WEDNESDAY, MARCH 2, 1898.

We sometimes read short, terse sayings of great men that are preserved after the authors have passed away. How would it do to salt down Gov. Russel's expression "Hancock is a liar," to be handed out to future generations?

J. E. Alexander, who has been serving as private secretary to Gov. Russel, has resigned and is succeeded by Rev. Baylus Cade. May be the Rev. Cade can keep his chief from "cussin" even if he fails to make any other reformation in him.

The war cloud is fast blowing over and the country is settling back to its usual routine every day affairs. The last news from the Maine disaster is that the court of inquiry is going back to Havana and nothing in the way of a report need be looked for short of two or three weeks. And when that report comes out, if any ever reaches the public, it will amount to practically nothing. It will tell about what the people knew the next morning after the disaster—that the Maine is destroyed, a quarter of a thousand of our people killed, and the government out of pocket several millions of dollars. So those who have been spreading on war paint had just as well rub it off and get to work at something else. There is not going to be any war over the Maine disaster.

The postmaster general has ordered the discontinuance of the postoffice at Lake City, S. C., where the colored postmaster was killed by a mob a short time ago.

An exchange says that a set of swindlers are sending out circulars promising "in order to introduce the goods," to send to any address postage prepaid, ten yards of red, brown or green silk for $1. The eager victims, who are many, receive ten yards of silk from the spool.

The attorney general has designated the State prison at Raleigh as a place for the detention of all persons convicted in the federal courts of the State and sentenced for terms exceeding one year e.g., retailers and others. It is not thought that any removals will be made of those already serving terms in Albany.

The state auditor has issued warrants for $20,000 for new buildings and improvements at the white institution for the blind at Raleigh, $8,000 for the institution for the negro deaf mutes and blind at Raleigh and $10,000 for the school for deaf mutes at Morganton.

The more one thinks over the statement of Senor Du Bose, in which he asserted that no mines exist in or near Havana harbor, the more does the probability of its truthfulness impress itself on the mind. The solemn asseveration of the Spanish representative which was official in fact, though not in form—should be entitled to full faith and credit, even if uncorroborated; but there are so many arguments in favor of its intrinsic verity that the absence of submarine Spanish mines at Havana may be accepted as one of the established facts connected with the Maine tragedy. The approach to Havana from the sea is through a tortuous channel, exposed at every point to the fire of the land batteries, making the planting of mines supererogatory. In any event there was no imaginable military necessity for mining the inner harbor where the Maine lay. It would have been quite as foolish for the Spaniards to place high explosives in a frequented anchoring ground within a stone's throw of the wharves of Havana as it would be for us to fill the Delaware at foot of Market street with torpedoes. —Philadelphia Record.

Easy Cure for Dyspepsia

"As painful and annoying dyspepsia is, it may be easily and quickly cured if the sufferer will only be careful in his daily diet," writes Mrs. S. T. Rorer in the March Ladies Home Journal. Abstain for a given time from all solid foods. Live for at least one week on milk, one-quarter barley water, or koumyss. Then, as the stomach grows stronger take pure milk, sipping it and swallowing it slowly. You may take also the raw white of an egg shaken with a cup of milk. Barthelow's food, plum porridge, a little scraped beef broiled, and finally broiled beef, boiled rice and pulled bread. A glass of cool, not iced, water should be taken the first thing in the morning. A cup of warm, not hot, water half an hour before breakfast. For breakfast three ounces of milk mixed with one ounce of barley water. This schedule should be followed every three hours throughout the entire day for one week, taking the last glass of milk half an hour before bedtime. Koumyss may be substituted for the milk or used alternately.

That dog Killer.

Some weeks ago an animal visited Winston and proceeded to kill dogs. About a dozen dogs were slaughtered there by the beast.

A short time since an animal visited Brooklyn, a suburb of Raleigh, and killed four dogs.

Now a special from Weldon to the Richmond Times says: A strange animal is creating much excitement in Northampton county. It devours dogs, pigs and almost anything it gets its claws upon.

"A citizen a few nights ago ran out in his yard, and when he heard his dog whining piteously, and saw the creature leap over the fence. He fired a shot at it, but apparently without effect. Some people think it is a large wildcat.

"At several farm houses where it has appeared the head and bones of animals have been left to tell the tale of its visit.

"Children are kept close, for fear it may attack them, and several people are hunting the animal-eating animal."

It is not that she's contrary, But, through sudden riches, she, Who was once plain Ellen Mary, Now is Eleanore Marie.

A PECULIAR FACT.

Thousands of People Have Dyspepsia in Its worst Form and Do Not Know It.

A weak stomach is the cause of about nine-tenths of all disease, yet in most cases the wrong thing is treated and the true cause overlooked.

This is because a weak digestion produces symptoms resembling nearly every disease because it weakens and disturbs the action of every nerve and organ in the body; poor digestion causes heart trouble, kidney troubles, lung weakness and especially nervous break down or nervous prostration, the nerves cannot stand the wear and tear unless generously fed by well digested, wholesome food.

Keep the digestion good and no one need fear the approach of disease.

Mrs. H. M. Lee, of Rochester, N. Y., writes: For the sake of suffering humanity I want to say that from a child I had very weak stomach, threw up my food very often after eating and for more than twenty years I have suffered inexpressibly.

I tried my physicians and advertised remedies with only temporary relief for nervous dyspepsia and not until I commenced taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets last September, six months ago, have I been free from suffering caused by the condition of my nerves and stomach; in short, chronic nervous dyspepsia.

I have recommended Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to many of my friends and now I want in a public way to say they are the safest, pleasantest and I believe surest cure for stomach and nerve troubles. I write my honest opinion and I will gladly answer any letter of inquiry at any time, and feel that I am in my small way, helping on a good cause.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is not a patent medicine, but they contain only the fruit salts, digestive acids and peptones necessary to help the weak stomach to promptly and thoroughly digest food.

All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at 50 cents for full sized package and anyone suffering from nervous dyspepsia, sour stomach, headaches, acidity, gases, belching, etc., will find them not only a quick relief but a radical cure.

Send to Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. for little book describing cause and cure of stomach troubles giving symptoms and treatment of the various forms of indigestion.

The Future Depends Upon Democratic Leaders.

It is high time for the people of North Carolina who wish to see the State honored and prosperous to get together. Let the Democratic party nominate honest pure progressive business men as their leaders in the next campaign and put the party on record as standing "flat footed" for decency, honesty, economy and progressiveness, and it will draw to its ranks thousands of honest men from the other parties, men who appreciate that the present administration has set the state back many years, and that another victory for fusion would mean ruin. The future of this State depends upon the Democratic leaders, we trust they will be governed by wise counsels. —Rocky Mount Argonaut.

Good

Gen. Wade Hampton's ideas about the South's duty in the events of war with Spain are not American. We are not urging anybody to go to war; war is no frolic; as Gen. Sherman said "war is hell;" but to say that if it should come the South's only proper part would be no part at all and that it should stand off and lock on, is to say that the South is not, except for utilitarian purposes a part of the American Union. The doctrine will not do. We are Southerners but we are also Americans.—Charlotte Observer.

THE TIDY HUSBAND.

He is Even More Exasperating Than the One Who is Absolutely Careless.

Is there anything more trying on this earth than a "tidy" husband—that is to say, the man who thinks himself the very pink of perfection, as far as neatness goes, and yet who has absolutely no idea of orderliness? His own belongings, clothes, pipes, books, etc., are allowed to lie all over the house, and an attempt to put these in their right places brings down a torrent of grumbling on his wife.

"Why cannot she mind her own business? Is nothing private from a woman's prying and curiosity? Let her confine herself to her own duties, which would certainly be improved by a little more care," etc.

But other people's untidiness—ah, that is a theme upon which he is never weary of talking, and periodically he has fits of tidying up at home, where life for those in the house is one long weariness!

Then nothing is private from his prying and curiosity. Books and papers are carefully sorted out and put back in the wrong places; those which his wife has especially laid by for future reference are either tied up with the waste paper to be sold or sent out to the kitchen to be burned; letters are torn up indiscriminately, whether they are answered or not; the cupboard shelves are packed with a lot of rubbish which is really useless and which was only waiting an opportunity to be got rid of, and for the next few weeks confusion reigns supreme. Nothing can be found when it is wanted because everything has been put just where it shouldn't be.

When he has tired of making himself thoroughly objectionable down stairs, he goes up stairs and turns out all his boxes and drawers and leaves them, for his fit of tidiness does not last sufficiently long to allow of his reducing the muddle he has made to neatness. That is for his wife to do later on.

With a duster, too, he goes about flicking up imaginary particles of dust which don't exist, and a piece of string or a reel of cotton out of place apparently causes him agony and is the subject of a long homily on "the amount of rubbish which is allowed to accumulate unless there is some one to take an interest in the house."

There are generally premonitory symptoms to warn the observant wife that the fit is coming on—a restlessness, an aimless moving of the ornaments on the mantelpiece and the reiterated question, "Where is that book (or that paper) that I was reading?" He sighs frequently, too—a sigh of weariness and hopelessness—as a man who battles unsuccessfully with the faults and failings of others. His face wears a wearied and heartbroken expression, and little frowns appear on his forehead. He refuses to make or join in any lengthy conversation, talking only in snatches and then on the most gloomy subjects. He even heaves against his favorite pipe, which refuses to "draw," and he spoils six matches for every one that he lights, and by the next morning his malady is fully developed, and as soon as breakfast is over he begins to "tidy up."

But, although one may see the outbreak, it is difficult to know just how to check it, and indeed it is often wise to accept it as an inevitable discomfort. There are so many worse cranks which he might take up, and, as we are all supposed to be slightly mad on one subject at least, a mania for tidiness—in other people—is at most a harmless idiosyncrasy.

If the fit threatens to be a very bad one, it may be rendered less severe by extra sweetness and kindness of manner, by an excellent dinner or by the judicious leading of the thoughts in another direction.

Or the wife may anticipate her husband and have a "tidying up" spell on her own account. The bustling about, the extra dust—which can always be raised if one goes the right way to work—with a few gloomy references to a "good clean up," will usually so tire him out that he will be only too glad to allow things to stay as they are, that he may enjoy a little peace and quietness.—Philadelphia Times.

THE YELLOW FLAG.

Plan of an Artist by Which He Saves Himself From His Friends.

An artist whose habits are convivial, but who is willing to work if no one calls on him, removed to a suburban town last summer so that he might finish a lot of illustrations which he had promised.

"New York is all right," he said to his friends, "but I know too many people here, and my friends keep calling on me in my studio, and this sadly interferes with my work. I have selected Lonelyville because my wife likes it and I know absolutely no one in the place. I have orders for a year's work, and I simply must do it on time. You fellows may come out to see me on Sundays, but not on weekdays."

Several weeks later some of his friends from New York went out to see the artist on Sunday and they found him enthusiastic about the place.

"There is a fine lot of fellows here," he said, "and I have enjoyed the town immensely. I have joined a yacht club, a bowling club, a whist club and a Saturday night smoker club. Found several old friends out here also."

"But I thought that you came here so that you might do your work without interruption," said one of his callers.

"Well, yes, that was my reason, and as soon as I have met all the boys and each of them has made his call on me I can settle down and make up for lost time."

A month later the publishers for whom this artist worked began to complain that they had received no illustrations from him. The artist made promises and broke them. Finally one of the publishers went out to Lonelyville to investigate. He found that the artist was out yachting. He waited for him, and then laid down the law to him.

"This book must come out on time," said the publisher, "and I will give you just one month more on which to finish your illustrations. If they are not done then, we will get another man and never give you any more work."

When the publisher went, the artist said to his wife: "Now what am I going to do about this? I can't possibly tell my friends to stay away for a month. They wouldn't understand my purpose. The committee from the yacht club is coming here tomorrow afternoon, and on the following day I expect some of the whist club men, and so it goes. What am I to do?"

The artist's wife was ingenious, and she explained a little scheme of her own to her husband. When the committee from the yacht club called the following day, they saw a big, yellow flag flying over the door. Underneath it was a big placard on which was printed: "Keep off. Contagious disease here." They did keep off, and soon all Lonelyville knew about it. The local health officer went around to investigate, and after a short conversation with the artist's wife he went away with a broad smile on his face. When the other inhabitants of Lonelyville questioned him about the case, he looked serious and said that he was not at liberty to say what the disease was, but that no one was likely to catch it unless he went into the house. During the next month that flag waved and no one saw the artist. The publisher got his illustrations, and then the flag was hauled down, and the health officer announced that it would be safe to call on the artist. His friends in the town came around to see him and congratulate him on his recovery. He didn't look like a man who had been through a serious illness.

"What was the disease?" they asked.

"Loafing," said the artist seriously. He then explained that he had quarantined the house not against loafing within, but against his friends who might come and infect him with it. The idea of the yellow flag impressed his acquaintances and in accordance with their advice the artist still uses it. Four or five days a week this flag flies before his door, and none of his friends calls. As soon as it is hauled down they know that the artist is ready to receive them and they call. The artist's publishers heard of it, and as an evidence of their gratitude they sent him a big yellow silk flag which hasn't its equal in Lonelyville.—New York

 Work will soon commence on two or three more handsome residences here.
 There is no telling what a day may bring forth, especially in the way of weather.
 It is not so much what you advertise, as it is the way you advertise, that brings trade.

Everybody who wants to go to the Newbern fair is wishing for pretty weather tomorrow.

D. D. Gardner, Mrs. W. D. Gardner and Miss Rosa Garris left Tuesday evening for Newbern to attend the fair.

Manager Atkins is having a new telephone directory printed. It includes all the branch lines connected with the Greenville exchange.

Have your laundry ready to go off Wednesday morning. You get the best work done at the Wilmington Steam Laundry.

W. F. PREDDY, Agent.

She Ran Away.

Some people run away, or elope, if you please to get married, but only a few run away to avoid marriage. This is precisely what Mr. W. T. Goins' intended bride did, according to the facts before us. Mr. Goins, who lives a few miles from town, expected to marry last Thursday, and had his plans fixed for the occasion, so he thought. When he came to town to marry he found that his girl had concluded to remain single, and not wishing to disappoint Mr. Goins in a personal refusal, made her escape under cover of the Wednesday night darkness. Her name is Miss Susie Goins, and the total number of her summers amounts to something above the half century mark, while Mr. Goins is not much younger.—Carthage Urit.

MARCH HARES

Were the Running Kind, but These Folks Go Slower.

Jesse Speight went to Bethel today.
 Joe Jacobi, of Wilmington, is in town.

L. I. Moore returned Tuesday evening from New Orleans.

W. G. Lamb and Gideon Lamb, of Williamston, came in Tuesday evening.

Miss Ruth Harris, of Wilmington, who has been visiting Mrs. H. A. White, returned home today.

Bryan Gardner, of Griton, spent today here. Being the first trip since his marriage his host of friends were extending congratulations.

Leg Broken

We learn that Mr. J. L. Hearne, of Center Bluff, while riding a bicycle, fell and broke his leg. We could not learn full particulars or how badly he was injured.

Court a Day Late

There will be no court next week until Tuesday morning, owing to Judge Bryan not being able to get here earlier than Monday evening. Jurors and witnesses need not come on Monday.

The Solicitorship

There promises to be a lively contest for the solicitorship in the third district in which Wheeler Martin, Esq., has been appointed to succeed Claude Bernard. Martin will be the Republican candidate and hopes to get the Populist support. The Populists claim the place and desire W. S. Bailey, of Nash. There will be several Democratic aspirants for the nomination, among them Capt. W. B. Shaw, of Henderson, who is one of the original silver men of the State.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Don't Wait for the Rush.

Agent J. R. Moore says he will open the ticket office at the depot early tomorrow morning so as to give people going on the excursion to the Newbern fair ample time to get their tickets without being in a rush. Those who are going should not wait until the last minute to get to the depot and then expect the train to be held for them to procure tickets. Go soon enough to avoid the rush. If any who go on the excursion wish to remain longer than one day at the fair they can return on any regular train within the limit of the ticket.

STATE NEWS.

The central portion of the State had light snow Monday afternoon.

The building and machinery of the Cummock coal mines, near Colton, were destroyed by fire Sunday.

On Monday two prisoners in the Charlotte city prison attempted to commit suicide. Both were confined for drunkenness.

The autocrat of the breakfast table nowadays is the servant girl.

A downtown reading room displays the sign; "No reading allowed."

Wigwag—"Yes; it's a valuable property, but not many years ago I could have had it for a mere song." Hobson—"Why didn't you take it?" Wigwag—"I couldn't strike the right notes."

Notice of Dissolution.

The firm of the Greenville Supply Co. composed of J. W. Higgs and W. F. Morrill is this day dissolved by mutual consent, W. F. Morrill withdrawing from the firm. J. W. Higgs will continue the business under the same firm name and assumes all liabilities and all accounts are to be paid to him.
