JUST FOR FUN.

"Ah! mine is a hard lot," he said. So, in truth, it was. Far from being unhappy, however, he set to work and soon converted it into the finest granite quarry in that section.

Wife—"John, there's some sort of disturbance among the servants downstairs. Do go down and pour oil on the troubled waters." John (returning)—"Too late! Bridget had already poured it on the fire."

He was struck by a falling cake of ice and killed, whereupon one of the two temperance papers in the town headed its report of the accident: "Hard Drink Killed Him," and the other: "A Drop Too Much."

Spectator—"Say, I paid 50 cents to see the game. When is it going to begin?" Gatekeeper (facetiously)—"Don't know. One o' de team is full." "Which one?" "De full-back." "How funny! Well, I want my half back."

"You seem to think that women are like horses, that their ages may be told by their teeth," said the optimist. "No," replied the pessimist. "The horse is under a disadvantage there. He can't take his teeth out and freshen them up overnight in a tumbler of water."

STATE NEWS.

A telephone exchange is being put in Scotland Neck.

Mr. A. T. Crawford and Miss Pattie Biggs, of Williams, were married on the 1st.

Dr. Dinwiddie, president of Peace Institute, says there is only one young lady among his students who is not a Christian.—Raleigh News Observer.

The Morning Post, Raleigh's new daily paper, made its appearance on the 1st. Greek O. Andrews is general manager and R. M. Furman editor in chief. The Post is a bright paper and we wish it success.

A man whose word can be relied upon said Tuesday that from a State farm near Weldon some convicts have been allowed to go 'possum hunting at night. He said he supposed there never has been anything like it before.—Scotland Neck Commonwealth.

All the abuses at the penitentiary are not yet ended. Your correspondent learns that for a month past a convict has been living with his wife in what is known as the administration building, and that another convict has written to his wife to come and stay with him a week. This beats the strawberries last spring.—Raleigh cor. Charlotte Observer.

OVER THE COUNTRY.

Former Clerk Donald McClelland, of the Bronx Borough Bank, New York, is accused of stealing $2500.

A pack of bloodhounds has been provided at St. Louis, Mo., to aid the police in running down criminals.

The New York City Health Department is to supply vaccine virus to the army throughout the country.

Red Cross Lodge, Knights of Pythias, of Tampa, Fla., has defied the authority of the grand chancellor of the order.

A prisoner at Pitts, Ga., has confessed that he murdered John M. Clayton, in Plummerville, Ark., eight years ago.

John McCormick, 23 years old, son of the editor of the Meridian (Miss.) News, has strangely disappeared from Wheeling, W. Va.

Andrew L. Switzer, once an Idaho cattle king, is believed to have been swept to sea in an open boat, at San Francisco, Cal.

A Correction.

WHICHARD, N. C., Dec. 1st, 1897.
EDITOR REFLECTOR:

I wish to one correction in the statement you published about Mr. Harry Gurganus' death. While he seemed to be perfectly established in the faith and doctrine of the Primitive Baptists for the last 30 years, yet, for some cause, he never made a public profession of Christianity and was never baptised.

I can fully endorse every thing else you said of him, and will add that he has voted for Jeffersonian Democracy in every election for 58 years. He was a model of honesty, industry and economy.
W. R. WHICHARD.

Woman's Idea of Man.

Women of renown have passed these verdicts upon men:

Men are a medley don't you think?

All men are poor creatures, more or less.

No man is altogether evil; there is latent good in him.

Men—the very best of them—can only suffer, while women can endure.

One cannot really know what a man really is by the end of a fortnight.

All careers are desirable for men who know how to make them so.

A man must be able to support his family, or else remain a bachelor.

No man ever distinguished himself who could not bear to be laughed at.

Object Lesson to Farmers.

There are some few farmers to be found who make an independent living despite the hard times and the low price of cotton. One of them is Mr. Thomas Ritter, of Carter's Mills, this county. Mr. Ritter is 56 years of age and has a family of fourteen children. He has farmed all his life and has never bought a bushel of corn, a pound of bacon, a pound of flour or a pound of anything else that can be raised on the farm, but has always kept these things on hand for sale. He has never owed any man a cent and never buys anything from the store except coffee and sugar and such other things as he can't raise at home. He has fat horses, hogs, cows and poultry and his table is always furnished with the very best that a good farm can furnish. He raised one bale of cotton this year and says that it makes but little difference with him whether it is five or ten cents a pound. Mr. Ritter reads the newspapers and keeps well posted in regard to current topics. The secret of his success as a farmer is that he raises all his own supplies and pays little attention to cotton. The country would be better off if we had more farmers like Mr. Ritter. He has a brother who has been equally as successful as a farmer.—Sanford Express.

Constitutional Government in Japan.

Constitutional government was established in Japan in 1890. It was the direct result of the promise made by his majesty and was a spontaneous gift of some of the imperial powers and prerogatives to the people. Steps had been taken previously to pave the way for the adoption of parliamentary institutions by extending the rights and privileges of the people, most notably by the creation of the prefectural assemblies, which exercise a certain degree of control over local affairs. Whether or not such measures were of essential value it is not necessary to inquire in this place. In any case it can now be truthfully stated that parliamentary government in Japan has passed the experimental stage and is established among the permanent institutions of the land. Of course this has not been accomplished without friction between the executive and legislative branches of the government. Political storms rage in Japan just as in other countries, but the new institutions have stood the strain of all conflicts. Every such struggle has been carried on scrupulously within the limits defined by the constitution and every disputed question has been settled in accordance with its provisions. The constitution is revered by the people as the foundation of the self government graciously conferred upon them by their sovereign, and its mandates are universally regarded as sacred and inviolable.—Toru Hoshi in Harper's Magazine.

The Good Not Always Beautiful.

"To be good," remarked the off-hand philosopher, "is to be beautiful."
"Waal," replied the man who was trying to sell him a mountain farm, "I dunno. Mebbe it's the exception as proves the rule."
"What do you mean?"
"I was thinkin' 'bout a possum. There's no denyin' that possum's mighty good, but you can't never make me think it's purty."—Washington Star.

Get Ready for Holiday Trade.

The holiday trade this season will be confined to a short while and will be correspondingly brisk. People, as a rule will not have time to wander about from store to store to find out what is for sale. They will save the time by reading the papers and first learning where to do their trading before starting out. The wise merchant should lose no time in getting his announcement before the public and letting the people know what he has to offer.

IRONICAL IT'S.

If love is the birth of an illusion marriage must be the death of it.

If a man has a little money and doesn't work he is rated as a capitalist.

If you are disappointed in love it may have a greater disappointment in marriage.

If an old maid is sent to buy furniture she is sure to select a chair with arms to it.

If a sure enough fool killer were to come around every man on earth would try to hide.

If there is to be no marrying or giving in marriage in heaven that may account for its being heaven.
