LET the WORLD Know the Truth.

The lingering days of September are sultry, but the rising mercury does not interfere with the wholesome interest that centers in our clothes selling. We are daily supplying needs of the near future. All classes of buyers are rallying in our aisles. Men who have just returned from their summer vacation, men who are preparing to travel, boys who are entering school, young fellows who are going away to college are conspicuous among those who come here to secure the choicest and best things in Suits, Hats, Underwear and Furnishing Goods. Ideal styles in clothing at low prices are the attractions.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1897.

Several new cases of yellow fever were reported in New Orleans Monday, and several cases at other places. Quarantines are being established in every direction and people who travel are having to produce health certificates before being allowed to enter the quarantined cities and towns.

It seems that after all the waiting, and the many trips made to Washington City, C. M. Bernard is not to get the attorneyship for the Eastern District. It is now given out that Senator Pritchard has promised the place to C. A. Cook, of Warrenton, and will recommend the latter's appointment at an early day.

The Raleigh News and Observer reports considerable of a scandal that has developed in the penitentiary. Dr. K. R. Smith, a son of Superintendent Smith, was charged with improper visits to the rooms of certain female patients in the department for the insane. Dr. Smith's resignation was asked for and he left for New York.

Matters pertaining to the Cuban war are reaching a very interesting stage. The press dispatches report great excitement in Spain over the purported statement of the United States Minister to Spain that if Spain did not end the war by the close of October the United States would interfere and aid Cuba in securing her independence.

John B. Respass to Get a Consularship.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 20.—It is stated on good authority that Col. Harry Skinner's man, John B. Respass, will soon be appointed United States Consul at Sydney, Australia. This appointment was agreed on, it is said, the latter part of last week. It is not likely to be announced, however, until after the President returns from North Adams, Mass.

[As the "Sage of Bunyan" has been lately gathering his friends around him and declaring his intention of being the next nominee for Congress from this district, the Colonel is seeing the wisdom of doing something for him quick and getting John B. out of the way.]

The young man who would rise with the sun must not sit up too late with the daughter.

ORIGINAL OBSERVATIONS.

Made by the Orange, Va., Observer.

Andree's balloon trip to the North Pole seems to be a soar disappointment.

The eyes of a pretty woman are the interpreters of the language of her heart.

When you sign another man's name to a check, you are forging ahead.

A frown is the shadow of ill-temper which shuts out the sunlight of the soul.

Perfect devotion is the precious perfume of the full blossomed flower of affection.

How few they are to whom the world is indebted for progress and great results.

We live to learn, but death comes to thousands before they have mastered the alphabet of common sense.

Out at sea a ship occasionally heaves in sight, but the seasick passenger prefers to heave out of sight.

A Remarkable Cow

The Mt. Airy News is responsible for the following:

Mr. I. D. Phillips, of Snakes Creek, Va., has the most valuable milk cow in the United States. In the first place the cow is a beauty, and in the second place her milk does not need churning. The butter gathers in thirty-six hours after the cow is milked, and is as fine and rich as any butter made in the old fashioned churn, leaving the milk perfectly sweet. The milk is put in a jar and kept in the spring house for two days and one night, without receiving the slightest attention. When butter is wanted all you have to do is to take it off and work it like any other butter, salt and it is ready for use. These are facts. Mr. Geo. A. Satterfield and wife, of this city, are living witnesses to the truth of the above statement. Mr. Phillips was offered a good team of mules for his cow, but he declined the offer. He is a man in good circumstances and would rather have his cow than a dozen mules.

Underground Wealth.

The filing by Judge Hilton of claims with the Secretary of State to the minerals found in certain parts of his Saratoga estate brings up an interesting question in law. An owner of real estate has no claim to the minerals in the earth beneath the land he owns except as he discovers them himself and files a claim to the same. He cannot exclude others from coming in and mining any mineral that the intruder may have discovered, provided the intruder files his claims prior to the owner of the land in which the mineral is discovered. This is rather gratifying news, to learn that some of the "lords of creation" do not own the entire globe, but only such part of the crust thereof as they may chance to possess.—Troy Press.

We wish the Republican press would desist from its prosperity cry long enough to explain away the paradox of a fall of one cent per pound in raw cotton and a rise of one cent per yard in cotton goods. There can be but one explanation, and it is the same that has followed the enactment of every Republican tariff—an unnatural and unearned profit paid to the manufacturer at the expense of the producer.—Farmers and Trucker's Journal.

When Famous Men Married

Shakespeare married Anne Hathaway when 18 years old.

Frederick the Great was 21 when he led the Princess Elizabeth, of Brunswick, to the altar.

William Von Humboldt married Karoline Von Dachroeden when 24.

Mozart and Walter Scott were 25 when they chose their better halves; the musician married the charming Constance Weber, who inspired him to write his most beautiful compositions, while the choice of the novelist was Miss Charlotte Margaret Carpenters.

Dante married, when 26, the Florentine, Gemma Doparti. At the same age Johann Heinrich Voss led to the altar the sister of his friend, Ernestine Bole.

Napoleon was 27 when he married the rich widow, Josephine Beauharnis; and Byron had attained the same age when he gave his name to the heiress, Miss Elizabeth Milbank.

The Swedish Naturalist Linnaeus (Linne) was also 27 when he married. Herder was 29, and Robert Burns 30.

McKinley Will Appoint Negroes.

President McKinley announced today that the attempted assassination of Isaac H. Loftin, the negro postmaster at Hogansville, Ga., will not deter him from appointing colored men to office in the South if they are qualified for the positions and their recommendations are satisfactory.

This determination was indicated to a party of Southern politicians who called at the executive mansion and made the suggestion that, in view of the hostility manifested toward negro office holders, it might be well to refrain from making any more such selections.—Washington Dispatch.

They Read Their Doom

All the Republicans, and a number of the less respecting Populist papers, are engaged in a desperate attempt to stem the tide that is setting in North Carolina in favor of a government of white men for white men. These sheets grow hysterical at the least insinuation that the negroes want office, and when it is pointed out that the great number of rapes and outrages that have taken place in the South in the past four or five months are traceable to our changed political conditions, they froth at the mouth like unto dogs with hydrophobia.—Wadesboro Messenger.

Town Killers.

There are eight kinds of people who do a town no good. There are, first, those who go out of town to do their shopping; second, those who are opposed to improvements; third, those who prefer a quiet town to one of push and business; fourth, those who imagine they own the town; sixth, those who oppose every movement that does not originate with themselves; seventh, those who oppose every improvement that does not appear to benefit them; eighth, those who speak to injure the credit or reputation of individuals.—Denison Herald.

Prof. Alsnel says: Sticky fly paper used in summer to catch flies is said to make an excellent mouse-trap. Lay a sheet of it in front of the hole from which the mice emerge, and it will hold them fast until you capture them. The same paper can be used again and again. This is better than poisoning them, allowing them to retreat into their holes and there decay offensively.

Aged Couple

A large number of negroes went to Pinewoods, in Johnston county, yesterday to attend the funeral of Chas. Waton and his wife, Julia, both of whom died sometime since. Chas. was 100 years old and Julia was 103.
They left 16 children. A daughter, Mary Waton, aged 78, attended the funeral of her parents from Raleigh—Raleigh

The North Carolina organ of the disappointed office-seekers,
which is for fasion or anything, Lord, so it holds out hope of a government job, observes that it doesn't see as much as it did a week ago in the Democratic press about a straight fight; whereupon it shakes hands with itself and says it killed the movement.
The organ deceives itself. Little is being said about a straight fight because little more needs to be said. It is already settled upon.—Charlotte Observer.

A POSTER TRAGEDY.

A purple moment of bright blue bliss
Was mine, oh, green haired maid,
When from your lips a yellow kiss
I sipped in the dark red shade.

The ceru moon hung on a tree,
We sat by a vertical brook.
You were a-laughing in olive pink glee
And reading the edge of a book.

And I was singing a lavender song,
Speckled and mingled with blue,
But I stopped for a moment, perhaps not too long,
And kissed you, I took perhaps two.

By the red hills topped with golden snow,
By the trees tearing holes in the sky,
I swore the red world I would overthrow
For your love, or lie down and die.

But away from my vowing I was rudely snatched
And thrust far, far from you.
The color I wore with the landscape matched,
And that would, alas! never do.

And now among the blue lilies afloat
On a sea of brown and red
I sit on the edge of an olive green boat
And hold my pea green head.
