THAT

TAILORS CAN GIVE THEM

They don't cost too much. They are ready to put on without a wrinkle. You have seen the browns, olives, green mixtures, plaids--the swell colorings of the of the season-- we've got them here plenty as pie at a fair. We show the best.

Land and Lumber.

Mr. Lovit Hines, of Kinston, who spent today here, called around to see the REFLECTOR and leave us some advertisements. He has been appointed Receiver of the Greenville Lumber Company, for the purpose of settling the affairs of the Company, and offers for sale their property on the south of Greenville. There are many splendid lots on this property and they will be sold on easy terms.

Hines Bros. Lumber Co., at Kinston, are ready to fill orders for lumber on short notice. This Company, by the way, now has one of the best and most complete lumber mill plants to be found anywhere in the State. Every improvement and convenience, has been added, and it is in every respect an up to date plant. Greenville will never cease to regret letting Mr. Hines move his mill from this town, but all the same we congratulate him upon having such a fine plant at Kinston and wish him the highest measure success. There are few men of such energy as Mr. Hines and he is bound to succeed.

Getting Ready.

All our tobacco warehousemen are beginning to stir themselves in readiness for the next season. They are going to advertise and canvass thoroughly to show the planters the advantages of bringing their tobacco to the Greenville market. In average prices paid this market has all along been the best in eastern North Carolina and with the increased facilities and larger number of buyers the coming season its own good record will be surpassed. Our warehousemen are all home men and there are no better anywhere.

Manager Atkins continues to put in new phones. One at E. M. McGowan's market is No. 41 and one at W. R. Parker's market and ice house is No. 58.

CONDENSED NEWS.

The immigrant station on Ellis Island, New York, has been burned, causing a loss of $800,000 and the destruction of official records.

Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, will offer an amendment to the thrif bill before the Senate to impose a head tax of $100 on all immigrants to the United States.

The First Curing.

A farmer in Chicod township began curing a barn of primings Wednesday. We could not learn his name. If any county can get ahead of curing tobacco on June 16th we want to hear from it.

Masonic Celebrations

The Masons at Grimesland propose to have a celebration on the 24th, the occasion of annual installation of officers. The Greenville lodge has been invited. The Masons at Aurora, Beaufort county, will have a similar celebration the same day and Mr. J. Henry Harding, of Greenville, will be orator of the day.

The Bank of Greenville.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of The Bank of Greenville held June 15th, they organized under the charter granted to them by the last Legislature and re-elected all their former officers.

This bank is admirably officered and its statements show it to be in excellent financial condition.

Entitled to One.

"My mither sent me to see if you wad gie her a calendar like the ane you gied to Mrs. Mackay," said a boy to the grocer in the village. "But, my little boy," replied the grocer, "your mother does not get her groceries here." "No," replied the boy, "but she borrows them from Mrs. Mackay, and Mrs. Mackay gets them frae you."—Household Words.

Success.

The New York World says: "A successful man is one who helps other people. The most successful man is the one who helps the largest possible number of other people." Amplifying this thought, the most successful stores are those which help their patrons most in prices, in qualities, in polite service, etc. These are the things which make advertising very fetching.

The street sprinkler is kept quite busy.

The soda fountains do the sizzling business now, though it is dull in other lines.

To discontinue advertising is like removing to a new store and leaving no new address.

Manager Atkins has placed a handsome new phone in the REFLECTOR office. It is the most distinct we ever talked in.

We have been asked to again publish the dates upon which passengers can go on the freight train and connect at Kinston with the A. & N. C. train. The dates going are 18th, 21st and 22nd; returning 19th, 26th and 28th.

THURSDAY, JUNE 17, 1897.

THE NEWSPAPER BORROWER.

A mild-looking man with gold-bowed spectacles got on a car the other morning. He had a daily paper in his hand.

Taking off his glasses and wiping them, as all spectacle men have to do when going from a cold to a warmer atmosphere, he was just taking his paper out to read, when a man who was sitting near him reached over and said:

"Lend me that paper, will you?"

The mild looking man appeared surprised. Evidently he did not know the would-be-borrower, and was a little taken aback by his nerve. He was equal to the occasion, however.

"I was going to read it myself," he said "but as you seem to need to read newspapers more than I do, I'll lend it to you."

The borrower took it without even saying "thank you." The spectacled man leaned back with an expression of amused disgust.

"Say," he said, "would you like to have that paper sent you to regularly? If you would, I'll step into the office and pay a year's subscription for you."

"Why, you are very kind," said the other, "I usually borrow it, but I would not object to have it given to me."

"I thought not," said the spectacled man, "By the way, have you any tickets for the theatre tonight?"

"No," was the reply, "I seldom go to theatres."

"I was sure of it. I'll step in and buy a couple of orchestra seats for you if you like."

"Why I'm sure—"

"Oh, don't mention it! And while I think of it, can't I order you a couple of tons of coal sir?"

"I'm about out—"

"Exactly. Your grocery bill is unpaid, too isn't it? I'll go around and settle it for you tonight."

"I really don't understand, sir—"

"No, of course you don't. But won't you accompany me to the tailor's and let me buy you a new suit of clothes."

By this time the sponger began to see the drift of the conversation.

"You're trying to guy me," he said with a feeble attempt at a smile.

"Not at all," said the spectacled man. "I belong to a philanthropic society and am trying to live up to its leading principle."

"What is its leading principle?"

"That dead beats in all cases should be given enough rope to hang themselves if possible. I am beginning to doubt, though, whether it's possible in your case."

The sponger threw down the paper and retired to the cold corner of the car nearest the door.

Stay in North Carolina.

The many summer school commencements—it ought to be written endings—have been held. They were well attended, were greatly enjoyed, many young men and young women acquitted themselves not only handsomely but with much distinction. They are the future rulers of our land. The schools of the state flourish unwontedly, and the best reports come from them. Never before perhaps was there so many addresses and sermons delivered on such occasions: never before in the history of the state were there so many really successful efforts made—some rising into dignified and commanding oratory. Some of the addresses were unusually bright and engaging. The address that has been most read, most talked about, most overhauled is Mr. Walter H. Page's, who seems to have been Germanized as to the Bible and Yankeeized as to North Carolina and the south. He is evidently a disciple of Trent. Altogether the literary entertainments of the season, we infer from high wrought reports and flamboyant descriptions, have been of unusual zest, variety and cleverness. May the orators improve, and the graduates find "good places" in which to work out their destinies, and without fleeing from North Carolina. Stand by the dear old mother.—Wilmington Messenger.

The New Law in Regard to Paying Taxes.

The last legislature actually provided that a part of each man's estate should be forfeited to the State by his death, and it went further and made it a misdemeanor punishable by a fine not exceeding $500 or imprisonment not exceeding six months, for any person owing property or poll taxes not to pay the same before the first term of the superior or criminal court convening in the county each year after the first Monday in September. It does not stop here. If one should fail to pay his or her taxes by the first court and should be indicted and punished as aforesaid at that term, and should fail to pay the taxes until another term of the court rolls around, the act makes him or her indictable at each term until he pays it. Probably the last named section strikes a snag in the organic law providing that no man shall be twice vexed or punished for the same offense, yet the solicitor might reply that the legislature intended to make it a continuing offense for every day's failure.

This might as well be known in the State at once. At all taxes are due September 1st, and as there is required by the constitution to be at least one superior court in each county between September and Christmas, it seems that all the citizens of the State who don't pay their taxes before Christmas will spend their Christmas in jail. It, therefore, the citizen fails to pay his taxes the State takes his liberty; and if he dies in jail it forfeits (a part of) his property to the State.—T. T. Hicks of Henderson, in Raleigh News and Observer.

With the unprecedented record of pardoned criminals on the part of Governor Russell: with the injection of politics into our educational institutions, as evidenced in the turning out of part of the faculty of the Agricultural and Mechanical College, and as further evidenced in the attempt to eject the officers of the charitable institutions (happily frustrated by the uprightness of our judges); with the declaration by a member of the State board of agriculture that it is the purpose of the pie hunters to abolish all offices they haven't got the ability to fill, etc., etc.—should there be any doubt in the minds of Democrats as what the issues shall be in the next State campaign?—Charlotte Observer.

The Greatest Nation on Earth.

The value of timber yearly cut in the United States is double that of the output of all our mines; "One-third of the population of this country are church members"; "It costs $698.32 every minute during the year to run our Government"; "Uncle Sam's farms constitute one-fifth of the National wealth"; "Nearly one-half of the 8,000,000,000 letters making up the world's annual mail, belong to the United States." These are but instances of the thousands of wonderful facts about every phase of the life and progress of our country, from an illustrated article on "The Greatest Nation on Earth," by William George Jordan to appear in the July number of The Ladies' Home Journal. The article pictures, in a novel way, America's vast area, her matchless resources, boundless wealth, her marvelous development, and shows how the United States leads the world.

Have You Read it.

It is told of Franklin that at one time in Paris he was greatly ridiculed for his love of the Bible and that he made up his mind to find out how many of the scoffers had read it. He informed one of the learned societies, of which he was a member, that he had come across a story in pastoral life in ancient times that appeared to him very beautiful but he would like the judgment of the Society upon it. On the evening appointed, Franklin had a reader of finely modulated voice read to them the book of Ruth. They were in ecstasies over it, and one after another rose to express gratification and admiration, and the desire that the manuscript should be printed. "It is printed," said Franklin, "and is part of the Bible."—Ram's Horn.

The Only Way to Stop Lynch Law.

There is but one way to put an end to lynch law. The first is to let it be known that there will be no delay in hanging men guilty of crime for which lynching occurs. It too often happens that the scoundrel who should be hung gets a term in the penitentiary and after awhile some Governor pardons him. That infuriates the people, and they refuse to let the law take its course.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Just try a 10c. box of cascarets, the finest liver and bowel regulator ever made.

An Exciting Experience With a Blind Mule.
Harless Bullard, colored, and his son had an exciting experience Monday morning. They were driving a blind mule and stopped at the artesian well to water the animal. The running water frightened the mule, which started on a runaway. It ran against the railing of the wooden bridge, broke it down and tumbled off. The buggy remained on the bridge and the harness was sufficiently strong to hold the weight of the mule, which was suspended in mid air until some one cut it loose. It then fell into the river and swam to land about 200 yards below the bridge. The buggy was somewhat damaged, one wheel being broken, but the mule wasn't hurt.—Lumberton Robesonian.

A Perfect Bank President.
There is no single sympathy, no accomplishment, no physical advantage which may not contribute to the success of the head of a bank. The friends he made at college a generation back, his associations at the club, on his vacation, even in his church, are factors used with consummate skill and the native courtesy which characterizes the higher types of successful business men. There is no quality of alertness or adaptability which does not aid in the work of making friends for the bank—i. e., depositors. A perfect bank president should be one who can hold his own with zest and yet with dignity among the roistering class of Wall street men in their late suppers at the club, who can shoot with them, fish with them, drive with them, and who can also impress the staid and strait-laced citizens who are his fellow vestrymen as a pillar of respectability.—C. D. Lanier in Scribner's.

The Cheerful Idiot.
"I was in the front row at the theater the other evening," said the cheerful idiot, "and the bass violinist's instrument got fast in the door when he tried to come out."
"Did he swear?" asked the shoe clerk boarder.
"No. He only said 'fiddlesticks,'" said the cheerful idiot.—Indian.
