The Undersell Man.

Howell Peebles Dead.

Died suddenly at his home near Falkland, in this county, on the night of the 26th inst., Mr. J. H. Peebles. Mr. Peebles was an Elder in the Falkland Presbyterian church, and was well known and highly esteemed in this county. We wonder at the providence of God in taking such a useful man from us in the prime of life, but as we think of him our thoughts go upward.

M.

The news of the death of Howell Peebles brought sadness to many hearts in Greenville where he had a large number of warm friends. He was an upright, energetic young man, and his death is a great loss. He was a member of Covenant Lodge I. O. O. F. and the lodge went out to attend his funeral today.

Many Thanks Thad.

Among the Christmas presents received by THE REFLECTOR was one from our good friend Thad Manning, of the Henderson Golf Leaf. It was a beautiful silver souvenir spoon with the words Henderson, N. C. and a gold leaf of tobacco in the bowl. It was designed by Hight & Co., jewelers, of Henderson, and shows exquisite workmanship. Doubtless friend Manning's mind fell upon this much appreciated selection by his recalling some delightful journeys upon which we were companions, and our making him almost trot his legs off helping us indulge our fondness of hunting pretty souvenir spoons. His suggestion that this one be "added to the Madam's collection" has been carried out, which she also highly appreciates.

Odd Fellows Banquet Tonight

Grand Secretary B. H. Woodell, of Raleigh, will deliver a lecture to Covenant Lodge No. 17 I. O. O. F. tonight. There will also be work in the honorary degree and election of officers. After the meeting the Odd Fellows will have a banquet at the residence of Mr. J. White. All resident and visiting Odd Fellows invited.

Homicide.

There was a general row on the Greene place, near Quinerty, Thursday night before Christmas, in which several parties took a hand. Hardy Higgins struck Will Greene on the head with a gun, injuring Greene so badly that he died next morning.

Almost a Fire.

There came near being a fire at the home of Capt. C. A. White Sunday morning. The ceiling around the stove flue in the dining room caught fire but was put out without any alarm being given. The damage was only slight.

Accidents.

Prof. W. H. Ragsdale was run over by a bicycle rider Christmas eve, and one of his ankles badly wrenched in the fall he got from the collision. His injury kept him in doors for a couple of days.

John Allen Kinnion was thrown by a horse, Monday afternoon, and his head badly hurt.

J. B. White has one hand in mourning due to a Christmas sky rocket which went off before he could turn it loose.

Foster Quinn, Linda Smith and Levy Cox were all badly hurt Christmas day by cannon crackers being thrown under their feet. Marvin McCullen had one hand badly hurt by trying to hold a cracker while it exploded.

Christmas Trees.

The Baptist Sunday school had its Christmas tree on Friday night in the main auditorium of the church. The tree was cedar, handsomely decorated and beautifully illuminated with colored tapers. Santa Claus was there and the children were delighted both with the tree and the presents they received.

The Christmas tree for the Methodist Sunday school was in the Star Warehouse Monday night. This tree was a splendidly decorated holly, illuminated with Japanese lanterns. For an hour before the presents were distributed the children romped over the spacious floor and engaged in merry games. It was a joyous time for them.

Ten Days.

H. A. WHITE, Agent,
DEAR SIR:—Please accept our thanks for The Palatine's check for $800 in full settlement of policy held by us in this company. It took them ten days from date of fire to adjust and pay this claim. We think such promptness as this deserves patronage.

Yours very truly,

W. H. COX,
R. GREENE.

Much Danger About It

The recklessness with which fire works are exploded, especially cannon crackers, is creating a sentiment against their use. There were more windows broken and more people hurt this Christmas than we have known to occur here before. If fireworks are ever prohibited it will be due solely to the recklessness of those who use them, and they can only blame themselves.

Little Juliette Gillam Bernard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Bernard, gave her little friends a Christmas tree from 3 to 5 this afternoon.

The Aftermath of Bargains.

The Xmas trade has left many lots that must be closed out. This week will be a bargain week with us. Every Department particularly offers great values. Buyers are abroad in the town. Early and late they come. This store's share is daily increasing. The square methods, the worthy merchandise, the incomparable values, the complete stocks and the thorough service are the vital elements that contribute to our growing success. Mere words in the papers can't impress you properly. For deep inspiration, visit the store. The glow of activity; the intensity of the movement; the crowd of buyers speak more emphatically than we can write.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1897.

The Sunday papers had a long list of Christmas accidents and fires. The reckless indulgences practiced in these latter years surrounds the day with almost as much danger as pleasure.

A horrible disaster occurred at Asheville on Christmas day. A crowd of boys and young men went out to shoot an old cannon, and after firing it several times were about to reload when a 30-pound can of powder was exploded. No one was killed but thirty of the party were injured, several of them being terribly burned and maimed for life.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 27 '97.

"Wobbling Willie" is again being applied to Mr. McKinley as a nickname by members of his own party. The Republicans who still call themselves bimetalists have about decided that Mr. McKinley must either declare himself to be a gold monometalist or a bimetalist; they are tired of having him coddle them by talking bimetalism and then allowing Secretary Gage to publicly announce, without remonstrance, that the administration was for any and everything that was regarded as likely to help perpetuate the single gold standard. These men have quieted their constituents by assuring them of Mr. McKinley's sincere friendship for bimetalism, and his desire to aid in its restoration when the opportunity offered, and it was from Mr. McKinley himself that they got the impressions upon which those assurances were founded. Now they have doubts, and will demand that Mr. McKinley settle them once for all.

Mr. McKinley has been wobbling on the civil service rules quite as badly as upon finance, and he is likely to find himself brought to book on that subject soon after Congress resumes business. Just before Congress adjourned for the holidays, Mr. McKinley indicated, if he did not actually make the promise, to some of the Republicans who had been taking an active part in the movement to secure a non-civil service legislation, that he intended to issue an executive order that would remove from the protection of the civil service rules many of the offices that were included in Mr. Cleveland's extension of the rules. This week, with Congress away, Mr. McKinley told his Cabinet that he was inclined to stand pat on civil service and that while he might make some changes he did not expect to make any extensive modification of existing rules.

The joint sessions of the House and Senate Indian Committee, the object of which is to agree upon a single bill covering all the legislation for the Indian Territory and the five tribes of civilized Indians that this Congress will be asked to pass, have so far merely served to show how many divergent interests there are in this matter and how difficult it will be to draw a bill that will not be unjust to some of these interests.

The nomination of Mr. Charles Page Bryan to be minister to China, if persisted in by Mr. McKinley, may be the cause of a big fuss in the Senate. It has been represented to Mr. McKinley that the European grab game which is now being played in China makes it imperative that the U. S. minister to that country should be a man of wide diplomatic experience, and that Mr. Bryan lacks that qualification. Such Senators as Teller, Wolcott and Frye have announced their intention to fight the confirmation of Bryan, if Mr. McKinley sends it to the Senate in spite of the protests which have been made to him.

The Republican policy of cutting the appropriations regardless of what is needed, in order to try to help the Dingley tariff lessen that deficit nightmare, has been shown in a striking manner by the way in which the House committee on Appropriations treated the recommendations of the Secretary of the Interior, who had himself, under orders from the White House, cut the estimates of all his bureau chiefs. Everybody knows that the work of the Patent Office has steadily increased with the growth of the country, and perhaps everybody doesn't know, but it is true all the same, that the U. S. Government makes a profit out of the Patent Office, the amount to its credit at this time in the U. S. Treasury being in excess of $5,000,000. The Secretary of the Interior asked Congress to provide for just one half of the additional help that the Commissioner of Patents says is needed to get the business of the office up to date, and the House Appropriations Committee declined to provide any additional help at all, although the business of the office is now from two to six months behind. If a private business establishment refused to employ help enough to promptly handle its business, it would soon find that rivals were getting it away from it, but as the government has no rivals in this business those who have dealings with the Patent Office will have to grin and bear the delay until better business sense prevails in the House, unless the Senate comes to the rescue by properly amending the legislative, Executive and Judicial appropriation bill.

Every Republican office holder from Ohio, in Washington, who is supposed to have the slightest influence with the Republican members of the Ohio legislature has been ordered—not requested—to report at the Hanna headquarters in Columbus, for the purpose of helping the boss to land that Senatorial plum. Another proof that this is a civil service reform administration.

A Little Girl Wins the Prize.
 A prize was offered in the Methodist Sunday School to the scholar under 12 years of age who on the last Sunday in the year could recite all the golden texts for the year. This prize, a $5 gold coin, was awarded last Sunday to little Miss Nannie Johnson, daughter of Mr. Marion Johnson. She is the only one who knew all the golden texts, and it is a high compliment to her.

Prominent Tobacco Man Dead.

Many people in this section regret to hear of the sudden death of Mr. E. G. Barnes, of Henderson, which occurred a few days ago. He made several trips to Pitt county in the interest of Cooper's Warehouse, and was greatly liked here.

The young people had an impromptu old fashioned square dance in Germania hall Christmas night and the way they enjoyed it was just immense.

Call at the Reflector Book Store for ledgers and day books to start your new year's business.

Don't Tobacco Spit and Smoke Your Life Away.

MISPLACED SYMPATHY.

"I sympathize with your zeal," said Judge Lawrence in a New York court to a lawyer, "but think the time has arrived when we should realize that law is not made solely for the protection of criminals." This utterance ought to be printed in large letters and hung in every court house in the land. Sometimes it looks like there is such a tender solicitude for criminals that the public cannot get protection.—Raleigh News and Observer.

This is true. So much sympathy is showered on criminals and so much time taken up in weeping over their woes that there are no tears nor words of sympathy to spare for those whom the criminal has wronged. It reminds one of the story of the little boy who was crying pitifully when a sympathetic person approached and asked what the matter was. He replied, with a fresh burst of tears, that one of his playmates was dead. The kindly enquirer tried to comfort him but the boy stopped him to explain. He said the cause of his grief was not due solely to the fact that his playmate was dead, but that the deceased had owed him a quarter; and, as he fell to weeping again, he remarked that while all the dead boy's relatives and friends were weeping over him none of them would think about that quarter he owed him. So it is. While sympathy and aid are being lavished on murderers, bank robbers and other like criminals, none of the sympathizers appear to give any thought to the people they have murdered or robbed, or who in one way or another, while innocent themselves, are made to suffer by those who transgress human and divine law.—Statesville Landmark.

A Fable For Critics.

"What are you doing here?" asked the St. Bernard of his neighbor, at the bench show.

"Have I not as good a right to be here as you have?" returned the dachshund.

"Not on your life," said the St. Bernard. "You're a freak and your proper place is in a museum along with the educated pig and the two headed mule."

"I've got more good points than you have," ventured the other. "Rats!" growled the St. Bernard, and the terrier across the way pricked up his ears and became interested.

It came to pass, however, that they tied a blue ribbon to the short legged dog and the St. Bernard wasn't in it. Moral.—It isn't the outside of a watch that keeps the time.—Detroit Free Press.

Good Exercise.

"Met a man in the east who said he came from here," remarked the tenderfoot.

"Did you?" asked the westerner. "Yes. His name was Hiram Tompkins, and he told us that this was a great place for exercise."

"Exercise!" roared the westerner. "Well, I should think it was. The day he left we gave him ten min- utes' start and followed him with a rope. Exercise! Well, I guess he knew."—Chicago Post.
