THE MEETING CLOSED.

One of the Best Ever Held in Greenville.

On Monday, May 17th, Rev. P. G. Elsom, of Danville, Va., came to Greenville to conduct a series of meetings in the Baptist church. For ten days he held two services each day in the church, at 4 and 8 P. M., and cottage prayer meetings were held each morning in some home. The very first day of the meeting Rev. A. W. Setzer, pastor of the church, was taken sick and was only able to get out at the last day's services. Rev. N. M. Watson, pastor of the Methodist church, went to the aid of Mr. Elsom and stood faithfully by him through the entire meeting.

We do not believe a meeting was ever held here that resulted in more good than this meeting. Mr. Elsom is a man filled with the Holy Spirit and he preaches with power. He is a man who fears not to condemn sin in all its forms. He spoke plainly and fearlessly. As might have been expected there are some who took exception at his bold denunciation of sin, but with the masses his utterances were approved. A preacher who offends no one accomplishes no good. He is your best friend who tells you of your sins and begs you to turn from them. Even the Savior when upon the earth did not please all to whom he spoke, and such opposition arose that He was crucified, yet the great truths He uttered will live on forever. A man has to be told of his sin to see the error of his way.

Mr. Elsom's plain preaching here did great good, and we believe its influence will go on for years to come. Great crowds of people heard him every night. Many have been led to forsake their sins, and impressions have been made on others which cannot be blotted out.

The meeting closed Thursday night, and the last day was the best. It was an impressive scene to see the throng of converts standing around the pulpit to listen to a brief admonition from Mr. Elsom.

The visible results of the meeting are that more than fifty people have been converted, many backsliders have been reclaimed, the different churches have been drawn closer together in Christian love and unity, the faith and zeal of every Christian has been strengthened, and a lasting impression for good has been made upon the community.

Mr. Elsom left with the prayers of the people for God's blessing to continue with him, and they would rejoice for him to return here at some future day.

Fortieth Anniversary.

If they both live until the 17th day of next July, Rev. John Branch and wife, of Contentnea township, will have been married forty years. We understand that they will celebrate the day by having their relatives and friends together with them.

"Come off!" exclaims the straw hat to the derby.

Base Ball.

Pittsburg, May 26—Umpire Hurst was in the hands of a mob after today's game and was saved from serious injury by the Pittsburg players dragging him into the club house. The general sentiment after yesterday's game was that Hurst's favors gave the Orioles the victory and a repetition today capped the climax in the minds of the crowd and about 500 waited around the club house for the umpire after the game. Hurst became incensed and struck one of the crowd and was immediately jumped on by the mob. Ten policemen were called to escort him to his hotel. There was no special feature to the game except Hoffer's collapse in the eighth, when he hit a batsman, sent two to base on ball's and gave three hits, letting in five runs. Score. Pittsburg, 8; Baltimore, 10.

Chicago, May 26—The Colts won today on Doheny's seven pass to first and an equal number of errors by his back s. The Giants could do nothing with Griffith excepting in the eighth. Score. Chicago, 6; New York, 2.

Louisville, Ky., May 26—Today's game was close and exciting and the result was in doubt until the last man had been retired in the ninth inning. Stafford's hitting was a feature, his home run in the eighth winning, giving the Colonels the winning run. Score. Louisville, 5; Boston, 4.

Cleveland, May 26—Wilson, for the Indians, pitched a good game today. The visitors did not get a run until two men were out in the ninth, when a three bagger by Orth and singles by Cooley, Lajoie and Delehanty gave them two. Blake saved the game for Cleveland by a great catch of Boyle's liner. Score. Cleveland, 4; Philadelphia, 2.

Washington—St. Louis game postponed—rain.

FRIDAY, MAY 28, 1897.

In Union county a few days ago Van Gullege, a 10-year old white boy, and a little colored boy were handling a pistol when the weapon was discharged, the ball passing through the front part of the colored boy's head, inflicting a wound from which he died three days later.

A colored man writes a long letter to Superintendent of Public Instruction Mebane, complaining that the new school law takes from the colored people the control of the schools for their own race, which privilege they enjoyed under a former law. Without passing upon the wisdom of allowing colored people to control their own schools, it should be remarked that the law granting them this privilege, which the writer referred to says is a "priceless heritage," was passed by a Democratic Legislature and was kept in force during the Democratic administration of the State government. It remained for a Republican and Populist Legislature and State administration, for which these colored people voted almost to a man, to take away from them this "priceless heritage."—Statesville Landmark.

The news columns of this paper tell of a minister of the gospel who was robbed while on a drunken spree in Charlotte, and of another who has just been acquitted in the courts of a serious crime. There are those who will lose much confidence and respect for the entire ministry on account of these two incidents, without ever stopping to think of the thousands of consecrated followers of the Master who are living lives of self denial and martyrdom in order that they may carry His gospel to dying men. It is frequently said, and all of us are more or less guilty of harboring the suspicion: that all ministers are prone to accept calls to charges where the salary is large and the work is genial. At the Presbyterian church Sunday morning the preacher told of a young minister who had declined a call of $1,200 and accepted one of $600 to work in a destitute region in western North Carolina; and not only that, but he offered to provide an assistant in the work and pay him out of his meager salary of $600. It might be well for us to think on these things before we condemn all of God's ambassadors for the apparent short comings of a few.—Statesville Landmark.

The Children of the Plain People Grope in Outer Darkness.

Six hundred thousand children, the flower in which sleeps the North Carolina of twenty years hence, are without schools of any kind nine long, forgotten months every year. Can one be expected to write of anything else so long as the children of the plain people are so miserably cared for, when the way of betterment is so possible? North Carolina does not know what she is doing. In a few towns she is sowing good seed, but throughout the length and breadth of the State the devil is sowing tares; and the reaping must come.

Men and brethren, this matter is with us; we are responsible; it is our State. We must reconstruct, and build stronger and greater the temple of North Carolina's hope, our public school system.—Biblical Recorder.

The Wages of Money.

The savings banks are contemplating a reduction of interest to 3 per cent.

That is in fact all that invested money is now worth where its investment is not accompanied by personal endeavor of any kind.

When the owners of real estate in this town begin to realize this truth rents will come down and the condition of the people will be bettered.

Where a man invests his money in business and gives personal attention to the business he is fairly entitled to whatever return he can get out of his enterprise. But in these days mere money, unsupported by endeavor, is not worth more than 3 per cent., and the owners of money will soon have to content themselves with that.

Enterprise, genius, skill—all these have their market value. But in their absence mere money must content itself with its own legitimate wage.—New York World.

The European press has paid so little attention to Cuba and European governments have manifested so little interest in the insurrection, that the masses across the water really do not know of the horrors of the situation in Cuba. Possibly they imagine, and with reason, that it matters were so bad the United States would certainly take action, but in this supposition they pay us an unmerited compliment. If the great relief societies in England and the thousands of humane citizens in Great Britain knew the exact conditions in Cuba they would not only raise such a cry as they raised for Armenia, but they would be inexpressibly shocked at the seemingly indifferent attitude of this country for long months past. The humiliating disclosure of the Senate debate of Wednesday may open the eyes of the foreign world to the fearful situation in the Gem of the Antilles. The cowardice of this government under the circumstances disclosed is enough to bring a blush of shame to every American's cheek.—New York Evening Post.

A moderate drinker became very angry with a friend who argued that safety was only to be found in total abstinence. "What, sir," said he, "do you think I have lost control over myself?" "I do not know," was the reply; "but let us put it to the proof. For the next six months, do not touch a drop." The proposal was accepted. He kept his promises, and at the close of the month he said to his friend with tears in his eyes, "I believe you have saved me from a drunkard's grave. I never knew before that I was in any way a slave to drink, but during the last month I have fought the fiercest battle of my life. Had the test been tried later on it might have been too late. I mean to keep the pledge for life."

There was a touch of humor in the proceedings of the Presbyterian General Assembly at Eagle Lake, Ind., on Saturday. During a speech made by ex-Postmaster General Wanamaker on a business topic he found occasion to say that he had never seen a perfect man, and he doubted very much whether there had ever been a perfect woman. "Just then," says the telegraphic report of the proceedings, "a little, timid, shrinking body rose in the back of the room and told the speaker that she had heard of one perfect woman. When inquiry was made as to this remarkable entity, she said: 'It was my husband's first wife.' This was good. The 'little, timid, shrinking body' certainly delivered a dexterous thrust."

Two Young Men Killed.

Mt. Airy, N. C., May 24.—Charlie Fry and Charles Atkins, white, both single and about 20 years old, the first named a cigar maker, became involved in a difficulty over a pistol, yesterday evening about 4 o'clock, two miles west of this city, which terminated fatally. Fry killed Atkins instantly, the ball entering the forehead. Fry was shot and killed by some in the sheriff's posse while resisting arrest about 7:30 o'clock last night. Both were drinking.

Singers' Throats.
Some wise body has been discovering that public singers are freer from throat troubles than any other class of human beings. The reason assigned is the constant exercise of the voice, giving exercise to the muscles of the throat. At which a clever man suggests that the musical and medical profession join hands and substitute glees for gargles, chansonnettes for cauterization, madrigals for mustard plasters and choruses for croton oil. He continues that tenor songs may be prescribed for tonsillitis and ballads for bronchitis. In time, perhaps, a musical medico hospital may be established, with special songs written to suit special cases. Of course this is all very pleasant sounding, but when the neighbors are taken into consideration it is doubtful if the old methods are not to be preferred. —Chicago Times-Herald.

THE SULTAN AS HE IS.

A Frenchman's Vivid Description of the Ruler of Turkey.

Victor Berard, in writing on Turkey and the sultan for a Parisian review, has told some very interesting facts. For several years he was a college professor in Constantinople and knows his subject thoroughly. He blames the sultan and Russia for the Armenian massacres, and holds the sultan up to scorn as perhaps the most abject coward holding a high position in Europe.

So fearful is the sultan of dynamite that he will not allow electricity to be used in Constantinople, as it is generated by dynamos.

Here is the pen picture he draws of the sultan:

"Abdul Hamid is a gentle, shy, civil man, rather cold at a first interview, but whose manner becomes winning on better acquaintance. His temper is even, his address affable, his native intelligence above the average, but his culture is nil. The gross farces of the Turkish stage and 'penny horrible' French literature are his great delight. He has ordered the whole of 'Xavier de Montepin' to be translated for him. His piety, perhaps simulated, is narrow and superstitious, and his private life serious, and, indeed, austere. The most severe Young Turks admit that for centuries the Ottoman throne has not been occupied by a man so little sensual. Embassadors have all been charmed by Abdul Hamid, and many have not got over this pleasant impression. It is due to the extreme politeness of this autocrat, to his attention to their remarks, his apparent assent to every one of their conclusions. The proofs he gives of hard work, good will and scrupulousness appeal to even the most liberal Young Turks, like Murad Bey.

"A great effort or long habit is necessary to mistrust or disbelieve a man who seems so upright and who certainly is unhappy. Everything in his attitude, words and even silence, his sudden pinching of the lips, starts of the body, wandering looks and the pallor of the cheeks disguised by powder—everything shows unreasoning, incurable fear in the successor of the unfortunate Aziz and Murad. It is the key to his character. Fear has subdued in him pride, passion and vices, but it has also killed generosity, straightforwardness, honor and all sentiment further than that of self preservation."

The Same.
Maud—Everybody was telling me how homely I was looking, but Charley told me he never saw me when I looked better. I'd give more for Charley's opinion than for everybody else's.
Bertha—Yes. But in this case his opinion seemed to be the same as everybody else's.—Boston Transcript.

Lang's DRESS GOODS

CASH HOUSE

The prettiest Line in town.

Lang Sells Cheap.

When sweet spring across the hills
Sets the prisoned flow'rets free;
When the babbling of the rills
Joins with song bird's symphony;
Then, it seems to us, we oughter
Turn our thoughts to soda-water.

For the balmy April breeze
Tells the sultry days are nigh
When we linger 'neath the trees,
And our throats are hot and dry,
Then Shelburn's soda fount
Fattens up his bank account.
