BLOODY CONFLICT

Americans Have Taken Santiago

As was expected there has been some severe fighting at Santiago. The battle began in earnest Friday morning and all day long there was a fierce conflict. The American forces drove the Spanish troops from the outposts in the suburbs and themselves took possession of the entrenchments. At sunset the fighting ceased, and while the American casualties reached upwards of 400, not many of them killed, however, it was a great victory for our army.

All night long after the fight the Americans threw up new earth works and strengthened their position for the next day's conflict. Saturday morning fighting was resumed and the engagement was really more bloody than on the previous day. This fight continued thirty-six hours and resulted in the killing of 8,000 Spaniards and wounding 2,000 more. The American loss was 1,000 killed.

Shatter's army showed an abundance of nerve and grit and rained a constant fire on the enemy, making a steady advance all the time. Everything in sight was taken.

While the land forces were engaged Sampson forced an entrance into the harbor and captured Cervera's fleet.

Bullets That Carry Poison

Washington, D. C. July 2.—Some of the Mauser bullets used by the Spaniards in fighting our marines at Caimanera, Guantnamo, were received at the Navy Department today, and excited indignation because they were encased in a brass jacket, which first tears and then poisons the wound. They are as bad as explosive bullets, condemned in civilized warfare.

Anchored Outside Egyptian Waters

London, July 2.—Lloyd's agent at Port Said, telegraphing at 4:20 p. m. today, says the Spanish fleet is anchored outside Egyptian waters and is engaged in coaling.

Natural Born Fighters

Poultney Bigelow writes to the London Times from the American army: "What is this war about?" If I heard it once I heard it a dozen times among the regulars in and about Tampa. "What is this war about, anyway?" The idea of liberating Cubans or negroes did not seem to them to be a very good one. The idea of adding more exotic citizens to the already painfully conglomerate mass of voters seemed of even less value.

There was not, so far as I could discover, any particular enthusiasm for the cause for which they were nominally enlisted. But it was grand sport and they went at it with the same gusto that they would have exhibited if ordered to exterminate Apaches or grizzly bears. And here lies the essential difference between the professional and the volunteer in this war. The regular is invincibly brave from sheer force of habit. He is incapable of panic, as he is incapable of vulgar passions. He kills his Spaniards as his surgeon amputates a leg, but he does not hate the man he kills. He loves the Spaniard who shoots straight. On the contrary, he despises only the enemy who gives him an easy job. He fights for the sheer love of fighting.

OUR BOYS IN CAMP.

Camp Dan Russell, Co. E.,
Raleigh, N. C., July 2, 1898.

EDITOR REFLECTOR.

We have had the regular routine with nothing new of late.

Most of the men who were sick are well now.

The 4th of July will be celebrated here. We will drill all over Raleigh. Dress parade and military ball are on the programme.

It is now semi-officially announced that we will leave for the South in a few days, probably for Porto Rico. The boys want to go. But now "dem Spaniards gwine to give us a reception before we have Spanish territory,"

A. D. JOHNSTON.

The Nag's Head hotel will not be open this season.

Winston had a $40,000 fire Saturday morning. Several firms burned out.

J. M. Thomas, postmaster at Rutherfordton, was shot and killed by Frank Hicks, Saturday afternoon. The parties had fallen out over a trivial matter.

Colored troops passing down the A & N. C. railroad to Fort Macon nearly killed a section master of the road by pelting him with huge lumps of coal as the train went by.

A soldier of the second regiment, named Romulus Bazemore, of Bertie county, was arrested in the camp at Raleigh on the charge of wife murder. He gave strychnine to his wife, from which she died, and then ran away and enlisted.

Daughter Against Mother

There was a case before Justice Fowler this afternoon by which an aged and dependent mother's humble home was ridded of its furnishings by her daughter. It seems that the residence of widowed Mrs. Martha Jacobs, on Front between Wooster and Dawson streets, was several years ago cosily furnished with the earnings of Martha Jane Jacobs, then a dutiful daughter. Since then the latter has grown cold towards her parent, and today she brought suit for the possession of the furniture which was decided in her favor, and she shortly afterwards took her things and left, leaving the old home bare. Mrs. Jacobs is nearly 50 years old, being dependent for a livelihood upon the small earnings of a twelve year old son, and this deprivation will work a great hardship upon her.—Wilmington Review.

Died

Mr. B. E. Parham left Sunday for Oxford, where his wife was visiting, in response to a telegram announcing the death of their little child. Their many friends here at home sympathize with them in their bereavement.

The Washington Post reports that during a recent thunderstorm in that city a bolt of lightning struck the switchboard at Fort Washington which controls the mines in the Potomac River near that point, exploding three mines and damaging the system. The incident develops a new mine peril while at the same time denoting that there are no barnacles on the submarine defenses in the Potomac.

The opening of bids by the Quartermaster's Department in New York for 50,000 heavy overcoats for army use may be taken as an indication that the Government intends to fight it out along the prevent lines if it takes all winter.

WASHINGTON LETTER

From our regular Correspondent.

Washington, D. C., July 2, 1898

Although it has been officially announced that Gen. Shafter would not wait for the men sent him from Tampa this week...

The opinion held in some quarters, that the order for Commodore Watson to proceed to the coast of Spain with a picked fleet of our fastest and best cruisers and battleships is a bluff...

Among the additional paymasters in the volunteer army nominated by Mr. McKinley is John R. Lynch, the negro politician who has controlled the Mississippi delegation to Republican national conventions for many years.

"Potato" Pingree, of Michigan, dropped into Washington and remained a day and night, this week, and Senator Julius Caesar Burrows is much worried because he hasn't been able to find out what the object of the Governor's visit was.

if the Republicans can retain control of the legislature. It is now said that Pingree has senatorial aspirations.

Representative Loud, of California, made it very plain in a short speech made when the "Omnibus claims" bill was about to be referred to conference by the House that he favored logging legislative methods, if his log was included, and opposed them if his log was left out...

Surface indications all point to an agreement to vote on the annexation resolution is disposed of. The suggestion has been made that, instead of adjourning, Congress should take a recess for a few weeks.

An Idea of What the War is Costing.

The war is now costing some $2,000,000 a day or at a rate of $730,000,000 a year. The deficiency bill appropriates $224,000,000 nearly all of which is for the present war.

Killed With an Umbrella

One day last week, Jack Herring, a well known colored man of Lisbon township, became enraged at his daughter, John Cornelius, and attempted to chastise her in a rather brutal manner.

OVER THE COUNTRY.

Constantine Chipuras, from Greece, has a genuine case of leprosy at Chicago, Ill.

A Texas Pacific train was held up and the safe robbed near Midland, Tex., Friday night.

William Rising, of Lockport, N. Y., was thrown from a Lake Shore train by tramps and killed.

A train carrying officials of the Union Pacific road was wrecked near Redding, Cal., but no one was seriously hurt.

Miss Flora D. Renkes has declined the Democratic nomination for State School Superintendent of Michigan.

The courts having decided that a bicycle is a vehicle, the riders of wheels are now entitled to their portion of the road when they meet other vehicles.

Lynch, the negro politician who has controlled the Mississippi delegation to Republican national convention for many years. He is now Maj. Lynch, if you please.
