Base Ball.

St. Louis, July 21—New York captured two games from St. Louis today. The first was very closely played on both sides. Donahue took Hart's place in the box in the ninth, and the Giants batted out the game. The visitors won the second game in a walk, knocking McDermott out of the box in the sixth. Coleman was batted equally hard. Score, St. Louis 8; New York, 10.

Second game—St. Louis, 2; New York, 1.

Chicago, July 20—The last game of the series, miserably played on both sides, went to the Phillies because they batted a little harder and ran bases much better than the locals. Score, Chicago, 8; Philadelphia, 10.

Cincinnati, July 20—The Bostonians defeated the Reds the last game of the present series here today. The visitors took the lead in the seventh inning, scoring six runs on one error, four singles and two bases on balls. Score, Cincinnati, 6; Boston 10.

Cleveland, July 21—Baltimore Cleveland game was postponed on account of rain.

Pittsburg, July 21—The Pittsburg-Brooklyn game was postponed on account of rain.

Louisville, July 20—The Colonels played great ball this afternoon and downed the Senators twice. Cunningham was a puzzle to the Washingtons in the first game, while German was hit freely. The home team developed a batting streak in the second game and knocked McJames out of the box in the third inning. Frazer relieved Dowling after the third and held the visitors down to two runs. Second Baseman Clark and Pitcher Evans were today unconditionally released and Third Baseman Hock was released to the Paterson, N. J., team. Score, Louisville, 5; Washington, 3.

Second game—Louisville, 9; Washington, 4.

JUST FOR FUN.

Nocturnal cats are holding their summer saengerfest.

The latest "coon slang" is not "am a wahm baby" but "am fast black."

The expressman with his trunks is reaping a harvest. The iceman is not the only pebble.

He—"Your father likes me. He says I remind him of his boyhood days." She—"Gracious! Have you been telling him some of your jokes?"

She—"Does she return your love?"

He—"I don't know. She has returned my love letters." "O! then she loves me!" "Yes; but she is keeping my presents."

Nell—"What makes you think he thinks well of you?" Belle—"He called me a peach." Nell—"You poor thing! Don't you know the peach crop has failed?"

The Reflector Book Store has just received the prettiest line of box pa. a d tablets ever brought to Greenville. Elegant cream and peach high finish papers in pound packages.

BERNARD AND BABE.

One Gets Pie and the Other Don't.

The following under date of 21st was sent as a special from Washington to the Raleigh News and Observer.

Congressmen Skinner and Linney were at the department of Justice today in the interest of C. M. Bernard, who wants to be district attorney for the eastern district. The result of the visit was highly satisfactory to the two gentlemen for it is stated tonight on the best authority that Bernard will be appointed. The appointment will be charged up to the amount of patronage allotted to the member from the First district. Bernard's nomination may be sent to the Senate this week.

There is a story out to-night that Editor T. W. Babb, of Hertford, is very sore over the treatment he has received at the hands of Senator Pritchard and Congressman Harry Skinner. Editor Babb, so the story goes, was the one man in North Carolina who brought about the coalition which resulted in Butler's defeat and the success of Pritchard. For the part he played in that deal he was promised a good office. He came here last April, with the expectation of getting an appointment. He wanted to be Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue for the Eastern district and he was assured that he should be appointed. Every day he looked for his commission, but like the letter it never came. He received, however, so I am informed daily promises from Pritchard and Skinner that he would be taken care of. In the meantime his funds got short and in order to keep himself afloat he became a book agent, but every appointment has he received and he returns home tonight completely disgusted. His friends say he has a knife up his sleeve and when he gets back to the Tar Heel State he will make it uncomfortably warm for the two gentlemen, who, having profited by his political experience have fed him on empty promises since last April. It is understood he will oppose Skinner for Congress.

STATE NEWS.

FRIDAY, JULY 23, 1897.

An explosion occurred in the loading room of the armory of the Winchester Arms Company, at New Haven, Conn. Four women and two men were killed and several others wounded.

The Secretary of State has awarded a $914 job of printing—the Supreme Court Reports—to a firm in Richmond. There is a good deal of complaint, especially around Raleigh, that a job of this kind should be sent out of the State when there are so many home printers needing work.

Business Man's Talk to a Farmer.

"No," said the hardware man to the farmer, as he tied up the package of nails in the paper, "as you say, the people talk about the low price of what they have to sell, and don't say a word about the low prices of what they buy. Take those nails now. What do you suppose those nails would cost you ten years ago? Just about six cents a pound, and now you can take the whole lot at three cents a pound, and extra wrapper thrown in. That's not much, you say. Not so much on a little lot of nails, perhaps, but 10 cents isn't much on that bushel of potatoes you brought in just now, and that's all the difference in price from ten years ago, and yet you grumble at the low price. It's not the pound of nails that hurts me. Everything in my store has gone down in the same way. Your wheat and hay, and butter and eggs and chickens bring you substantially the same prices that they did ten years ago. You farmers forget that you have things to buy as well as things to sell. Want to buy a plough this year? That's a dandy for $12. Ten years ago I'd have asked $16 for it. That $4 saved for you in one clip. There's a better plaster than the one I sold you ten years ago for $60—a whole lot better. Take it along for $40. Remember that binder you bought from me ten years ago for $189? Must be worn out, eh? I'll sell you a 50 per cent. better one today and knock off the $89. You farmers don't know when you're well off.—Superior (Neb.) Journal.

Cautions to inexperienced physicians and experimenters not to use the X rays until they shall have become thoroughly posted concerning the mysterious new light have thus far failed to prevent a number of serious injuries. Unskilled operators have in one case caused the amputation of an unfortunate patient's foot, as the result of burns, and even internal damage seems to have been occasioned in another instance reported from Paris. Such results are due to criminal recklessness. The nature of the Roentgen rays is still involved in much mystery, and the agency itself is far less understood than is electricity. No one should fool with this peculiar power, which has shown how dangerous it can be, until he shall have mastered all the available information concerning it.—Philadelphia Record.

The Gorman-Wright Co.

A charter has been granted by the Circuit Court of Richmond, Va., to the Gorman-Wright Company, formed for the purpose of purchasing, selling and manufacturing tobacco, owning and keeping warehouses and store rooms, and to act as general commission merchants. The capital stock of the company is to be not less than twenty thousand dollars nor more than fifty thousand dollars.

The officers of the company are Mr. Richard H. Wright, of New York, president; Mr. P. H. Gorman, Greenville, N. C., vice President, and these two gentlemen, with Mr. Thos. D. Wright, Durham; Mr. Thos. M. Gorman, Durham, and Mr. J. N. Gorman, Richmond, directors.—Winston Tobacco Journal.

Garfield's Murder Mark Gone.

The brass star inlaid in the mosaic flooring of the waiting room at the Pennsylvania Railroad depot to mark the spot where President Garfield fell after being shot by Giteau has disappeared. So has the marble tablet which occupied a place on the wall a few feet above the star, and was inscribed with the date and a brief history of the famous assassination.

None of the attaches of the railroad know why they were removed. "Orders came from Philadelphia," said an employe of the railroad company today, "to have the star and tablet removed. That is all we know about it down here."

If the North Carolina exchanges reflect public sentiment in their respective localities, and what we hear also, can be trusted, the signs are very unfavorable to the adoption of the school law by townships. We will be surprised if thirty of the ninety-six counties go for the special tax. We shall be surprised if one-third of the townships shall vote for the tax. The whole thing is so confused and the prospect so unsatisfactory and the perils so increasing that sober sided, intelligent white tax payers will be slow to take hold and vote upon themselves a burdensome and perhaps indefinite tax.—Wilmington Messenger.

The last annual report of the State Auditor, for the fiscal year ending November 30th, 1896, gives some interesting statistics as to the population and property of this State. It shows that according to the last census, there were 1,053,382 whites and 561,068 blacks in this State—not quite twice as many whites as blacks—and yet 171,915 white men were listed for poll tax and only 45,697 colored men were listed for poll tax.

This report also shows that the tax paid on property for the public schools by the two races was as follows: $492,820.65 paid by the whites and only $14,728.88 paid by the blacks.—Pittsburg Record.

Year by year the taxes levied by our Legislatures are increased. New schemes are developed by which the burdens of the people are made heavier. As the prices of products go down, the price of government goes up. The people complain, but taxes go higher and higher. The last Legislature was the worst in the history of the such things. The people got the worst dose when they elected that crowd ever taken by a civilized community. Will they be hoodooed again?—Lexington Dispatch.

The Washington Post says that that there is a negro working at Dublin, Ga., who says he is one of forty children by one mother. He says his mother was married four times, and gave birth to twenty-seven boys and thirteen girls in North Carolina, and is yet living.

The State superintendent of public schools says in reply to an inquiry as to what should constitute a school district, that each public school should have at least sixty-five pupils, and that the territory over which the five school committeemen have jurisdiction must be bounded by the old township line.

In the new gold diggings in Alaska there are nine months of winter and three months pretty late in the fall. With the mercury at 68 degrees below zero, as it is in the winter, miners can manage to keep cool without much effort.—Wilmington Star.

A Georgia coroner's jury brought in the following verdict recently: "The deceased came to his death from a railroad in the hands of a receiver and the same is manslaughter in the first degree."

TERRA COTTA.

The Material Grows In Usefulness In the Builders' Hands.

Terra cotta has been described as the great and only lasting triumph of man over natural productions, for it will last longer than iron, stone, wood and all other materials that will succumb to fire and other destroying influences. Because it predominates in that respect and because it can be used for the protection of iron and steel, and the enrichment of brickwork and stone-work of various designs, it is used extensively in these days of lofty buildings and artistic and elaborate ornamentation.

Taking into consideration only architectural terra cotta, the product is immense, and, as the process of production is interesting, it may be worth while to describe some parts of the industry that has increased so rapidly. Decorative and artistic qualities are employed in the productions, and good results cannot be obtained without careful attention, technical skill and exhaustive experiments. The composition of clay and the effect of heat must be known, and the combinations of certain colors must be determined before the plastic mass can be molded and fired. The colors of clays in the pits do not determine the colors of the finished product. A very dark clay may be white after it has been in a kiln, and a red clay may be redder. Some clays cannot be used alone for terra cotta. They require a mixture with other clays, and the requisite quantities of clays for proper production are kept secret in the business because the proportions have been ascertained after many failures. The combinations of clays and the results of firing having been determined, architects and builders take the product and employ it to the best advantage for interior or exterior work.

Sample blocks of terra cotta are furnished by the makers to the architects, and after the selection of any particular tint tons of the material with the same tint can be produced. From an architect's drawings the draftsmen at the terra cotta works copy the parts that are indicated for the use of terra cotta and develop working drawings for the modelers and moldmakers. Some architects furnish their own working drawing, with each detail indicated. Others suggest what they want, permit the artists and draftsmen to elaborate the ideas and approve the results after photographs and blue prints of the models and drawings have been submitted. It is very often the case that the modelers have more talent than the architects for producing a decorative effect in terra cotta, because certain limitations must be considered. The draftsmen also understand by experience how to place the supporting partitions of the hollow pieces. In a few instances architects have indicated large pieces of the material that could not be produced by the present process. It is difficult to make and handle a very large piece from a single design, but almost any design can be reproduced by making the piece in parts and joining them together. The weight of the clay in a large piece is often too great for its tenacity. During the drying the tenacity of the clay should enable the piece to move or travel, as the workmen say, in proportion to the shrinkage.—New York Times.

Five in a Bunch.

"I have sold five buggies and five sets of harness this morning," remarked Bob Greene, of the John Flanagan Buggy Co. to the REFLECTOR just before noon today. We walked over to the shops and there were the buggies ready to be taken off by purchasers. One of these buggies being of unusual size was pointed out as being for one of the county's small men. We could not imagine who, or why a little man should want so large a buggy. But when told "it's for little Bob Cannon," there wasn't a mystery about it any longer, for while Mr. Cannon is a small man he has a large family and says he wants room enough to take them all out together. But getting back to the main point, selling five buggies in half a day speaks well for the John Flanagan Buggy Company's work.

The largest and finest flavored cantaloupe the editor has enjoyed this season was brought in by J. J. Evans Thursday afternoon.

They sat for some time in the parlor of her home and then started for a stroll in the moonlight.

After walking several blocks, during which time neither one had said much, the young woman suddenly stopped.

"You remind me of the Venus de Milo," she exclaimed.

Thinking he had at least made the desired impression, he smiled and thanked her for the supposed compliment. It encouraged him, and he proposed on the spot, but his suit was coolly rejected.

On his return home he consulted an encyclopedia and was deeply chagrined to learn that the Venus de Milo was without arms.—Chicago Journal.
