Generous Act by the Robinson and Franklin Shows.

The Argus man is indeed happy over the fact that the little ones of the Odd Fellows Orphanage of this city, are to go to the circus—the great Robinson & Franklin shows—free, through the generosity of the Messrs. Robinson and Franklin. They are noted for their big heartedness, and they grant the request so gracefully, that we herewith publish their letter for the public to peruse:

"RALEIGH, N. C., October 11.

"Editor Argus:

"Dear Sir:—Replying to your recent favor, I beg to say that Messrs. Robinson & Franklin would be pleased to have as their guests the children from Orphan Home on our date in your city, October 30th, and I take a great deal of pleasure in extending to them an invitation.

"Will you please extend this invitation to the proper authorities and the managers will be pleased to furnish the necessary tickets.

"I am sure the little ones will enjoy it, and that in itself will more than recompense the management for the slight trouble it will cause.

"Trusting you will find time to give this attention, I am

Yours respectfully

A. McPHAIL,

Agent Robinson & Franklin Shows."
—Goldboro Argus.

Said of Women.

The average woman doesn't want a vote if she can manage to get the voter. No man can get ahead of the woman who rides on the front seat of his tandem.

Any woman who is a match for her husband will blaze up when he attempts to strike her.

It most always hurts a girl more or less when her best fellow calls with a two day's growth of whiskers on his chin.

Pictures of the Family.

A few days ago Mr. Louis Flake brought his family—wife and eight children—to town to have their pictures taken. The entire ten people took an individual sitting, each getting 17 pictures, and then Mr. Flake had 17 more made of himself and wife together, making a total of 187 pictures among the family. As he left Mr. Flake remarked that he was not done yet, but was coming back in a week or two and have some more taken.

Bulbs.

This horse is by Prince Belmont dammed by the Burglar, and is the fastest stallion in North Carolina. His record is 2:18½.

Adjourned Court "Upside Down."

Last Saturday, the last day of court Sheriff Haynes was called home on account of illness in his family. All the deputies except Columbus Henson, the junior deputy, had gone home, so he was left in full charge as officer of the court.

When the session was about over Judge Norwood said: Mr. Sheriff, adjourn this court "side down."

The young sheriff didn't quite catch those two Latin words but was determined to proceed with his duties and said in loud, bold tones: "Oh, yes! oh yes! this honorable Superior Court now stands adjourned "upside down."

Attorney J. M. Moody says the above is an actual occurrence.—Waynesville Courier.

Yellow Jack Killed.

Cascarets, Candy Ca thartie kills Yellow Jack wherever they find him. No one who takes Cascarets regularly and systematically is in danger from the dreadful disease. Cascarets kill Yellow fever germs in the bowels and prevent new ones from breeding. 10c, 25c, 50c, all druggists.

Some of the neighbors were wondering why Ollen Warren was climbing up the weather signal pole this morning, until it was learned of the presence of an heir at Riverside Nurseries.

The Decadence of the Senate.

"The Senate," says Senator Hanna, "is a dignified body of dignified men. It is the greatest and best legislative body in the world. Wisdom always prevails in it. As for those who say that it is degenerating, they are fools."

Well, let us see. Let us take Hanna's own State for example.

Ohio began away back in 1802 by sending to the Senate Thomas Worthington, a man of high character and distinction in his day. Before he left came Pen-jamin Ruggles, the "wheel horse of the Senate." Following him with terms overlapping each other, came William Henry Harrison (afterward President), Thomas Ewing, Thomas Corwin, Salmon P. Chase, Benjamin Wade, Allen G. Thurman, Geo. H. Pendleton and John Sherman. Unti Henry B. Payne beat Pendleton there had been no man in the Senate from Ohio who had not some claim to public honor.
Payne was followed by Brice and Brice by Foraker. And now Sherman is gone and Ohio is represented by—

Foraker, a shallow demagogue and professional lobbyist, whose power was based upon the Cox machine. That machine has just been disrupted by the indignant people of Cincinnati, and several of its conspicuous members are in the penitentiary and many others are waiting indictment for trial.

Hanna, a man of no reputation beyond his own neighborhood until a year ago, a boodle fund collector, the hirer of the infamous New Orleans trier, and one of the marks of that shameless bargain which McKinley has begun shamelessly to fulfill.

Hanna ought to glance at Ohio history and take a look in his conscience glass before he sings paeans to the body he is preparing still further to degrade.—New York World.

WHAT THE WOOD FIRE SAID TO THE LITTLE BOY.

What said the wood in the fire
To the little boy that night,
The little boy of the golden hair,
As he rocked himself in his little armchair
When the blaze was burning bright?

The wood said: "See What they've done to me!
I stood in the forest, a beautiful tree,
And waved my branches from east to west,
And many a sweet bird built its nest
In my leaves of green
That loved to lean
In springtime over the daisies' breast.

"From the blossomy dells
Where the violet dwells
The cattle came with their clanking bells
And rested under my shadows sweet, And the winds that went over the clover and wheat Told me all that they knew Of the flowers that grew In the beautiful meadows that dreamed at my feet.

"And the wild wind's caresses Of rumpled my tresses,
But sometimes as soft as a mother's lip presses
On the brow of the child of her bosom, it laid Its lips on my leaves, and I was not afraid,
And I listened and heard
The small heart of each bird As it beat in the nests that their mothers had made.

"And in springtime sweet faces Of myriad graces Came beaming and gleaming from flowery places,
And under my grateful and joy giving shade,
With cheeks like primroses, the little ones played,
And the sunshine in showers Through all the bright hours Bound their flowery ringlets with silvery braid.

"And the lightning Came brightening
From storm skies and frightening The wandering birds that were tossed by the breeze
And tilted like ships on black, billowy seas,
But they flew to my breast
And I rocked them to rest While the trembling vines clustered and clung to my knees.

"But how soon," said the wood,
"Fades the memory of good,
For the forester came with his ax gleaming bright,
And I fell like a giant all shorn of his might.
Yet still there must be Some sweet mission for me,
For have I not warmed you and cheered you tonight?"

So said the wood in the fire
To the little boy that night,
The little boy of the golden hair,
As he rocked himself in his little armchair
When the blaze was burning bright.

Arabian Horses in Battle.

Arabian horses manifest remarkable courage in battle. It is said that when a horse of this breed finds himself wounded and perceives that he will not be able to bear his rider much longer he quickly retires from the conflict, bearing his master to a place of safety while he has still sufficient strength. But if, on the other hand, the rider is wounded and falls to the ground the faithful animal remains beside him, unmindful of danger, neighing until assistance is brought.
