FITZ WINS.

THE SLUGGERS MEET AND FIGHT FIERCELY AN HOUR AND A HALF.

Fitzsimmons Knocks Corbett Out on the Fourteenth Round.

(Special to Reflector.)

CARSON CITY, NEV., Mar. 17.—St. Patrick's day dawned beautifully, and by 7 o'clock the sun was high over the peaks of the Sierr Nevada.

Billy DeLaney last P. M. won the toss up for positions, which means that Fitz will begin the battle with old Sol facing him.

Several trains of eastern sports arrived during the morning and there was much betting, the odds being 10 to 6 in favor of Corbett. It is generally believed the number of rounds will not exceed 10, while the favorite number is locked upon as 7.

At 10:30 a. m. the ring side of the great arena was rapidly filling and the street blocked with people. All the notable sports of the country are here. John L. Sullivan appeared and was greeted with tumultuous cheering.

Jimmy Colville is time keeper for Corbett. L. W. Houseman time keeper for Fitz. Billy Madden handles the gong.

Billy Jordan, in behalf of Sullivan, announced a challenge to fight the winner of this contest for $5,000. (Loud cheers.) Sullivan jumped in the ring and said, "Gentlemen, there is nothing I can add to Mr. Jordan's remarks. I think there is one more fight left in me and I am here for business."

A challenge was also made in behalf of Joe Goddard.

Fitzsimmons entered the ring at 11:59, Corbett following a half minute later.

Time was called at 12:07.

1st round.—Sparring for an opening, Fitz forcing Corbett to cover tries a left swing which Jim ducks cleverly. Jim smiling. Fitz very aggressive and leads a light one on Corbett's neck. Jim reints and lands left hook on stomach, follows with left hook on Fitz jaw. They clinch but no damage done in the breakaway. Corbett lands right swing on Fitz ribs, clinch, no damage. Fitz lands left on Jim's head. Jim lands hard right on Fitz short ribs, clinch and Fitz lands heavy right hand on Jim's head. Jim says "oh" and laughed. Jim lands right on Fitz ribs as the gong sounds.

gets savage and tries his left and right at Corbett's head but does very little damage. Corbett lands another left jab on the body and follows with right short on the ribs. It is a beautiful contest. Fitz rushes and Jim meets him with stiff right hand short on the stomach. Fitz is doing the rushing and hitting and roughing in the breakaway, Jim clinches. Jim lands right hard over heart. Fitz mixes it up and puts the heels of gloves in Corbett's face. in the clinch Jim keeps his hands working like a piston rod on Fitz body. They clinch and Fitz roughs it in the breakaway as the gong sounds. Fitz feels anxious to continue, but Corbett laughs, sticks his right glove in Fitz face and they go to corners.

6th round.—They clinch and Fitz tries to wrestle Corbett down. Loud cries of "oh," "oh." Corbett lands right light jab on the face. Fitz counters in the jaw. Corbett upper cuts Fitz fiercely with right and has Fitz going. Fitz is literally covered with blood, but is fighting like a demon. Corbett is showing the signs of fast work. Fitz is down on one knee and takes time like he is full of fight. Corbett is slaughtering him with uppercuts. Corbett's lands are wild, he misses many well intended blows. Time called with Fitz looking very much the worse for wear and Corbett puffing.

8th round.—Fitz misses a left swing and is lifted off his feet by a straight left back from Corbett on the neck. Fitz is doing all the forcing in this round. Fitz tries a right hand cross cut but Jim ducks. Fitz lands his left on Jim's face and Jim counters with a right on body. Sparring for wild. Time.

9th round.—Long range sparring, both very active on their feet. Fitz jabs below the belt and is cautioned by Siler. Corbett lands stiff left on Fitz wind. Fitz rushes Jim but does WEDNESDA 97.

Sunday morning the Western Union telegraph office at Charlotte was totally destroyed by fire. The fire is supposed to have originated in the switch board, and to have been caused by a heavy storm that prevailed during the previous night.

Congress convened in extra session Monday upon the call of President McKinley. T. B. Reed, of Maine, was re-elected Speaker of the House. For this position the Democrats supported J. W. Bailey, of Texas, and gave him 114 votes. This recognizes Mr. Bailey as the Democratic leader in the House. The President's message to this extra Congress was very brief and urged such a revision of the tariff as will raise sufficient revenue to meet the expenses of the government.

It is reported that a syndicate has been formed in Denver in the interest of a most novel enterprise connected with cycling. The plan is to build a 1000 mile bicycle tourist circuit in the mountains, starting from Denver and extending to Estes park, seventy-five miles distant, said to be one of the prettiest natural parks in the world. From there it is proposed to circle west and south to Manitou, via Ute Pass and returning to Denver by way of Manitou Park and South Platte. The plan includes the building of cabins about twenty miles apart, and hotels about seventy-five miles apart, one of which is to be a sanitarium.

A meeting of the owners and editors of the afternoon papers is to be held in Greensboro Thursday evening, March 18th, for the purpose of seeing if some arrangement cannot be made whereby telegraphic dispatches may be obtained for these papers at a rate which they can all afford to pay.

At present it is impossible to get such news at a reasonable figure and when it is had it is no good. Other matters in connection with the welfare of these papers will also be discussed.

The REFLECTOR was invited and urged to be present at the meeting, and regrets being prevented from so doing, yet it is in sympathy with the movement, and if the afternoon papers can make satisfactory arrangements with the news associations we hope to give our readers the telegraphic news before a great while.

It's Politics and Thus It Goes.

Here in North Carolina one may see all that is necessary to perceive the extent to which political greed has gone. Our General Assembly has openly and brazenly been delayed in the work for which it was chosen because the offices were not distributed to suit certain parasites upon the State. Caucuses have been nearly as frequent as the meetings of the General Assembly, and the main question in the caucuses has been, who shall get the offices. The night sessions of the General Assembly have been repeatedly adjourned or omitted altogether in order that the members might hold a caucus on the subject of offices. But to make the matter worse, the office-seekers have not been content with general offices, but they have boldly proclaimed their intention of taking the offices in the institutions for the insane, and others for other unfortunates. There is no plan, no need, no demand for our protectors of these public charges, no excuse is offered; but the office-seekers just brazenly demand that they shall have offices, regardless of danger, regardless of sure discomfort of these our fellow mortals who cannot, and cannot be expected to, protect themselves. It is a shame; but it is politics, and politics hide a multitude of sins these days.—Bithlral Recorder.

Progressive Farmer on the Legislature

"But few good bills of any importance were passed. Possibly some good bills of a local nature went through. The buying up men to elect Pritchard prevented any good that the legislature might have done. Of course the election of Pritchard was only one of the duties expected of the pie above principle gang. They, or a part of them, were brought into service whenever monopoly and plutocracy wanted a measure passed or defeated. And the democratic and republican members, with a few exceptions, were always ready to assist. The good done by the legislature could be printed in a small pamphlet. The bad done and the good omitted would fill several large volumes."

THE DAILY NEWSPAPER.

A True Representative of Home Interests and Enterprise.

The daily newspaper is the truest representative of the city in which it is published. It speaks for and presents its city, as it were, in a mirror, to all the country. Every day of the year it proclaims to the world the merits and demerits of the place where it is published. In a large measure the city is judged abroad by its daily newspaper. If the daily newspaper creates a favorable impression abroad and is well known, then the city, too, will enjoy in a measure the same sort of reputation. It is not so much the readers of the daily newspaper abroad that give it character and standing, as its exchanges. If the daily newspaper obtains a high place in the esteem of the whole newspaper press, the city in which it is published shares in a considerable measure the same sort of reputation. If the paper is of a character to make it often quoted, the name of its city becomes familiar to the world. By the character of the daily newspaper the character of its city is very largely judged by the whole newspaper press of the country. So, then, the fortunes of a city are much involved in its daily newspaper press.

The character of the daily newspaper is determined almost wholly by the support it receives. If the merchants and business men of its town are liberal, enterprising, far-seeing citizens, who appreciate the value of the daily newspaper and give to it a generous patronage, then it will be worthy of its city. If, on the other hand, the support given is scant, then an unfavorable impression of the town is every day carried to all parts of the country. We state a truth when we say that not a dollar is paid to the well-conducted daily newspaper that does not come back to its city in ten fold value. We state another fact when we say that for presenting to the public nearly all kinds of legitimate advertising, there is not another medium in the world so effective and so effective and so economical as the daily newspaper. The great merchants of this country who have amassed millions of wealth, relied on the daily newspapers almost wholly for their advertising.—Press and Printer.

He Didn't Want Much.

"Say, kernal," he said, as he walked into the editor's office and stamped about forty pounds of mud off his boots against the legs of the stove. "I sorter thought I'd take er paper ef you'd do the square thing."

"Well, here's a little obituary of Aunt Kalline—hit's jes' ten pages o' foolscap an' won't make much, I reckon."

"We'll print it."

"An' you'll send forty copies of the paper to this 'ere list o' relatives, won't you?"

"Yes."

"An' nex' week my daughter Serily is goin' to get married. I reckon you'll print a hull lot about that?"

"Of course. That's news."

"An', say, I've got one o' the finest young shotes you ever have seen. I want you to cum cut some day an' write up hit."

"I shall be glad to do so."

"You ain't got a dozen er two ole magazines whut you've dun read a lyin' around handy, hev you?"

"Yes, here's three or four."

"Thanky. Jes' put down fer three months, an' I'll hand you the quarter 'long this fall sometime."—Atlanta Constitution.

A Swindler.

A man passed middle age came here last week driving a good turnout. He claimed to need $50 to pay freight on a car load of horses which he was shipping to Burgaw. He borrowed this amount from Mr. Grady Smith and left the horse and buggy as collateral. This was the last seen of the horse man. In a few days Mr. Hare, a Wilson livery man, came here and identified the horse and buggy as his. He had hired the turnout to the alleged stock dealer who never returned. The property was turned over to Mr. Hare and Mr. Smith is out $50. The fraud gave his name as Henderson. He is said to be going on and perpetrating the same kind of swindles as he goes. At last accounts he was in South Carolina and likely to be apprehended.—Sampson Democrat.

REMEMBER BOYS MAKE MEN.

When you see a ragged urchin
Standing wistful in the street,
With torn hat and kneeless trousers,
Dirty face and bare, red feet,
Pass not by the child unheeding; Smile upon him. Mark me, when He's grown he'll not forget it;
For remember, boys make men.

When the buoyant youthful spirits
Overflow in boyish frolic,
Hide your child in gentle accent;
Do not in your anger speak.
You must sow in youthful bosoms
Seed of tender mercies, then Plants will grow and bear good fruit—
age.

When the erring boys are men.
Have you never seen a grand sire,
With his eyes aglow with joy,
Bring to mind some act of kindness—
Something said to him a boy?
Or relate some slight or coldness,
With a brow all clouded, when
He said they were too thoughtless
To remember boys make men.

Let us try to add some pleasures
To the life of every boy.
For each child needs tender interest:
In its sorrows and its joys;
Call your boys home by its brightness,
They'll avoid a gloomy den,
And seek for comfort elsewhere—
And remember, boys make men.

TO MUCH LAW.

One of the greatest evil to which the people have to submit to the multiplication of laws.

Every session of each State legislature is accompanied by such an epidemic of legislation
as would challenge the imagination.
There are several reasons for this.

One of the first and strongest is the fact that each recurring legislature is composed of new men, who want to try their "prentice hands on the work of making laws. They start in with the idea that everything has to be done over again. They find the codes now in existence inadequate, and think that society needs reforming. Then there are numerous fanaticisms which find their places in different localities, and which in turn are conveyed by their local representatives to the state legislatures, and on to congress.

There is no doubt that the country is suffering too much from too many laws. As has been said by an eminent writer: "There must be a law against this thing here, against that thing there, against those forms of indulgence
and that unnecessary abstinance, and every day that passes we see them violated with the full knowledge of the officers, and with the complete consent of the very people who had them passed."

If the matter stopped here and might be well for it would but end in the accumulation of stautes, and nothing would make our civilized people do more than their average common sense allows, but the trouble is that the ignoring of one law, which may be unnecessary, leads to an increase in the infraction of another law which was necessary, and thus, through an excess of Laws, says the Atlanta Constitution, we are making our people communities of law-breakers.

He knows most who knows how little he knows.

The negative goodness of some people is exasperating.

Most of us know when to speak;
few of us know when to be silent.

The majority of us try not to find fault, but to defend a system.

When you need help you may find most of your friends are only acquaintances.

Looking at some men we find it hard to believe that "God made man upright."

Some persons "become all things to all men" that by all means they may dupe some.

Irresponsibility.

Occasionally one comes across persons who are to all intents and purposes utterly irresponsible. No matter what their acts, they have a plausible excuse, and when excuses are exhausted they dismiss the whole affair with a little flutter or a wave of the hand and declare that "really they don't know anything about it, or that they have done all they can, and that's all there is to it." Personal responsibility and the habits of accuracy, reliability, truthfulness and well bred frankness are among the most important items in the education of a child—above all,
a feeling of accountability and the disposition to accept whatever belongs to one's share of the responsibilities of life.—New York Ledger.

The Romans had a general military distinction, the olive crown. In its nature it was like a British medal "for valor" and was given to ed themselves by special acts of

The mosquito's buzzing has been a source of much contention among mosquito scientists. It is undoubtedly due to the vibration of the wings and their friction against some portion of the mosquito's body.

The Meeting.

Interest in the meeting in progress in the Presbyterian church increases and the congregations grow larger each day. Last night the church was well filled and Dr. Black preached a forcible sermon from the text "Except ye repent ye shall all likewise perish." He showed wherein all have sinned and are under the condemnation of the law, and without repentance and turning to God it is impossible for any to be saved. At the close of the sermon there were many requests for prayer.

This morning his subject was Lot and the text "He pitched his tent toward Sodom." He showed how Lot turned his back on God, and the loss of property influence and family that resulted from such a choice. The speaker earnestly warned his hearers against choosing sin and wordliness instead of God.

Services tonight at 7:30. The singing at all the services is delightful and those who go early get the benefit of it.

Killed Near Bethel.

We learn that a negro by the name of John Simms living on the plantation of J. C. & W. A. Taylor, three miles of Bethel, was accidentally killed on Saturday evening. It seems that he was out in the woods sawing timber and a dead limb fell from a tree, striking him on the top of the head, killing him instantly. Simms was a good well behaved negro and liked by all.

Body Removed.

The body of Mrs. L. O. Wyebe, who was buried here on Monday, was exhumed yesterday evening and taken on this morning's train to Washington and conveyed from there by vessel to Ocracoke. A request was received from relatives that the body be taken there for interment. Capt. C. P. Kelly, of Ocracoke, arrived here yesterday to bring the request and to accompany the remains to their last resting place.

very little damage. Fitz lands very hard left hand swing on Jims jaw and tries for a right cross cut but fails. Fitz again tries light cross, but he is short. He is landing more often than Jim now. Time.

10th—Fitz spits the blood out of his mouth and tries a hard left swing at Jim's head. Fitz comes back with stiff left and right on Jim's head and body, and is very much cooler and stronger than Jim at this stage. Jim stops a left with a straight left in the mouth. Fitz is bleeding rapidly, but forces Jim back, apparently the stronger of the two. They mix and honors are about even, both are fighting hard. Fitz catches Jim around the neck and draws him to the rope when time is called. Jim's blows are lacking in force, but he is fighting very cautious.

11th round.—A clinch, Corbett lands his right on the ribs and is countered left jab once. Corbett misses a half sound hook on the jaw, they mix it and Fitz has decidedly the better of the round. Fitz fights Corbett to his corner and has him weak as the gong sounds.

12th round.—Corbett rushes it, misses left and is countered on the face. Fitz is bent on rushing and Corbett is keeping away. Fitz gets the worst of it in the rush, more clinching. Corbett lands left on Fitz's nose, follows with half round at body, he forces Fitz to the ropes and smashes him hard on the short ribs. Fitz spits copious wads of blood. Corbett is now rushing and lands right and left on the Australian's face. Corbett lands left on Fitz's face again and follows right, tries a knock out upper cut with right but it's a hair too short. This is Corbett's round.

13th round.—Jim lands. Fitz rush, Jim over his corner but does little damage. Jim jabs Fitz lightly on the head and is back with one on the body. Corbett is ducking some very dangerous blows.

14th round.—Corbett's lead blocked. Corbett lands left jaw again on Fitz's head. Fitz counters with that terrible right swing on Corbett's neck and he has Corbett going back for a few minutes. Fitz lands a terrible jab on Corbett's stomach and Corbett goes to his knees with a frightful look of agony on his face.

The time keepers call the seconds—one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, but Corbett coming to his feet. He rushes to Fitz and endeavors to strike him. There is a terrible uproar, the decision has not been given yet. George Siler decided that Fitz wins. The blow that did the business landed over Corbett's heart and he collapsed. The last round lasted about 1 minute and 45 seconds.
