They don't cost too much. They are ready to put on without a wrinkle. You have seen the browns, olives, green mixtures, plaids--the swell colorings of the WHICHARD ITEMS.

WHICHARD, N. C., June 15th, 1897.
We are having lots of sickness in this section now.

Rev. J. A. Corbett, of Grimesland preached at Briery Swamp Saturday and Sunday.

Misses Bettie Knox and Nina Grimes of Bethel, who have been visiting here returned home today.

Miss Susie Keel is home from Kinsy Seminary at LaGrange.

The Oak Grove Sunday school has recently purchased a new organ.

Miss Della Roberson returned from school at Tarboro last week.

Eld. G. D. Roberson and wife, of Robersonville spent Sunday here.

There is a little matter agitating the mind of some of our citizens about which I will ask your advice and assistance. The public road leading through this place is the dividing line between Pactious and Carolina townships. Since the depot was built here the road has been changed and there are people living between where the road now is and where it was when the townships were laid off. These people do not know where to list their taxes and vote. Some think the line should be made with the new road south of W. R. Whichard's and with T. J. Sheppard's line to Briery Swamp. This change would straighten the line and be about an equal exchange of territory between the two townships.

We have no suggestion to make but would like to know where we are at.

[We think the public road should continue to be the dividing line between the two townships. Those persons who are changed by the straightening of the road, provided the road continues to be the line, might go before the Board of County Commissioners at next regular meeting and let the Board transfer them from one township to the other--Ed. REFLECTOR.]

CONDENSED NEWS.

The hot wave reaches well out in the west and runs the temperature up to 100 in portions of Wisconsin.

The treaty establishing the boundary line between Great Britain and Venezuela has at last been ratified.

A 20 year old Richmond youth shot himself because his sweet heart kicked him. He may recover. Sensible girl.

President McKinley passed through North Carolina Monday and made stops at Asheville, Hickory, Salisbury, Greensboro and some other points.

A treaty for the annexation of Hawaii to the United States will be sent to the Senate as soon as the President returns to Washington from the Tennessee Centennial.

On Sunday an attempt was made to assassinate President Faure, of the French Republic. It has been only a few years since a President of that republic was killed.

THAT MOREHEAD PARTY.

Our Bird Takes a Peep at Them.

The "carrier pigeon" that embarked with the Morehead party Tuesday, flitted back this morning to bring the REFLECTOR the following kinetoscopic proof of the personnel of the pleasure seekers:

We had a Carr along to travel in.

Our only color is White, of course.

We also brought Setzer (without bromo) to take in case of headache.

One of our girls declares she will Hook-er beau before she gets back.

Another says she can Woo-ten boys at one time.

Another says she wouldn't Let-a boy look at her. (We'll watch her.)

We all expect to look Blanche (don't pronounce that blank, please) before we have been here many days.

Our Roun(d)tree will do to tie to any time. (Ask George.)

Professionally we've got a teacher, lawyer, dentist and preacher, so we can be instructed, plead with, pulled or tied up, as occasion may require.

In names we have one pair and three of a kind, but as three of a kind are said to beat even two pairs White's ahead.

We are all going to have our own time and won't be Owen(s) anybody anything when we get back home.

STATE NEWS.

G. A. Kinsland killed Thomas Tibbett in Macon. They quarrelled about a game of cards.

The handsome residence of G. S. Bradshaw, at Asheboro, was destroyed by fire Sunday night.

Lightning struck the home of John Allen, at Lumberton, and besides demolishing the building killed his two sons.

W. H. Smith was run over by a train and killed near Harrisburg, on the Southern railroad. He was the father of one of the engineers on the road.

The Observer tells of a Charlotte boy who died of hemorrhage of the nose. The boy's nose began to bleed two weeks ago and the hemorrhage could not be stopped.

Ex-Senator Ransom is reported to have 2,500 acres in cotton on his Roanoke farms and works 175 plows. The old man had the Government crib at his back long enough to get this much ahead.

Three Jolly Boys.

Among the most popular and successful traveling men who come this way are Gus Gomprecht, the greatest of all base ball rooters, of Baltimore and the life of the party; Sam Bendheim, of Richmond, representing the great hat house of Freeman Bros., New York, and Dave Rosenauer, of Baltimore, the greatest hustler in the business. This trio of gentlemen have been in our midst this week and were royally entertained by Frank Wilson who sent them on their journey in a happy frame of mind.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 16, 1897.

A Great Pity.

It is a great pity that so excellent an institution as the A. & M. College at Raleigh is to become less useful to the State. It has been a great power for good in giving many of North Carolina's best young men education along practical and most useful lines. The standard of this school has been gradually raised to a very high point. It has taken rank as one of if not the best in the entire country.

But Russell and his pie brigade have invaded the school and turned out some of the best teachers in the school and will doubtless turn out more as they can make it convenient to do so. In not a single instance have they put in a better man than they put out. E. G. Butler, of Vance county, who was elected a professor in the college, is not only seemingly incompetent, but has a record of having been convicted of fraud in settling up the estate of a relatives in 1885, in Granville county.

Even respectable Republicans are disgusted with Russell's looters, and one of them, Mr. E. V. Cox, of Pitt county, has resigned from the board of trustees, being disgusted at placing politics in an educational institution. At least two other members of the board will resign within the next few days, and then Russell can do as he pleases with less opposition.

Educational and charitable institutions should not be made the prey of politicians and spoils hunters. The Radical party in North Carolina has let politics control its government. Honest people are becoming more and more disgusted every day with the rule in North Carolina which has resulted from Rep. Pop. fusion in the last two elections. We trust that never again will they make such a mistake as to elect such venal, corrupt and incompetent men to rule the State.—Kinston Free Press.

Each year every local paper gives $500 to $5,000 in free lines for the benefit of the community in which it is located. No other agency can or will do this. The editor, in proportion to his means does a great deal more for his town than any other man; and, in all fairness, man with man, he ought to be supported—not because you happen to like him or admire his writings, but because a local paper is the best advertisement a community can have. It may not be crowded with great thoughts, but financially it is more of a benefit than both teacher and preacher. Today, editors of local papers do more work for less pay than any other set of men on earth: Patronize your local paper, not as a charity, but as an investment.

The Advance of the South.

There can be no doubt that remarkable as was the Southern growth in manufactures between 1880 and 1890 the progress of the current decennial term will be very much more remarkable. The products of the mills, factories and work shops of the South doubled in value in ten years covered by the last census, while the amount of wages and capital invested was nearly tripled. General Longstreet asserts that between 1890 and 1895 the capital invested in manufacture in the South has very nearly doubled. In some branches of production the increase of invested capital has been very much above this average, and the output has correspondingly increased. This is notably so in the case of cotton-seed oil, of coal and of pig iron. * * * An enthusiastic observer has recently described the South as a region of forests and coal and iron veins, favored by health conditions without parallel, and the best climate in the world. This being so, there can be no reason why, of the country east of the Mississippi, the southern part should not have a population as dense in proportion to its area as the northern.—Boston Herald.

The Carriage a Certainty.

Edison thinks that there will soon be a horseless carriage on the market, combining the lightness and trimness of the bicycle and costing not more than $100, says the New York Tribune. There are no insurmountable difficulties in the way. The thing is feasible enough, and an army of inventors is at work upon it. When it comes the bicyclist will have the choice of working his own passage or having it worked for him. Some of them pretend to like the former, but with the alternative in reach, the chances are that they will develop an indolent and luxurious preference for the latter. The vehicle is certainly on the way, various in type and function, and Mr. Edison's declaration that it will speedily arrive is the more significant from the fact that he ought to know what he is talking about.

Pointed Paragraphs.

A woman will boss a 200-pound man but run from a two-ounce mouse.—Jacksonville Times-Union.

If Ben Tillman were only blessed with two good eyes there's no telling how much meanness he might discover around the senate.—Houston Post.

Texas is not the only tin can on the dump. The art of summarily hustling rapists into holes has reached McKinley's state. Now let them sweep their own doorsteps clean before they call others defiled.—Houston Post.

There is danger of drafting too much upon the future to pay for present municipal improvements, as Boston has found out to its cost. That city now pays $2,000,000 annually in interest—a fancy price for "progress."—Baltimore Herald.

During the ten months ended April 30, 1897, the exports of manufactures from the United States amounted in value to $224,023,006—a gain of nearly $40,000,000 over the corresponding month of the last fiscal year. In this growing export trade in American manufactures may be discovered one of the most important factors in the revival of business, reluctant as are the tariff mongers to acknowledge it.

Let Fools Read and be Consoled.

It matters not how wise a man may be, he will always find some one who is ready to declare him a fool. If one is highly educated he lacks common sense, and, if he is a phenomenon in the matter of common sense, he is sure to be illiterate. It is no disgrace, however to be a fool. All created things were created for a purpose. If you are a fool ha, Gods a place for you. You were designed for a purpose—the same as any other man. And it is, indeed the wise man who can readily discern how little he really does know. It is wise, therefore, when one has located himself sufficiently to arrive at the conclusion that he is, indeed a fool—and several other things—it is wise that he should make up his mind to be content and make the very best fool possible. The field is rather crowded. It is true but preserverance will win. There is always room at the top.—Duham Sun.

Politics in Education.

In some of the counties excellent boards of education have been chosen, but we regret to note that in many of them politics has been played at the expense of the cause of education in spite of Superintendent Mebane's request to select the best men. Those counties that selected good boards will reap better schools, while those that sowed politics will reap politics and poor schools.—News and Observer.

The American flag is a symbol of the Union—its thirteen stripes representing the original States, and its forty-five stars the great sisterhood of States of today. But its colors also speak a sentiment which every patriot should heed. The white stands for purity; the red, for valor; the blue, for justice. Let every American cherish his flag and swear by its union of stars, but let him also keep true to the ideals typified in its hues. Then will the Star Spangled Banner always be "Old Glory," indeed!—Philadelphia Record.

The State superintendent of public instruction officially defines "a practical teacher" as follows: "For your guidance in election to take place on the first Monday in July. A practical teacher is a man whose business is teaching, a man whose profession is that of teaching. We want only school men for county supervisor. A man who taught school even two years ago and has since engaged in other business as a profession would not be a practical teacher and, therefore, could not be eligible to office of county supervisor under this section."

George S. Deakins, of Rowlesburg, W. Va., a surveyor, has the compass and the instruments which belonged to his grandfather when, with Washington, he surveyed the road from Washington to the Ohio river.

Thirty years ago the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad bought steel rails in England at a cost of $112 per ton in gold. Some of this rail is still in use on short branches and is in marvelously good condition.

The Fourth Virginia Regiment of Norfolk; Lynchburg Home Guards; Hornets' Nest Riflemen, of Charlotte, and ten companies of State troops from Knoxville, are in camp at Nashville.

The Durham Sun makes some wise observations in the following: "Every man, every woman, every child has some talent, some power, some opportunity of getting good and doing good. Each day offers some occasion for using this talent. As we use it, it gradually increases, improves, becomes native to the character. As we neglect it, it dwindles, withers and disappears. This is the stern but benign law by which we live. This makes character real and enduring; this makes progress possible; this turns men into angels, and virtue into goodness."

Next Monday, June 21st, will be public school day at the Teachers' assembly. An interesting program has been arranged for essays and discussions of questions concerning the county supervisor, the local taxation feature, etc. Some of the best educators in the State will lead in these discussions. Preachers, politicians and all men who feel interested in educational matters are especially invited to attend and take part in this discussion.

The Secretary of State, in response to a request for a ruling, decides that special agents of insurance companies must pay the same license tax as regular agents.

Sir Benjamin Richardson, the distinguished English physician and medical writer, says that seven out of every ten sound and reasonable people ought to live to be 110 years old, and would do so if they "took care of themselves."

Persons should be cautious about trying new and unknown vegetables. Even many known are at times unwholesome. Potatoes, when not fully ripe, are deleterious, causing severe bowel complaint and sickness.

The French government now refuses to take certain French silver coins, among them those bearing the effigy of Charles X, Louis Philippe, and those of Napoleon III which have no laurel crown.

It is said there is ground for a belief that James Monroe did not die in poverty, as is often stated.

The wheat harvest is in full blast, with excellent yield.
