very truly, W. P. HUNTER.

P. P. P. cures all blood and skin disease, both in men and women. Rheumatism, which makes man's life a hell upon earth, can be relieved at once by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy. It makes a PERMANENT cure. P. P. P. is the great and only remedy for advanced cases of catarrh. Stoppage of the nostrils and difficulty in breathing when lying down, P. P. P. relieves at once. P. P. P. cures blood poisoning in all its various stages, old ulcers, sores and kidney complaints.

WHY HOUDON WAITED.

The Story Is Told In the Sculptor's Statue of Washington.

One of the most valuable and interesting collections of colonial relics in existence is in the state library at Richmond.

The greatest treasure in the collection is the marble statue of Washington, by Houdon. It possesses the merit of being the only effigy that remains of Washington that was actually taken from life. The statue conveys a very distinct idea of Washington, different in many respects, however, from the familiar portraits which for the most part are copies of the same original. In 1784, five years before the adoption of the federal constitution, the general assembly of Virginia ordered this statue.

When the statue was provided for, Thomas Jefferson happened to be in Paris, and he engaged Houdon as the sculptor, because, as he afterward said, "He is, without a rival-ship, the first statuary of his age, as the proof of which he received orders from every country for things intended to be capital." Houdon received 1,000 English guineas, a trifle over $5,000. Besides, the expense of the journey from France to Virginia was paid; and his life was insured during his absence from France at the cost of the general assembly. Houdon left Paris in August, 1785. In October he reached Mount Vernon. He was treated with great consideration by Washington until the formality of his first meeting wore away.

Houdon made known no desire to get to work at the statue, and it is believed that Washington's hospitality grew a trifle cold before the sculptor really set about the work for which he had come over the sea. One morning while the family, of which Houdon had become temporarily a member, was seated at breakfast, a message was brought to Washington, informing him that a pair of carriage horses had been brought for his inspection, he having made known his desire to purchase a team. Washington left the table presently and went outside. Houdon followed. After a moment's close inspection Washington asked the price of the animals.

"One thousand dollars," was the reply.

"One thousand dollars!" said Washington, in amazement.

"Ah, I 'ave him! I 'ave 'him!" broke in Houdon gleefully. He hurried away and began work on the statue industriously, and so it is supposed that the expression preserved on the statue at Richmond is the one that appeared on the face of Washington when he learned of what he considered an exorbitant price for the span of horses. With the knowledge of this little incident in seeing the statue, it is not hard to believe that Houdon "had him" in truth, and kept him, for there is an expression of surprise on the face and the lips are compressed. It seems that Houdon, after he got the inspiration he had been waiting for, pursued the work faithfully, gaining Washington's interest and good will by his perseverance and industry.—Harper's Weekly.

Right Living.

Right living is, in one sense, a living without making mistakes. To make mistakes is human, however, and a mistake may at least have in it the merit of activity. The person who does nothing may escape blundering, but a do-nothing policy is not often a help to progress. "Recently," said a notable speaker at a memorable gathering lately assembled, "I saw some people who have made no mistakes for thousands of years. They were in the museum of the University of Pennsylvania, in the Peruvian and Mexican departments, in glass cases."—Youth's Companion.

Felt Good Afterward.

A little dorky sat on a horse block pounding his thumb nail with a hammer.

"Why do you do that?" asked a man riding past.

"Cause," he whined, "'cause it do feel so good when I stop."

REVIEW OF REVIEWS

Monthly

Illustrated

Edited by ALBERT SHAW

"If only one magazine can be taken, we would suggest the REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as covering more ground than any other magazine."—Board of Library Commissioners of New Hampshire, 1896.

THIS magazine is, in its contributed and departmental features, what its readers, who include the most noted names of the English-speaking world, are pleased to call "absolutely up to date," "thoroughly abreast of the times," "invaluable," and "indispensable." It is profusely illustrated with timely portraits, views, and cartoons. Its original articles are of immediate interest, by the best authorities on their respective subjects. The Editor's "Progress of the World" gives a clear, rightly proportioned view of the history of the human race during the current month. The "Leading Articles of the Month" present the important parts of the best magazine articles that have been written in every part of the world. The newest and most important books are carefully reviewed. Indexes, chronological records, and other departments complete the certainty that the reader of the Review of Reviews will miss nothing of great significance that is said or written or done throughout the world.

Many newspapers show the effects of this kind of weather on printing rollers. Its tough, we can tell you.

It is the time of year when reflection from burning plant beds in the surrounding country can be seen at night

It just seems impossible to keep warm in this weather except in a small, close room with a big, hot stove, and then you almost freeze on one side while the other is burning.

Try It.

While this bad weather is on and you can't do much else is a good time to make preparation for pushing things a little later. People are at home reading by the fire now and are laying their plans for going trading when the weather lets them get out. You better put them in mind of what you have to offer before they start. An advertisement in the REFLECTOR will do this for you.

One Naught too Many.

The Newbern Journal reports a man who had recently visited Pitt county as saying "I met a farmer who netted $4,000 off 400 acres of tobacco." Something wrong about this. In the first place there is not a man in Pitt county who plants 400 acres in tobacco, and in the next place $10 an acre is no money to make on a tobacco crop. Perhaps the Journal meant say 40 acres instead of 400.
