Senate and Congress Adopt Resolution for Armed Intervention

CABINET PREPARING ULTIMATUM.

The London Opinion that it Precludes Peace. Spain Continues War Preparations. McKinley Cheers Troops.

After the REFLECTOR had gone to press Monday evening another telegram was received stating that the Senate resolution as amended by the House had been reported back to the Senate. Senator Davis moved to concur in the House amendment, but his motion was lost by a vote of 32 to 46. The matter was then referred back to the House, when Representative Dingley moved that the House insist on its amendment and ask for a conference. The resolutions were then turned over to a conference committee of both the House and Senate.

TUESDAY, APRIL 19, 1898.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, April 15th '98.

The Spanish "manana" (tomorrow) has been entirely too conspicuous in Washington during the week just passed. It may not be true that the administration is scheming for further delay, but it is quite certain that it did nothing to try to prevent the waste of four precious days by Senators in talking without saying anything that had not been said before by themselves or by others. It is equally certain that the Senators who were most anxious for delaying the final vote upon the resolution authorizing the use of the army and navy and the militia of the several states to force the Spaniards out of Cuba were those who have stuck the closest to Mr. McKinley since the Cuba business began, and the same crowd, now that the Senate has adopted a resolution differing from the House resolution in several particulars, notably the recognition of Cuban independence, are trying to secure more delay by bringing about a deadlock between the House and Senate. What could have been done in an hour has been dragged along an entire week. It is enough to make men suspect trickery somewhere, even if they can't exactly locate it.

Mr. McKinley claims that he is anxious to go right ahead and drive the Spaniards out of Cuba just as soon as Congress clothes him with the necessary authority, and it may be that he is, but the action of Hanna and his peace-at-any-price associates in the Senate in scheming in every conceivable manner to get delay will make the claim doubted by some until actual proof is given by orders to the fleet at Key West and the soldiers now being gathered at southern ports. Every way one turns he's confronted by an "if," just now. It Mr. McKinley acts upon that resolution he will please the country; if he should exercise his constitutional right to hold it ten days before signing it, he would rouse the country to a state of indignation.

Nothing manlier nor truer has been said during this session of Congress than the reply of Representative Bailey, of Texas, to the taunt that he had lost his head, when he hotly replied to what he characterized as ungentlemanly interruptions on the part of Representative Dalzell, of Pa. "That a man may lose his temper under very great provocation," said Mr. Bailey, "is a very natural thing; but men may lose their tempers and still not lose their heads. But if in order for a man to preserve his equanimity and appear cool he must allow insults to pass unanswered, then I prefer to be classed with those who lose their heads. I would infinitely rather lose my head in resenting an insult than to lose my self respect by submitting to one."

Senator Money apologized to the Senate for having been unparliamentary in calling Senator Wellington a liar when the latter charged that the former had gone to Cuba as agent for a newspaper, but he did not and has not apologized to Wellington. On the contrary, he took especially pains to emphasize his personal responsibility outside of the Senate chamber for the language. There is probably not a man in the Senate who is so absolutely friendless as Wellington, and it is all his own fault too. It seems impossible for him to let an opportunity go by to make a monkey of himself. He alone of all the Senators said in his speech that we have no reason or cause to fight Spain.

Although there have been all sorts of denials concerning an attempted European intervention by force at the last minute to prevent the United States taking Cuba away from Spain, it is a fact that members of the administration have been sounded by European diplomats for the purpose of ascertaining how a bluff at forcible intervention on the part of the so-called "concerted powers" of Europe would be received. So the credit of the men who were approached it can be stated that every one of them promptly replied that any bluff of that kind would be at once called that it would be an infringement on the Monroe doctrine that would not, could not, be tolerated by any American administration. Archbishop Ireland took that view from the first, and informed the Pope that the United States would brook no European interference; that whatever could be accomplished by European influence would be in Spain. The Archbishop, who was in Washington for about ten days, has gone away thoroughly convinced that American occupation of Cuba is now absolutely sure to come. He has so informed the Pope, and it is believed has suggested that the Pope endeavor to persuade Spain to peaceably surrender Cuba and not wait to be driven out.

Fitz Lee hasn't lost any of the hard horse sense for which his friends have so long admired him. He couldn't avoid the impromptu serenade given him when he first arrived in Washington, but when invited to a reception to be held in his honor by Union and Confederates he declined. Wise Fitz. He knows that the pressure that is being brought to bear in favor of his being put in command of the troops to be sent to Cuba has already aroused political jealousy, and he will not give them a chance to say that he is trying to push himself. He has been assigned a room in the Department of State, in order that the administration may avail itself of his knowledge of Cuban affairs so long as it may be necessary.

Maj. Gen Fitzhugh Lee

Before leaving this city he had a long conference with Secretary of War Alger, and it was arranged that General Lee should be commissioned a major general in the United States Army, and be placed in command of a division of the army for the invasion of Cuba.

The fact was also developed at the conference that Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt has made application for appointment on General Lee's staff, and that it will be acted upon favorably if Secretary Roosevelt does not withdraw it, which is not likely.

As commander of the division which will invade Cuba, General Lee and his men will be in the thickest of the fight, so far as the land forces are concerned, a fact which General Lee evidently desires very much, and his promise ("we will see you later") spoke to the Spaniards composing the mob on the wharves at Havana, when the Fern left, hurled insults at General Lee and the other American passengers, will be faithfully carried out, no doubt much to the general's satisfaction.

Our Sorry "Diplomacy"

American diplomacy has seldom seen so signal a failure as in the case of our recent negotiations, with Spain. The policy of the President and the State Department has possessed neither the firmness that characterized the American policy in the Venezuelan affair nor the adroit finesse, of which the European diplomats are masters. The effort of Day and Woodford have only served to complicate the situation and delay its settlement. In spite of the "time" that has been granted, in spite of the fact that the State Department has shown us time and again the good intentions of the Spaniards, Spain has not complied with a single one of the American propositions. McKinley and Day diplomacy has settled nothing, and Congress is called upon to deal with the questions just as if diplomacy had never been brought into play.

The McKinley-day brand of diplomacy is not to be recommended either for its soothing qualities or its effectiveness. —Charlotte News.

Water as a Stimulant.

According to the People's Health Journal of Chicago, water has properties not generally credited to it either by temperance people or toppers. It would seem that water sipped acts as a powerful stimulant to the circulation, a thing which is not true of ordinary drinking. "During the act of sipping the action of the nerve which shows the beats of the heart is abolished, and as a consequence that organ contracts much more rapidly, the pulse beats more quickly and the circulation in various parts of the body is increased." But this is not all: "A glass of cold water slowly sipped, will produce greater acceleration of the pulse for a time than will of wine or spirits taken at a draught." It is added that "it may not be out of place to mention in this connection that sipping cold water will often allay the craving for alcohol in those who have been in the habit of taking too much of it and who may be endeavoring to reform, the effect being probably due to the stimulate action of the sipping." If this be true, both drinking men and prohibitionists can find a common meeting place and can toast each other in bumpers of sparkling water. The bon vivant can secure the exhilarating effect which he loves simply by sipping the great temperance beverage, and the total abstainer, who has heretofore, possibly, envied the dram drinker's lively experiences, can indulge in the wildest and most harmless sort of a "jag" by slowly absorbing his favorite tippie.—Baltimore Sun.

"Low is it," asks the Brideburg Benedict, "that you always get a tickling in your throat at night, and want to cough awfully only when the baby is restless, and the least noise would waken him?"

The War Scare Hurts Business

The merchants report that the prospect of war with Spain is knocking the spots out of business.

The fact is many persons in the city who intended to build or make improvements, are holding off, feeling that the situation points inevitably to hostilities. Several enterprises are held in abeyance and several persons who contemplated building or making improvements at the seaside resorts will not do so for the present.—Wilmington Messenger.

Evidence of an attempt to bribe members of a Brooklyn grand jury, so direct and convincing
that the person employed to do the work has made confession of his crime, is a late metropolitan sensation. Bribery is not unusual; but it is one of the most furtive and unprovable crimes.
The confession of guilty parties in this city and in Brooklyn should lead to the conviction and punishment of both the tools and
the more culpable principals behind them. If the men who make the laws and the Courts
that construe them are to be bought and sold in the markets
by unscrupulous knaves who go unwhipped of justice there will be no safety for life or property.—

There Was a Bond.

There was a man leaning up against a lamp post on Jefferson avenue, near Second street, seemingly gazing afar and having a lot of thoughts on his mind, when he was approached by a second man who had stood for half an hour almost opposite him with his back to a building.

"Say!" said the second man, "I've been watching you for some time."
"Yes, and I've been looking at
you," was the reply.

"I believe there's some sort of
bond between us."

"Yes, mebbe."

"Are you a stranger in town?"

"Yes."

"So'm I. Out of a job?"

"Yes."

"So'm I. Got any money?"

"Not a red."

"Neither have I. Want something

"Of course."

"So do I. Got a bed for to-night?"

"Noap."

Caffeine.

One of the principal sources of the supply of caffeine in England is the sweeping of tea from the floors of the various docks, wharves and warehouses in London. These sweep-ings aggregate about 675,000 pounds
of tea annually, or, with the dirt, nails, hoop iron and wood which get mixed with the tea, to about 400 tons. The loss to tea importers annually is about $125,000. The sweepings have naturally a fair proportion of good to fine grade teas
mixed with them, and consequently contain a larger amount of the active principles of tea, called by chemists
"caffeine," than the low quality teas.
The sweepings cost the chemists only about half a cent per pound.

EXPERIENCE

Is a Good Teacher

A VOICE FROM SALISBURY.

Salisbury, N. C., Dec. 4, 1897. From my own experience I have found Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy the best medicine known for building up the health in general. The greatest remedy in the world for dyspepsia, eczema, aches and pains and breaking up colds. Nine years ago I suffered with a chronic cold which resulted in a bronchial affection and repeated serious troubles of the throat, which was alarming. I was affected with something like croup and again and again for years was subject to attacks of laryngitis I tried Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy and am now free of all those troubles and have been ever since and feel confident the Remedy has made the cure. I have kept it in my family for years and have always found it invaluable for old and young. The extraordinary effect of this grand remedy is sure to be realized by all who give it a fair trial.

Sincerely,

MRS. M. E. RAMSAY.
