QUINERLY ITEMS.

QUINERLY, N. C., July 26th, '97.
Charlie Butler, of Vanceboro, was here on the 20th, and informed us that thieves broke into his smoke house a few nights since and took quite a lot of bacon.

Mr. Richmond, of Caswell county, is curing tobacco at W. J. Kilpatrick's.

"Uncle" Tom Gaskins a very successful old farmer of Vanceboro, dropped in to see us on the 21st, and reports crops fairly good in his section.

Miss Julia B. Burgess returned home Friday, after spending a few weeks visiting her sister, Mrs. J. B. Latham.

A. M. Moize and H. C. Butler went to Maple Cypress on the 24th. Of they only went to attend services on Sunday—that's all.

Mrs. J. P. Quinerly has been quite sick the past week, but we are glad to note is convalescent now.

We were shown an open boll of cotton on the 23rd, by M. C. Smith. Can any one in the county beat it?

Spencer Brooks lost a fine mule on the 22nd.

We were shown the finest lot of watermelons of the season a few days ago by C. C. Kirkman, of Maple Cypress.

J. B. Gardner, of Maple Cypress, lost two barns, a cotton house, two sets of stables, three mules and about seventy-five barrels of corn by fire on the night of the 23rd. Loss about $800 with $350 insurance. Cause unknown.

We have a splendid crop of tobacco drummers just now.

BETHEL ITEMS.

BETHEL, N. C., July 26th, '97.
Miss Mattie Rollins, who has been pending some time here, has returned to Tarboro.

Mrs. Warren Andrews, of Tarboro, is spending this week here with relatives.

Jesse W. Thomas went to Tarboro today on business.

Rev. D. B. Rickard returned home Friday evening.

Miss Lizzie Hammond, of Conetor, spent last week with her sister, Mr. D. S. Harper.

Mrs. J. L. Nelson and Mrs. Z. D. McWhorter children, of Collinsville, Alabama, arrived Wednesday evening to spend awhile with relatives and friends.

Miss Dare Hassell and Miss Lizzie Burriss, of Jamesville, was visiting at Prof. Hassell's last week.

Rev. R. F. Bumpass, of Tarboro, assisted Rev. B. B. Culberth last week in conducting the protracted meeting. He preached some able and very interesting sermons, the meeting will be continued during this week.

Crops have improved greatly in this section since the rain and the farmers are all smiling.

Mr. Mc. E. Whitehurst has 28 large stalks of corn growing in one stump in his swamp in the head of Grindle Creek. Who can beat this?

We hear of fabulous prices being obtained for articles in other lines of trade in the Alaska gold fields, but nothing is said about the ice dealers' business.

Base Ball.

St. Louis, July 24.—The Browns batted out a victory in the seventh inning today. Neither Hart nor Mc. James was effective. McDonald's umpiring was wretched, the home team suffering the most by his bad decision. Threatening weather kept the attendance down to 3,000. Score: St. Louis, 7; Washington, 5.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 24.—Baltimore was an easy mark for Pittsburg today. Hoffmeister, the home team's new third baseman, made a great hit with the crowd, by batting in five runs in three times at the bat, and figuring in four other tallies. His errors cost nothing. Score: Pittsburg, 16; Baltimore, 3.

Chicago, July 24.—Friend was again put in the box for the Colts today, but the strain of two successive games proved too much for him, and he was very wild. Meekin pitched a steady game, and received good support. Callahan made the star play of the game by a running catch in deep centre. Score: Chicago, 3; New York, 7.

Cleveland, O., July 24.—At the end of the eighth inning today the Phillies had the Indians beaten, but the game was decided against them—9 to 0—in the ninth inning, on their refusing to accept a ruling of the umpire's. Score: Cleveland, 3; Philadelphia, 4.

Louisville, Ky., July 24.—Frazer pitched a fine game until the sixth inning; when two bases on balls, two errors, and a stolen base gave the Beaneaters three runs, and the game. Score: Boston, 5; Louisville, 2.

A True Street Sermon.

Passing up Dickinson avenue from the depot the other morning we noticed a group of colored people gathered around the steps of Gorman's factory, engaged in animated conversation. As we approached near enough to hear the words one was delivering himself thusly: "Iteli yer what's de matter, dere's too many of 'em loafing around de streets! Go up town an' you'll find 'e a settin' all 'round de corners, but yer can't hire 'em to do a lick of work. Dey ain't got nothin' an' can't spect to have nothin'. You ask Mr. Whichard if I ain't tellin' de Lord's truth!" They pressed us for an opinion on Willis' delivery and the truth of his assertion had to be admitted. There is entirely too much loafing about the streets, either for the good of the town or the good of the loafers.

The Durham Sun tells of an excursion to that town which actually arrived ahead of time.

TUESDAY, JULY 27, 1897.

A New Jersey preacher contends that there are no female angels in heaven. Well maybe there are not. But we have 'em here and that suits us better.—Wilmington Star.

The Dingley bill is an attempt to force up the cost of living in the United States in the expectation that it will be easier to get a dear living than a cheap one. If that theory works, Mr. Dingley will be entitled to insert himself in American history as a greater inventor than Keely.—New York World.

Touching upon the opportunity which newspaper work affords for the study of human nature, Evangelist Moody says: "It is one of the most ennobling and educating of professions. In my opinion every theological student in the land ought to work on a newspaper for at least a year, in order to study human nature and gain the knowledge that it is impossible to obtain in the academy, seminary or college. That's the trouble with preachers. They don't know the men to whom they are preaching; they haven't a knowledge of human nature." This, no doubt, is true. In his criticism of the Sunday newspaper brother Moody himself reveals the deficiency which he deprecates. A month's course in the office of a country weekly would be of great advantage to the good man in his business.—Press and Printer.

How railroads and other transportation lines eat up the profits of the farmer is shown and forcibly illustrated by the fact that a short time ago a shipment of produce was made from Hitchcock, Texas, and sold for $1070. Out of this the railroads were paid $800 for transportation, leaving $270. Out of this $270 the commission man received $135, which was, doubtless, only a fair commission, while the farmer received for his toil and expenditure of time and money in producing, $135. One hundred and thirty-five out of ten hundred and seventy! That seems ridiculous in the extreme. Can it be possible that nothing can be done to remedy this evil? Is it any wonder that farmers complain of the unjust charges of transportation companies? Such charges are unreasonable and extortionate, we care not what may be the claims of the company or companies transporting.—Berkley Va. Graphic.

Young men have cut a wide swath in history, says an exchange. Henry Clay was Speaker of the House of Representatives at the age of 34. Stephen A. Douglas was but 39 when he first became a candidate for the Presidency. James G. Blaine was only 39 when he became Speaker of the House of Representatives. Alexander Hamilton took charge of the Treasury at 32 years of age. Martin Van Buren at 36 organized the famous Albany Regency, and was the Governor of New York at 40. John C. Calhoun was Vice President of the United States in his 42nd year. John C. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, was Vice President at 30 and a candidate for the Presidency at 35. Geo. B. McClellan was only 38 when nominated for the Presidency. Fremont, the "pathfinder," had explored the Rocky mountains before he was 30 years old, and was running for the Presidency at 43. Columbus was in the thirties when he explained his ideas of the western passage and enlisted aid of the Spanish sovereigns in the project that led to the discovery of America. Richard Cobden was but 34 when he founded the Anti Corn league, which revolutionized the commercial importance of Great Britain; and William Pitt, ranked by some historians as the greatest of modern British premiers, was practically ruler of England at 24.

Two Ways of Fortune Making.

The story of the riches of the Alaskan gold fields that interested every American during last week is surpassed only by the big fortunes made on sugar stock in Wall street. Working amid every privation and hardship the total wealth of hundreds of gold-diggers in Alaska was only about a million dollars. In less than a week, amid the excitement of the stock market, one operator, Mr. James R. Keene, made a clear profit of two million dollars.

The money dug by the Alaskan miners from mother earth represents that much addition to the world's wealth. The two million dollars made by Keene represents no added wealth, but simply the transfer to him of that much money from the pockets of his more unfortunate gambling associates. Keene has made and lost half a dozen fortunes on 'Change, is a gambler of nerve and dash, and is either rich or "busted" all the time.—Raleigh News and Observer.

THROUGH MOTHER'S EYES.

Why the Old Gentleman Opened Conversation With the Young Man.

An aged man and woman stopped opposite the Central High School building a few days ago and looked across at that rather imposing pile. They were plainly but neatly dressed, and while it was evident they were from the rural districts there was nothing in their appearance to attract comment. A young man was waiting for a crosstown car close to where the strangers stopped. To him the aged man turned.

"That's a schoolhouse, I judge?" he said.

"That's the Central High school," replied the young man.

The old man looked interested.

"That's the principal high school, Mary," he remarked to the old lady.

Then he turned back to the young man.

"We haven't been in Cleveland for a number of years," he said; "I guess it ain't since the Garfield funeral, an we're just lookin' around. We take a good deal of interest in schools an schoolhouses."

He paused and looked toward the sweet faced old lady, who nodded brightly.

"Then you have children?" said the young man.

"Just one," replied the old man.

"Of course, he is through school?"

"Long ago," said the stranger. "How long is it, Mary? Five years since he graduated, ain't it?"

"Six," said the old lady.

"I guess mebbe it is," said the old man.

"Graduated from your home school, I suppose?" said the young man.

"Yes," said the aged stranger.

"He was our only child, an Mary an I made up our minds to give him just as good an education as we could afford. An we did too."

The young man smiled. He fancied that the boy in question had been given a decidedly limited send off.

"You say he graduated from the home school?" he said.

"Yes," replied the old man, "but he didn't stop there. He wanted to go to West Austintown, an we sent him. Then he wanted to go to Harvard an we sent him. An then he'd set his heart on Harvard, and we sent him there."

"To Harvard?"

"Yes, an he was one of the class orators, too, on graduation day. It almost broke his heart 'cause mother an I couldn't be there to hear him. But we didn't feel that we could quite afford it, did we, mother?"

The young man looked at the old lady. There were tears in her eyes, but she still nodded brightly.

"And your son—where is he now?"

"He's a minin engineer in South Africa. Doin first rate too. We hear from him regular every month. Why, what brought us up to town today was to get a draft cashed that he sent his mother for a birthday present. Three hundred dollars—$5 for every year—that's what Joe wrote. Mother's just 60."

The young man took off his hat to the old lady.

"I wish you many more birthdays, madam," he said, "and trust that each will be as pleasantly remembered."

The old lady smilingly thanked him.

"Do you know what mother said?" inquired the old man, with a sly twinkle in his eye.

"Why, no. What was it?"

"Mother said, 'Let's speak to that young man—he seems so much like Joe.'"

And the young man walked away, feeling that he might journey long and far and not receive so high a compliment.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
