ORIGINAL OBSERVATIONS.

Made by Orange Va., Observer.

Many a grocer keeps a half weigh house.

Life is like a team of horses, for life is but a span.

After the rain comes the shine—for the bootblack.

The very best horse has a hitch in his work now and then.

Yes, "there's music in the heir," especially about midnight.

The champagne of youth produces the real pain of age.

A bad man and a good hen are often laying for somebody.

If the doctor orders bark hasn't the patient a right to growl?

Go out West, young man, if you want to blow up with the country.

In sunshine and in rain the umbrella protects its borrower.

The bird family must have a jolly time, they have so many larks.

The prompt paying subscriber is a sugar beet; the delinquent is a dead beat.

And now a biscuit trust has been organized. It must be beaten in some way.

If a man has the rocks he can make a good foundation even in a sandy place.

A frown is the shadow of ill temper which shuts out the sunlight of the soul.

Commercial travelers should go to Burma—images of brass are worshipped in that country.

When he married her he exclaimed: "Won't last!" When he got a divorce he exclaimed: "One at last!"

A bill has been introduced in Congress by Senator Cannon to have the pension roll published. We hope no one will attempt to spike this Cannon.

A great deal has been written about learning to say no. If you would teach a man to say no, just ask him if he would like to pay that little bill today?

What this country is yearning for is a public school system which will teach the wives of the future that light house-keeping is something more than reading novels and starching their husbands' sacks.

A Mob in Marion's Jail.

Marion, Jan. 26.—This morning about 1 o'clock, a mob of masked men surrounded the jail with guns, pistols and sledge hammers. Four men with masked faces went to the sheriff's room and quietly woke him up and demanded Gus Harmon, the negro who attempted to assault Miss Minnie Cuthbertson, near Nebo, on Sunday, the 16th of this month. Sheriff Nichols had been informed by some one that a mob was likely to come at any time after the negro, and he had spirited him away to Asheville jail for safe keeping. The sheriff told the would-be lynchers that he had left the negro in the Asheville jail, yet they insisted on the sheriff's accompanying them around the cages and rooms to search, which they did.

After the mob had searched over the jail they seemed satisfied. They left town, firing several shots, thought to be signal shots, as part of the mob was in the suburbs of the town. It is thought there were about 75 of the mob. Much excitement has prevailed, but all is quiet now and in this case the law should be allowed to take its course.—Special to Charlotte Observer.

TWO FIRES AT BETHEL.

BETHEL, N. C., Jan. 28, 1898.

J. O. Highsmith and family have moved to Tarboro to live.

Mrs. Mollie Andrews and children, of Elizabeth City, are visiting relatives here.

Rev. D. B. Rickard filled his regular monthly appointment at the Baptist church Sunday.

J. R. Bunting, John Mayo, Jas. H. Taylor, W. J. James, T. W. Robertson and G. H. Andrews went to Williamston Tuesday night to attend a banquet given by the Masonic Lodge there. They returned Wednesday morning highly pleased with their trip.

Wednesday evening 'bout six o'clock the dining room and kitchen of the dwelling house of W. N. M. Hammond, near town, caught on fire. A large crowd soon gathered and put the fire out before much damage was done.

Last night about six o'clock the alarm of fire was given. It was soon found that the Keel dwelling on the corner of James and Tarboro streets was on fire. It had gained such headway when discovered it was impossible to save the building, and it was with great difficulty that any of the furniture was saved. The building was owned by J. C. & W. A. Taylor and was occupied by C. E. Philpot. The origin of the fire is a mystery as there had not been any fire in the building since Wednesday, and no one was in the building at the time the fire occurred. From the appearance of the fire it caught between the ceiling and the roof. The building was worth about $300, no insurance. Mr. Philpot lost all of his and his wife's cloths and twenty-five dollars in money and all his notes and other papers which was quite a loss.

Died.

At the home of her son-in-law, Mr. James Turnage, near Greenville, on Jan. 26th, Mrs. Louise Mobley, in her 83rd year. Mrs. Mobley was the mother of three children and the daughter of a Revolutionary soldier. She lived in the old Baptist faith and died a Christian. She was buried at the old family burying ground near Bear Grass. A few days before her death she had a dream to meet at Bear Grass church door, a place most dear to her. She with millions more of her faith are now basking in the smiles of a loving Father.

Hobson—"I undersand that Stringiman's bookkeeper has got a raise at last." Johnson—"Yes; he's gone to heaven."

Prospective Purchaser—"What's the matter with this phonograph cylinder? It's all battered up." Agent—"A tongue-tied man has been talking into the instrument."

Editor—"We don't want these jokes; they're a thousand years old." Silicus—"Well, can't you use them as reprints from the earliest numbers of your publication?"

Hoax—"Was BJones in when you called?" Joax—"Yes; but he was out when I left." Hoax—"What do you mean?" Joax—"I touched him for a fiver before I came away."

Blobbs—"What's the matter with you and Old Soak? Been drinking again?" De Tanque—"Yes; we followed the Scriptural advice and took a little wine for our stomachs' ache."

Simpkins—"Did you notice how sheepish Wigwag looked when I asked him how the fare was at his last boarding place?" Timkins—"No wonder. They fed him on mutton chops three times a day as long as he was there."

A New North Carolina Town.

The following appeared under the above head in last week's issue of the Manufacturer's Record published in Baltimore:

Winterville, N. C., is a new town on the Atlantic Coast Line built and supported almost entirely by manufacturing. It was founded about four years ago by Mr. A. G. Cox, and now has a population of several hundred. It is strictly a temperance town. Mr. Cox, the founder, inserting a temperance clause in all deeds. The Cox cotton planter, wagons, carts, wire fence, cigars and numerous smaller articles are manufactured. A large brick and tile yard runs in season. Ground will soon be broken for a carriage factory. There are also a saw mill and gin, with molding, bracket and planing machinery in operation. A cherooot factory will begin at an early day.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, Jan. 28, 98.

The gold standard crowd is on the run. The stampede began before the adoption of the Teller resolution by the Senate, but the knowledge that that resolution would be adopted, as well as the advice of the Republican Senators and Representatives from the middle west, convinced Mr. McKinley that the gold standard business would not go down, and that his party's only hope was to make a play to keep the bimetalists from deserting the Republican party in a body. The game was started when Mr. Preston, Director of the U. S. Mint, who had made himself particularly obnoxious to the silver men by his obtrusive advocacy of the gold standard, both under the Cleveland and the present administration, and whose work in that direction was referred to by Senator Wolcott in his recent speech, was bounced and the position given to a Republican bimetalist from Iowa. But the highest trump was played when Secretary Gage, the high priest of the goldocracy, was made to publicly say that Mr. McKinley was a bimetalist and was supported in that policy by every member of his Cabinet. Ye gods! think of that for a somersault.

The opinion is growing in Congress that the sending of that warship to Havana was the result of an understanding between the administration and Spain, and that its principal object there is to stave off Congressional action.

So long as President Dole, of Hawaii, who is now being entertained in Washington as the guest of the United States, contents himself with the social attentions that are being paid to him and his wife he will find everything lovely and the goose hanging high, but if he attempts to meddle with the annexation fight—he will find things very different.

During the discussion which preceded the adoption of the Teller resolution, declaring United States bonds payable in silver at the option of the government, Senator Teller forced Senator Allison, who voted for this same resolution in 1878 and now against it, to admit that it would be legal and proper for the Secretary of the Treasury to pay the obligations of the government in either gold or silver. Mr. Allison tried to qualify that admission with a lot of stuff about the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to maintain the parity of the two metals etc., but the admission was all that Mr. Allison's vote against the resolution after that admission to be made by that gentleman to the voters of Iowa. Although Senator Gorman pointed out that the pension appropriation bill as it came from the House carried about ten million dollars less than would be spent by the pension bureau during the fiscal year beginning July 1, next, and Senator Allen offered an amendment adding $7,000,000 to the total carried by the bill, no action was taken by the Senate to increase the appropriation and the bill was passed substantially as it came from the House. It is somewhat surprising that the Senate should even to this extent have helped along the republican policy of insufficient appropriations in order that the government finances may be made to appear better than they should be, for the purpose of bamboozling the voters at the Congressional elections. It is at this time absolutely known to officials of the pension bureau that a deficiency appropriation which may exceed $10,000,000, will have to be made by the next session of Congress to pay pensions.

Representative Richardson, of Tennessee, stirred up the Republican menagerie in the House by repeating the minstrel end man's joke about the only two things he ever saw that were exactly alike—the Cleveland panic and the McKinley boom; and when the Republicans started in to talk "prosperity," they were asked why that "prosperity" had brought on a strike of 125,000 cotton mill operatives in New England, and made quite a mess of their attempts to explain that unusual accompaniment of "prosperity." Grosvenor, of Ohio, got himself so tied up that he sought to escape by a bit of personal blackguardism—calling Greene, of Nebraska, a back-woodsman. He and his party will find lots of backwoodsmen of the same sort next November, and every one of them will cast an anti-Republican vote.

This is what Senator Teller said of this era of prosperity; "I do not know, perhaps, but I have tried to learn, I have given this question hours of study that few men have, and I believe that this is the great question; that the money question threatens not only this people, but the enslavement of mankind throughout the world. I said in 1893, to my countrymen: 'You are entering upon an era of industrial slavery such as the world has never seen.' Mr. President, it is here now. With all your boasted prosperity you are closing the mills of New England, and deducting from the wages of the laboring man 10, 15 and 20 per cent, and making it impossible for him to perform the duties of citizenship, and then you tell us that all these things are done in the interest of honor, and labor must stand it. But the bond holder gets the bounty."

The Women of Paris are Very Beautiful

"I like the way the French take their amusements," writes Miss Lillian Bell, in a letter from Paris to the February Ladies' Home Journal. "At the theatre they laugh and applaud the wit of the hero and hiss the villain. They shout their approval of a duel and weep aloud over the death of the aged mother. When they drive in the Bois they smile and have an air of enjoyment quite at variance with the bored expression of English Americans who have enough money to own carriages. We drove in Hyde Park in London the day before we came to Paris, and nearly wept with sympathy for the unspoken grief in the faces of the unfortunate rich who were at such pains to enjoy themselves. I never saw such handsome men as I saw in London. I never saw such beautiful women as I see in Paris. French men are insignificant as a rule, and English women are beefy and dress like rag-bags."

The Preston (Ia.) Times must be a headcoed paper. Its editor has just committed suicide. His predecessor did the same thing about a year ago, and at the same time got the scoop on his contemporaries, for he wrote up a full account of his suicide, put it on the copy hook and then went out and threw himself before a passing train, just as described in his article, which appeared next day—Wilmington Star.

The Penny in Church Collections.

"The important part which the penny plays in the average church offering is known to every one who has ever been interested in church finances," writes Edward W. Bok in the February Ladies' Home Journal. "And that it is part entirely out of proportion to the necessities, is felt and realized by many a church treasurer. Scores of people who could afford to drop a nickel or a dime into the church offering, content themselves by giving a penny. The feeling is either that the smallest offering 'will do,' or the matter of church finances is not given any thought. There is a failure to realize that a church is the same as any other business institution, and it must have money for its maintenance.

"There is such a thing as too liberal an interpretation of the phrase that 'religion is free.' Of course, it is free and let us hope that it will always be so in this country. But to make religion free costs money; and this isn't an Irish bull, either. There are those to whom more than 'the widow's mite, given to the church would mean doing without some absolute necessity of life. The penny of such a one is the most welcome gift to any church, the most noble offering which any one can make. But from those who can give more than a penny, and who are giving only the penny, such an offering is an insult to God and to His church, and the sooner people see the matter in this hard, true light the better. I am almost tempted to say that the great majority of churches could, with perfect justice, rule out the penny from their offerings. Were this done the nickel would be the prevailing offering, and to how few persons, when one stops to consider the question, would such an offering be a hardship or an impossibility? A yearly offering of two dollars and sixty cents, calculating that one attended church once each Sunday, or twice with one offering of five cents, would galvanize the church finances of this country."

Surprised to see Negroes in Charge of White Schools.

We frequently meet visitors from the north on our street who come here to escape the rigors of a northern winter. We met a gentleman recently from Boston who was pleased with our fine climate, but was surprised to learn that we had negro school committeemen over our white schools. The gentleman we talked with was a Republican in politics. He said that with all of Boston pretended love for the negro, such a thing would not be permitted. In our State elections hereafter the white people must vote as negroes do—solid. This is our only salvation. The Democrats are the real true friend of the negro. To them they are indebted for their schools. When you see a white Republican honeying around the negro, he is after office, and when he gets it he has no more use for him until next election.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH.

A Pleasant Simple, but Safe Efectual Cure for it.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloated sensation after eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs and difficult breathing; headache, fickle appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling. There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue, and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition. The cure for this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested before it has a time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surfaces of the stomach. To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do; and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harlanson the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Distaste, Aseptic Pepsin, a little Nux, Golden Seal and fruit acids. These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and, not being a patent medicine, can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their regular use after meals. Mr. N. J. Booher of 2710 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill., writes: "Catarrh is a local condition resulting from a neglected cold in the head, whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharge therefrom, passing backward into the throat, reaches the stomach, thus producing catarrh of the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me for three years for catarrh of stomach without cure, but today I am the happiest of men after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I cannot find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have found flesh, appetite and sound rest from their use. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest preparation as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for and form of indigestion, catarrh of stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating after meals. Send for little book, mailed free on stomach troubles, by addressing Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. The tablets can be found at all drug stores."

one reason for the marked increase in the number of suicides is that

Why Cold Harbor?

Coluber, from the snakelike winding of the Roman way at the point thus indicated. Coluber, the snake on the Roman standard there set up, Colubris arbor, the tree on which the serpent was lifted up. Col. arva, the fields of the Roman colony.
Col. in the same sense, but harbor left to find its own meaning of station, hereberg, auberge. Coal harbor, a port for ships bringing coal.
Coal harbor, a station where charcoal was stored. Coaled arberge, wood fuel. Caerberlarber, from caer, town, and arbar, camp; compare Clabber Napper's Hole, Gravesend, Cul arbar, a place of safety for grain. Cole harbor, a kailyard, from Teutonic kohl in succession to Latin caulis.

But the conclusion generally arrived at was that Cold Harbor meant pretty much what it appeared to mean—that cold was cold, whether to be enjoyed or to be protected from, and harbor was harbor, whether originally justifying its etymological signification of a military post or approaching more nearly to the place where one "may find his warmest welcome," as in a Kalten herberg of the present day.— Notes and Queries.

Baltimore and Lafayette.

"It is a fact not generally known," says the Baltimore Sun, "that when Lafayette was camping in the city with his troops during the war of the Revolution his own tent was pitched where the cathedral now stands. Lafayette recognized the place and mentioned the fact referred to when he visited Baltimore in October, 1824, and was the guest of the city for several days. He spent a Sunday in Baltimore on that occasion and attended services at the cathedral in the forenoon, after which, as is stated in The Federal Gazette of Oct. 11, 1824, he proceeded to Belvedere, the seat of his old companion in arms, Colonel John Eager Howard, and partook of a col-ation."

THEY ATE HORSEFLESH.

The General's Guests Got the Meat They Were Asked to Eat, but Didn't Know It.

A man who distinguished himself as a commanding officer in the rebbellion was lunching with several brokers in Broad street when the conversation turned on the relative merits of French and American cooking, and he said:

"In my opinion the French cooks lead the world, and they have shown us that many things are edible which we never dreamed of serving on our tables. I noticed an account in the newspapers of a horse meat dinner that was given in Williamsburg by a freak club, and it recalled a little experience of my own. The French people do not look upon horseflesh with the aversion of the average American. I do not mean to say that horse meat is considered a choice article of diet in Paris, but it is used there to a certain extent. I happened to be in Paris 15 years ago, and several of my friends there assured me that horse meat might be prepared in a very appetizing fashion for the table. I was curious to try it, and I invited a dozen people to breakfast on horse meat with me at my hotel. My guests were all Americans, and they were all anxious to see what cooked horse meat looked like, though they were doubtful about eating it. I got an excellent steak of horseflesh and another of beef, so that my guests need not go home hungry if they didn't choose to eat the horse meat.

"When we were all seated at the table, I told the waiters to serve the breakfast. In came a steak, and my guests eyed it closely. It was nicely cooked, and when it was served four or five of the men present just tasted it and then pushed their plates away.

"I can imagine, general," said one of them, "that if I had been cooped up in this city during the siege, when the provisions ran low, I might get hungry enough to enjoy this horse steak. It is beautif-fully cooked, but of course one notices at once that it doesn't taste like beef. In fact, I would be obliged to you if your waiter would remove it.
I am satisfied at being able to say that I sat down to a horse steak breakfast in Paris."

"Several of the other guests said much the same thing and the offending steak was removed. Then came the other steak and my guests ate a hearty breakfast.

"Unless it comes to a case of famine," said one, "this beef is good enough for me. I don't want to try any more horseflesh."

"When every one had lighted his cigarette after breakfast, I said that I had a confession to make. I told my guests that they had been invited to come and eat horseflesh, and they had eaten it and pronounced it good. I informed them that the first steak which they ordered off the table was beef, and that the second, which they had enjoyed so thoroughly, was horseflesh. The looks of amazement faded into disgust, and then I said:

"Now, look here! There is no occasion for you to look disgusted. A horse is more discriminating in what he eats than a cow, and there is no reason why horseflesh should not be just as wholesome as beef.
Your enjoyment of it has shown that it is a foolish prejudice that prevents it from becoming a staple article of food. I haven't fooled you under false pretenses. You were invited to eat horseflesh and you have done it."

"It was several days before my guests forgave me, and since that time I have lost all sympathy for persons who were compelled because of famine to eat horseflesh."

Black Chalk.

It is often extremely desirable to obtain black chalk, and a simple process for preparing this useful article is convenient to have in one's scrapbook. Take pulverized ordinary chalk and mix it with a strong de-coction of logwood. The addition either of chromate of potassium or green vitriol solution will cause the logwood to become intensely black.
A pasty mass is formed that molds very readily into crayons or pencils, and these, when dried, are fit for use. The addition of an extremely small amount of gum arabic water is suggested, but the amount must be so small as to be scarcely appreciable, else the pencils will be so hard as to be almost useless. For ordinary work on hard substances the gum is desirable, but if the pencils are wanted for paper or cardboard the simple chalk and logwood solution will be most satisfactory.—New York Sun.

Over the Line.

On Wednesday, 26th, Mr. Mack Mobley, of Martin county and Mrs. Chrissie Baker, of Pitt county, were married by Esquire J. R. Mobley, a son of the groom. The bride lived just over the county line in Pitt, and the groom only a short distance from the county line in Martin. As marriage licenses are cheaper in Martin than they are in Pitt it was decided that the bride go over to the home of the groom for the ceremony to be performed so they might get the benefit of the lower license. This marriage gives the bride her third husband and the groom his second wife.

Almost a Fire.

W. A. Bowen moved back into the store under Germania hall, Friday afternoon. His force was working at night getting the stock fixed up when the over head ceiling caught fire from a swinging lamp. It was put out without any damage or alarm.

No Pay in Cotton.

One good farmer suggests that if the farmers want cotton to look at it will be cheaper to save some of last years crop than to undertake to raise more this year at less than cost. The farmer who made this suggestion now has all of his last year's cotton crop on hand and will probably not cultivate any cotton this year.

Home Made Fertilizers

The work some farmers in the county are doing indicates that there are going to make more fertilizers on their farms for the next crop and buy less of the commercial kind. Five cent cotton don't leave much margin to pay for fertilizers.
