Base Ball.

New York, June 1.—Umpire McDermott gave this afternoon's game to the New Yorks in the latter part of the sixth inning because the Pirates refused to play ball. The game had been characterized by the kicking of Killen and Donovan. With the score 7 to 0 in the sixth, the Giants got on to Killen and hammered out three good singles and a double, which netted them four runs. With Holmes on first, Wilson hit to Padden who fumbled the ball and when he regained it he tried to touch Holmes. He then threw the ball to first too late to catch Wilson. McDermott declared both men safe and the entire club left the field and surrounded the umpire. Killen was sent to the bench and the men were ordered to their positions. As they continued to kick, McDermott declared the game in favor of New York 9 to 0. Nobody was out when the game was called, and two men were on bases. Score. New York, 4; Pittsburgh, 7.

Brooklyn, June 1.—The Brooklyn and Cleveland were scheduled to play two games for one admission at Eastern park this afternoon. The first game was about to begin when a heavy shower passed over the grounds, leaving them in such condition as to make playing impossible. After a wait of nearly two hours the regular scheduled game began. Score. Brooklyn, 7; Cleveland, 2.

Philadelphia, June 1.—Philadelphia defeated Louisville today in a game that was replete with sensational field plays. The most noteworthy were running catches by McCreary, Clark, Cooley and Grier and a one hand catch of a wildly thrown ball by Nash. Hallman and Harley will join the St. Louis club at New York tomorrow. Dowd comes to Philadelphia. Grady does not figure in the deal. Score. Philadelphia, 7; Louisville, 2.

Boston, June 1.—The Bostons took both games today with ridiculous ease, St. Louis playing lifeless ball. The visitors' pitchers were batted almost at will, and a number of the home team improved the opportunity to fatten their batting averages. Sullivan made his first appearance for some weeks and did well. Score. Boston, 12; St. Louis, 6.

Second game—Boston, 12; St. Louis, 2.

The Raleigh Press-Visitor learns that the Tribune is to resume publication about July 1st. It is to be published as a four page morning daily with an eight page Sunday edition. Col. W. W. Hayward will continue as editor.

Weekly Crop Bulletin.

The past week has been unfavorable, being too cool throughout North Carolina, considerably checking growth of crops. The weather was also dry until the end of the week, excepting light rain, with some hail, in the northern portion on 24th. The warm rains of Saturday and Sunday were general and will be of immense benefit. Farm work has been well kept up. Cotton and corn continue small; some cotton has died out from cool nights, and the stand of corn is poor. Tobacco is growing off slowly. Wheat has about headed and is beginning to turn. Blackberries are abundant. Crops are in excellent condition to be benefited by suitable seasons, and next week's reports will probably indicate great improvement.

EASTERN DISTRICT.

Excepting at a few points where good seasons occurred on the 24th, the past week was hard on crops, being altogether too cool and dry up to the 28th, so that crops are making rather poor progress. Some hail occurred in the extreme eastern portion on 24th. Crops are everywhere clean and well cultivated, and the warm showers the last of the week will be extremely beneficial. Cotton looks poorly and some has died out; it is nearly all chopped out; fair stand, but growth slow. Corn continues backward and stand poor, and much damage has been done by cut worms. Tobacco has been nearly all transplanted, with fair stand, but plants are small and require warmth and moisture. Some complaints of damage by flea bugs and buttoning. Peanuts are coming up fairly well. Irish potatoes are being shipped, small and poor. Sweet potato sprouts are being set out.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES OF THE UNIVERSITY.

Class Day Exercises.

(Special correspondence of Reflector.)

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., June 2nd '97

Tuesday's exercises began with prayers in the Chapel at 9:00 A. M. conducted by Rev. N. H. D. Wilson. The Seniors formed in front of Memorial Hall and marched to the strains of "Come Ye Desconsolate" rendered by the Richmond band.

At 9:30 there was a short meeting of the board of trustees in Person Hall.

11:30 was the hour for Senior Class Day Exercises and a large audience gathered in Gerard Hall long before the hour arrived.

At 11:45 the alumni marched in and took their places in seats reserved especially for them. Following them came the Seniors who took seats on the rostrum.

D. B. Smith, president of class, introduced the Class Historian, R. H. Graves, as first on the programme. Mr. Graves gave some interesting information showing that the class had been a prominent one throughout its history.

That it was the largest graduating class since the war. That it had witnessed many improvements in the University, noticeable among which is the institution of Common's Hall and the adoption of caps and gowns which heretofore have not been used here. Some statistics were given showing average height and weight of the class, also average size of feet and number of prospective lawyers, doctors and ministers. Medals and honors were awarded as follows: Most intelligent man A. T. Allen, most popular man, Burton Craige with R. H. Wright, second, greatest ladiesman W. D. Carmichael, ugliest man, H. G. Connor, Jr., with W. Underhill, second most conceited man, S. Brown Shepard, greatest bore, J. D. Lentz, with Joe S. Wray close second, greatest wire puller, D. B. Smith. W. S. Myers, class poet, was then introduced. He read a short but beautiful and appropriate poem.

Class president Smith next introduced H. G. Connor, the class prophet. President Smith then in a touching speech presented to the University a bust of Gen. Robert E. Lee, as a gift of the senior class. "The senior class of '97," he said "has adopted a precedent—that of giving some token of affection to our Alma Mater. Indeed, it is just as we should do, for next to our real mother who has guided our infant feet we should cherish this foster mother who has guided and shaped our infant thought. And what could appeal to the patriotism of young men more than this bust of him who led the despairing Confederate armies, who was the hero of that great conflict."

Just as Mr. Smith closed his speech the band played "Dixie" and the whole audience went wild with applause.

President Alderman in behalf of the University, accepted the gift in a speech that could be appreciated fully only by hearing it. He expressed his profound gratitude not only at the gift which he said was the most fitting one that could have been given but also at the motive which prompted it. Col. Thomas S. Kenan in behalf of the trustees, accepted it in a short but touching speech.

At 5:30 P. M. the seniors formed in front of Memorial Hall and marched round to the different buildings giving the Varsity yell for each. At the Davis poplar they all joined hands and danced around it singing "We are the boys of N. C. U. and fear no harm" after which all sat down and smoked the pipe of peace.

The exercises for the evening was the annual contest between the representatives of the two Literary Societies. The representatives from the Phi Society were W. J. Brogden, P. D. Gold Jr., and J. D. Parker, from the Psi Society, J. M. Carson, P. C. Whitlock and P. T. Cheek. Mr. Carson spoke first on "Education and Nature."

Mr. Whitlock spoke on "The Truce of God."

Mr. W. J. Brogden's subject was: "Revolution and Life."

Mr. Gold made a very vigorous speech on "Social Discontent."

Mr. Parker's subject was "Liberty and Law."

The last speaker was Mr. Cheek subject, "The Poet of Democracy."

After the speaking all repaired to Common's Hall to a reception given by the president and faculty. Refreshments were served and every effort made to make the occasion a most enjoyable one.

Evasion of Taxation.

Evasion of taxation is attempted by so many persons as to require a more vigorous method of listing taxables. Many men, who are considered good citizens and are members of some Church, seem to think there is nothing wrong in their trying to escape or evade taxation. Many men, who would promptly resent any imputation upon their honesty, do not hesitate to defraud the State and county when they are compelled to list their taxables. They resort to all kinds of tricks and subterfuges, and some commit downright perjury, in concealing or undervaluing the amount of their property liable to taxation. The value of so many men's property shrinks so alarmingly (like Vance's catfish) when it is being listed for taxation. If you doubt this, just notice when the list-taker begins work!

As our readers are aware, every taxpayer in North Carolina must list his taxables in June, and must furnish the list-taker with a sworn statement as to the value and description of all property owned by him on the first day of June. And it does seem that there is less property in North Carolina on the first of June than any other day of the year. For instance many a man who usually has considerable "money on hand" or "on deposit" never lists a dollar of it for taxation. According to the State Auditor's report for 1896 the sum of $4,135,761 was the total amount of "money on hand or on deposit" that was listed for taxation in this State last year. And yet last week the banks in one town alone (Raleigh) had deposits to the amount of $1,460,000.92. Yes, the banks at Raleigh according to their official statements published last week, had more than a third as much money as had been listed for taxation by all the taxpayers of North Carolina!

Of course the evasion of taxation by dishonest men makes honest men pay more taxes than they otherwise would have to pay. A certain amount of taxes must be raised every year, and if some improperly evade their share it must be paid by others, just as when a team of horses is hauling a heavy load, if some of the horses fail to pull their share the others must pull it for them. All honest taxpayers are therefore interested in seeing that every taxpayer bears his proper share of the public burden of taxation and that none evade the law.—Chatham Record.

Money That Circulated.

A rather remarkable transaction or transactions took place at the bank here last Friday. Shortly after the bank had opened for business a gentleman entered and presented a check for $500. It was promptly cashed and in about an hour after he had departed another gentleman went to the bank and deposited the $500. This money was not permitted to rest long, for another man drew it out. Before the bank closed for the day the fourth man deposited this same $500. This money paid two claims and made two deposits all in one day or in about four or five hours.—Sanford Express.

WOODS USED IN FURNITURE.

Points About Mahogany—Timber Formerly Neglected but Employed Now.
Experts in old furniture are much guided in their judgment as to particular pieces by the wood of which they are made. Mahogany furniture, purporting to be as much as two centuries old, is subject to suspicion, because mahogany was little used in furniture until about the middle of the eighteenth century. A colonial New England piece is much more likely to be of oak than of mahogany, unless it belong to the late colonial period. Mahogany was a luxury even then, and oak was used in ordinary households as being at once moderate in price and durable.
It is easy to tell, whether a professed European piece of walnut furniture is genuine, by the quality of the walnut. European walnut is a denser and finer wood than most of our walnut. A piece of furniture made of ash at unexposed points is almost certain to be of American manufacture, but a piece having beech at such points is likely to be of European manufacture. Beech is plentiful in Europe and relatively scarce in this country, and with American makers of furniture ash is a cheap substitute for beech and oak. A chair made entirely of beech is almost certain to be of European manufacture. Such chairs are often beautiful in form and extremely durable. Modern taste demands, however, that the beech be stained to imitate mahogany.
New woods have come into use of late years, partly because timber of the sort long used in furniture-making has become scarce, partly because modern machinery makes it possible to work woods that in earlier times could not be profitably worked. Birch, which is tough, crooked and difficult to work, is coming into use for factory made furniture. This wood warps easily, but it looks well and serves the needs of the factory makers. Aspen also is coming into use for the manufacture of furniture, though it, too, is a crabbed wood, unfit to be worked save by modern cutting machinery. Another of the woods that the furniture makers have been driven to use is sycamore. It is fairly abundant and cheap in the United States, and its markings are distinctive and beautiful, but it is untrustworthy because of its tendency to warp. It is sometimes used as a veneer over less beautiful but more trustworthy wood. Some of the North river ferryboats are veneered with sycamore. All of these troublesome woods have been improved for use in furniture by modern methods of rapid seasoning.
Birch, sycamore and the other crabbed woods are not used by the cabinet makers because their furniture is hand made, and the labor and expense of working these woods without the aid of machinery make them unprofitable for cabinet made furniture. Mahogany is much softer and more easily worked than these woods. Some New England folks before the middle of the present century had a craze for furniture made of ironwood, otherwise known as hornbeam, and cabinet made furniture of this material is found now and then in Connecticut. The wood is regarded by modern wood workers as utterly unfit for working into furniture. New York cabinet makers avoid the use of beech, and it is used in this country mainly for fine tool handles, in planes and the like, just as lignum vitae is in furniture casters, blocks for pulleys and other small articles.

Very old furniture in cherry is almost as highly prized as mahogany, and fine old pieces in maple fetch high prices. The best walnut furniture of good old pattern is also highly prized by the cabinet makers, as walnut has become a very scarce wood in this country.—New York

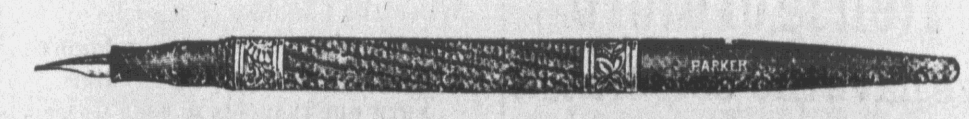

There are Others.
The Fayetteville Observer says: Recently we announced that there was a well-to-do farmer in this county who wanted a wife, and since then this office has been deluged with letters from fair ones in all parts of the State and several from Virginia and South Carolina. It certainly should not be a hard task for our farmer friend to choose a wife from the numerous, "levelly," "amiable," "industrious," "bright," "witty," "sociable," "fair complexion," "just 20," "accomplished," creatures, who stint not in the singing of their own praises.

Judge Simonton, of the United States Circuit court gave a decision in the case of the Vandercook Company vs. The State of South Carolina, restraining the State from preventing liquors brought to the State. This decision sustained on appeal, it is claimed will have the effect of rendering nugatory the State dispensary law. Under the decision of Judge Simonton any one may import and sell liquor in original packages. The decision is based on the interstate Commerce law, the Court holding that the right of importation comprehends the right sale.

BAKER & HART

When sweet spring across the hills
Sets the prisoned flow'rets free;
When the babbling of the rills
Joins with song bird's symphony;
Then, it seems to us, we oughter
Turn our thoughts to soda-water.

For the balmy April breeze
Tells the sultry days are nigh
When we linger 'neath the trees,
And our throats are hot and dry,
Then Shelburn's soda fount
Fattens up his bank account.
