THE ODD FELLOWS.

Celebrate Their Anniversary and Handsomely Entertain Their Guests.

There was a large and appreciative audience at Odd Fellows hall, Tuesday night to witness the exercises celebrating the seventy-eighth anniversary of Odd Fellowship in America. All through the exercises were very interesting and the audience was well entertained.

A splendid orchestra was present to furnish music. This was composed of A. A. Forbes, Ole Forbes and C. D. Rountree, violins; G. J. Woodward, piccolo; Alf. Forbes, cornet; Ernest Forbes, bass viol; Ollen Warren, guitar; R. L. Humber, organ, and Gus Forbes, drum. They made charming music and were generously applauded.

After reading the usual anniversary exercises by the officers, an address was delivered by Past Grand E. A. Moyer. This address gave much interesting information upon the history and work of Odd Fellowship. He forcibly illustrated the three grand principles of the order, Friendship, Love and Truth. He also referred with just pride to the monument the order has established in this State in the Orphan's Home at Goldsboro, an institution provided and maintained solely by the contributions of Odd Fellows.

Miss Bessie White delighted the audience with a beautiful recitation, "Emblems of Odd Fellowship." This was rendered in her usual faultless manner and received much applause.

Past Grand W. H. Ragsdale also delivered an address in which he paid high tribute to the work of Odd Fellowship. He stated four reasons that often prompt people to join secret societies, all of which he said were wrong, and people having no higher motive in seeking admission are usually disappointed and do not make useful members. These reasons were: "Idle curiosity," "An opportunity to get one more night from home," "Pecuniary benefits to themselves" and "Kindly administration in times of sickness." Each of these reasons was enlarged upon as presented. He also gave two reasons why people should belong to this or some kindred order, first "to inculcate the principles of friendship," second, "to increase one's opportunities for doing good."

One could not witness these exercises and hear the excellent addresses without being filled with higher admiration for the work of Odd Fellowship.

At the conclusion of the exercises refreshments were served in abundance. Upon the whole it was a delightful evening and all present feel indebted to the Odd Fellows for this splendid entertainment.

Excursion to Norfolk.

The excursion from Washington to Norfolk on May 19th will give people of this section an opportunity of visiting Norfolk at very small cost. The regular morning train on that day from Kinston and Greenville will connect at Parmele with the excursion train. The comfort of passengers will be well looked after. See advertisement.

Base Ball.

Baltimore, April 26.—The Orioles today sustained their first defeat of the season. Brooklyn winning a hotly contested game which required ten innings to decide. At the opening of the tenth. Anderson singled, Griffin sacrificed and Shindle's double let in the winning run. Score:

Baltimore, 3; Brooklyn, 4.

Philadelphia, April 26.—Boston and Philadelphia played a tie game today. The game was dull and long drawn out. Score:

Philadelphia, 8; Boston, 8.

Louisville, Ky., April 26.—Louisville and Pittsburgh played a great game of ball today. Both Frazer and Tannehill pitched fine ball, the Pittsburgh man having slightly the best of it. Umpire McDermott calling the game on on account of darkness in the first half of the thirteenth inning, after two Louisville batters had been retired. Score:

Louisville, 3; Pittsburgh 3.

Cincinnati, April 26.—The first game of the season between Cleveland and Cincinnati resulted in a victory for the latter. The playing of Ritchey and Sockalexis was the feature. Attendance 3,500. Score:

Cincinnati, 6; Cleveland, 3.

St. Louis, April 26.—The Cardinals won the first game of the season with the Browns today. Hutchinson pitched against his old companions and was hit hard until he retired in the seventh inning, being replaced by Kissinger who held the visitors down to two hits, neither of which was scored. Score:

St. Louis, 2; Chicago 9.

New York, April 26.—The regular base ball season was opened in this city today, when the Senators met the New Yorks who lost the first three games at Philadelphia last week. At the end of the ninth inning the score was tied and the visitors had just started to play the first half of the tenth when a wind storm arose. The game was called with the score tied. Score:

Washington, 3; New York, 3.

CHAMPIONS OF THE SOUTH.

Charlottesville, Va., April 26.—The University of Virginia won the college championship of the south this afternoon by defeating North Carolina. Score: Virginia, 10; North Carolina, 4.

MISPLACED CLEMENCY.

The public is more or less familiar with the facts in the case of an assault by a negro with intent to kill Mr. Frank Landis at Oxford last fall. The defendant was convicted and Governor Russell has pardoned him. The Oxford Ledger, a conservative and responsible paper, says of the matter:

"The jury that tried Harris was composed of members of the different parties, and Solicitor Bynum argued ably and earnestly that he was guilty according to the bill of indictment and Harris was convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary for two years by Judge McIver. He appealed to the Supreme Court, the judges of which court are non-partisan, and they affirmed the sentence of the court below. By the time this decision was handed down, to the utter astonishment of our law-abiding citizens the Governor issued his pardon. Was it all pre-arranged that Harris should not enter the penitentiary?"

"Governor Russell in his inaugural address was particularly severe on lynch law, and we also are opposed to the exercise of that kind of violence for the suppression of crime; but the indirect use of the pardoning power by the Governor, however much he and others may deprecate lynch law, is calculated to encourage rather than to check it. What becomes of the great cry that goes up when a crime is committed: 'Let the law take its course,' if the Governor will not even allow a criminal to enter the prison walls?"

Governor Russell has been very much criticised for his free exercise of the pardoning power. Some part of the criticism may not have been just. But here is a case the facts in which, so far as they are developed, prove conclusively that he has perpetuated a great wrong upon society. Here a bill was drawn by a Republican solicitor and the case pressed to a conviction by the same officer. Sentence was imposed, an appeal taken, the verdict and judgment affirmed, and before the prisoner can be gotten to the penitentiary he is pardoned by the Governor. Upon this showing he has perpetrated a very great outrage—there may be reasons which justify him, but they do not appear.

The newspaper press has been the sturdiest influence in North Carolina against the crime of lynch law, but it would as well talk to the winds about "letting the law take its course" after the people come to believe that they have a Governor who pardons right and left, according to his whims, his prejudices and predilections, without any reference to the guilt or innocence of the prisoner. The very foundations of society are in danger from such a Governor as this.—Charlotte Observer.

Some Facts About Greece.

It has a population of 2,187,208. It is called "Hellas" by its people.

The mean temperature of Greece is 64 degrees Fahrenheit.

No part of Greece is forty miles from the sea or ten from the hills.

About one-half of the population are agriculturists and shepherds.

It has an area of 24,977 square miles.

It is the only country in the world whose armies are provided with the Gras guns and paper-covered cartridges.

The Greek flag is a white cross on a blue ground—the Bavarian colors and the Greek cross.

Greece is more thickly populated than any other country in Europe, with the exception of Sweden and Prussia.

It has few rivers and many hills. None of the former are navigable, and many of the latter are fortified.

Its present boundary limits were determined by an arrangement among Great Britain, France, Russia and Turkey, concluded at Constantinople on July 21, 1832.

Only about 70,000 inhabitants speak any language other than Greek, and only about 20,000 profess any religion other than the orthodox.

The chief characteristics of the average Greek are his inquisitiveness, fondness of excitement, love of discussion, desire for knowledge, an aptitude for learning and aggressive patriotism.

The climate has two striking peculiarities—the heat in summer and the cold in winter are far more intense than those of any other country in the world lying in the same latitude. Geil once remarked that in traveling through the Morea in March he found "summer in Mosenia, spring in Laconia and winter in Arcadia, without having moved beyond a radius of sixty miles."

Globules of Wisdom.

A man is usually bald four or five years before he knows it.

No old girl should have the nerve to crimp her hair in the back.

If a man words hard along lazy people say he is "lucky."

No man has a good appetite if he can wait patiently for his dinner.

A woman's happiness is never quite complete until she is in a position to tell of a time when she was so ill that the doctor never left the house all day.

A number of North Acheson girls recently invited their friends to a party saying that a feature of the entertainment would be a swimming match between the girls. Every one went, and found that this part of the programme was carried out by two girls sitting at a table, with a bowl of water between them, in which a match floated. The men felt that they had been cheated.—Acheson Globe.

Charity in Judging Character.

Hasty judgment of the actions of others is dangerous and often unjust. We measure too much by some superficial appearance, and condemn hastily, when, if we but knew and understood the motives and reasons, we would warmly approve. We sometimes say of one, "That pain, sorrow or loss has not deeply affected him." But we do not know. It is like the death of a few of the soldiers in front of a regiment. The broken ranks close up again into the solid phalanx and loss is not apparent. There may be no disorganization, no surrender, no craving for pity, no display of despair. It is like the calm, dazing play of the waves warmed by the morning's sun after a night of storm and disaster. There is no sign of the wreck; the tide has carried the debris away far out on the ocean; the treacherous water has swallowed all signs and tokens of the night's awful work. We see only the fairness of the morning, not the suffering of the night. Let us be charitable in our judgment and condemn not when we do not know.—William George Jordan in May Ladies' Home Journal.

Why the Poem Ended Suddenly.

Once the East Wind met the West Wind,
By an unexpected chance,
And said: "My dear, I'm glad you're here,
Wilt join me in a dance?"
"Yes," the West Wind shyly answered
And the two began to waltz.

When suddenly everything in the immediate neighborhood, including houses, fences, straw stacks, hen-coops, loose boards, household and kitchen furniture, corn fodder, agricultural implements, books, old boots, trees, coal sheds, musical instruments, family washings, hats, caps, papers, trunks, bandboxes, stove wood, and other miscellaneous articles not fastened down, jumped up and joined in the giddy whirl, to the great physical scandal of the entire countryside, the loss of many thousands of good dollars, and the utter destruction of a promising poem that started out in an orderly way and wasn't expecting any such overwhelming calamity as this.—Chicago Tribune.

Asheville Man Buncoed.

A very sick Asheville man—sick all over—was in Salisbury this morning, and for obvious reasons we withhold his name since we are permitted to publish the cause of his indisposition. It was a few months back that this gentleman received a communication from a confidence man in New York. He was of course advised how to get rich regardless of the divine admonition that riches are the recompense of labor and sweat. He went on to New York last week and his story is the old, old one—the story of the sucker, bait and fisherman. He located his man, paid out $75 in cold cash and was winked at by the bunco men for his trouble. The gentleman left on the next train for home.—Salisbury World.

The Lesson in Death

And thus, Death is not really so much the summoning of those who die to a new life in a celestial realm, as it is summoning of those who live to a new life in this earthly realm. On them now descends the mantle of an old generation. On them now falls the stress and cries of battle. It is for them to show that the labor that has toiled so long, the love that protected them in childhood, the opportunities that now fail to them, have not been wasted, mispent and turned to no account. They whom we lay in the ground are still for a time as much with us as if they were simply gone on a journey, or were asleep in their bed at home.

We see them not, except in thought. We hear them not, except in memory. We take counsel of them only, by recalling their warnings and their qualities. But in a spiritual sense they are with us still; they are in us still; they can strengthen our hearts and inspire our energies. And if they die like the grass that is cut by the mower—it is we and our hardness and unkindness that are guilty of their second death.—Frederick Harrison.

The First Railroad in America.

Gridley Bryant, a civil engineer, in 1826, projected the first railroad in the United States. It was built for the purpose of carrying granite from the quarries of Quincy, Massachusetts to the nearest tidewater. Its length was four miles, including branches, and its first cost $50,000. The sleepers were of stone and were laid across the track eight feet apart. Upon rails of wood, six inches thick, wrought-iron plates, three inches wide and a quarter of an inch thick, were spiked. At crossings stone rails were used, and as the wooden rails became unserviceable they were replaced by others of stone.—May Ladies Home Journal.

Daniel B. Brown, an old soldier, of Brownfield, Me., refused to pay his poll tax unless the amount of it was reduced, and he was taken to the jail, which is at Paris. He got out of jail by giving bond, and then made the town of Paris support him (at Brownfield's expense) on the ground that he had been taken from his home and had not the money to return there.

Baptists, See Here!

The Southern Baptist Convention meets this year in Wilmington, N. C., May 8th. Now, you want to go to this convention, and you also want to go in style and comfort. There is only one good first-class line from the South and Southwest to Wilmington, and that line is the Seaboard Air Line, which runs the finest and fastest trains in the South and makes the lowest rates of any railroad running from the South or Southwest. Don't be fooled into making your arrangements until you have consulted one of the Seaboard Air Line agents, who always esteem it a pleasure to serve you. B. A. Newland, General Agent Passenger Department, 6 Kimball house, Atlanta, Ga., will be glad to write you or call on you, or you can apply to any of the representatives of the Seaboard Air Line in any town or city. This is the official route. Do you want to go with your friends?

They have disbarred an Ohio lawyer for stealing a sheep. If he had treated it in the professional way and been content with fleecing it, there would have been no bother.

A few days since an insurance agent accepted an invitation to inspect a new and beautiful house built by a friend. After taking a peep at the whole establishment from top to bottom, inquired—

"House insured?"
"Yes."
"What do you insure it for?"
"Because it MIGHT burn."
"Not sure of it, are you?"
"No."
"Is your life insured?"
"No."
"Don't you?"
"Yes."
"Sure?"
"Yes."
"Then why not insure your life as well as your house?"

"Well, really, I never thought of the matter just in that light before, and will give it early attention."—Travelers Record.

When sweet spring across the hills
Sets the prisoned flow'rets free;
When the babbling of the rills
Joins with song bird's symphony
Then, it seems to us, we oughter
Turn our thoughts to soda-water.

For the balmy April breeze
Tells the sultry days are nigh
When we linger 'neath the trees,
And our throats are hot and dry,
Then Shelburn's soda fount
Fattens up his bank account.
