ORIGINAL OBSERVATIONS.

Made by the Orange, Va., Observer.

Live people often get mad, but dyers get madder.

Why wouldn't the gossip make a good teller in the bank?

Water is musical, we presume, when the fountains play.

It is singular that a man will bolt a ticket that he cannot swallow.

The man who marries for beauty takes his wife at her face value.

There is a great deal of sole stirring music in a pair of squeaky shoes.

Some people would rather prey on their neighbors than to prey on their own knees.

The farmer certainly ought to know how to rake things in—that is if he's drilled at all.

Some men will work harder and longer to plug up the hole in a nickel than to earn a dollar.

The man who paves his own way to fame has frequently to walk over a rough and rugged road.

A "duck of a girl" must be very closely watched, or ten to one she'll go off and marry some quack.

In this selfish and sordid age virtue and merit are like deadhead passengers, they go for nothing.

Now cometh the season for reproducing the worn out at the elbow stove pipe joke. Put it up brethren.

All men are created equal, but it has been noticed that some can carry much more liquor than others without showing it.

STATE NEWS.

The house of ex-Judge Spier Whitaker, near Raleigh, was destroyed by fire Thursday night. It cost $5,000 and was insured for $3,000.

The A. & M. College at Raleigh opened with 200 pupils.

The total valuation of the property in the State with the exception of Washington county, inclusive of telegraph, railway and steamboat property is reported by the board of equalization to be $232,996,243, against $23,861,531 last year, an increase of over $2,000,000.

Two Printer's Ink Points.

Economy in advertising—as in eating—doesn't consist in seeing how little of it one can do and live.

The aim of all good advertising is not to pull down somebody else's business, but to build up one's own.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1897.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept 10, 1897

Firealarm Foraker and John Sherman conferring together reminds one of the saying about politics making strange bedfellows. Although the two men have not always been close friends, they are now in the same boat—both are compelled by circumstances to seem to desire the election of Boss Hanna to the Senate and to seem to be working toward that result, when neither of them want Hanna in the Senate. Boss Hanna would doubtless have been edified, if not pleased, if he could have heard the conversation of Foraker and Sherman at their long conference, in the Secretary's office at the State Department.

Consul General Fitzhugh Lee is in Washington, but State Department officials declare that his visit has no official significance, and that he will return to Cuba about the first of October. That is more, however, than Gen. Lee has said.

Senator Gorman was at the Treasury Department this week and called upon Secretary Gage for the first time. The newspaper men who tried to interview Mr. Gorman on politics met with the usual result—he interviewed them and found out what they knew, but didn't tell them what he knew. Whether Senator Gorman intends to retire from public life at the expiration of his present term is a question that is still being discussed both by his friends and his enemies, but whatever may be his intentions about retiring, there is no doubt about his intentions to regain Maryland for the Democratic party, nor of his confidence in his ability to accomplish that result. His expansive smile when existing Republican dissensions in the State are mentioned shows his satisfaction with the situation.

Rev. Sam Small left Washington this week for Kentucky and Ohio. He will take an active part in the campaign in both States, making Democratic speeches. He has few equals as an effective stump orator. He recently had a conference with Mr. Bryan, and he will probably tell the Kentucky and Ohio voters some of the things they talked about.

Officials of the Marine Hospital Service have taken steps which they believe will prevent the spread of yellow fever, which is now at Ocean Springs, Miss., and a statement has been issued classing the yellow fever at that place as a mild form of the disease, which is proven by the small mortality so far—less than two per cent—and by the fact that many of those attacked have only been slightly inconvenienced thereby for several days. There is no occasion for any allow fever scare anywhere.

While it is greatly known in Washington that Pension Commissioner Evans has had several wrangles with the Civil Service Commission, because of his violations of the civil service law and rules, and that Secretary Bliss has made him feel his authority in a more or less humiliating way, upon several occasions, the rumor that he has become sufficiently disgruntled to contemplate resigning finds few believers. Mr. Evans says he doesn't intend to resign, but they always talk that way. Of the nineteen divisions in the Pension Bureau there is only one that has the same chief it had when Mr. Evans took charge of the office; the other eighteen have either been reduced or removed.

Senator Bacon, of Georgia, was in Washington this week. He thus sized up the condition of the people of his State and section: "If you put a man in a wilderness he will ultimately get out of it some of the comforts of life, and so did our people. They are now making a little money; not much, but they are growing stronger and steadily improving. Not a bit of it is due to tariff legislation. Things had to get better, for nothing could get worse with them. They had no credit and were compelled to raise what they consumed. Out of this adversity they are emerging and will in due time become the people they were before they sank almost into the depths of despair. There has been some talk in the North about the increase in the price of cotton. There is no increase that we know of. Cotton still remains at the same low figures. If the increase in the price of our crops would correspond with the increase in the price of wheat, the cotton growers of the South would be delighted, but there is as yet no indication that there will be any great rise in the staple which the Southern country produces."

The Verb "To Jew."

The earliest editions of Webster's Dictionary contained a verb "to jew," and defined it "to cheat," "to play with," etc. At the request of a number of influential Israelites the word was eliminated from the book. As a matter of fact, however, the word has no connection with or reference to the followers of the Mosiac faith. It was derived from the French "jeu" and "jouir," which means "to play with," "to cheat" etc., but its orthography had become corrupted to "jew." It did not appear in subsequent editions of the work.—Hebrew Standard.

KEEP IT CIRCULATING

The Rockridge County News, a very sensible newspaper, prints the following editorial: "Every farmer who has labored in his fields and has harvested good crops has gone far to help along the cause of prosperity, which every one desires, and the industrious and prudent deserve. But when he has sold his crops he has only partly done his share toward helping those conditions if he holds his money, provided at the same time he owes any debts. The useful dollar is the dollar that circulates. Those who wish good business conditions should keep on the move whatever money reaches their hands. If more people kept this in mind and so soon as they receive a dollar paid up their small debts, or big debts, if they could, that money would in all likelihood be quickly spent by the man who received it, and thus help to keep the wheels of trade moving and business lively. The man who promptly pays his bills is putting money into circulation that will indirectly help the neighbor that owes him to pay the bill to him. The full handed man who has no debts and no pressing demands for expenditures can best help business by putting his money in bank. There it is safer than anywhere else, and the bank, which, in taking care of it, is doing him a service, will add his money to its loanable funds and be in a better condition to lend to reliable business men, who will use it in business for the benefit of others as well as themselves."

Three Drowned.

Word was brought yesterday by the steamer New Berne, of a very distressing drowning, three lives being lost.

Lieut. Griffin, a well known lawyer and member of Naval Reserves, of Elizabeth City, whose family were visiting at Nag's Head, intending to visit them, and missing the regular sharpie which runs between Elizabeth City and Nag's Head, on Friday, September 3rd, anxious to reach his family, started off in a canoe, accompanied by a young man named Windom, and a colored boy.

The party before getting across the sound encountered a storm, and their boat was capsized. It seems that the party were able to get on top of their capsized boat, as they were seen by some persons in a passing boat, who give as an excuse for not rescuing the imperilled men, the severity of the storm.

From the overturned boat the three were finally swept, and as an evidence of the struggle made, the shoes of Mr. Griffin were, after the recovery of his body, found to be worn clear through, caused by his efforts to keep on the boat.

The bodies were discovered at the mouth of Alligator river by persons living there, and the faces being badly mutilated, they could not be identified, so were buried on the shore where they were found.

The steamer Neuse went down Tuesday, and brought the bodies back to Elizabeth City, where they were buried.

Mr. Griffin is reported to have left a wife and seven children. The accident causes profound sorrow in Elizabeth City, where the parties lived.—Newbern Journal.

One Effect of Advertising.

The business man who advertises, in his search for favorable points in his business to announce soon gets into the habit of increasing the number of these favorable points. He becomes more courteous and accommodating to his customers. He learns to give them just as much for just as little money as he can. He gets into the habit of studying his customers' interests as well as his own. He unconsciously gets into the way of doing this in the little things as well as in the big. This—the self educating effect—is one reason why advertising pays.

The White Men Must Unite in North Carolina.

A few days ago in conversation with W. D. Pruden, Esq. of Edenton, he recalled an incident in the famous political canvass of 1876 in Edenton, in which Vance redeemed the State from the Republican vultures. An impudent negro, a "smart Alec," interrupted Vance when he was speaking. He turned to the negro and said: "I am not addressing you. I am speaking to the white men who have the fate of North Carolina in their hands. They are in the majority and can control you." The times then and now are similar.—Elizabeth City Economist.

The Moral of the Outrages.

It is fully apparent that the epidemic of negro outrages has deeply stirred the race instinct of the whites throughout the land.

The moral of the whites is that they must combine to keep the negro party out of power hereafter; and for the negroes, that their leaders must take efficient steps to control their humbler followers, or be prepared to see the country unite in restricting the suffrage.—Fayetteville Observer.

A Year's Pension Business.

Washington, Sept 9.—The annual report of the Auditor of the Interior Department shows that the amount paid for pensions during the last year was $140,477,636. The payments on pensions account for the fiscal year, 1896, was $138,722,127, and for the fiscal year 1895, $140,558,641; 1894, $137,119,551, and for 1893, $151,552,214. The cost of the service last year was $3.99 per $1,000; for 1896 $4.07; for 1895, $4.00; for 1894, $3.77, and for 1893, $3.35.

White Men And White Metal.

In travelling through Cumberland, Bladen and Columbus counties we have heard many who voted the Populist ticket last election say that if voting the Populist ticket caused the State to be turned over "snout and gobble" to the Radical party, as it is now, they were done voting that ticket in future. Let the slogan be "white men and white metal" and victory is ours next time.—Lumberton Robesonian.
