Are You Always Tired ?

WINDSON, N. C., May 21, '97.

Five years ago I was completely run down from general debility. My liver didn't act, I had indigestion, I was just as nervous as I could be, and was always tired. The least exertion would bring on shortness of breath and it was a drag to me to keep up. A friend of mine who had been cured by using Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy told me to take it. I bought a dozen bottles and took it just because I knew I would have to try something. I suffered greatly from wakefulness, would lay awake often the greater part of the night, unable to rest or sleep. When I was on the second bottle I got so I could sleep, and when I had finished the six bottles I WAS WELL. Indigestion cured, that shortness of breath cured, and I feel like another person.
Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy is a wonderful medicine. It did me more good than anything I ever took in my life.

German Officiousness.

London, July 14.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Hong Kong says it is now known that Dewey ordered the correspondents at Manila not to give a full story concerning the action of the German warship Irene for fear of arousing feelings in the United States which might lead to complications with Germany. The correspondent adds that when details of the affair transpire it will be seen that the incident was more serious than at first appeared.
As soon as the American warships appeared at the entrance of Subig Bay the Irene slipped her cable and steamed out, leaving her anchor at the bottom.

Consul Wildman refuses to say anything more about the matter. It is believed that when the monitors Montterey and Monadnock arrive Dewey will insist that his regulations be observed to the letter by German warships. It is the opinion of foreigners in Manila that the Americans will never forgive the Germans their meddlesomeness, which will hurt the German trade with the United States and destroy Germany's chance of influencing the disposal of the Philippines.

An Editor's Hard Lot

A melancholy picture of an editor's life in the State of Washington is drawn by the Roslyn (Mich.) Sentinel.

"There are always those who will kick. For instance, if you publish jokes with whiskers on them, some will say that you ought to be in a lunatic joint. If you don't print something to smile at, they say you are a pessimistic fossil. If you spread yourself and write a good, original article, they will say it is stolen. If you reprint an article, they say you can't write. If you say a deserving word for a man, you are partial; if you compliment the ladies, the men are jealous; and if you don't the verdict of the ladies is to the effect that your paper is not fit to use in the construction of a bustle. If you stay in your office, you are afraid to remain on the streets; if you do, you are lazy. If you look seddy, you are squan-dering your money; if you wear good clothes, you are a dude and don't pay for them. If you play a social game of any kind and get stuck, you are a fish; if you win, you are a tin horn, and so it goes through one continual round of pleasant complications."

Surrendered Everything He Could

Washington, July 14.—The territory surrendered by General Toral is 11,000 square miles with 150,000 inhabitants and contains the cities of Santiago, Guantanamo, Baracoa and Sagua-de-Tinamo. The region is one of the richest in the island. It has numerous iron and copper mines and magnificent and extensive sugar plantations. Guantanamo and Santiago have the finest coffee plantations on the island.

General Toral's corps is variously estimated to number from 8,000 to 20,- 000. A conservative estimate places it at 10,000, including several generals, numerous staff officers, etc.

Same Everywhere

An exchange classes the newspaper borrower along with the chicken thief.
It is pretty tough on the publisher, who goes to big expense to try to publish a good paper, and to have his product almost stolen by the borrower in many instances. Of course in rare instances it is all right to borrow a newspaper, but such is the exception.
The Free Press could publish a better paper if its subscribers would quit lending to deadbeats, as it would cause more revenue to the paper.—Kinston

Britain's Offered Hand

London, July 13.—The inaugural meeting of the Anglo-American League was held this evening at Stafford House, under the presidency of the Duke of Sutherland, who was supported by Earl Grey, the Earl of Jersey, Baron Farrar, Baron Brassey, Baron Tenneyson, Baron Menkswall, Sir John Lubbeck, Rear Admiral Lord Charles Beresford and James Bryce, author of "The American Commonwealth."

Others present were the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Archbishop of York, Cardinal Vaughan and the Duke of Westminster. The Duke of Fife sent a letter expressing his regrets at his inability to be present.

The Duke of Sutherland, in opening the proceedings, said the League was quite apart from ordinary politics, its object being to express the feeling of cordiality which existed between the people of Great Britain and the United States, an effort which he believed would be appreciated and reciprocated in America.

A UNITY OF INTERESTS.

On the motion of Lord Brassey, the following resolution was adopted: Considering that the peoples of the British Empire and the United States are closely allied by blood, inherit the same literature and laws, hold the same principles of self-government, recognize the same ideals of freedom and humanity in the guidance of their national policy, and are drawn together by strong common interests in many parts of the world, this meeting is of opinion that every effort should be made in their interests of civilization and peace to secure the most cordial and constant co-operation on the part of the two nations."

One Secret of Business Success

The late A. T. Stewart was a king among tradesmen, and, although doing a business of forty millions a year, he was never overworked. He was master of his vast business because he placed the details in charge of competent men, paid them liberal salaries, and gave them unbounded confidence, forcing upon them the full responsibility for the conduct of their department. He consulted with the heads of departments, and directed affairs, leaving the details to them. And Stewart rose from small beginnings to the greatest merchant of his times. If one will visit the great department stores he will find power centralized in the owners, who, instead of being chained to a desk, surrounded by a crowd of importunate employees, each bringing some detail for consideration, are waiting about their establishments consulting with the managers, discussing the policy of the firm, planning or receiving suggestions. Has not Joan Wanamaker, at the head of a retail business of $25,000,000 annually, been spending weeks in political work throughout Pennsylvania—enabled to do so simply because he puts high grade and liberally paid men at the head of every department, trusting them to attend to the details and to assume responsibility?

A Good Invention

Some one has patented a new and ingenious church contribution box that is destined to be a great success in swelling the receipts. It has a bell attachment.
When a shirt button or a penny is dropped in, it fails to ring; a nickel makes it ring slightly; a quarter produces a respectable ring; a half dollar makes a good loud clatter, and a dollar brings out the fire department,

SATURDAY, JULY 16, 1898.

The Railroad Commission has reduced the passenger fares on the Wilmington & Weldon railroad to 2½ cents per mile first class, and 2 cents per mile second class. The railroad is granted ten days to file exceptions to the reduction.

In the battle at Manila when Dewey destroyed the first Spanish fleet, the cruiser Raleigh took a gun from the Spanish ship, Reina Cristina, after the fight. This gun is to be presented to the city of Raleigh for which the cruiser was named.

WASHINGTON LETTER

From our regular Correspondent.

Washington, D. C., July 15, 1898

Had there been less monkeying with flags of truce and more co-operation between Gen. Shafter and Admiral Sampson in the campaign against Santiago, the Washington officials would not now be nearly frightened out of their wits by the appearance in the field of Spain's long expected ally, "Yellow Jack". While our army and navy were waiting for the Spanish army in Santiago to surrender, the Spaniards were hurrying refugees out of the town into our lines, with the knowledge that some of them would be certain to carry the yellow fever along with them. It was probably owing to the panic in which some of the officials were thrown by the news that the yellow fever had made its appearance in our army and that it was allowed to become public. But not one word can be had officially as to the extent of the outlook or in what portion of our army it is further than the admission that there are fourteen cases in the field hospital and some additional cases elsewhere. This is one case in which the censor does more harm than good. Since it is known that the yellow fever is in our army, it would be much wiser to allow the exact facts to be stated than by suppressing them to cause the public to imagine it much worse than it really is. There can be little public rejoicing over the taking of Santiago until our people are assured that there is no danger of yellow fever becoming epidemic in our army.

Admiral Dewey, the one commander who is not hampered by orders from Washington, has been at it again, and the result is another victory, with the demolition of the Spaniards. The victory was won by the Cruisers Raleigh and Concord, and without the loss of a man or injury to either vessel. A German gun-boat might also have been demolished if its commander had not been wise enough to get out of the way before the Americans began to bombard. This German had set himself up as the protector of this particular fort, going so far as to threaten to fire on the insurgents if they attacked it. The insurgents reported that to Dewey and that's why he sent the Raleigh and Concord to capture it. Later the German Commander tried to explain his meddling to Dewey by saying that he acted in the cause of humanity. He wanted Dewey to take charge of a lot of refugees that he had on his gunboat, but Dewey told him he had better keep them since he had taken them.

The Republican Congressional Campaign Committee professes confidence in the election of a sufficient number of Republicans to keep in control of the House in the next Congress, but that committee is not acting up to its professions. If so confident of winning, they should be willing to fight fair in the campaign, instead of engaging in trying to bamboozle voters into believing that all the patriotism is in the Republican party and that the Democrats in Congress tried to obstruct all the war measures that went through Congress. Of course, everybody who is acquainted with the facts knows that the Democrats and the Populists in Congress voted for every war appropriation that was asked for. The Republican committee has a force of expert word jugglers now carefully going through the Congressional Record for the express purpose of preparing cooked-up documents for campaign use that will misrepresent the position of the Democrats in Congress during the session just closed. The committee may overshoot the mark and disgust the decent voters who know that patriotism has never been confined to any political party in this country.

Mr. McKinley has found time, notwithstanding the onerous duties imposed on him by the war, to give Senator Cullom, chairman of the Hawaiian legislative commission, a few pointers on the sort of government he wants the commission to recommend for Hawaii. The three American Commissioners are going to Hawaii in the course of the next three or four weeks to confer with the two Hawaiian Commissioners, but so far as deciding upon the form of government for Hawaii is concerned the functions of the latter will be only ornamental. So far as can be learned, Mr. McKinley does not wish anything done to create the expectation that Hawaii will become a state. The problem ahead of the commission is somewhat like that which confronted the white people in some of the Southern States in reconstruction times—the commission is expected to recommend legislation that will give Hawaii control of its local affairs and at the same time make it certain that the control is exercised by reputable citizens of the islands. In short, that those who set up and maintained the republic shall continue to be the controlling element. There is likely to be quite a lively time in Congress, next winter, when the Commission makes its report no matter what sort of a government it may recommend.

VALUE OF THE EPISTLES.

"Part of the difference in form between the teaching of Christ and that of the Apostle comes from the fact that St. Paul preached the gospel along the lines of his own experience," says The Living Church (P. E.) of Chicago. "Certain critics talk disdainfully about his metaphysical rendering of the grandly simple truths of Jesus, but St. Paul had to defend the truth against philosophical attacks, and he was wise to meet such attacks in the most effective way. Christ was to him philosophy as well as salvation, for He was the fulness that filleth all things. To him God in Christ settled every question, both in the heavens and on the earth, and he was ever ready to give to Jew or Gentile a reason for the faith that was in him. This controversy, like all other theological controversies, is being overruled by the great Head of the church for the intellectual and spiritual profit of His people. Incidental harm may be done in the confusing of mind and shaking of faith for a few timid believers, but the good will be permanent and valuable. Already it is sending our greatest interpreters of Scripture back to an earnest and impartial study of the Epistles, with the object of seeing things with Paul's own eyes, rethinking his thoughts, and stating them with fidelity and persuasiveness. The result will be a larger apprehension of the value of the Epistles to the church in our day, and a clearer understanding of the necessity of completing the picture of Christ in the Gospels by the teaching of the Apostles."

His First Serious Engagement.

"I think I know now," said the soldier who was making a determined effort to masticate his first ration of army beef, "what people mean when they talk about the sinews of war."

Clever Women Decorators.

A woman with a clever, original brain and deft fingers can, however small her purse, work wonders in the decoration of her home. One such woman recently rejuvenated one of her apartments and made it a veritable place of beauty. She accomplished the transformation with a pot of paint, several rolls of cheap, coarse burlap, nickel-headed tacks, common sense, quick fingers and good taste. She is going to paper another room soon, and will buy the rough-finish wrapping paper and stencil it herself.

Finding Tar River

There is really and truly a Tar River in North Carolina, but some folks will not believe it. An old Johnny Reb sends the following story of how the Yankees found it:

"When the Confederates evacuated Washington, N. C., they rolled 1,000 barrels of tar and turpentine into the river at Taft's store, and two months later a steamboat, the Colonel Hill, with 400 Yankee prisoners going from Salisbury to Washington to be exchanged, tied up at the wharf to let the boys bathe. They stirred up the tar on the bottom of the river and were smeared with it from head to foot. When we came upon them each man had his rations of meat in one hand and a small stick in the other, scraping and gregging for dear life. 'Hello, boys! What's the matter?' I asked, and they replied: 'Durr-ed if we haven't found Tar River at last; the whole bed is covered with pitch.'"—New York Press.

Making Mistakes

Don't be afraid of making mistakes. Timidity never accomplished anything in this world. All men make mistakes and a great many of them. But if you are going to wait until you are entirely sure you will not do anything wrong from a business standpoint, you will never accomplish your object in this life. If you have such an overpowering fear of an error of judgment the best thing you can do is hunt some humble ill paid clerkship where your employer will be financially responsible for your mistakes and will reap practically all the benefits of your labor. If you wish to amount to something then pitch in, do the best you can, forget all about your mistakes except so far as you find use for them as a future guide, and the chances are more than even that you will come out ahead. If you don't, then try it again, and with care and perseverance you are bound to win.—Agricultural Advertising.
