When He Loves.

Men sometimes sing of maidens' lips,
Their features rare and fair,
And prate about their finger-tips,
And glorify their hair.

But when a man's in love he lets,
No shape, nor age, nor hair,
Stand in his way—he just forgets,
And loves and doesn't care.

SAM JONES' READY WIT

Here are some of Sam Jones' witty sayings, as reported by the Citizen from his lecture in Asheville last week:

This is a great old world, and I'm not going to leave it on purpose. Here's one fellow who is not going to kill his fool self.

I've no respect for growers, therefore I don't respect many people. This nation reminds me of a family of spoiled children.

That philosopher has not yet lived who can tell which is the best estate, to be hungry and having nothing to eat, or to have the colic from eating too much.

I want to give you the worth of your money if you've got any place to put it. Some of you dollar fellows, I expect, paid too much. But if you haven't got room for it you can just sit still and let it run over.

There is nothing in this world to which I tip my hat with profounder respect than a genuine man. The only trouble about it is, I don't have to tip it often. A man is bigger than a king—bigger than a president. If there is a man in politics I don't know it. Take North Carolina for example.

A Boston man once asked me: "Does the negro differ from the white man in instinct?" I told him no, the difference was mostly in the cut-throat.

Some old deacon who swindles you will say "I'm obliged to live." That's a lie—he can die any day he wants to.

Among the girls we need more honey bees and fewer butterflies. I don't object to bangs; I think bangs are becoming to women and mules.

When women get to cutting off the tops of their dresses for the ball room and the bottoms for the bikes, I begin to get frightened.

Some say that Sam Jones is vulgar. When they say I'm vulgar it's like the skunk telling the possum his breath smells bad.

It is a reversal of God's order of things when woman becomes the leader in immodesty.

A Surprise for the Actors.

A theatrical manager cannot always be sure of his crowd, even when he sees it, says the Chicago Record.

James E. Boyd, once a governor of Nebraska and always well known on the Chicago Board of Trade, used to own a theatre in Omaha. In the course of the season an open date appeared on the book and a little second rate company succeeded in breaking into the house for the unfilled time. This company had been having all kinds of hard luck and the manager had been ashamed for money for a month. Hope and despair combined kept the company together and at odd times the manager would give out a quarter or a half dollar to some especially tenacious pedler. On the evening of the opening at Boyd's one of the members of the company struck the head of the combination for a dollar, much to the amazement of the latter. The actor said he would arbitrate, compromise or do anything. He finally agreed to call it square if his superior would buy him a drink. On this 10 cent basis they came to terms, and returned to the theatre front and watched the box office hungrily.

Somewhat to their surprise, a man stopped, and then another, and then immediately afterwards a whole crowd of people appeared at the window, and for half an hour the place was besieged. No such house had ever been called out by the little cheap company, and these people were all of a fine grade, too.

"Luck is with us," cried the manager to his delighted employe. "Come and let's spend what I have in celebration." So they went out and destroyed the symmetry of the last five-dollar bill in the silk hatted man's possession. After which, returning to the box office, they asked the ticket seller how much had been taken in.

"Eight dollars and forty cents," was the reply.

"Eight dollars and forty cents? Where—how—what about these 500 or 1,000 people who have been crowding in?"

"Oh," said the box office man, whose name was Doc Haynes, "the Elks' hall is on the upper floor, and the entrance is here. There's a dance there tonight, and the members have been getting the special tickets which have been assigned to them. I'm secretary of the lodge, you see!"

Died for His Master.

When a man gives up his life for another, posterity erects a monument to his memory; but when a dog dies that his master may live, men stop and think, and John Walker, of Roselle, N. J., was doing a lot of thinking on Saturday night. He was face to face with death, and his dog had averted the blow.

Walker left his house early in the morning for a stroll. His dog followed him. He tried to drive him back. Then master and dog started to walk along the Jersey Central railroad tracks to Elizabeth.

Midway between the stations Walker met a heavy freight running rapidly eastward, making enough noise to deaden all other sounds. Walker stepped to the west bound track. His dog, which had been running ahead after birds or loitering behind to make short and noisy excursions into the bushes, closed in on his master when the train neared him.

Walker was careless. He never looked behind him, and did not hear or see the Royal Blue express. Brakemen on the freight train shouted warnings. The engineer of the express train blew his whistle, with no avail. It was too late to stop, although the engineer was trying to do so. Walker plodded on.

When the train was nearly on top of Walker his dog sprang at him with a growl. Walker turned, saw the train and stepped aside in time to avoid the cars as they swept past him with a roar. Not so with the dog. The pilot of the engine struck the animal and tossed him aside.

When Walker recovered his senses he looked for his dog. The faithful animal lay dying, with his back broken.

Walker carried the dog to the side of the track. The brute licked his hand, feebly wagged his tail and died in his master's arms.

Pastes His Way to the Heaven.

The man who every Sunday morning pastes a dollar bill on the collection plate in Trinity Chapel, West Twenty fifth street, is Virgil Richard Jaeger. He is a printer, and lives at 56 Jane street. He arrives at the chapel in good time for the morning services, takes a seat in the front pew, and seems to listen intently to the sermon. He carries a dollar bill in his hat, one end fastened under the hat band.

While the sermon is being preached Mr. Jaeger smears one side of the bill with paste, which he also carries in his hat, meantime, keeping his eyes fixed on the preacher. The collection plate is usually passed to him first, and he lays the bill on it and carefully but firmly smoothes it out.

"I don't want the money to blow away, and I don't want anyone to steal it," said Mr. Jaeger yesterday. "Besides there are Masonic reasons why I paste the money on the plate."

The church authorities have not objected to Mr. Jaeger's eccentricity in giving. The sexton scrapes the bills from the plates takes the pieces to the bank and gets new, whole bills.—New York World.

Couldn't Afford to Take a Paper

One of our exchanges describes the man who could not afford to take the home paper as follows: By getting hold of a foreign advertising sheet he spent $1 writing to find out how to keep sober; the answer being to take a pledge. He also sent fifty 2 cent stamps to find out how to raise turnips and received a postal card reply: "Take hold of the tops and pull." It was the same person that sent 50 cents to a fellow in the east for twelve useful household articles and received a package of needles. He is a near relative to the man who sent $1 to find out how to get rich and received the reply: "Work like the devil and never spend a cent." He is also related to the man who sent $5 to find out how to write without a pen or ink, and the answer was: "Try a lead pencil." He is a twin brother to the man who sent $5 to find out how to live without work and received the reply printed in one black line on a postal card: "Fish for suckers like we do."

A New Counterfeit Discovered.

The secret service bureau at Washington announces the discovery of a new counterfeit $10 silver certificate, and also a counterfeit national bank note.

The silver certificate is a photographic production printed on two pieces of paper pasted together. No attempt has been made to color the back of the note, which is a shade of brown instead of green. The seal is colored a bright pink.

The note is badly printed and the lathe work is blurred and indistinct. The national bank note is on the First National of Joplin, of Missouri, series 1882. It is also printed on two pieces of paper and the silk fibre in the genuine is imitated by pen and ink marks.

Disease Spread by Pencils

The health authorities are making an investigation of the rapid spread of diphtheria and other contagious diseases among the children since the public schools opened in September, and believe that they have found the cause in the system followed in the use of penholders and lead pencils. All the pencils and penholders are gathered together each day just before dismissal and placed in a box on the teacher's desk. The next morning the pencils and penholders are redistributed, so that each child may get different pencils and penholders every day. City Sanitarian Clark says that it is second nature for children to place pencils or penholders in their mouths when at study, and that thus disease may be communicated from child to child. The city sanitarian is experimenting with a preparation by which the pencils and penholders can be sterilized each day.—Indianapolis Dispatch.

New Uses for Old Hats.

Never content with ordinary decorations for their boudoirs, girls are now using the cast off derby hats of their admirers as card receivers. The scheme is a simple and economical one. After getting an old hat, the fair fad-dists cuts numerous gashes in the crown, into which the cards of her friends are stuck. In the centre of the crown she puts a mail card containing the words: "People I Know." The hat is then fastened to a ribbon and hung on the wall.

At the University some of the bright young men wear slouch hats, on the brims and crowns of which are written the names of friends. A blue hat with red autographs is held to be the top-most things in this line.

The state superintendent of public instruction, Mr. Mebane, has issued a letter to the teachers of public schools urging them to unite in the formation of a teachers' association in each county in the state.

"Our teachers, both public and private," he writes "do not make themselves felt as they should, as a class of men and women in their respective counties. Too many of our teachers are indifferent as to what public sentiment is on the subject of popular education. Too often they sit in silence while the politicians around the court house and the school committeemen squander the public money. The county association may not only create public sentiment in favor of popular education, but it may be the means of securing school men for school committeemen instead of men who will do the bidding of the court house politician. It may be the means of making the public school money the most sacred, which it should be, of any public money in the county. It may make the schools, instead of a farce and a subject of ridicule, a power and a blessing to each community."

PLUM PUDDING.

A Mixture of Small Bits for Thanksgiving

Wedding today.

Tomorrow is Thanksgiving Day.

Remember the poor and the orphan tomorrow.

Poor turkey! he was stripped of all his armor in the battle today.

The birds will stand a poor show tomorrow, for the woods will be full of hunters.

The usual Wednesday evening services in the Methodist church will not be held tonight.

Land owners near town are complaining about the hunters and many of them have posted their lands.

FRESH TODAY—Honey Flakes, small and large Hominy, white Beans, shredded Cod Fish, Mountain Butter, at S. M. SCHULTZ.

In keeping with our annual custom of observing Thanksgiving Day, THE DAILY REFLECTOR will not be issued tomorrow.

The number of turkeys that have been slaughtered today for the Thanksgiving dinner would make an astonishing row of figures.

A number of boys have erected a tent on the premises of Mr. W. R. Parker, in South Greenville, and will have a circus Thanksgiving Day.

NO CURE—NO PAY

That is the way all druggists sell GROVES TASTELESS CHILL TONIC for Chills, Fever and all forms of Malaria. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults prefer it to bitter, nauseating Tonics. Price, 5c.

THANKSGIVING

These Are Numbered Among the Thankful

A. K. Umstead returned from Durham Tuesday evening.

Mrs. A. H. Taft returned Tuesday evening from a visit to Elm City.

J. A. Dupree left this morning for Williamston to spend Thanksgiving.

Bishop and Mrs. A. A. Watson left on the morning train for Washington.

Miss Martha Wiggins, of Kinston, who has been visiting Mrs. M. H. Quinerly, returned home Tuesday evening.

Attend to This Please

A number of subscribers now owe for THE REFLECTOR. To each of them the amount may seem small, but the aggregate to us means considerable. We have a distaste for putting dues in print, but it is the time of year now when every one should be settling his accounts, and we hope this reminder will prove sufficient to cause all owing us to come forward and get a receipt. Don't put the matter off or wait for us to hunt you up, but come to the office to see us. If it is not convenient for you to come send us a money order by mail. Of course every reader knows if he owes THE REFLECTOR, and this is intended only for those who are indebted to us. We hope every one will respond promptly to this request.

STATE NEWS.

There are 71 railroads in North Carolina with a total of 3,436 miles.

Mr. D. G. Worth, one of Wilmington's most substantial business men, died Monday night.

Dr. J. Henry Smith, for 39 years pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Goldsboro, died Monday morning.

The barns and stables on the farm of Mr. F. P. Shields, cashier of the Scotland Neck bank, were destroyed by fire a few nights ago. His loss was $600.

JUST FOR FUN.

President McKinley's protection ideas do not include the Thanksgiving turkey.

It Greece had only won that war she might have had a piece of Turkey for her Thanksgiving day.

Uppers—"I'm not altogether bad; I admit I sometimes pawn things, but I get them out again." Jiggers—"Well, that's a redeeming feature, of course."

Finnicus—"I tell you a man never appreciates his wife till he gets into trouble." Cynnicus—"That's so; it's a big satisfaction to have some one to blame for it."—Lite.

"Remove his chains!" cried Blanco. The captured Cuban spy wept bitterly. "No! not that!" he cried; "torture my flesh if you must, but do not wreak your vengeance upon my innocent bicycle."

First Prospector (at Klondyke)—"I understand Nuggets has been arrested." Second Prospector—"Yes; the darn fool persisted in heaping gold in front of his cabin and blocking the trail."—Philadelphia North American.

Mrs. Griggs—"Mr. Walton is certainly a remarkable young man." Mrs. Grossmith—"What makes you think so?" Mrs. Griggs—"Oh, I heard him say last night that he would just as soon teach his sister to ride the bicycle as any other girl."—Somerville Journal.

Married

At Washington, on Tuesday, 23rd at 2 o'clock, P. M., Mr. B. L. Susman and Miss Bertha Harding were married by Rev. J. E. Underwood. They drove to Greenville in the afternoon and left here on the morning train for New York. Mr. Susman is well known in Greenville and his many friends here extend best wishes.

At Tarboro last night some party or parties broke into F. S. Royster's warehouse and stole 19 barrels of flour and 25 sacks of meal.

Mr. Hugh Farham returned from Raleigh Monday. He was slightly teased when the "boys" all called him "papa," but he is proud all the same. —Kinston Free Press.

The Telegraph office will be open on Thanksgiving Day only from 8 to 10 A. M. and 4 to 6 P. M. Persons having business with the office are requested to govern themselves accordingly.

The editor's household is prepared to enjoy Thanksgiving. A pair of turkeys, a large ham and a bag of fine sweet potatoes from his aunt, Mrs. W. R. Whichard, is abundant cause of thankfulness.

Notice. This is to notify my friends and patrons that I have this day withdrawn from the partnership of The Greenville Supply Co. and have connected myself with R. L. Davis & Bros' under the firm name of Speight & Co. and will continue to buy cotton and produce as before under said firm name. Thanking my friends for their past patronage, I assure them that their interests will always have my careful consideration. I think I am better prepared to handle their business than ever before, and solicit a continuance of their patronage. This Nov. 16th, 1897. JESSE SPEIGHT.
