Personals And Other Items

BETHEL, N. C., Nov. 17 1897.
W. F. Harding, of Greenville, was here today on legal business.

Jesse Davinport, of Knight Station, Edgecombe county, and brother of our countymen J. R. Davinport, of Pactus, was here today.

James Bond (col.) was so badly cut by A. Ward's cotton gin here today that his arm had to be amputated near his shoulder. Dr. F. C. James performed the operation, assisted by Dr. J. D. Bullock. The Dr. pronounces his case critical.

STATE NEWS.

W. H. Capell, postmaster at Weldon, died Tuesday.

At Fayetteville a shed to a factory collapsed and four men were caught under it. They were all badly injured.

The board of commissioners of Buncombe have appropriated $100 to remove the body of General Clingman to Asheville.

The Fayetteville Observer says many farmers in that section are storing their cotton and borrowing money at 6 percent from the bank.

A little son of C. L. Dickinson, of Beaufort, was run over by a dray, a few days ago, and received injuries from which he died.

J. H. Morrison, one of the leading merchants of Lumberton, made an assignment Tuesday. Liabilities $7,000 and assets $18,000. Inability to make collections and 5 cent cotton caused it.

Mr. Wm. Stroud's gin house, near Woodington church, was destroyed by fire Saturday morning, about 8 o'clock, catching in the lint room. The loss is $500 or $600; insurance $310. Only about one bale of cotton was burned. Kinston Free Press.

Good Yield.

Last spring Mr. Allen Warren gave Mr. George James, of Pactus township, seven potato slips of the Patisawyan variety. Mr. James recently housed his potatoes and gathered six bushels off the vines raised from the seven slips.

Married.

On Tuesday, 16th, at the home of Mr. Lorenzo McLawhorn, in Contentia township, his daughter, Miss Ida McLawhorn, and Mr. T. R. Allen were married.

"Is that undertaker reasonable?"
"No; he charges stiff prices." "You don't say?" "On the dead."

Already mysterious packages are being smuggled into the house while the children are at school, to be hidden away until Christmas.

Hoax—"It takes two to make a bargain." Joax—"O? I don't know; one can do it." "No, sir!" "O! yes; if you buy one drink in a saloon, that's a bar gain."

"It's all nonsense to speak of a man going straight to the devil," says the Manayunk Philosopher. "You've got to be crooked in one way or another to get there."

Wheeler—"Scorcher and his wife are going abroad for the winter." Sprocket "For their health?" "Not exactly; for the bicycling. One of Scorcher's friends happened to speak the other day about the Island of Rhodes, and Scorcher's crazy for a spin there."

She went unto the matinee, poor dear.

And the man behind her swore.

At the gorgeous hat she wore.

Next day she sat in church and she could hear.

The man behind he swore.

The Baptist Young People's Union held a meeting Wednesday night at the church with good attendance. The most interesting part of the exercises was an admirable address by Rev. N. M. Watson, pastor of the Methodist church. The recitation that was to have been given by Miss Lina Shepard was postponed on account of her suffering with a severe cold.

At the next meeting of the Union each member will be asked to give the name of some book read during the interval between the two meetings. It is safe to predict that there will be much reading going on in the next week or two.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1897.

Among the many problems that present themselves to the people of the South for solution, is the land problem. Too much of the land in the South is dragged over with poor cultivation with as much expense as if it were highly improved and well cultivated. The small farms well cultivated pay a much greater profit than the larger farms, whether well or poorly cultivated. One reason for this is that when small farms are well cultivated it is generally done with less hired labor.—Scotland Neck Commonwealth.

Touching the statement that no less than 2,385 women have visited Luetger in jail in Chicago, that 1,200 have sent him letters of sympathy and that 38 want to marry him, the Charleston News and Courier, which is in the habit of looking at all matters from a practical standpoint, observes that "38 would make a good deal of sausage, and if Luetger could only get all his visitors in his vat he would control the sausage business in Chicago." Yes, and if they were all stout ladies he could break all the sausage makers of the outlying districts, he being at no expense for raw material.—Charlotte Observer.

The Postal Savings Bank.

Fourteen States and the District of Columbia have together more than five million depositors in savings banks, whose deposits aggregate nearly two billions of dollars. But more than half the States have no savings banks at all, and so this great incentive to thrift is lost to the people of more than half the States.

The argument is complete in favor of the postal savings bank proposal which is to be brought forward early in the next session of Congress.

A postal savings bank will promote thrift everywhere. It will make of a multitude of citizens investors in a national institution. It will therefore stimulate the national spirit, breed patriotism and establish a nearly universal interest in the integrity and prosperity of the nation and in the soundness of its monetary system.

It will foster the habit of saving—the one thing most lacking in our national character outside of those States that have savings bank systems.

The machinery of the Post-Office will lend itself readily to the system, and that machinery reaches into the remotest corners of the country as no State machinery can.

We ought to have a postal savings bank system at once, providing for every citizen an absolutely secure opportunity to invest his savings at interest. Congress will soon be called upon to consider the matter. Its course should not be subject to any doubt.—New York World.

THE MAID I LOVE.

The maid I love has violet eyes,
 And rose leaf lips of red,
 She wears the moonshine round her neck,

The sunshine round her head:
 And she is rich in every grace,
 And poor in every guile,
 And crowned kings might envy me
 The splendor of her smile.

She walks the earth with such a grace
 The lilies turn to look,
 And waves rise up to catch a glance.

And stir the quiet brook;
 Nor ever will they rest again,
 But chatter as they flow,
 And babble of her crimson lips
 And of her breast of snow.

And e'en the leaves upon the trees
 Are whispering tales of her,
 And tattle till they grow so warm
 That, in the general stir,

They twist them from the mother branch;
 And through the air they fly,
 Till, fainting with the love they feel,
 They flutter down and die.

And what is stranger still than all
 The wonders of her grace,
 Her mind's the only thing to match
 The glories of her face.

Oh, she is Nature's paragon—
 All innocent of art,
 And she has promised me her hand,
 And given me her heart.

And when the spring again shall flush
 Our glorious southern bowers,
 My love will wear a bridal veil,
 A wreath of orange flowers;

And so I care not if the sun
 Should founder in the sea,
 For, oh, the heaven of her love
 Is light enough for me.

HENRY S. FLAHERTY.

A Companion for all Ages.

A gentleman who used to read The Youth's Companion when a boy, and reads it with the same interest now that he is a middle aged man, was asked the other day if he had not outgrown The Companion. "I don't believe," said he, "that I can ever outgrow it. I find in it not only the cherry, hopeful spirit of youth, but the wisdom and experience of age. I like it just as much as when I was a boy, though perhaps in a different way. But I know that it is the same Youth's Companion with which I grew up, for my boys and girls like it as well as ever I did. It is a good paper to grow up with."

The Youth's Companion will contain the best thought of the best thinkers of America and Europe during 1898. It will print serial and short stories of absorbing interest, and true tales of adventure. The various departments of the paper will be a current record of the best work that is being done in the world. Present readers of The Companion who renew their subscriptions, and all new subscribers, will receive free a beautiful illustrated calendar, printed in twelve colors, and embossed in gold. It is the richest and costliest calendar ever sent to Companion subscribers. New subscribers will receive The Companion every week from the time the subscription is received until January, 1898, and then for a full year to January, 1899.

An illustrated prospectus of The Companion for 1898 may be had by addressing

An Old Paper.

A good lady of our town handed the editor last Saturday a copy of the Tarboro Press, printed at Tarboro, Edgecombe county, N. C., dated Saturday March 14, 1840. It is quite an interesting paper, well printed and full of politics. It was in the days of President M. Van Buren. Among the articles it contains, there is an extract from the Warrenton Republican, and a notice of the completion of the W. & W. R. R. Among the advertisements we notice that the jailer of Edgecombe county gives notice that he has a negro man in jail and after describing him, demands that the owner shall come forward, prove his property and pay charges. Cotton yarns are extensively advertised showing that people in that day did most of their weaving at home. This paper strongly advocates the election of Hon. Romulus M. Saunders for Governor of North Carolina, and Hon. Martin Van Buren for President of the United States. Its editor was George Howard and the price of this weekly was $2.50 cash in advance, or $3.00 on time.—Warrenton Record.

A Very Young Chicken.

Mr. Dempsy Armond a merchant of Brower's Mill, bought some eggs sometime ago. On the day following he thought he heard young chickens under his store. He looked, but could not find any. At last the sound was located in the bucket where he had placed the eggs he had bought the day previous. On examination a young chicken was found hatched out.

Mr. Armond has the chicken and intends to raise it.—Carthage Blade.

The Printers' Ink Age

More advertisements are printed today than ever before in the world's history. Not many years ago the "ad" copy was prepared in haste, the work being considered a disagreeable task, to be dispatched and over with as soon as possible. Today the merchant who advertises—and very nearly all do—seeks to put up in form and matter an advertisement attractive in appearance and entertaining in contents. The pains, the taste, the originality, the different designs, the interesting matter, and mainly the bargains and novelties described, make the modern ad one of the most attractive, entertaining and valuable features of every well regulated newspaper. This is the age of the ad, one of the most positive proofs that this is an age of progress.—Kansas City World.

They are all of These

The political elements now in control of the State government are incompetent, unreliable, reckless, vicious, venal, and hypocritical. Some good people thought that at one time they were possibly too severely characterized, abused, if you please, but every week that passes now only helps to establish their undisputed desert of the severest things that have been written of them.—Gastonia Gazette.

Cost of Solomon's Temple.

A noted statistician and investigator who has lots of time for such work has been doing some figuring on the cost of the Temple of Solomon, and says few people even in these days of palmy extravagance and millionaire display, have an adequate impression of the enormous cost of the great temple. According to Villipandus, the "talents" of gold, silver and brass were equal to the enormous sum of 6,879,822,- 000 pounds sterling. The worth of the jewels is placed at a figure equally as high.

The vessels of gold, according to Josephus, were valued at 140,000 talents, which reduced to English money, was equal to 575,296,203 pounds. The vessels of silver, according to the same authority, were still more valuable, being set down as worth 646,344,000 pounds. Priests' vestments and the robes of singers, 2,010,000 and the trumpets 200,000 pounds. To this add the expense of the building material, labor, etc., and some wonderful figures result. Ten thousand men, hewing cedars, 60,000 bearers of burdens 80,000 hewers of stone, 3,300 overseers, all of whom are employed for seven years, and upon whom, besides their wages, Solomon bestowed 6,733,976 pounds.

If their daily food was worth 50 cents, the sum total for all was 63,877,088 pounds during the time of building. The materials in the rough are estimated as having been worth 2,545,337,000 pounds. This gives a total, just for this much of the expenses the whole cost of 10,719,760,261 pounds, or about $52,117,034,868.-

Ex-Surgeon General Hamilton used to tell the following story of how the yellow fever epidemic started in Jacksonville ten years ago: "It seems that McCormick the man who brought the fever to Jacksonville, was a lover. His sweetheart was in Tampa, and Tampa was isolated on account of yellow fever. But yellow fever or no yellow fever McCormick wanted to see his girl; so he managed to pass the cordon, and steal an interview with his love.
Then he returned to Jacksonville and took the yellow fever with him. This is another confirmation of the wisdom of the man who once declared there was a woman at the bottom of every mischievous."

Esq. G. W. Walsh, of Jobs
Cabin, was in to see us Saturday.
He said that the McKinley wave of prosperity was considerably worse on the people up there than the Cleveland panic was.
A great many families have sold their only milk cow at reduced prices, leaving their children without milk or butter, in order to raise enough money to pay their taxes and keep out of jail.—
