day in town.

W. A. Fleming, of Hamilton, spent Saturday in town.

Miss Bertie Hale, of Baltimore arrived last Thursday and has taken a position with Mrs. McG. Bullock.

Misses Carson and Albritton have opened their new stock of millinery on Railroad street in the store formerly occupied by J. E. Carson.

J. H. Johnston, who has been at the Soldiers' Home at Raleigh since last May, spent a few days in town week before last. He left for Scotland Neck last week.

Rev. D. B. Culbreth closed a series of meeting at the Methodist church Sunday night was a week ago. Several joined the church.

S. T. Carson, J. J. Carson, F. B.
Knight, McG. Bullock, D. C. Moore and several others attended court at Tarboro last week.

The farmers are now busily engaged planting their crops.

WHICHARD ITEMS.

WHICHARD, April 19, 1897.

W. A. Fleming, of Hassell, was here
Friday.

W. R. Whichard, Jr., spent Saturday in Robersonville.

G. E. Cherry, of Jamesville, gave us a call on Thursday last.

Dr. Levi Yates, of Williamston, has been spending some time with T. J.
Sheppard.

C. L. Whichard, of Norfolk, came home Friday and spent a couple of days with his parents.

B. C. Pearce, of Greenville, was here today.

Mrs. D. J. Whichard, of Greenville, spent last week here visiting the family
of W. R. Whichard.

We were glad to have a call from the Editor Sunday afternoon.

H. M. Griffin left today for Williamston.

W. C. Proctor, of Williamston
pent several days here last week.

Miss Mamie Brown, of Jamesville, who has been visiting her brother, J.
T. Brown, is spending this week with Miss Mary Whitehurst at Oakley.

S. M. Jones and family, of Bethel spent Sunday here.

J. E. Green, A. C. L. agent at Wharton came up this morning.

Wintry weather struck us again this morning. There is fear that the cold will injure fruit and young crops.

istered the temperature at 54 at noon today. The temperature on the same date of last year was 84.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.

OAKLEY, N. C., April 19th, '97.

As we understand there's quite a crowd now on the road gang. We would make a suggestion that they be put to work where they will do a power of good. The road from Great Swamp meeting house to Grindle Creek, a distance of some 3 miles, and from the Shivers place to Grindle Creek on the Bethel road, a distance of some 2 miles, are the worst roads on the north side of the River. The people have built a good bridge across the creek at the Carney farm and we think it nothing but just for these two roads to have some benefits from the prisoners. We think they could be quartered comfortably at some point, say at Staten mill, and they would be convenient to both roads.

Another reason why these roads should have some of the prison labor is that there are no hands that live on them and all the hands have to come from quite a distance to work these roads. We cannot see the justice in keeping them working in a mile or two of town where the roads are in fair condition, when such roads as I speak of are in reach and the work done on them would be a lasting good. We hope the authorities will consider this matter and put the prisoners to work on these roads. W.

Henry Blount Coming.

Henry Blount will deliver his famous lecture "Beyond the Alps Lies Italy"
in the Court House here Friday night, under the auspices of the King's Daughters. A pleasant treat is assured all who attend this lecture. Mr. Blount has delivered this lecture in many States and it received the highest praise.
The Sherman Democrat say:
"His entertainments are in effect the happiest combinations of the lecture and dramatic performance yet discovered wherewith to delight and instruct the intelligent and appreciative of all classes. He is one of the most finished orators on the American stage, whose pathos and humor are blended in the most delightful manner possible. One never tires of hearing him."

James Brooks Pardoned.

When lawyer F. C. Harding returned home Monday evening he brought with him a pardon for James Brooks, who was sentenced to six months imprisonment at the January term of Pitt Superior Court. Governor Russell granted the pardon upon the recommendation of the Judge, Solicitor and prosecutor. Brooks was released today.

The joke was on B. C. Pearce this morning. He started to Washington through the country and getting as far as Grimesland found that he had left his sample trunk keys behind. He drove back and got his keys just in time to catch the morning train.

E. L. McGowan, who has been in business here in the store next to RE-FLECTOR office, moved to Pactolus today.

TUESDAY, APRIL 20, 1897.

Absolutely Fiendish.

From the Presbyterian Banner of December 30, 1896, published in Pittsburg, Pa., we clip the following given as the words of an officer of the Liquor League of Ohio at a meeting in which the interests of the saloon business were being discussed:

"It will appear from these facts gentlemen, that the success of our business is dependent largely upon the creation of appetite for drink. Men who drink liquor, like others, will die, and if there is no new appetite created, our counters will be empty, as will be our coffers. Our children will go hungry or we must change our business to that of some other more remunerative. The open field for the creation of this appetite is among the boys. After men are grown and their habits formed, they rarely ever change in this regard. It will be needful therefore, that missionary work be one among the boys, and I make the suggestion, gentlemen that nickels expended in treats to the boys now, will return in dollars to your tills, after the appetite has been formed. Above all things, create appetite!"

Such a statement seems absolutely fiendish; and yet, whether spoken or unspoken, the fact remains that the traffic exists only by recruits from among the boys. "Wanted, a hundred thousand boys," must be the constant motto of this infamous business, that a few may grow rich and their children live in luxury while their patrons go down to the lowest depths of degradation and poverty.

Such a frank statement ought to arouse parents to take the proper steps to protect their children from a Molock, beside whom the ancient minotaur of Crete who fed on young men and maidens from Athens was a patron saint.—Ex.

Not Reduced by the Overflow.

In spite of the devastation wrought by the overflow of the Mississippi river there seems to be no reason for apprehending any serious reduction in the size of this year's cotton crop.

As compared with the vast area of the cotton belt the devastated portion of the Mississippi valley is comparatively small; and, though the flood's destructive work is grievous in the extreme, it is not of such a character as to seriously effect the general result.

Indeed the experience of past years has been that early spring floods instead of cutting the cotton crops short has frequently made them larger. This is due to the fact that the floods have enriched the bottom land and in partial atonement for having swept away the first crop planted have made the soil all the more productive for second plantings.

Although it is now somewhat late in the season it is possible for the Mississippi valley farmers to redeem much of what they have lost by planting a second crop of cotton in the rich deposits of sediment which the receding waters have left upon their farming lands.

In view of these considerations it is not likely that this year's cotton crop will be reduced. On contrary, if it exceeds the size of last year's crop there will be no occasion for surprise. Such things have happened before and may happen again.—Atlanta Constitution.

His Better Seven-Eighths.

Many of my friends have asked me, and a few strangers had the curiosity to write and inquire, "Why is it that you always speak of your wife as your better $\frac{7}{8}$?" In this brief article I will endeavor to explain, and I use the personal pronoun that the readers of the Herald will the better understand me. In Christian fortitude she is as a fortress capable of withstanding any fusillade; I but a rifle pit with many unguarded gaps in comparison. Her faith is that of a healthy tree in full foliage and fruit: mine like a tree blasted, with an occasional sprout that lends hope of fruition, but so frail that the first cold wave of despondency deadens and withers it. As a neighbor she embodies those qualities expressed in the words of the Master: "Do unto others as you would that they should do to you." I am content to do by him as well as he has done by me, and too frequently fall short of that standard. As nurse she is a Sister of Charity reared in the Garden of Gethsemane or in a nunnery of Nazareth, shedding sweet sunshine through the sick room; I both impatient and irascible. Endowed with almost superhuman energy, she is a living type of the busy bee; I not so enriched, am too frequently a drone of disappointment. The day is never so dark but the bright light beyond beckons her on as a beacon of hope; despondency darkens my vision and obscures from view anything favorable the future might show. Thus in all the nobler attributes of life she towers above me as the forest pine above the stunted fig bush. During a continuous companionship of over twenty one years I have been sensible to these superior qualities, and I have been always honest enough to say so. She combines characteristics quintuple in quality, and in her affections assumes the place of mother, wife, sister, friend. All in all she is the apple of my eye, my best beloved in whom I am well pleased. Such is my wife as I see her and have known her all these years. She condones my faults, finds excuses for my errors, sympathizes with me in sorrow, and strengthens me in adversity. Hence I say "our $\frac{7}{8}$," such she will ever be to me!—Hazel Green Herald.

Characteristics of the Small Boy.

An exchange, which has evidently been a close student of nature as it is to be found in the average boy, says:

A boy will tramp 47 miles in one day on a rabbit hunt and be limber in the evening, when if you ask him to go across the street to borrow a two inch auger, he will be as stiff as a meat block. Of course he will. And he will go swimming all day and stay in the water three hours at a time, and dive, and the next morning he will feel that the unmeasured insult has been offered him when he is told by his mother to wash his face carefully, so as not to leave the score of the ebb and flow so plain to be seen on his gills. And he will wander about the bed of a dry creek all the afternoon piling up a pebble fort and nearly die off when his big sister wants him to pick up a basket of chips for the parlor stove. And he will spend the biggest part of a day trying to corner a stray mule for a ride, but feels that life's charms have fled when he comes to drive the cows home. And he'll turn a ten acre field up side down for ten one inch angle worms, and wish for the voiceless tomb when the garden demands attention. But all the same when you want a friend who will stand by you enlist one of the boys.

The theatres in Japan have a novel method of pass out tickets, which are positively not transferable. When a person wishes to leave the theatre before the close of the performance, with the intention of returning, he goes to the doorkeeper and holds out his right hand. The doorkeeper then, with a rubber stamp, imprints on the palm the mark of the establishment.

Dead Girl's Locks a Parlor Ornament.

Something that demonstrated that human hair grows after death was discovered recently in Colesville, N. Y. There lives in that town a family named Howd, well-to-do farmers. They had a daughter, nineteen years old. She had beautiful golden hair. When she was stricken with a fever it was necessary to cut off her locks. Finally she died and was buried.

After two years the parents decided to remove the remains to another place. The grave was opened. It was found that her hair had grown to reach nearly to her feet. It was as bright and glossy as though its wearer was in the best of health. The tresses were cut off. They measured over five feet. They were put into a glass case in Mr. Howe's home, where they are shown to visitors. —New York Press.

Your best judgment requires you to make an immediate provision for your family.

By insuring today, your estate is increased in value at once.

'T WAS EVER THUS.

A few days since an insurance agent accepted an invitation to inspect a new and beautiful house built by a friend. After taking a peep at the whole establishment from top to bottom, inquired—

"House insured?"

"Yes."

"What do you insure it for?"

"Because it MIGHT burn."

"Not SURE of it, are you?"

"No."

"Is your life insured?"

"No."

"Die, won't you?"

"Yes."

"Sure?"

"Yes."

"Then why not insure your life as well as your house?"

"Well, really, I never thought of the matter just in that light before, and will give it early attention." —Travelers Record.

Field Fortifications.

During the civil war in this country the importance of temporary or field fortifications was so highly appreciated by the troops on both sides that the moment a halt was made the men began to throw up breastworks. The great difficulty was to induce them to wait until a proper line of defense had been selected by the engineers.

Wanted the Best.

Mrs. Goldbags—John, just look at them invitations to the Vere de Vere's dance! What do you suppose them letters "R. S. V. P." mean?

Mr. Goldbags—That must be for "Reserved Seats Various Prices." Just send down and get the best they've got. Them Vere de Veres can't have nuthin too good for us.—The Parrot Was Good Company.

"Yes'm," said the dealer in captive birds and animals, "you want a parrot for company? I have the bird here, the very bird. You are married, are you not?"

His fair customer bowed. "And your husband is away? I thought so. And you want the parrot to keep you from feeling lonesome? Yes? This is the very bird." "Is it a fluent talker?" asked the prospective purchaser.

The dealer hesitated.

"Well, no'm," he said at last. "You wouldn't hardly call him a fluent talker—no, not that. But for what you want he's the best I have."

"What can the bird say?"

"That's what makes him the right one, ma'am. He ain't got but one remark, to tell the truth, but he's been brought up for just what you want. Every morning he makes a sound like a bureau drawer opening and says, crosslike:

Baptists, See Here!

The Southern Baptist Convention meets this year in Wilmington, N. C., May 8th. Now, you want to go to this convention, and you also want to go in style and comfort. There is only one good first-class line from the South and Southwest to Wilmington, and that line is the Seaboard Air Line, which runs the finest and fastest trains in the South and makes the lowest rates of any railroad running from the South or Southwest. Don't be fooled into making your arrangements until you have consulted one of the Seaboard Air Line agents, who always esteem it a pleasure to serve you. B. A. Newland, General Agent Passenger Department, 6 Kimball House, Atlanta, Ga., will be glad to write you or call on you, or you can apply to any of the representatives of the Seaboard Air Line in any town or city. This is the official route. Do you want to go with your friends?
