Telephone Charges.

The REFLECTOR says that "Greenville has as good a telephone exchange as any town in the State, and in addition to the local service gives its subscribers the benefit of communication with most of the neighboring towns, and the cost is only $2 per month for business houses and $1.50 per month for private residences;" while the Landmark, commenting upon the same paragraph that our Greenville contemporary comments on, says that "Statesville has a telephone system that furnishes first-class services for $24 per year for business houses and $12 and $18 per year for private residences." In Charlotte the charges of the Bell system are from $20 to $40 per year for business houses and $18 to $30 for private residences. If the Bell Telephone Company furnishes twice as good a service as other companies it is justified in making double the charge for it, but the Greenville REFLECTOR says its telephone system is as good as that of "any town in the State," what the Landmark says the Statesville telephone system "furnishes first-class service." The matter may be straight and all right, but in view of the great disparity in charges it occurs to us that it might not be amiss for the railroad commission to look a little deeper into it unless it has already gone to the bottom of it.—Charlotte Observer.

Concord has a new telephone exchange that charges for its service considerably less than the ones at Greenville and Statesville. The rate here is only $1.25 per month for offices, stores, etc., and only 84 cents per month for residences. Even at these low prices it is estimated that the company can declare a dividend on its stock.—Concord Times.

QUINERLY ITEMS.
 Personal Notes and Other Items of Interest.

QUINERLY, N. C., Dec. 13, '97.
 Dr. W. C. Whitfield left last week for an extended business trip to Bladen county.

Cotton is selling here at 5½ cents 1100 bales have been sold here this season.

Mrs. M. F. Latham left on the 6th inst. for an extended visit to Greenville and vicinity.

L. J. Chapman, J. P. Quinerly, and A. M. Moize were in your city last Monday selling tobacco.

Messrs. Moorman and Yancey, of the Washington Warehouse, were here a few days ago looking after "the weed."

Dr. W. W. Dawson attended a basket party at Dawson's school house on Friday evening last, and reports a very pleasant time.

B. F. Metzger representing L. W. Davis, of Norfolk, was here on the 9th inst. We had the pleasure of sampling his cigars and testify to their good quality.

We enjoyed some very nice music on Monday evening last at the home of J. B. Lathan by Fred Johnston, a talented young barrister of Grifton, on the violin, accompanied by Miss Stella Evans, one of Quinerly's most charming young ladies, on the organ and (the always on hand at the right time) H. C. Brooks, on guitar.

We are pained to chronicle the death of Mrs. Mary E. Brooks, wife of our esteemed friend, Squire Brooks, which occurred on Wednesday the 1st inst. She was a loyal Christian, having been a member of Salem Christian church for many years, a kind neighbor and friend, an affectionate mother and devoted wife. We extend our heartfelt sympathies to the bereaved ones.

STATE NEWS.

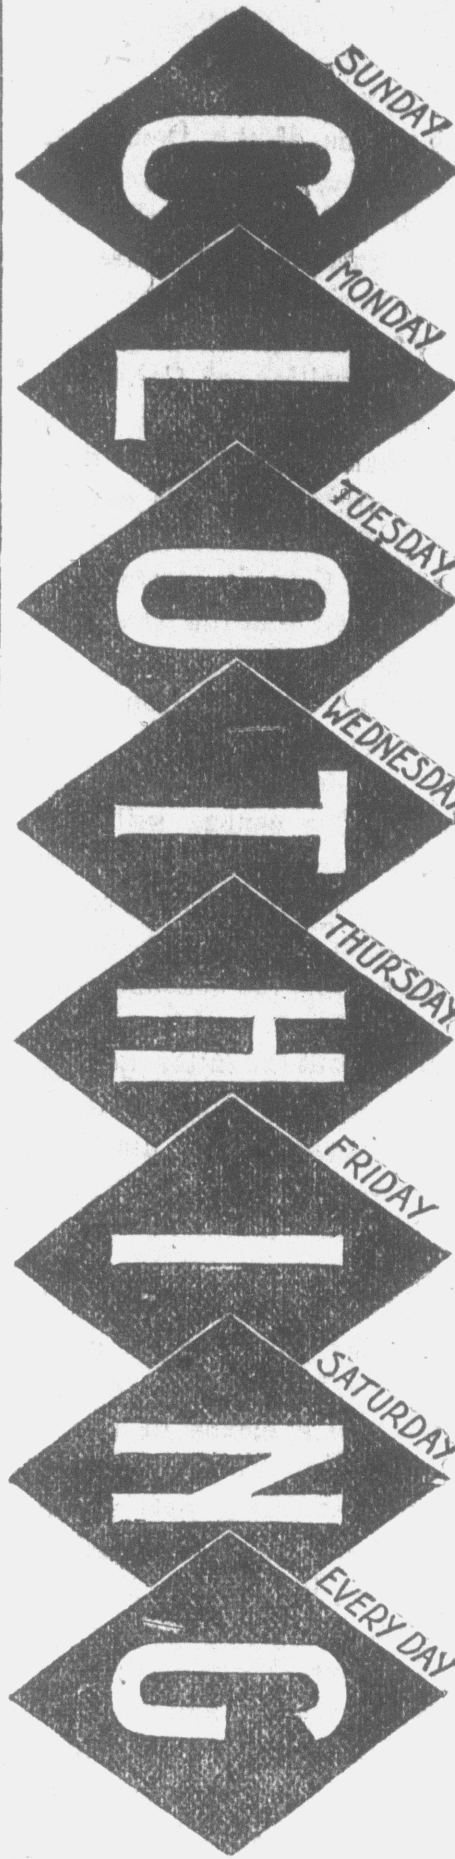

Rev. J. B. Martin, one of the oldest members of the North Carolina Conference, died Saturday at Danville, where he had gone to visit relatives.

It is stated that Rev. J. O. Guthrie, who was assigned to the Methodist church at Fayetteville at the recent session of Conference, exchanges with Rev. L. L. Nash and takes the latter's charge at Warrenton. Rev. Guthrie is now here. It is said that Bishop Hargrove permits this exchange.—Raleigh Cor. Charlotte Observer.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 13 '97.

The man who would have predicted the present condition of the Washington end of the Republican party a little more than a year ago, when it had just elected a President and a majority of the House, would not have been given credit for sound judgment, even by the bitterest enemy of that party. In fact, it is now difficult for one not in Washington, to believe the extent of the disruption of the party. Nothing can better illustrate this than the attitude of the Republicans in congress towards the recommendations made by Mr. McKinley's message. Not a single one of them has the support of anywhere near the solid Republican vote in either branch of Congress. Mr. McKinley asked indirectly, Secretary Gage directly, for the retirement of the greenbacks, but if the Democrats and populists refrain from voting, it is doubtful whether a bill providing therefor could pass either branch of Congress. Mr. McKinley's Cuban policy is constantly and openly assailed by Republicans; he asked for the immediate ratification of the treaty for the annexation of Hawaii, but not a move has been made in that direction in the Senate, and abandonment of the treaty is looked for; he defended the civil service law, and one half of the Republican members of the House are openly engaged in an effort to break down that law. In fact, everything is tending towards a restoration of the Democratic party to power, and the once boasted solidity of the Republican party, which was for years its most noted trait, has gone, apparently forever.

The House Banking and Currency Committee is laboring hard to produce a financial bill, but it is another case of "Much ado about nothing," as there are about as many different opinions in the Committee as there are members, and each opinion is represented by a bill framed by its owner. It has been said that Czar Reed, in selecting this committee, chose men whom he knew would never agree on a bill, and it looks that way.

Representative Sullivan, of Mississippi, in his speech against the payment of pensions to wealthy men quoted extensively from Gen. H. V. Boynton's recent arraignment of the injustice of the Pension laws as now administered, because he endorsed what that gentleman had said and knew that nobody could raise any question of Gen. Boynton's right to criticize. Although the Pension bill passed by the House, carries an appropriation of more than $141,000,000, something like $2 for each man, woman and child in the United States—it was rushed through the House in an hour or two and every amendment proposed by Democrats was voted down. Representative Dingley's remark that of every $5 paid out by the government $2 went to pay pensions and fifty cents to pay interest on the public debt, although probably not made for such a purpose, ought, in view of the probable pension deficit of $10,000,000 in the next fiscal year, and the announced desire of the administration to increase our bonded indebtedness, to cause many persons to put on their thinking caps.

It is practically certain that at the caucus of the Democrats of the House, to be held this week, it will be decided to make Cuba a party question, and to use every opportunity to attempt to get the Senate resolution, declaring for the recognition of Cuban belligerency adopted by the House; also that the caucus will declare the party opposed to each and every financial recommendation made by the administration. It is not likely that the caucus will say anything about the silver question. The position of the party is too well known to need any new declaration in favor of silver. The caucus will probably declare against the annexation of Hawaii, either by treaty or legislation, and it may also declare against the enactment of the bankruptcy law, but there is doubt about the latter action, as there are some strong advocates of the bankrupt law among the Democrats, and others who doubt the wisdom of trying to make it a party question.

The report that Czar Reed is in sympathy with the fight on civil service reform, because he recognizes in it a means of lessening Mr. McKinley's chances for a renomination, was partially confirmed by the attendance at a caucus of Republican Representatives called to consider Ways and Means of fighting the present civil service law, and bring about its modification or complete repeal. In view of the absolute control Mr. Reed has over the Republican members of the House in about everything else, it does not seem likely that as many as seventy two of them could have been persuaded to take part in this movement unless they knew that Mr Reed had no objection to it. The average Democrat has never favored the civil service law, with its one part real reform to nine parts of the most arrant humbuggery, so it will not be surprising to see them vote with the kicking Republicans if their kicking goes as far as a vote.

Eccentricities of a Cat.

A slender black cat in the Boston postoffice building has developed a number of traits that make her a most interesting study. She is fearless and independent, and yet quiet and tame as a lady's pet. The size or appearance of a dog has no terror for her, if she is disposed to attack him, and she walks among the people in the building and outside as unconcerned as if she knew them all.

More remarkable still is her way of getting round from one place to another. She has a number of places in the building to visit, particularly on the third floor, where there is a young lady who she likes to call upon at frequent intervals, and instead of running up and down the stairs, as other cats naturally would do, she takes an elevator. With an air of imposing dignity, she takes up a position among the rest of the passengers waiting for the elevator, and when she gets on board the elevator she looks earnestly through the door as the car ascends. Lacking means to signify where she intends to get off, she remains in the car until it stops at her desired destination, and even force, unless it is irresistible, cannot make her leave the elevator till it reaches the floor where she wants to go. The elevator men know her habits so well that if she happens to be the only passenger going up they generally offer her the third floor first. As she returns from a visit, she again avails herself of the elevator service, whether she wishes to go up or down, for it is a matter of course with her to complete her round in the upper part of the building while she is up that way.—Boston Transcript.

The tide of prosperity has not checked the inventive ingenuity of Yankeeedom. In the number of applications for patents sent to the Patent Office the year 1896 surpassed all previous records: and yet during the first six months of 1897 over 7 per cent. more applications were received than during the first half of 1896. From January 1, 1897, to June 30, 1897, there were filed 25,59 applications. During the same period the receipts of the office amounted to $722,897—an increase of $103,015 over the six months immediately preceding. The Patent Office is one of the few departments of the Government the receipts of which surpass the expenditures. From July 4, 1836 (the date of the establishment of the office), to June 30, 1897, the excess of receipts over expenditures was $5,093,514.

Notice.

This is to notify my friends and patrons that I have this day withdrawn from the partnership of The Greenville Supply Co. and have connected myself with R. L. Davis & Bros' under the firm name of Speight & Co. and will continue to buy cotton and produce as before under said firm name. Thanking my friends for their past patronage, I assure them that their interests will always have my careful consideration. I think I am better prepared to handle their business than ever before and solicit a continuance of their patronage. This Nov. 16th, 1897.

Xmas = Greeting.

Xmas is rapidly approaching, only a short while and the eventful day is here, preparation must be made that it may be one of joy and gladness. See to it that you have supplied yourself with some of the many useful, serviceable and substantial things of life that can here be found in such great variety and abundance. If there is a girl or lady that has not been supplied with a

they should come now while our shelves are filled with beautiful patterns and trimmings.

In fact you may want and need many other things that you have been "putting off" long enough. Xmas is a good time to bring the matter to a close. Come look through our stock whether you want to buy or not.

Yours to please,

J. B. CHERRY & CO.
